Rude Return To Mid-Winter Hits Province

Snow and Gale-Force Winds in All Areas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Snow and plunging temperatures from brought Ontario a rude return to mid - winter weather Tuesday as gale-force winds battered the province, hitting at least two and disabling a tanker on Lake Huron.

Gale warnings were up for Lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario and Georgian Bay as winds up to 70 miles an hour swept eastwards after lashing parts of United States Monday.

Conditions were expected to return to normal today with diminishing winds and sunny cool weather.

The U.S. Coast Guard dispatched a rescue vessel to reach the Montreal-owned Cape Transport, wallowing in 25-foot waves off Harbor Beach, Mich. Her steering and direction finding equipment disabled, Coast guard officers said the vessel was in no immediate danger.

In Kapuskasing, the temperature dropped 50 degrees in 24 hours after a four-inch snowfall. It hit 23 degrees in Sturgeon Bay, 255 miles to the south, as high winds and a snow storm hit the city.

In London the temperature dropped 40 degrees in an hour and it dropped 15 degrees in an hour in Barrie.

DIE IN COLLISION

A two-car collision in Sudbury killed a 37-year-old mother and her four-year-old son as winds up to 60 miles an hour dumped an inch of snow on the city. An elderly man was injured at Chatham when his car was struck by a CPR freight train during a snowsquall.

Gale force winds in the Sarnia area shattered a breakwater over the weekend and ripped telephone cables away from the poles.

Windsor rain fell most of the day in Sarnia, Windsor St. Thomas, Peterborough, Brantford and St. Catharines. It turned into snow after sunset, dumping three inches in a large area centred by Barrie in a few hours.

N. W. T. FLOODS THREATENING TO ENGULF TOWN

Hay River Mayor Declares Emergency

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP)—Flood waters of the Hay River were higher through this island community of 1,000 on the south shore of Great Slave Lake today, disrupting communications and lapping up to the doors of one of the schools where hundreds of residents crowded to safety.

The water rose after a huge ice jam in the Hay River, upstream from the town, broke.

A Canadian National-Telecommunications crew working in the communications building in the town reported to Edmonton they were working knee deep in water.

At 8:05 a.m. MST, they were ordered to shut down power and evacuate.

Bob Hill of the Edmonton Journal, reporting over a shaky telephone line, said flood waters were sweeping over the last section of the town.

IS DISASTER

He said he had telephoned the office of the Northwest Territories commissioner in Ottawa reporting the situation was a disaster.

He said Ottawa promised a helicopter for evacuation and a demolition crew.

"The entire island will be under water to a depth of four to five feet if this continues much longer," the mayor said.

At 8:30 a.m. water had crept to the doorstep of St. Paul's Separate School, one of two schools being used as evacuation centres.

Buildings started to topple. Almost all buildings in the town proper were flooded.

Hill said there was no indication of panic.

Fower failed in the communications centre continued operating for six hours on emergency power before closing down, a CNT official reported at Edmonton.

The crew was to be ferried by helicopter to the next microwave tower at Enterprise, 20 miles south of Hay River, in an effort to restore communication from that point.

It was not known immediately what the situation was in Wrigley Channel, an isolated village adjoining Hay River, home of most of the fishermen who operate on the lake.

Mayor McBryan said he fears a serious health problem may

Thousands of Mexicans Are Ill As Result of Drought and Heat

Virtually all the 750 residents of the Alazan community are ill with diseases ranging from tuberculosis to diarrhea.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis—Cool, windy and sunny weather will spread into eastern sections of Ontario later today. Tonight will again be cool throughout the province with widespread frost. Fair and warmer weather is in store for Thursday.

They are among thousands of Mexicans in the northern frontier area suffering from malnutrition and dehydration as the result of a prolonged drought and heat wave.

The victims are so isolated that doctors and nurses must use pickup trucks and vehicles with four-wheel drive to reach them with medicine, food and health information.

The farmers have nothing but tilling the soil. They depend on mother nature to make things turn out right. If she fails, they are lost.

This year, she failed them. There has been no major rain. The people have no corn to grind to make meal for tortillas. Beans, another staple in their diet, are shriveling to nothing on the vine. Cotton, the

CONFLICT SEEN OVER RESOURCES OF LABRADOR

Liberal Premiers Said Feuding

Quebec's Jean Lesage and Newfoundland's Joey Smallwood both put forth their positions firmly in separate pronouncements on the issues Tuesday.

They inherited the long-standing border dispute—it goes back to 1927—but now plans for developing Labrador have added to the complexity of the situation.

At stake now is how the benefits will be split up once Hamilton Falls in Labrador starts producing electricity and whether a proposed iron ore pelletizing plant is built in the Quebec or Newfoundland side of the border.

Mr. Smallwood indicated in the legislature at St. John's, Nfld., that the power question has been resolved, with 6 slice of the profits going to Quebec.

He said the British Newfoundland Development Corporation (Brinco) sold 20 per cent of the shares in the Hamilton Falls Power Corporation to Quebec because it seemed the only way to get the power transmitted through Quebec to the United States.

LESAGE DIFFERS

In the legislature here meanwhile, Premier Lesage said no agreement has been reached concerning the transportation of

Only for Life Wins First Classic Event

NEWMARKET, England (Reuters)—Only for Life today won the Two Thousand guineas, first of the classic events in the British horse racing season.

The English colt took $87,835 first-place money in a photo-finish over American - owned Ionian. Corpora, another American-owned colt, was third.

For the last two furlongs of the one-mile classic. Only for Life and Ionian were the only two horses in the race, passing the wire in an apparent dead heat.

Crocket, the American-owned favorite, finished last in the field of 21, apparently hampered by the heavy going on the rain-sodden Newmarket track.

Ionian, last in his only other start this season, is owned by Mrs. Ann Bulliit Biddle, who now lives in Ireland.

Only for Life went off at odds of 33 to 1 and Ionian at 18 to 1. Corpora, owned by Robin Scully, started at 100 to 6.

May Day Rallies, Parades And Speeches Around World

LONDON (Reuters) — Trade union members throughout Western Europe celebrated Labor May Day today, while Communists from Russia to Peking attended traditional May Day rallies, parades and speeches.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro was the star Communist attraction in Moscow. United States Ambassador Foy Kohler planned to boycott the event, embassy sources said.

Castro took his place beside Soviet Premier Khrushchev atop Lenin's Mausoleum in Moscow's Red Square to watch the Soviet parade of military might.

European and many Asian workers were observing the day as a public holiday with merrymaking and carnivals. Frenchmen went without newspapers under national law as they distributed the traditional emblem of May—lilies-of-the-valley.

The British National Council of Labor issued a strong manifesto declaring the achievement of properly - controlled all-around disarmament must have "overwhelming priority" in the present world crisis.

Portraits were displayed in the Moscow streets of Marx and Engels—the original Communist theoreticians—as well as of Lenin, father of the Soviet state, and Premier Khrushchev.

Reuters' Peking correspondent, Adam Kellett-Long reported in the Chinese capital a huge portrait of Mao Tse-ung, the Communist party chairman, faced equally large pictures of those persons regarded in Peking as the "true prophets of communism" — Marx, Engels, Lenin—and Stalin. But there was no picture of Khrushchev. Reuters reported extra rations of meat and eggs were released for the holiday.

Officials in gaily - bedecked Peking said the celebrations would be on a bigger scale than ever before, they said.

Despite Castro's absence, Cuba was celebrating with its biggest-ever May Day parade in which more than 130,000 workers were scheduled to march through Havana.

Schools were closed in Paris, and city skeleton services operated. There were no newspapers, and radio programs were reduced to recorded music and only two news bulletins until evening.

French workers celebrated in Rome with trade union rallies, speeches and country picnics.

FANFANI'S DAYS AS PREMIER ARE NUMBERED

Party Had Worst Setback in History

ROME (AP)—Talk mounted in Italy today that Amintore Fanfani's days as premier are numbered as a result of his Christian Democratic party's worst election setback in its history.

In parliamentary elections Sunday and Monday the Christian Democrats remained Italy's largest party but dropped 630,000 votes. The Communists picked up more than 1,000,000 and tiny right - wing Liberals, who opposed Fanfani's "opening to the left alliance" with the Nenni Socialists, increased their vote 50 per cent.

The premier's outgoing coalition still had a majority of 142 seats in the Chamber of Deputies if it could hold the support of the Nenni Socialists. But the reduction in the Christian Democratic representation — to 260 seats—put Fanfani's party in a tight position with them in room to bargain.

As a result, the Christian Democrats might be forced to admit the Socialists to the cabinet to get a voting majority.

MAY NOT ASK

But it appeared unlikely that President Antonio Segni—himself a Christian Democrat—would ask Fanfani to form a new government.

Christian Democrats who might replace him include

NDP Divorce Blockaders Determined to Carry On

OTTAWA (CP) — The engineers of the New Democratic divorce blockade in Parliament say they won't give it up without either a royal commission on parliamentary divorce or designation of a court to handle divorces of Quebec and Newfoundland residents.

Arnold Peters, MP for Timiskaming, said Tuesday neither he nor Frank Howard, MP for Skeena, would be willing to pave the way for a four-party agreement to allow speedy final rapid passage of a backlog of some 700 divorce bills.

He said informal negotiations with this end in view have been under consideration within the Liberal government. To date no approach has been made to either Mr. Peters or Mr. Howard.

In the last Parliament and in several sessions before it, Peters of Parliaments, the two New Democrats, with assistance from some of their colleagues, successfully stalled divorce bills.

Their aim is to remove from Parliament the task of granting divorces to residents of Quebec and Newfoundland, the only provinces without divorce courts.

Mr. Peters said he has fought and won two elections on a plat-

Expert Points Out Loopholes In Income, Excise Tax Acts

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyer Wolfe D. Goodman, a tax expert, went before the Carter commission on taxation today, armed with a long list of loopholes in the Income and Excise Tax Acts which, he said, were in dire need of plugging.

Many of them developed through "piecemeal" amendments to the acts which, while offering relief to various classes of taxpayers, "discriminate against other taxpayers who are equally deserving."

He cited the inequity of taxing persons with irregular incomes as one area that needed revision. Under the act, a person earning $3,000 in one year, $4 000 the next, and $100,000 the next, pays a total of $32,870 in tax over the three years. Another person, earning the same amount in a steady salary, pays $41,979.

This system operates "most unfairly" on persons whose income in one year involves a carry-over from other years. It could involve the sale of property, or the receipt of pension benefits or insurance.

"Now is the time to sweep away these piecemeal measures, which confer such generous reliefs on a narrow class of taxpayer, while denying relief to many others whose cases involve equal hardship."

Mr. Goodman's brief also suggested amendments in deal with

CJBQ Named Top Radio Station of Year

The judges said CHCT, "while equally active in purely public service projects, operates radio stations submitting entries, excelled in the depth and breadth of programs with roots in the community."

They won on a project the judges said was "at the heart of good broadcasting — namely music." The station demonstrated "what can be done with imagination and effort in utilizing the talents and the interests of individuals and the support of organizations found in the communities served as well as the means by which an audience can be developed for good broadcasting."

Cameron J. Finley of Oshawa won the Harry Sedgwick Memorial Award as the best Ryerson Institute of Technology student graduating from the broadcasting section. The award is presented in the memory of Mr. Sedgwick, former president of CFRB, Toronto, by CFRB, and CHCH-TV, Hamilton.

United Atlantic Community PM's Cherished Dream

Pearson Outlines Hopes Then Flies to Britain

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson spoke longingly Tuesday night of an Atlantic alliance strengthened by deep, lasting bonds of principle and with world-wide influence for peace.

A few hours later he left snow - covered Malton International Airport in a light blizzard bound for London and talks with Prime Minister MacMillan.

In six days of formal speech since taking over as prime minister eight days earlier, Mr. Pearson told the annual dinner of The Canadian Press that he plans to work toward a restoration of confidence in Canada both at home and abroad.

Abroad, he said, Canada can work for peace and progress only "by cultivating the best possible relations with other nations."

"First among these are the nations of the Commonwealth and the Atlantic Coalition. To create and maintain the greatest possible unity among these nations, for security, for peace and for prosperity, will be a first objective of the foreign policy of the present Canadian government.

WANTS STRONG BONDS

"One of my most cherished dreams for a long time has been to see one day an Atlantic community linked by so many indissoluble spiritual, moral, political and economic bonds that its common ties will have a paramount influence, not only on the lives of its member peoples, but on the hopes of all peoples for peace and human brotherhood."

Establishing the newspaper men of his immediate line with Mr. MacMillan and, next week, with President Kennedy, the prime minister said he hopes and believes the discussions will bring "renewed and strengthened friendship, partnership and trust; a mutual understanding and respect for the roles that each of our three great nations can play for the benefit of themselves and of others."

At home, Mr. Pearson believed a restoration of confidence in this country's economic management is already taking place.

Such renewed confidence could be a "very long step" toward solving all of the country's problems, "for without confidence, little else matters."

CP HEAD INTRODUCES

Mr. Pearson was introduced by A.-F. Mercier of Quebec City Le Soleil, re-elected president of the newspaper co-operative at its annual meeting, as one who has been held in affection and respect by the leading press of Canada since his early days in the external affairs department.

"I doubt whether anyone in public life in Canada has as many friendly acquaintances among the working press as Mr. Pearson," Mr. Mercier said.

In turn, the prime minister devoted much of his address to

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)—British soldiers used to say: "We're going to hang our washing on the Siegfried Line."

You can still hang out your laundry on the massive German defence installations of the Second World War. Nine-tenths of them are in more or less fit contact. It would cost too much money to remove them.

Across the French - German border in France, the Maginot line is still there, too. It is even kept in shape.

French and Germans, who built these fortification systems a quarter of a century ago, now appear to be politically closer than at any time in the last 1,000 years.

Chancellor Adenauer and President de Gaulle have signed an amity pact. German soldiers train in France; their French allies are stationed in Germany.

French military authorities say they see no future need for the Maginot Line, but it could be put back into operating condition with only a few days.

They are unwilling to let the installations fall into ruin. After all, the Maginot line cost 500,000,000 pre-war dollars.

The Second World War left Maginot practically as it was aged. German troops invaded France via neutral Belgium and rolled up the Maginot Line from behind, meeting no resistance.

The Siegfried Line, also largely untouched during the war, was responsible for demolition by the Allies. The demolition was too difficult to carry out.

Just recently unions from the area took years—and scores of German and Allied lives. About 1,000 bunkers were blasted at a cost of almost $8,000,000. It would take $40,000,000 more to raze the rest.

W. New Guinea Taken Over By Indonesia

KOTABARU, West Irian (AP) Indonesia today took over West New Guinea, the last remnant of Holland's East Indian empire, and renamed it West Irian.

The United Nations transferred control of the western half of the world's second largest island at ceremonies in Hollandia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's wartime headquarters.

The peaceful transfer ended 13 years of struggle by Indonesia for the 158,000 square miles of jungles and mountains and 700,000 Papuan people, most of them still in the stone age. Australia governs eastern New Guinea.

In keep ng with President Sukarno's policy of "one Indonesia" the delegation of Indonesian officials at the ceremony. The Dutch government did not take part. The Dutch flag was lowered for the last time Dec. 31, three months after the UN started administering the territory.

LOWER UN FLAG

The flag of the United Nations was lowered in the main square for the last time. But there was no flag raising. The Indonesian red and white flag will be flown alongside the UN flag only since Dec. 31 as a token of Indonesian sovereignty over the territory. Sukarno has promised to take by force.

The United Nations noted it was divesting itself of the first trust territory it ever administered directly.

U Thant, secretary - General U Thant, in a message read at the ceremony, expressed confidence that Indonesia would observe its agreement to grant the 700,000 native Papuans of West Irian a plebiscite on self-determination.

The Dutch first claimed possession of West New Guinea in 1828 and expanded their hold on the territory over the next 60 years.

SENTENCE DELAYED

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A man who pleaded guilty to income tax evasion was sentenced to three months in prison, but he was granted a week's delay to settle affairs before he went. Herbert Harfman, 50, told the court Monday his main source of income was income tax returns for other people. Judge Edward Devitt stayed the start of the sentence for a week so Harfman can complete preparation of some of his clients' tax returns.

Council to Repeat Request For Opening of Sidney Street Through the Fair Grounds

Metro Chairman Not Involved In Any Plot

TORONTO (CP) — Metro Chairman William Allen denies he was involved in any "sinister plot" to unseat two commissioners of the Toronto Transit Commission.

He was referring to a charge by Commissioner Ford Brand that new provincial legislation was a move to get himself and Commissioner Douglas Hamilton off the five-man commission.

The legislation gives Metro new power to reduce the commission to three men at any time.

"I had no part in that," Mr. Allen Tuesday told the Metro executive committee. "The request was not made from here."

City council will repeat its request to the Belleville Parks Board to consider the opening of Sidney Street through the Belleville Fair Grounds as a through traffic artery.

The original request was made to the parks board some months ago, but no official reply has been received.

Alderman George Wishart said there should be no need for such a request as the city already owns the fairgrounds.

But City Manager J. R. Reynolds pointed out that control and management of the fair grounds property was vested in the parks board.

Alderman Ross Bailey drew attention to the fact that opening of Sidney S. through the fairgrounds appears elsewhere in this edition.

Transfers From Northern Not to Extent Rumored Say Officials at Plant

Street rumour to the effect that considerable numbers of Northern Electric personnel at Belleville are to be transferred to company plants in other centres, was dispelled today by Northern officials here.

Plants Works Manager T. N. Davidson said there is normally uneven load spots in the company organization and that necessitated some transfers. Any transfers now being considered, however, were nothing in the order which was rumored, it was stated.

Mr. Davidson said that last year a number of local personnel were transferred to Otawa Also a "few" would be going to Bramalea in the Toronto area.

He pointed out that the Bramalea plant was currently in a growth stage and as result required additional personnel.

EARLIER ADVANCEMENT

This in turn provided an opportunity for earlier advancement for personnel in company plants such as Belleville, who in the normal course of events might have to wait years for promotion.

The Bramlea plant manufactures a new type of electronic office equipment known in the trade as crosbar equipment.

Other rumors to the effect that older workers at Northern are being encouraged to retire, were also discounted by the plant management.

The explanation was that with a plant personnel of upwards of 1,100 employees many and more workers each year are reaching retirement age.

It suggested that this increasing number of normal retirements, which gave rise to the retirement rumor.

Council Grants Rights to Hold Tag Days

Local community welfare organizations requesting the right to hold tag days may be required to submit financial statements to city hall in the future before such requests are granted.

This was the suggestion at city council this week as members approved the list of organizations which will be granted the right to hold tag days in the city this year.

Tag days by twelve different organizations were approved between now and the year end.

Council noted, however, that the matter of tag days was still under review by council and that this privilege may be discontinued. Hours of tagging allowed will be from 9:00 a.m. on Friday until 13 noon on Saturday.

Any person under the age of 18 years with the exception of Boy Scouts, Air Cadets, Sea Cadets and the John Howard Cadets (in uniform) will be allowed to tag.

"All the fine organizations are worthy, but council should know what they are doing with their money," observed Alderman Les Digby.

Cancer Society Closes Drive In Fine Style

TRENTON — The Trenton Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society wound up its fund-raising campaign last night, but will not know until the end of the week whether or not it reached its $6,000 objective. Returns have not yet been totalled, and many of the 500 canvassers have not yet reported, according to campaign co-chairman Elmer Bonter. "We're almost certain to top last year's total of $4,700," Mr. Bonter reported. "Batawa collections are up fifty per cent and Middleton Park collections are up twenty per cent. All canvassers reported an excellent response, and donations were consistent. ...Everybody seems to be giving something," Mr. Bonter said.

Most of the last-minute contributions collected Monday night, "bills," the last two days of the campaign. From the opening of the campaign on Friday, April 19, the opening of the blitz, April 29, total collections were only $400.

The Trenton Unit of the Society operates over an area bounded by Bayside on the east, Brighton on the west, and Wooler on the north.

Well Adjusted Child Makes Most of His Opportunities

By L. Kells, Superintendent Belleville Public Schools

The Belleville Public Schools first paid some official heed to the theme of mental health at school children when the Belleville Public School Board was approached, nearly thirty years ago, by the director of the Mental Health Clinic of the Ontario Department of Health. Kingston branch, for the purpose of securing permission to conduct a survey in one of the city public schools. Permission was granted and the psychiatrist-psychologist team spent several months in the classrooms of the King George School and in the homes of that district, securing information about disturbed children and the factors involved.

LACKS SOUND ADJUSTMENT

The theme of the study seemed to emphasize that the well adjusted child will be able to make the most of his opportunities, enjoy his leisure and social living and be well-directed in the use of his mental and physical equipment. Lacking a sound and secure state of adjustment, the prospect will be a fearful child; one who is timid, overanxious, insecure and chaotic in his reactions to others and to his surroundings.

School programs and organization today give recognition to the needs of the whole child; to the capable, the average and the retarded child; to the developing of the child in the various stages of his growth from infancy through adolescence. Teachers and supervisors are trained to these programs and types of organization within the limits of time that can be found in one year of professional education.

Almost at cross purposes to this thought that all children can be grouped either for interest and ability and that from this grouping can be arranged and adjusted suitable programs and methods of instruction, is the thought that many, if not all children, are seriously disturbed emotionally, either continuously or from significant periods of time. Schools cannot deal effectively with emotionally disturbed children nor are teachers trained or capable in recognizing or handling such situations.

LOSS TO SOCIETY

A very great loss to society, to home life, to industrial and economic life, to civic welfare in general, is inevitable from the great prevalence of emotional stress in today's living. It does not begin at voting age; more likely it has reached a point of no return by that time. And this fact is increasingly recognized by many of the larger well organized communities by the establishment of mental health clinics that are available to all ranks and conditions of disturbed and mentally unhealthy that is given help and can frequently be restored to a productive, successful school life when today's educational program can function effectively.

The Schools Administration Act, amended, Section 35, 1960-61, contains the following provision: (1) Every school shall be a separate school, continuation school, high school, or board of education) may appoint a psychiatrist who is on the register of specialists in psychiatry of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada or of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario or a psychologist who is a duly qualified medical practitioner or holds a certificate of registration under the Psychologists' Registration Act, who shall perform his duties in accordance with this act and the regulations.

REGULATIONS

The Regulations, Elementary Schools - General - 1963:- (4) A board shall not employ a psychologist as a clinical consultant unless he holds a Master of Arts degree in phychology or a doctorate in psychology from an Ontario university or standing the Minister deems equivalent thereto.

(5) A psychiatrist or a psychologist employed by a board, (a) shall test pupils referred to him by the inspector and furnish the inspector with a report; and (b) may, with the permission of the principal, observe pupils in a class and consult with the teachers and parents with respect to a pupil.

It thus becomes evident that either the Public School Board or the Separate School Board may secure the services of either or both a psychologist and a psychiatrist. In so doing, however, the Board taking such action would: (1) expend an inordinate sum for the size of its operations; (2) restrict the services to one panel of education; (3) be unable to provide services in the community to be children only and between the ages of about five to fourteen.

Such a commitment ought to be the final resort. First consideration should be given to a service which will be useful to all panels of education and further to the community as a whole, if not to the city and surrounding area.

When the members of District 47, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held their annual church parade and dedication service on Sunday, the Patriarchs Militant preceded the color party for the parade to St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Canada Making Major Cancer Research Effort

Nowhere in the world is there a greater concerted effort being made to solve the cancer problem through research as in Canada.

At the present time 135 scientists in seven universities and their affiliated institutes and hospitals across Canada are engaged in research into this killer disease.

These men and women are supported by generous and loyal fellowships awarded them by the National Cancer Institute of Canada, which derives 85% of its funds for such research from the Canadian Cancer Society, the remainder coming from matching Federal and Provincial grants. The local branch of the Canadian Cancer Society is now conducting a drive for funds.

The total sum to be spent on cancer research by the National Cancer Institute during 1963-64 is $1,716,947, supporting scientists in universities, in British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Quebec, Nova Scotia and Ontario and their affiliated institutions.

In Ontario alone, the Ontario Cancer Institute, the finest institution of its kind in the world, the Universities of Toronto, Ottawa, Queen's, Western Ontario, the University of Western Ontario's Cancer Research Unit, the Ontario Agricultural College and the Ontario Veterinary College are all involved.

The many varied projects being undertaken by the men and women who are supported by the National Cancer Institute are of a highly complex nature requiring the best trained talent and available in this country.

In a talk given to members of the Ottawa Division of the Canadian Cancer Society recently, Dr. A. Cameron Wallace, Director of the University of Western Ontario's newly erected Cancer Research Unit, said that many diverse studies are being supported on the causation of cancer. "A considerable number of these studies," he said "are directed not so much at the cause of cancer as at the nature of the disease, what characterizes it, and how it differs specifically from normal tissues. Many of the studies therefore, make comparisons between the normal and malignant."

Annual Church Parade Held By District Odd Fellows

Sunday morning the members of District 47, Independent Order of Odd Fellows assembled at the Belleville Temple to take part in the annual church parade and dedication service.

The pipe band of the A.N. and A.F. Veterans' Association led well over 100 brothers to St. Thomas' Church, where they were welcomed by the Venerable Archdeacon McConnell, Reverend R. W. Sinclair and church officials.

The first lesson was read by Brother Alfred Cooper. The rector preached on the essential element of brotherly love which all mankind must acquire, and which is so well illustrated by the Epistle of St. Paul to Philemon. All Christians and in particular the members of the Odd Fellows are enjoined to love all men because of the great love which God has disposed upon all through the gift of His Son.

The work of the Order, particularly in this district was outlined by the rector because he has had personal knowledge of and taken part in the United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth program. The brothers and sisters were greatly encouraged to receive the gentle exhortation of one who has earned their admiration and respect.

The Rebekahs were led by past Noble Grand Alice Adams, who was supported by a large number of sisters, including Past District Deputy Presidents Edna Fox of Stirling and Annie Rose of Belleville. Sister Cecelia Briens, a charter member of Quintena Rebekah Lodge, was present. Sister Connie Wilkinson is Noble Grand of Quinteni Rebekah Lodge.

FORM COLOR PARTY

The Patriarchs Militant were also honored guests at the parade and a large contingent provided the color party. The ranks included Brigadier-General MacDonald and Lieutenant-Colonels Chris Amore of Kingston, James Howie of Kingston and Douglas Simpson and Larry Pollitt of Belleville. Bro. Douglas Simpson as captain of Belleville Encampment was officer in charge. He was honored by the presence of Bro. Charlie Brown of Brockville, who is captain of the Kingston Encampment. Other ranking officers present were: Captain Wilmot Rose of Frankford Lou Williams of Foxboro, and Major Neil Jenkins. Lieut. Ronald Bonnor, Ensign Howard Akey and Chevalier Ernie Nelson, all of Belleville.

The district officers under District Deputy Grand Master Elmer Adams, were honored by the presence of Deputy Grand Master Earl Fox of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, and by several past District Deputy Grand Masters, including Bro. C. Farrow of Brighton and Bro. Lou Bro. Tom May, Noble Grand of Bay of Quinte Lodge at Picton and Bro. Jim Trenton, Noble Grand of Trenton lodge each had a contingent of visitors from their lodges. The visitors from Brighton were led by Bro. Clayton Farrow.

Parade marshal was Bro. Bruce Prindiel

Following the parade lunch was served to about fifty brothers and friends.

The aid of Sisters Jensen Adams and Nelson and all who assisted with the serving was appreciated.

Traffic League Hears Address On U.S. Rules

BROCKVILLE—At the Grenadier Inn here, the regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Industrial Traffic League, Golden Triangle District, heard an address by Mr. Bill Ballantyne, traffic manager, W. T. Byrns Motor Express, Watertown, N.Y. Mr. Ballantyne's address outlined the duties and responsibilities of the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission from its birth in 1887 with a staff of 25 to its present day size of 2,500 employees.

In comparing American transportation and regulations with the Canadian scene, the Board of Transport in Ottawa is similar in many ways to the I.C.C. The main difference in Canada is that motor transportation is under provincial control, whereas, in the U.S.A. both rail and truck transportation are all under the canopy of the I.C.C. A further comparison was made on rate regulation by motor transportation in Canada and the U.S.A. in light of the recent amendment to the U.S. Act of Ontario calling for rate filing, effective May 1st.

The notable difference between the two was that the I.C.C. has not allowed rail interests to penetrate into and control large segments of the trucking industry in the U.S.A., as has been allowed to happen in Canada. Moreover, in the U.S.A. the rates of each mode of transportation are considered by the I.C.C. on their inherent advantages and not necessarily by competitive factors. Also, the I.C.C. has forbidden rails to enter into Agreed Charges which are allowed in Canada.

George Whitman Takes Welfare Post in Ottawa

Belleville's welfare administrator George Whitman has been appointed to a post with the federal Department of Citizenship and Welfare in Ottawa.

Mr. Whitman has handed in his resignation as head of the city's welfare department effective May 31st.

He has been for 16 years, Mr. Whitman has become a prominent figure in welfare administration on a province-wide basis. Among the many posts he has held was that of president in 1959-60 of the Ontario Welfare Officers' Association.

During his service with the city, Mr. Whitman has headed up an aspect of municipal organization that has been continually changing and expanding as the theory of welfare in Canada has undergone a complete transition in Canada. Its own innovations not only on the administrative level but from a social view, also made Belleville's welfare department a leading model for other communities.

His experience and the soundness of his own theories were recognized several years ago when he was appointed to a private advisory committee on welfare formed by the Ontario government.

Council to Ask For Cloverleaf East of City

Construction of a cloverleaf allowing access to 401 highway east of the city, and making of Jones Creek sideroad west of the city a direct link from the four-lane highway to No. 2 highway is to be asked by city council.

Monday evening Alderman Leslie Digby said that provision for a direct link between the Wallbridge Road cloverleaf and No. 2 highway was vitally needed to get "across the-bay" traffic away from city streets.

Also asked in the recommendation was improvement of No. 14 and 37 highways as access roads into the city.

Belleville Chamber of Commerce has already requested the cloverleaf east of the city, council was told.

Subsidy from the Ontario Highways department will also be asked for the now approved recess road from Highway 37 leading to an industrial area south of 401.

Gay Is the May Day With Snow for Play

"Frosty the snowman was a jolly right to see," for a four-year-old Cannifton resident anyway...this white May morning.

Young Raymond Geertsma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Geertsma, took advantage of what is hoped to be the last bit of snow, and made two snowmen.

May Day Ushered In With Two Inches of Snow

And we all thought that Spring was really here!

Today is May Day and traditionally residents are supposed to be thinking of spring flowers, gardens and other activities normally associated with warm weather.

But they woke up this morning to find at least two inches of snow on the ground.

Belleville and district residents haven't seen snow in May since 1956, and in fact in the past 20 years there has been snow in May on only three occasions. And the amount of snow couldn't equal the overnight snowfall of two or more inches. In other years only a trace of snow was recorded.

This morning motorists had to dig out the windshield scrapers which they thought had been forgotten for the summer. And impatient fishermen waiting for the opening of the pickerel season took one look and decided to wait until another day.

But the weatherman promises better things for tomorrow.

Frost is predicted for tonight, but the forecast for tomorrow is sunny with a high of 57.

4 Separate Schools Here Will Teach Oral French

Teaching of Oral French in the four Belleville separate Schools as part of the regular curriculum and at no additional cost to the public, is hoped to commence with the re-opening of classes following the summer holidays.

Members of the Belleville Separate Schools Board at their regular monthly meeting Monday evening voted to make application to the Ontario Department of Education for permission to include the Oral French instruction as part of the schools' curriculum.

The program would call for 80 minutes' instruction each week to be divided into four 20-minute periods. A specially qualified teacher would be hired to give the instruction.

Initially Oral French would be taught in grades five and six with grades seven and eight to be added in the following and future years.

Nose Is Broken In Accident

A Belleville man had his nose broken when a car in which he was a passenger crashed off Highway 2 west of the city limits last night.

Injured was Richard Boudreau, 22, of 145 Wright Avenue.

The car, driven by Joseph Robitaille, of the same address, went out of control and crashed against the Bellville cemetery fence.

The accident was reported by a passing motorist.

Disturbing Tax Rate

The tax rates approved by the City Council Monday ought to shock Belleville residents.

As far as most taxpayers are concerned, the rate is 91.5 mills, certainly high enough. But we ought not to lose sight of the fact that it has been possible to hold the rate at this level only because of a subsidy paid by the provincial government for the specific purpose of keeping down the rate on residential properties. The better guide to the level of real estate taxes here, or in any city, is the commercial rate. This year in Belleville it is 103 mills.

This means that, in ten years, owners of stores and industrial plants will be required to pay in city taxes an amount greater than the assessed value of the property.

Fortunately the assessment here is only a fraction of the real value of properties. This is made self-evident when all Ross Bailey, chairman of the council's finance committee, refers to the average home-owner with an assessment of $3,000. The average home in Belleville brings much more than this on the market; sale prices are generally between three and four times the assessment.

Re-assessment next year should reduce the rate of taxation. This, however, is not a wholly unmixed blessing. A lower rate on higher assessments will bring in as much money as this year's extremely high levies—but there is always the danger that future councils will allow themselves to be beguiled by these lower tax rates and permit them to climb year by year. Ald. Bailey's observation that "municipal taxation is near the limit" is correct in the sense in which we are sure Ald. Bailey meant it, that taxation is at the endurable limit.

Somewhere in the world, we suppose, there must be a whole host of Benitos and Adolfs and Josefs whose names are an unfortunate reminder of past history. Happily, in their native lands, their names were never uncommon.

No such protection awaits a baby in the Congo, which has been christened Unesco. This is a fact not altogether to the credit of the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization, but in other ways that group is doing work which may adequately compensate Unesco Lucas for his (or her) naming.

The mother of Unesco Lucas was one of 111 teachers attending a four-week course at Stanleyville. Nancy Hatch came during the course and she took five days off, during which, after the organization sponsoring the classes and one of four UNESCO experts in charge and returned to her classes.

We have heard so much of strife in the Congo that there is a happy contrast in the stories of United Nations effort to train teachers who can carry their learning back to the bush from which they have come. One primary school teacher walked for three weeks to attend the UNESCO class. Most of the other 110 teachers taking the course, including 18 women, had to travel an average of one week, usually on foot. People like these deserve help and if the natives they will teach have a similar zeal, the Congo's future should be bright, despite all we have read about that strife-torn land.

It seems a shame, though, that in the Congo, as elsewhere, the practical help which the nations of the world extend does not begin to match, in the numbers of people involved and in the expenditure, the necessary, but essentially unproductive, military effort. UNESCO has four mobile teams in the Congo, each team composed of four experts, three educators and a woman specialist in home economics, hygiene and nutrition and child care.

The next time some statesman urges the formation of a permanent United Nations Emergency Force, would it not be wise to add a rider to the motion requiring that an equal number of trained people be recruited for UNESCO and the military expenditure be matched by a like outlay designed to provide a brighter future for underprivileged peoples?

"Every year the British spend thirty-two million pounds sterling on branded foods for their pets. If to this is added the cost of meat and fish bought fresh from the shop by those pet lovers who are still resisting the advertising of the tinned food firms, then the figure must be much less than a million pounds a week—on the dogs mostly, and the cats and the budgies."—Michael Pearson speaking in BBC "Woman's Hour."

Strictly Personal — Authors Often Know Little About Subjects

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We speak about the "attraction of opposites" in marriage and other relationships, but I have never seen anything written about the same kind of attraction in the literary and artistic field.

It has fascinated me for years that so many of the men who become "friends" on a certain writer are diametrically opposed to the writer, in temperament and taste and outlook. This may explain some of their weird interpretations.

I have met men who are experts on such literary figures as D. H. Lawrence, James Joyce and Dylan Thomas. Almost without exception, these men would not have been given the right time of day by the writers they have chosen to "interpret" to the world.

The Thomas expert is a prissy soul, at whose pretensions Thomas himself would be roared in derision. The Joyce expert would not have been looked at twice by Joyce. The Lawrence expert would have been dusted off by Lawrence in a few moments of unreserved.

What attracts such dry, dreary and pompous scholars to such wild, free-living writers is the familiar moth-and-flame syndrome, so common in love affairs. Thomas' drab little literary insects love to singe their wings around a glow that they never possess.

It is also possible, if we may dip into the Freudian armory for reinforcements, that a hungry, starved literary figure finds author appeals to the repressed parts of their own nature. They secretly revel in the wild, chaotic as Joyce, as uninhibited as Thomas, as pre-empitve as Lawrence — in the very way they can achieve such postures is for them the thrill of writing about these men.

Someone of the nature of T.S. Eliot, whatever his other failings, could not fall into this psychological error when he is writing about outher authors. In disliking Shakespeare, for instance, he has said bluntly at the start: "I do not imagine for a moment that Shakespeare was anything at all like me."

Most commentators on Shakespeare are far too close to their because they do assume, implicitly or openly, that Shakespeare was very like them, and that therefore they have a special insight into his nature. Ninety per cent of the writing about him is nonsense — and it is nonsense precisely because it begins at a false psychological angle.

So much literary biography and criticism is the work of the meek writing about the bold, the bland writing about the daring, the timid writing about the vulnerable, the ineffectual writing about the ineffable—little wonder that our great artists remain mysteries for hundreds of years after they have bared their minds and hearts.

Good Louse Hard to Find

Financial Post

Cleaner living habits of the British present some businesses with a peck of troubles.

That's the conclusion to be drawn from the plight of T. Gerrard & Co. of Britain. At the moment the firm is badly in need of 8,000 human lice to supply the needs of medical, veterinary and biological teaching institutions.

But a good louse is hard to find in an increasingly hygienic Olde England and Gerrard & Co. now apparently have to anie up an inflationary nisepence per.

Once bedbugs by the thousand could be found in many of the old houses of London. But now the firm claims it has to wait for the rare call from a local health office to announce that a louse has been found harboring the beasties.

Even the British dog has apparently succumbed to the sanitary life. There's a scarcity of howsomme for Gerrard & Co.

But the company demonstrates true British resourcefulness. It's now breeding the beasts and importing the worms from Hong Kong.

"The best gym display ever seen in Belleville," was the comment of the audience that packed the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium to see the members of the "Y" put on a show of their ability in gymnastics and physical education. The statement may be a little extravagant, but we got it from one of the men who formerly was a top flight gymnast and who has been connected with the "Y" here since he was a small boy, and it certainly was a fine showing of the work accomplished among the boys and girls of our community.

House Must Change Ways

L'Evangeline, Moncton

Our parliamentary system is predicated on two parties, and with two parties we have created a parliamentary procedure which is ridiculous when you look at it closely. In normal times a party is elected with a comfortable majority, yet at each session there have to be five, ten, fifteen votes of non-confidence. Everyone knows the result but everyone plays the game.

But today the two old parties are no longer alone. There are the new parties and there are minority governments.

We may reach a situation in which a minority government will stay in power for four or five years, just like a majority government. But to achieve that we shall have to change our way of thinking, our conception of that game of politics.

The minority government will not be able to act on its laurels; it will have to be on its guard and to act every minutes. And it will have to present an intelligent and effective legislative program with the support of the third parties.

Really a Twist

Peterborough Examiner

Speaking against a proposal to ban the twist in Uganda for health reasons, one Government member said the twist required no more body contortion and energy than some of the local tribal dances. And that's really a twist.

Would Widen Compensation

Ottawa Citizen

The proposal of a select committee of the Ontario Legislature that every person involved in a motor accident be eligible for a minimum of $1,000 compensation — regardless of fault — deserves serious consideration. It is significant that the insurance industry itself recommended action along these lines.

It is specifically proposed that coverage, on standard death, disability and other benefits be a mandatory part of every automobile policy. In addition, uninsured car owners who are at fault in accidents would be allowed to collect benefits for personal injuries from the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, without having to make repayments. It has been estimated that such a plan would cost about $4 a year for 60 per cent of Ontario drivers. An increase would also be levied on the 40 per cent few now paid by uninsured motorists toward the accident claims fund.

The committee rightly took the view that in this age of rapidly increasing highway traffic "some form of remedy should be available to all persons injured in automobile accidents." It made its recommendations in the knowledge that the provincial government has the authority to require firms to broaden auto insurance coverage. It also proposed that responsible for issuing licences to insurance agents and agencies within the province.

This pertinent point was made in the committee's report:

"It is no longer safe enough for us to say that all those who are not entitled to indemnification under the present system — liability system — the surviving dependents of the negligent driver, the pedestrian, the cyclist who may be disabled for life, or the small child who darts out from behind a car do not deserve a remedy of some kind for damages. The fact of the matter is that they need a remedy."

Recent actions by the provincial government to raise the value of the accident claims fund and to enter into a reciprocity agreement with Quebec with regard to the payment of claims have done much to protect the public from reckless driving and motoring public and pedestrians. Adoption of the proposal of the committee would be another major step forward in this field.

It Is Not Meat Hound

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

We are happy to learn that Gen. Eisenhower is not a meat hound after all.

Word from Mexico three weeks ago said he killed 40 ducks and 33 other birds in Mexico's Lake Chapala area. That would have been a kill every four minutes and, considering the circumstances, would have meant the general was blazing away so fast he hardly had time to reload his gun.

Sen. Fulbright took note of the general's prowess as a sportsman. This sort of performance, he said, was "not much encouragement to people who want to preserve wildlife."

As a result of the speech Mr. Fulbright made, he received from a friend of Gen. Eisenhower. The true story, the friend related, was that Ike had killed 20 birds. That was half the plained was that there were 20 sportsmen and six guns on the expedition, and the total bag legal limit.

The question remaining is whether the author of the canard was trying to deal the former President a foul blow.

How to Live To Be 158

Hamilton Spectator

The world is in such a blue-ribbon mess that one wonders why anyone would want to live to be 158. However, it's apparently it is possible to do so if you follow the advice of a man who has just celebrated his 158th birthday. The man is a Russian, of course, as maybe it takes a lively kidding about the extent of his longevity, or perhaps he's merely the victim of the Soviet mythologist's imagination.

No matter, the report from Moscow says that Shirali Farnali Ogly Musilmov, who lives in the mountains of Soviet Azerbaijan, is not only well into his 159th year but is willing to divulge his recipe for an extra long life.

First of all Muslimov hates war. So much so, that when the Persians were waging war in and around Azerbaijan 137 years ago he took off for the woods and remained there, until the shooting had died down.

"I didn't want to fight," he said, quite simply.

Almost as important, Muslimov makes a practice of devouring fresh mountain cheese, he greens, a rough bread baked in the ground, and cheese made of sheep's milk, for there the simple life, in other words.

But that isn't all. According to him, he breathes the clean, fresh air of the mountain area in which he lives, and, like most other people in Azerbaijan, sleeps in the open with the birds and the bees.

The ingredients of that recipe should qualify Mr. Muslimov for a title of honorary commissar, or whatever it is that the Kremlin calls Russians who practise what the Communist propaganda line preaches. After all, the Russian leaders have been telling us that they truly hate war, and they have been constantly issuing statements about their sunbaked patios of their Black Sea dachas that all good Communists are happy and healthy because they lead the simple life. One might ask, of course, what else can they do.

As for Mr. Muslimov, he actually merits some sort of a medal for having died of boredom years ago.

Normal Blood Pressure Difficult to Define

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it safe for blood pressure to go above 200? What is normal for a woman of 64? — V. D.

It is very hard — impossible, in fact — to define a "normal" or "safe" blood pressure because too many things affect it.

Fifty miles an hour may be be a safe driving speed. But not in heavy traffic, not for a poor driver, not if the car has a flat tire, and not in a fog.

Age, build, temperament and many other elements make a difference in safe blood pressure.

However, other things being equal, 200 would be quite safe for a woman of 64. In fact, 160 or 170 would not be out of line.

You see (or you will if you look all the way your doctor records blood pressure) that the pressure isn't just one number. It's two. It will be written down as 150/100, or some such figure that looks like a fraction but isn't.

The first (and always higher) number is the "pumping" or systolic pressure. The lower number is the "resting" or diastolic pressure.

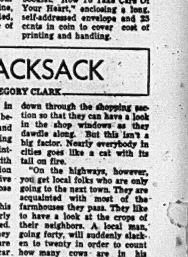
Both are of zero except in shock. Your blood keeps flowing all the time, with the beating of the heartbeat behind it, and it keeps flowing under less pressure, between heartbeats.

If the resting pressure is moderate, the pumping pressure can be high and yet be tolerated quite well. If the resting pressure is too high, even a low pumping pressure puts more strain on the system.

That is one of the reasons why it is impossible to specify any particular pressure as normal. But assuming that your resting pressure is in line, there's no reason to be worried, at your age, for a pressure of 150 or even higher.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK



One of the basic conflicts in contemporary society is that between people in a hurry and those not in a hurry. According to a policeman of my acquaintance, the main trouble with highway traffic is the friction between those who want to drive as fast as possible and those who aren't in a hurry.

"In the city," he says, "this situation isn't so bad. Nearly everybody is in a hurry there. They are all on the jump. They don't feel right unless they are dashing as far as they can see ahead. Only now and again do you get a carload of middle-aged ladies out for a spin with the idea of cruising leisurely down through the shopping section so that they can have a look in the shop windows and then dawdle along. But this isn't a big factor. Nearly everybody in the city rides like a cat with its tail on fire.

"On the highways, however, you get these folks who are only going to the next town. They are acquainted with most of the farmhouses like this. They like to have a look at the crops of their neighbors. A local man, going forty, will suddenly step on to twenty in order to count the number of cows on the hill on his fellow-beacon's pasture. And I can't see any likelihood of a few that will keep local folks off the throughways."

Pearson Stands By Decision On Nuclear Arms

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Pearson reaffirmed today his readiness to accept United States nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces.

But the new Canadian leader, just starting a visit to London, made it clear he will accept nuclear arms only because of Canada's existing defence commitments — and may try to change these.

"My government has to discharge any commitments that have been undertaken for Canada," he said.

If such commitments require the acceptance of nuclear warheads, "we shall have to accept the ammunition until the commitment is changed by agreement."

But he added "it is easier to agree in principle than it is to apply these principles."

Former prime minister Diefenbaker refused to accept nuclear warheads for Canada's armed forces.

Pearson contended that Canada must accept the warheads because it has already accepted U.S.-built, nuclear-capable missiles under North American and NATO defence agreement.

He told reporters he believes as strongly as ever in international disarmament and a nuclear test-ban agreement.

TALK TRADE, DEFENCE

He said he expects defence, disarmament, foreign affairs and Anglo-Canadian trade to come up in his talks here with Prime Minister Macmillan, but he does not think any specific decisions would be reached.

His RCAF jet transport aircraft landed at London Airport in a heavy drizzle.

A large number of British and Canadian officials were at the airport to meet the visiting prime minister.

Pearson, who arrived from Toronto, said the purpose of his London visit is to establish a basic understanding "between us in respect of our interests and problems."

Pearson told reporters he would discuss the trade balance between Canada and Britain, which currently favors Canada.

He indicated he plans to remove some of Canada's tariff barriers but also called for more aggressive British salesmanship to boost British exports to Canada.

Asked if he thought his visit is necessary to restore good relations between Canada and Britain, Pearson, who took office two weeks ago, said he thinks every Canadian leader would want to come here as soon as possible.

He said he met President Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass., later this month.

African Witch Doctors Have Good Methods in Psychiatry

MONTREAL (CP) — African witch doctors may not have read the latest books on psychiatry but that doesn't mean their methods are ineffective, says a Canadian who spent 17 months in Nigeria.

Dr. Raymond Prince of the transcultural psychiatric studies section at McGill University engaged in field work with native healers of the Yoruba cultural group practising in Nigerian towns and villages.

He says that while Western methods in other branches of medicine are generally far superior, this doesn't necessarily true in psychiatry.

In psychological medicine the therapy of many healers is demonstrably effective and their results as good as those obtained by Western psychiatrists."

Interviewed after his return from Africa, Dr. Prince said one thing in favor of the witch doctor is his personalized attention.

"When a Nigerian mental patient reports for treatment to a witch doctor he moves right into the doctor's home, often bringing his wife or daughter to help with basic nursing and food preparation.

"This close relationship with the healer is in marked contrast with large Canadian mental hospitals where only a few psychiatrists are available for several hundred patients.

"A native healer may have as few as six patients living in his home—or, in the case of overactive persons, in a couple of huts in the yard where they are fettered for the first 48 hours until sedatives quiet them.

"The mental health programs of many developing countries should make the fullest use of existing indigenous mental treatment facilities."

New Zealand Lodges Protest

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—New Zealand has lodged a protest in Washington against the sale of U.S. surplus butter to Caribbean countries at "fire sale" prices, the chairman of New Zealand's Dairy Production and Marketing Board said today.

Chairman Andrew Linton said "this is competition which cannot be described as anything else but unfair.

"American exporters are being allowed to acquire butter from the stockpile of the Commodity Credit Corporation at fire sale prices and offer it at prices which no farmer in the world could produce it for," Linton said.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—A drastic "no trial" bill which will give South African police power to hold suspects in solitary confinement for 90 days without being charged today passed its third reading in the Senate and now goes to President Charles Swart for his signature.

The bill has been streamrolered through Parliament in record time.

Since its introduction last week it has been taken through all stages in the House of Assembly and the Senate in seven sitting days of both houses.

It empowers the justice minister to detain a political prisoner indefinitely after his prison sentence expires.

3,000 Laying Hens Lost in Rawdon Fire

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large chicken house on the farm of Harold Linn in Rawdon township, nine miles northeast of Campbellford early Tuesday morning. The metal clad, three-storey building was quite modern, with automatic feeding and watering devices. Three thousand laying hens were lost in the blaze, along with a quantity of feed and equipment.

The 36 x 60 foot structure was blazing when the fire was discovered by Mrs. Linn, who was in bed when the fire broke out. Flames from the burning building lit up the night sky and could be seen for 20 miles. Spectators flocked to the area from Stirling on the East and Hastings on the west, after seeing the glow of the fire in the night sky.

Mr. Linn was absent at the time the fire started. He was attending a community auction sale at Stardale, about eight miles west of Stirling. He noticed the flames and asked if anyone knew where the fire was. When he learned it was at his own farm, he hurried to the scene.

Campbellford firemen arrived within a few minutes of the call, but though the call came from outside their area Rawdon township has no fire protection agreement with Seymour township.

Firemen were helpless to save the building and concentrated their efforts to controlling the blaze from spreading to the nearby bush.

The total damage has not been assessed, but the building and all contents were lost.

Winnipeg Free Press Editor On Job Day Before He Died, Was Born Near Combermere

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

John W. Dafoe once said he would rather be editor of the Winnipeg Free Press than prime minister of Canada. But during his 43 years on that newspaper he influenced many a political decision.

In an introduction to his book The Politics of John W. Dafoe and The Free Press (University of Toronto Press) author Ramsay Cook compares Dafoe with other influential political editors — Joseph Howe, William Lyon Mackenzie, George Brown and Henri Bourassa.

"He never fought a famous political suit like Howe, founded rebellion like Mackenzie, led a political party like Brown, or defended a culture like Bourassa." Dean Cook says. "But he did come into the headlines as these did, while influence was probably no less important."

Author Cook credits Dafoe with raising his newspaper from the level of a provincial party journal to one whose opinion was worthy of national consideration.

John W. Dafoe was at his desk as president and editor-in-chief of the Free Press until the day before he died of a heart attack, on Jan. 9, 1944, at age 77.

MAN OF POLITICS

In this book, which has aspects as far as its publication date, Dafoe is studied not so much as a newspaper man or a personality, but as a man of politics.

Dafoe, a native of the Ottawa Valley community of Combermere, went to Winnipeg at age 25 to take up the editorship of The Free Press. In the ensuing years he became a vigorous champion of the western agrarian way of life against the growing power of eastern industrialists. The author describes him as a "western liberal nationalist."

His influence was brought to bear on the policies of successive governments at Ottawa and Queen's Park for equality among the nations within the British Commonwealth, or expressed his views that Canada should set up integrated country with its provinces relegated to a relatively unimportant role.

Dafoe, says the author, was led Canada's Conservative, and later Union, administrations during the First World War, praised Dafoe although they differed on policy. Prime Minister R. B. Bennett described him as "one of the most vicious partisan journalists the country has produced." Ontario's Premier Mitchell Hepburn accused Dafoe of "having his knife into Ontario ever since he was able to write editorials."

DECLINED OFFER

Dafoe was 71 when he was enticed away from his newspaper work in 1937 to serve on the Rowell-Sirois royal commission on Dominion - provincial relations. He had previously refused Mackenzie King's offer of a cabinet post, and had also rejected a suggestion that he become Canadian minister to Washington.

The royal commission post however fitted in with Dafoe's views as a nationalist that Canada should control its own constitutional procedures, and that the national government should be endowed with sufficient powers to deal with all problems of national concern.

Dafoe was enraged at the failure of the Dominion-provincial conference called in 1940 to implement recommendations of the royal commission.

He wrote a series of editorials aimed at "The Truth Wreckers," and declared the substitute arrangements had "poisoned the relations between the provinces and the Dominion."

'ANADIANISM KEY

Author Cook gives emphasis to Dafoe's neglect of the influence of the French-Canadians in Dafoe's assessment of Canadian nationalism.

The author reasons that Dafoe believed all minorities, including the French-Canadians, should be subjected to the nationalization process. He considers that Dafoe believed the "conservatism of French - Canadians prevented the Liberal party from taking the lead in adopting progressive policies.

And, says the author, Dafoe's nationalism clashed with the isolationism that was an essential factor in the nationalism of the English Canadians.

He assesses Dafoe's greatness as lying in the nationalism that inspired him to see that no nation in the 20th century can exist in isolation from the rest.

international grades of commodities in which Canada was "unusually liberal." Most other English speaking countries had been attempting to force corporations to distribute "equity large" surpluses.

So the Canadian complaint on tax exemption for capital gain and undistributed surplus corporation dividends and "deemed dividends" paid by some corporations to nonresident relatives to the tax-free status of "no treasury difficult," he said.

As a start, Mr. Goodman suggested that an item be added to the proposed on intercorporate dividends—but only on the dividends received by a corporation that are in excess of dividends paid out by the same corporation. To impose a general tax, without this excess principle, would interfere with the fundamental principle that corporate income is to be taxed only once at the corporate level and once at the individual level.

TELLS OF METHODS

Much of Mr. Goodman's complex brief dealt with methods used by tax experts to weave through the sticky taxation field in search of loopholes. Among other things, it involved the information of associated and nonassociated companies, along with holding companies.

The brief said it was easy to understand why efforts at tax avoidance had become so common with the wide disparity in the rate of corporation tax. Initial corporation tax of 18 per cent; over $35,000 it is 20 to 33 per cent.

"Perhaps no real progress can be made in resolving this question until the difference in rates becomes less marked," he said.

Mr. Goodman's brief also suggested a change in appeal procedures to help small taxpayer carry through his dispute to the Exchequer Court of Canada.

The brief also said that "businessmen find it almost inconceivable that the same world they pay to accountants and lawyers in connection with contested income tax matters are not permitted as deductions under the Income Tax Act." Mr. Goodman said income tax laws are so complex and ambiguous that businessmen must often consult experts.

Australia Assured of Many Benefits as County Switches To Decimal System in 1966

By HAROLD TILLEY
Canadian Press Correspondent

CANBERRA (CP) — Australia is assured of so many benefits from its decision to quit its outmoded sterling currency system and switch to decimal by February, 1966, that later generations are wondering what they've been missing for just government inaction.

Unless Britain and New Zealand beat Australia to her 1966 deadline, they will then be the only countries trading even even with other nations — under the pounds, shillings and pence system which people who have lived with it for a lifetime find difficult to manage beyond the elementary stage.

Women in the home may not be as wholehearted in their support of decimalization as other citizens. But they will accept the inevitable with good grace, no doubt, though perhaps with incomplete understanding how it can come about that goods carrying higher looking price tags will help budgeting.

Disadvantages inherent in the transitional stage will need to be experienced—and endured—in a short-term basis to reach the long - term benefits from easier arithmetic for children and school teachers, greater business efficiency, more time in which to do less, particularly in commerce where so much figuring is complicated by the existing cumbersome system.

NEED NEW MACHINES

Importers and makers of calculating, bookkeeping and ledger machines, cash registers and the like; importers and makers of all forms of weighing and slot machines and devices, are happy in contemplating of the huge market suddenly opened up and ready for their special development and exploitation. Long after conversion is effected there will be a continuing demand for decimal machines not previously used here.

Compensation estimated at $80,000,000 is to be paid by the government to private businesses for converting their present monetary machinery and payment under the compensation law will apply only to machines already used within Australia by specific owners.

New machines bought between now and 1966 will have built-in provision for a switch to decimals.

Judging by government appeals for suggestions of names for the currency as a whole or for the 10-unit, which will become the major basic unit and for the minor basic unit equivalent to one cent—the government is having nonsensitive trouble.

COINS TO CHANGE

Australia's existing currency has the copper halfpenny and one penny pieces, silver threepenny pieces, sixpences, shillings and florins and there are bills or notes for 10 shillings, £1, £5, £10 and higher denominations not commonly in circulation.

The penny is equal to two halfpence, the shilling to 12 pennies, the florin to 24 pennies and the £1 is equal to 20 shillings.

In the proposed decimal currency there will be the major basic unit (unnamed) worth approximately a dollar and the equivalent of 100 minor basic units (unnamed). In between, there will be a metal five unit piece, 10-unit and 20-unit pieces. The present copper halfpenny and the silver threepence will be dropped.

Treasurer Harold Holt, who is inviting suggestions from home or abroad for currency names, favors another of the major basic 100-unit bill; no one else does. Holt stands for something with an "Australian flavor."

Auster would come easily to those slovenly Australians who refer to their country as "Australia" (or Ostray)a) but the Aussie can be relied upon in do better than that—as he will, is looking for conversational substitutes for existing places of copper silver and notes—the sixpence, the tray bit, the tanner or bob, the two-bob (for coin) and the quid, smacker or diddy for the £1 note.

form of continuing the blockade until a royal commission investigates divorce or until a court is designated to handle divorce bills which now come before Parliament.

"I believe this problem has to be faced and a government that will not face it is going to look ridiculous," he said in an interview.

"I believe I have a mandate from my riding for this purpose," he added, referring to continuation of the blockade.

The device used by the New Democratic MPs involves discussing each divorce bill separately in detail. This slows their passage to a handful in the limited time the Commons devotes to such measures under present house rules.

PASSED BY HUNDREDS

Previously, divorce bills were passed by unanimous consent in blocs ranging up to 100 or more with relatively little or no debate.

Private sources estimate there will be about 1,600 awaiting action within a few weeks of the opening of the new Parliament May 15. The bills are examined by the Senate divorce committee which considers evidence against their approval. They then must be put before Senate and the Commons before they become law.

Mr. Peters said that in the light of the decision by him and Mr. Howard to continue the blockade, the Liberal government "has the choice of applying closure (to limit debate) in one form or another," or of conceding to their demands for a royal commission or a divorce court.

Boy Scouts Will Invade Plains of Marathon for Eleventh World Jamboree

ATHENS (Reuter) — The Plains of Marathon, where a decisive battle was fought between the mighty Greek and Persian armies 23 centuries ago, will be invaded again in July.

Some 14,000 Boy Scouts from 70 nations, including Canada, will camp on the beach at Schinias, 28 miles northeast of Athens, during the 11th world Jamboree scheduled July 29 to Aug. 11.

The aim of the jamboree is to "unite the youth of the world, strengthen ties of friendship, promote understanding and forge world peace."

King Paul of Greece will be patron of the jamboree, and Crown Prince Constantine, 23, as chief of the Boy Scout movement in Greece, is expected to preside over most of the meetings.

It is estimated the jamboree will cost some $2,800,000 and half of this sum is being contributed by the Greek government.

$47 FEE

The camp fee has been fixed at $47 for each scout. That will include food for the duration of the jamboree, transportation from Athens to the camp, medical attention, a jamboree badge and camp equipment.

Jamboree manager, to be set up around a bay in the Marathon Plains, will be divided into 11 sub-camps of approximately 1,200 campers each. The sub-camps will be named after the tribes which fought by the side of the Athenians against the Persians in the Battle of Marathon 2,500 years ago.

To ensure that scouts of the various nationalities are as much as possible, the organizing committee has ruled that, in each sub-camp, Greek scout troops will play host to their brother scouts belonging to foreign contingents.

Particular attention is being paid to health. All scouts must have a thorough medical examination just before they leave their respective countries.

Greek armed forces will set up a 100-bed hospital and camp, to be first aid posts staffed by qualified doctors and nurses. In addition, arrangements are being made with civilian hospitals in Athens to take care of any emergency.

RELIGIOUS ACTIVITY

Jamboree chaplains and priests will co-ordinate all religious activities within the camp and be available for consultation at any time.

Greek Orthodox ministry has instructed all Greek consular authorities that scouts coming to the jamboree will be exempt from the payment of visa fees for entry into Greece.

The jamboree also is making a substantial reduction in fares by land and sea on passenger trains of Greek ownership.

During their stay in the camp, the scouts will have the opportunity to attend events which includes games of skill, demonstrations of scout-craft, athletics, field sports, swimming and visits to archeological sites.

He said an appeal will be made for financial assistance.

He criticized the fact that no RCAF bomber was available Tuesday to bomb a channel through the ice at the mouth of the river. The ice was three feet thick.

The 12-bed H. H. Williams Memorial Hospital also was threatened by the rampaging river. Twelve patients, some of them seriously ill, and 22 nurses, staff and families prepared to evacuate as flood waters moved to within three feet of the one-storey building.

Dr. Cher Penny, medical health officer for the area, said the supply of drinking water soon will become a problem.

The town, with its filtration plant knocked out, started to use its drinking water reserves.

A supply of typhoid vaccine was flown in from Edmonton as a precautionary measure.

Most roads in the area have been cut off and Hay River's airport "is getting smaller all the time," said Mr. McBryan.

He said the most serious threat is to the west channel fishing village ae ice repeatedly jams into the river mouth, forcing the water back around the island.

MAY TAKE TO BOATS

Village residents have moved to buildings on higher ground but may have to scramble aboard boats "if the ice doesn't crush them or something like that," said Mr. McBryan.

"I don't know if they (demolition crews) will be able to do anything."

The mayor was more concerned about the health hazard than the immediate danger of a flood crest inundating the whole town, much of which was under at least three feet of water.

About 10,000 gallons of filtered water were available today, the mayor said in a telephone interview from the local separate school, where about 400 residents were gathered for safety.

Residents were ordered to boil drinking water. A public health engineer was due here today to help prepare plans for return of residents to their homes.

"I see nothing ahead but trouble," the mayor said as ice continued to pile up, forcing water through and over the east channel.

All power was cut Tuesday and the Mackenzie Highway to the town was under water in several places.

Telephone and telegraph lines remained in operation — the only communication between the town and the west channel fishing village.

COPTER STANDS BY

Mayor McBryan did not feel evacuation to the mainland would be necessary immediately. He said a large RCAF helicopter would be available to take persons from the two schools and other high buildings if such a move is called for.

During the chilly night, adults and children huddled on school floors.

"There are lots of sleeping bags and blankets, enough for the kids anyway," said the school principal Norman McGowan. "There won't be any classes Wednesday morning."

Mr. McGowan said there was no shortage of food.

EXPORT ADOPTIONS?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Areas with a surplus of children available for adoption may soon be sending them to areas with a surplus of waiting parents, a child-welfare expert said Tuesday. Charles B. Olds, executive director of the Children's Home Society of Minnesota, said this may even take the form of an "international exchange", between Canada and the United States.

Farmers Use Insecticides To Protect Growing Crops Not Merely to Kill Hoppers

By BOB TRIMBEE

SASKATOON (CP)—Western Canada farmers now use insecticides to protect growing crops—not merely to kill grasshoppers after harm and damage has already been done, as in former years.

That's the statement of Roy Pickford, a federal government entomologist who is one of four key men on a team that annually prepares a grasshopper infestation forecast for Saskatchewan at the federal agriculture department research station here.

"With today's insecticides," he said, "the farmer knows that he can have the job of spraying crops until he can actually see the 'hoppers doing damage.

"In the years that are past, if he can get the insecticide, he can kill more than 90 per cent of the 'hoppers that are ordered and save most of his crop. He knows he has something with which he can clobber the insects.

"This is the essential difference from the situation in the dirty '30s. Then, once the 'hoppers began eating through a field, there really wasn't much that could be done but to watch."

LONG-TIME PROBLEM

The research station, on the campus of the University of Saskatchewan, has been working since 1924 trying to find the answer to the grasshopper problem. The advancements, notably in the field of insecticides and improved techniques in preparing grasshopper forecasts, still leave the over-all problem unresolved. The men on the job say it's likely to be some time before man can effectively control the grasshopper.

"In our work we have tried to cover a broad base to the problem," said Dr. H. McDonald, head of the station's entomology section.

"Biological studies help us to understand how the hoppers can best be attacked and to understand the reasons why there are sudden grasshopper population explosions, and the effect of disease, weather and parasites upon these pests.

"We know a lot about grasshoppers, but we don't know enough. We can't explain why grasshopper numbers suddenly increase or suddenly die. We know that certain insecticides can kill up to 99 per cent of a grasshopper population and because this is an immediate answer to the problem we do it."

PRIORITY PROBLEM

Dr. Paul Riegert, a biologist at the station, said studies have been undertaken of the 'hopper's nutrition. "It was thought we might be able to develop a plant resistant to grasshoppers such as we did to fight sawfly.

"It has yet to prove beneficial. Our work in insecticides has been of much more immediate help. For this reason we have had to push such experimental research into the background and concentrate on where we know we can do good."

There are 85 species of grasshoppers on the Prairies, but only six attack wheat and only two of these do serious damage. These are the stubble grasshoppers — a serious menace in the 1930s — and the roadside grasshopper—the main problem today.

The stubble hopper prefers a weedy place to multiply. The introduction of 2,4D wiped out most of its breeding spots and effectively reduced its numbers. The roadside species hatches on undeveloped roadsides and right of ways. When the food there is gone it moves into the grain fields.

The grasshopper forecasts put out by the station each November since 1936 have often been questioned as to reliability.

"What is forgotten," said Dr. McDonald, "is that it is just a forecast based on adult populations and egg-laying in the fall. It is an indication, and we believe a fairly reliable one, of what the threat in certain districts will be under ideal hatching and growing conditions.

"You may think it's easy, but part of our calculations have to be based on good hatching weather. How many meteorologists will step on the limb six months in advance and say what the weather will be in a certain area?

"The cost of stockpiling insecticides is a million - dollar proposition; yet provincial governments will base their stockpiles upon our forecasts. An example of what can happen when just one factor in our forecast is off was illustrated in 1950. That year we said there would be a fairly heavy infestation. It was a cold spring and summer and the hatch never produced, leaving the government with $1,000,000 worth of insecticide on its hands."

The question of insecticides and the possible dangers to farm animals and humans is of serious concern to the station. Dieldrin, an effective insecticide, has been found to be toxic to humans and cattle. For this reason special instructions are issued for its use.

At the same time the station has undertaken a study of hundreds of other compounds for possible replacements. Two such compounds, Sevin and Dimethoate, are expected to replace Dieldrin within a few years.

This fact must be remembered about Dieldrin," said K. S. McKinley, a toxicologist. "If used as directed it is not dangerous. But because we cannot guarantee that such directions always will be followed, we have to ensure that the insecticides we use are as safe as humanly possible."

United

relations between the press and his new government.

He asked for non-partisan cooperation from the press in meeting the problems that face Canada, while inviting newspaper vigilance and criticism.

Equally vital, Mr. Pearson said, is the "ill-defined boundary between freedom and license in the fields of information."

Referring to recent discussion of "news management" by government, he said his own responsibility includes a determination "to keep some secrets from you, though as few as possible."

SOMETIMES 'ESSENTIAL'

"I am quite sure that you will agree that there are circumstances in which this position is not only right, it is essential. For there are times when the public trust would be betrayed by open, premature discussion of certain negotiations and affairs of state."

But a government "must never knowingly give false information, or withhold legitimate information, for its own comfort and convenience. There must be no censorship; no secrecy beyond the clear and demonstrable requirement of national security."

The prime minister questioned the "stir on Parliament Hill, especially in the press gallery" caused by his election campaign pledge of "60 days of decision."

"My concern about all this is that at the end of the 60 days, there may be an idea that the job is done. That is not my intention.

"... I realize that in Canada, no less than in the emerging and underdeveloped countries to whom we appear prosperous beyond dreams, people grow impatient once they have been brushed by the wings of hope, that tomorrow will be a better day than today.

"When the processes of growth embodying these hopes are not set firmly in motion, popular unrest sweeps away leaders who cannot deliver. I shall naturally do my best to avoid being swept away. ..."

OTTAWA (CP) — A Yugoslavian delegation interested in buying Canadian wheat has arrived in Winnipeg for discussions, Chief Commissioner W. C. McNamara of the Canadian wheat board said Tuesday. Bargaining for the wheat—which might total around 7,000,000 bushels, will take place there.

Fanfani faction made his leftist program of economic reform the key issue. Rightists in the party openly displayed their distrust of his policies while others tried to strike a middle ground.

"Such incessant clamor," commented Rome's Il Messaggero, "had the effect of driving away voters . . . The Christian Democrats lost the frightened, the confused and the indecisive."

Many voters also apparently had become exasperated with what they considered Christian Democrat ineffectiveness.

The easier atmosphere between the Vatican and the Kremlin may have convinced some voters that the Communists aren't so bad after all. The Communists played that line during the campaign hailing Pope John as a man of peace.

The seat breakdown in the Chamber of Deputies, expanded this year to 630 seats from 596 (with the 1958 results in parentheses): Christian Democrats 260 (273); Communists 166 (140); Socialists 87 (84); Liberals 39 (17); Democratic Socialists 33 (22); Fascists 27 (24); Monarchists 8 (25); Republicans 6 (6); Others 4 (5).

major cash crop for the small plot owners, is turning out not less than six inches out of the seed.

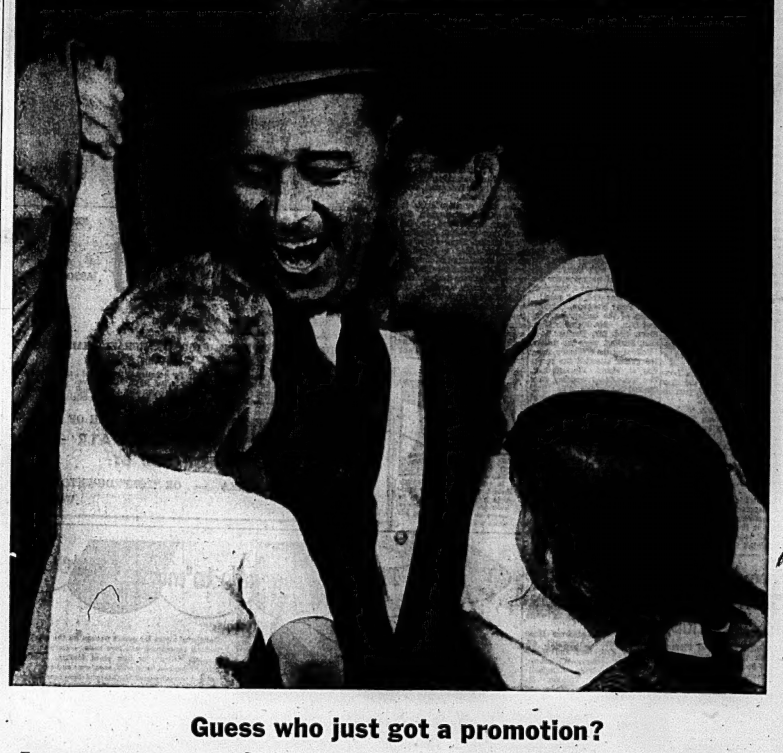
Without corn and beans there is no food. No cotton means no clothes, no oil for lanterns, and no shoes.

The people live in shacks built of boards, in abode huts, in thatched lean-tos, and in one room shanties made of sticks and mud.

When the crops die, as they are dying now, there is no way to re-seed the fields, because there is no more seed and no money to buy any.

The sick persons lie at home, where one well member of a family takes care of the others.

Doctors have been unable to attend to the health needs of the isolated farm villages because of great demands in the more populated areas.



Says Many Bakers Using Bad Practices

TORONTO (CP)—Low profits are forcing many bakers to use unethical practices to get business, W. G. McAdam, president of the national council of the baking industry, said Tuesday.

Such practices are more prevalent in Ontario, Quebec and Western Canada than at any time in the last 30 years, he told the annual meeting of the council.

Mr. McAdam, vice-president of Canada Bread Company Limited, Toronto, said these practices will cost the industry immeasurable public confidence if they are not corrected soon.

He cited bribing customers by offering to arrange golf-club memberships, offering to pay retailers to put products in a favored location, giving restaurants free baked goods for a week or so under the label of "samples" and undercutting competition by offering large quantities at unusually low prices.

Guess who just got a promotion?

FROM THE WELCOME he's getting, you can see the whole family is happy about it. And why not? They know he's worked hard and deserves it.

Promotions like this, steady employment and 60,000 new jobs for those coming onto the labour force each year, are the aims of the Ontario Trade Crusade. The Trade Crusade is a program involving Government, industry and the people of Ontario working together for a higher standard of living and greater prosperity for all.

Your part in the Ontario Trade Crusade. Every time you make a purchase or influence a money-spending decision, you can ensure that jobs and opportunities will be created for Canadians. How?—look for the product that is Made in Canada.

Canadian shoppers are the world's greatest importers. We each spend an average of $235 every year on imported manufactured goods. That's more than five times as much as our neighbours in the United States and considerably more than the import spending of the people of Britain or West Germany.

The Government of Ontario recognizes that some things have to be imported. But it suggests that whenever there is a Canadian product that is equal in quality and price to an imported one, your decision should favour the Canadian product.

If each one of us in Ontario would divert just $2 each week ($100 each year) from imports to the purchase of comparable Canadian goods, the results would be dramatic. 600,000,000 dollars would be available to create new manufacturing and to provide 60,000 new jobs and opportunities for the people of Ontario and Canada.

You can start to help now with every dollar you spend.

You, your family, your neighbours and Canada will benefit from the Ontario Trade Crusade. Its purpose is:

TO INCREASE EXPORTS (and therefore jobs)

Through Sales Opportunity Missions to Europe and the U.S. These missions have already stimulated or resulted in manufacturing rights and thousands of dollars in export orders.

Through new Ontario Trade Offices in the European Market, one in Milan, and one in Dusseldorf.

Through a Marketing Division of the Dept. of Economics and Development, established to help overseas agents to sell the goods of Ontario manufacturers.

TO INCREASE MANUFACTURING (and therefore jobs)

Through Manufacturing Opportunity Shows being held throughout Ontario, where Ontario manufacturers can quote on components that are presently imported.

Through new industry locating in Ontario with the assistance of the Dept. of Economics and Development. This means construction and manufacturing.

Through the Ontario Development Agency, the most comprehensive industrial development in North America. It offers managerial and technical aid, and financial assistance through guarantees of $100,000,000.

Vida Scott Tells of Lions' First Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — When Vida Scott went to work for the newly formed British Columbia Lions football team 10 years ago, she took along her own tools.

The club's first office was a third-floor walkup with cracks in the walls.

"The building had been condemned," Mrs. Scott says.

"But the office was all ours. We furnished it by donation only. I brought along my own typewriter, desk and chair. Somebody contributed a bench. Lighting was a problem until someone came up with a trilight lamp, slightly used.

"The effect may have been a bit garish, but it was our first home."

Today, with the Lions probably the most affluent club in Canadian football, the offices are in the heart of the financial district and relatively posh. There are seven employees in the office.

DECRIES FORMALITY

But Vida, who decries formality, clings to her distinction of being the oldest Lion—in point of service—in captivity. And during the home games she is the loudest lady in Section E, Row 19, of Empire Stadium.

"I didn't know much about football in the beginning. I don't know much about it now. But I know our players. They're my boys. I never had a son myself and only one daughter, so I've adopted the players."

How did it start? She was secretary to investment broker Art Mercer when he became first president of the Lions. He loaned her to the club on a permanent basis.

Last month, an airline honored her decade with the club by giving her a flight pass to anywhere in the world.

Vida, who gives her age as 39 but readily admits she subtracts a year each birthday, also admits things were fairly disorganized when the Lions began life.

She was considered for the post because of her experience in organizing the Victory Loan in the Vancouver area.

"Well," she says, "we won the war, didn't we?"

Farewell Gift Made By Card Club

DESERONTO—Miss Florence Gonyou who recently departed for Sudbury entertained the local card club of which she has been a member for some time. Before the games commenced the members of the club presented Florence with a delicate sterling pin and earring set as a farewell gift. Florence appropriately expressed her thanks to the members of the club for their thoughtfulness.

The weekly round of cards was then enjoyed and a very tasty and enjoyable lunch closed the festivities.

Weddings

KANE — TOMPKINS

STIRLING — Baskets of spring flowers and ferns made an appropriate setting for the double ring wedding at Wellman's United Church on Saturday, April 13th, of Jean Anne, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins, of Harold, to Mr. Douglas James Kane, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kane, Stirling. The guest ed by Mrs. Cecil Watson. The Kane, Stirling. The guest pews were designated with white bows. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher officiated at the ceremony.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Cralf Watson. The soloist, Mrs. James Pollock, sang "Give Me Your Hand" before the ceremony and "Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her full length gown of white taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodice with round neckline and a full skirt of unpressed plaits. A floral design of beads and sequins extended down the plain panel in front. The finger-tip veil of silk tulle was held in place with a halo of decorated with pearls and beads similar to those on the dress. Her only jewellery was a single strand of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Kenneth Rose, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, Miss Eleanore Bush, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Nan Tompkins, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The attendants were simil arly attired in emerald green, waltz length dresses of peau de soie, the skirts being full with a cross platted panel in front. The bodices were plain with short sleeves and round necklines. They wore matching mitts and headdresses designed with rosettes and hairlength veils. They also wore single strands of pearls and carried nosegays of white mums with centres of red roses.

The flower girl, little Miss Sharilyn Farrell, niece of the groom, was daintily attired in white nylon with matching accessories and wore a white lace cape. She carried a basket of white mums and red roses.

Mr. Peter Hessman, Oakville, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Mr. Kenneth Rose, Elora, and Mr. Dennis Hessman, Stirling, were the ushers.

Following the ceremony about 100 guests attended the reception at Mount Pleasant hall. The three-tiered wedding cake centred the bride's table. Tall white candles and the bridal bouquets completed the setting.

The bride's mother received, wearing a three-piece beige dress with gold colored hat and gloves and wore a corsage of Talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, attired in a gown of turquoise organza over printed silk with matching hat and gloves. She wore a corsage of white carnations, tinted turquoise.

The guests were invited to the bride's home to view the gifts.

Following the reception the happy couple left mid showers of confetti for a trip to Detroit and other western points. For travelling the bride chose a red wool knitted suit with white hat and gloves, black shoes and purse and a corsage of white carnations.

Guests attended from Hamilton, Toronto, Agincourt, Arlington, Frankford and Harrison, New Jersey; Warkworth, Stirling, Belleville, Campbellford, Oshawa, Trenton, St. Catharines, Lindsay, Madoc and Bannockburn. A cousin from England was in attendance.

The young couple will take up residence at 1202 Brimley Road, Scarboro.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

LET THEM EAT CAKE

I am ijellined to think that the ghost of Marie Antoinette must haunt Montreal's Style Square, where the majority of Canada's medium-priced fashions are made.

Just because the average Canadian woman likes good quality and will pay for it, when she can afford it, a stoney-hearted indifference to rising prices, prevails in the showrooms of many of Canada's wholesale fashion houses. (Make no mistake about it, prices are rising - no matter what the Dominion Bureau of Statistics tell us).

The values available today, in low to medium-priced fashions, are ridiculous, when compared with those of only five years ago. Let's be specific and talk about dresses from $10.98 to $19.98. It is now nearly impossible to buy a dress for $10.98, except a summer cotton or what used to be called a housedress. This does not apply to "sale" dresses, especially made and sold at a lower profit. I am talking about regular merchandise, carried in a range of colors and sizes. There are few fashion houses, these days, turning out dresses at $10.98, which, even by stretching the imagination, can be called fashionable.

RISING LABOR COSTS

Rising prices can partly be blamed on rising labor costs, something no person of good conscience can argue about. Fabulous fortunes are not made at the sewing machines in a wholesale dress company, in any country. Many of the materials used to produce a dress, even at this low price, must be imported. Even though the surcharges have been removed, there is still duty to be paid on imported buttons, zippers, belts, trims and, in some cases, even the actual fabric.

The same situation exists in the coat and suit markets, the millinery marts and in the small, but growing, Canadian glove market. These duties are sometimes added to royalties, paid by manufacturers, for what are called "franchise lines" ranges of fashions designed outside the country, usually in the United States. For the exclusive Canadian right to use these imported patterns and labels, a manufacturer will pay, either a yearly fee, or a royalty on each garment he makes. Many of these "franchise" designs are no better styled than our own domestic patterns created by either staff or free lance designers.

Recently, through our survey "How Much Do You Really Spend on Clothes" I have become aware of the increasing number of women who make most of their own clothes. This is their answer to over-priced ready-to-wear. The Canadian fashion manufacturer's answer to this growing trend to home dressmaking must be better workmanship, better fabrics and we sincerely hope, no more price increases.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers, care of The Ontario Intelligencer, Front St., Belleville, Ont.

Elegant Shirts for Men, Women Shown to Press

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Elegant shirts for men and women designed with Canadians in mind by the House of Dior were shown to the press Tuesday at a reception and fashion show. The shirts are manufactured by the John Forsyth Company Limited of Kitchener.

Male models ambled across the runway in the newest look in men's casual shirts in pure silks, cashmere and wool—and ranging in price from $10.95 to $55.00.

All men's shirts were worn outside the trousers. One was in basket-weave pure cashmere in natural camel shade, trimmed with gold-covered buttons. Dior is the only fashion house showing a cashmere shirt.

A pure wool shirt was in a heather and chocolate - cedar mixture with suede covered buttons and trim, and another in pure silk two-tone brown and blue check had covered cube buttons.

MADE OF SILK

Shirts for the ladies were in pure silk and ranged from abstract, avant-garde designs to demure stripes. A beige silk long-sleeved blouse was worn under a weskit and knicker suit in brown suede. Some of the silks were hand screen printed. One, worn with an at-home hostess skirt in fuchsia pink was white silk with a long-stemmed rose matching the skirt color appliqued diagonally across the front.

An after-ski duet came in gay 16th century shades of velvet—bright apricot for the lady's jacket shirt and burgundy red for the man. Both were worn outside ski pants.

Sancho Fernando Sanchez, who designed some of the numbers shown said he had never been in Canada, but had a good idea of the popularity of the "casual" life of North Americans.

An expert on accessories, the designer said bags and shoes were better matched—in the same texture and color. Gloves should be an immediate complement to the costume worn—but he didn't like them in colors which were "too striking."

Handbags, he said, should be primarily useful. "Women don't have to carry an enormous trunk"

Wants Two Wedding Rings

DORIS CLARE

DEAR DORIS—My wedding date is set for June. I plan on buying the groom a golden wedding band and would like a matching one myself. How do I tell him this?

I have a lovely engagement ring and will be getting the matching wedding ring. The set was very expensive, so am I silly in wanting a band?—ENGAGED.

DEAR ENGAGED—How much does this matter to you? Your fiance has selected your ring and will be paying for it. If you prefer matching gold bands you can only suggest this; and only if you know for sure that the other ring is returnable.

DEAR DORIS—My father recently told me to pack my bag and leave, which I did, because he and I could not live together much longer without something happening. I have enough money to pay for my room and board to the end of the school year.

My problem is this: I may have to quit school because I would not be able to pay for my room and board from next September to June. I was wondering if there were any grants made to cover such costs? I'll be working this summer but all I would make would not be enough.—BOY IN GRADE 10.

DEAR BOY—Star students are sometimes helped by service clubs. Then there are boarding homes where a husky young fellow can earn room and board for helping with handyman chores in his spare time. Your teacher or guidance counsellor can steer you—so don't drop out if you've got the grey matter to keep on.

DEAR DORIS—We were married 15 years ago. After three years my husband decided he married the wrong person saying I came from a stupid family (even though I have a niece who has finished university and a nephew in his first year).

I was very much hurt by this attitude and our marriage has been a strain ever since. I find it very hard to like him and do things for him. I've wanted to pack up anr leave several times but my son says some father is better than no father.

He pays for the room and board and for clothes very sparingly and begrudingly. I've got in with the wrong kind of man in business and has lost a considerable amount of money because of it; money we could have used to improve our living quarters. He takes so little interest in us. Could anything be done, or should I pack and leave?—T. M.

DEAR T. M.—What happened at the three-year mark to make his insulting judgment on you and yours? His own financial failures?

Some brothers are better than no fathers—and if your son is sticking up for his, he may have some virtues you hadn't noticed.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VERY SICK—Make a clean breast of it with your cousin. She is probably feeling just as guilty as you are.

DEAR DORIS—We have been married five years and have five children. We are both 28.

My husband is forever going out for a few minutes to return four hours or more later. As a rule he goes to the pool room and sometimes on parties. Here I sit.

Understand, Doris, he is good in every other way. I'm sure he doesn't go out on me. It just hurts to see my babies' faces pressed against the window waiting lots of times for him to come home from work and being so very disappointed when he doesn't come.

I have tried so many times to talk to him, only to be told —"I know I'm a cad, it won't happen again." It always does though.—HAD IT.

DEAR HAD IT—It's heartbreak to watch babies wait in vain for a Daddy who never comes. Aside from feeling deserted yourself.

I'd suspect this Daddy feels guilty about having produced five children so fast. Try giving more with him —about homey things like groceries, toys, child rearing. He needs to know his ideas are important.

Keep your balance by getting out yourself, regularly. If he won't baby sit for you, invest in a reliable baby sitter. There's a chance your guiltwanting husband will grow up.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DISGUSTED DAUGHTER: —Bear with your mother; her bitter words spring from her loneliness for you. Some parents hardly bring themselves to relinquish offspring in new lives in another country.

Keep your poise; write; send snaps of the kiddies. And how about offering to share the cost of a passage to visit you?

DEAR DORIS—My son is married for three and a half years to a very nice girl. We got along very well. I used to help them out with the children whenever they needed me.

Last fall she had an operation.' I looked after the children for two weeks. After she came home I went to see her and she told me that I was down her neck telling her how to bring up her children (which I never did.) Then we had a few words between us, and I left for home.

About a month later she wrote and apologized. I answered her letter and told her from now on I'll act like some other mothers-in-law I know. The other day she sent me two pretty cups and saucers.

Dear Doris, what should I do now? I still feel what she told me. It wasn't coming to me.—HURT.

DEAR HURT—Do you want her to grovel in the dust? Try to recognize an apology when you see one and patch it up. Otherwise you are paving the way for a grouchy, deserted old woman—you!

DEAR DORIS—When I was going out with a boy last summer, he asked me for a photo and I gave him one. An only print. Then we drifted apart, and by September were hardly aware of each other. I would now like the picture returned very much. How can I go about it in a proper manner and without hurting his feelings?—BELINDA.

DEAR BELINDA—No harm in asking. Say in a note that it was your only copy of that snap—and would he mind if you asked him for it back? If he says he wants it as a souvenir, say no more. It's his.

• • •

(Doris can give you a new slant on your dilemma. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Young Fashion

By ALICE ALDEN

The charm of childhood combined with the chic of adult fashions is the acme of delight for both mother and small daughter when it comes to choosing clothes.

Well aware of this, Claire Brooks takes a smart young view of the current sleeveless dress-plus-little-jacket fashion. Shown here, in interestingly textured white cotton knit, the sleeveless dress has a rounded neckline and softly gathered skirt; the little jacket, an unmistakable Chanel air.

Lawyer Has Advice for Today's Youth

VANCOUVER (CP) — Norma Christie says she couldn't marry the man she wanted and wouldn't marry the man who wanted her, so she stayed single.

"I'm glad I'm a spinster," she told the Vancouver branch of the Zonta Club, an international business and professional women's group.

Miss Christie, a criminal lawyer, has advice for today's youth: "Stay single while you're young."

"Get shackled early and you'll never see Hong Kong in the moonlight. Nor will that trip to Paris or Rome ever come true.

"Men marry young because the girls chase them relentlessly until they're pinned down."

A WREN officer in the navy's disciplinary branch during the Second World War, Miss Christie said she doesn't care at what age youngsters get married.

"But young men should have a serious look at the world before getting shackled to a woman."

Following her naval service Miss Christie spent five years in the department of external affairs information office in London.

A graduate of the University of Alberta, she graduated from University of British Columbia in 1954 and was admitted to the bar in 1955.

ST. MARK'S L.G.

DESERONTO — The Ladies Guild of St. Mark's Church held its recent April meeting at the parish hall.

Final plans for the Ball to be held by the Legion. Hall were made. A display of the materials purchased for the fall bazaar took the attention of the meeting for a period.

After the meeting closed lunch was served by Mrs. J. Soutter and Mrs. G. Waddingham.

The next meeting will be held in the Parish Hall on May 13th at 8.00 p.m.

Contrary to popular notion, the sea turtle does not weep while laying eggs on the land—its "tears" are a normal salt-secreting function.

Spring Best Time to Learn Art of Flower Arranging

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—If looking for a new hobby, spring is the best time to begin the delightful art of miniature flower arranging.

Materials for arrangements abound everywhere at this time of year, writes floral artist Lois Wilson in her recently published book Miniature Flower Arrangements and Plantings (Van Nostrand).

While walking through a familiar woods and in such unlikely places as ditches, railway banks and vacant lots, you will find beauty you never knew was there."

Breaking buds, fungi, mosses, lichens and toadstools of many varieties as well as the sedges and grasses of the fields and wet places can be used in arrangements.

Nor should herbs and vegetables be overlooked, says Mrs. Wilson.

"Dill makes the feliest of yellow and green flowery bouquet and parsley is a perfect green for foliage while the blades of chives make a bold line."

In the spring you can also choose plants for your garden which are suited to small-scale arranging such as sweet autumn clematis, miniature dahlias and marigolds. Heathers and alyssums will provide foliage for many months of the year.

ARRANGING IS ART

"Once having learned to look for miniature beauty, you learn to enhance it by arranging it well."

The tools can be taken right from your dressing table — tweezers, manicure scissors for pruning unsatisfiable material, a cuticle stick with a blunt end to press things into place, an eye dropper for watering and a fine mist sprayer for keeping the materials fresh.

Oasis or aquafoam can be used to support the flowers in living arrangements while sand, covered with wax when all parts of the piece are in place, will hold dry arrangements.

Containers, an integral part of the design, are easy to find and include such handy items as perfume bottles, inkwells, salt shakers, pill boxes, lipstick cases, buttons and seashells.

The most widely accepted measure of a miniature on this continent is a height and width of not more than five inches, writes Mrs. Wilson. In Great Britain the standard size is four inches while in Japan it is only two.

SCALE IMPORTANT

Scale is the primary consideration in this delicate art.

"One flower too large and the whole loses its essential quality. A container or an accessory not small enough dooms the finished picture right from the start."

Mrs. Wilson says the most common fault of both experienced and novice arrangers is the use of flowers too big for the total scale.

And depetalling a flower to make it smaller is not permitted by most experts in the field.

Simplicity is also essential. "Each twig, each flower must be arranged to add fullingly to the whole effect if the final design is to be good."

Mrs. Wilson, who has won many awards at flower shows for her imaginative work, uses miniatures only when they add beauty to their surroundings. She suggests they are best shown on special shelves.

During Last Few Years Nuns Have Made Some Changes in Their Dress

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

The life of the modern nun may include such untraditional tasks as driving a car, pounding a typewriter, or—perhaps not so new—keeping an eye on a school - yard full of energetic youngsters during a school recess.

Fashion has had to take note of this.

A Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press finds that during the last few years a number of Roman Catholic religious communities in this country have made subtle changes in their dress.

None of the changes has been radical enough to attract public attention but, say the sisters themselves, they have been of considerable practical importance.

Some orders, for example, have modified the veils on their head - dress to permit wider vision. The fuller veils made it difficult to see to right or left without turning sharply.

The Sisters of Charity, whose mother house is in Saint John, N.B., have adopted a white band and tight veil set farther back on the head for better vision when driving. Ordinarily, however, they still wear the white coif covered with a loose black veil.

A member of the order explained that the nuns' garb in the first place was not as extreme in the Maritimes as in some other parts of the world. A high head-dress was seldom seen.

Another order, the Sisters of the Child Jesus, now has a head-dress going back on the head, with a white band attached to the veil, instead of coming forward. Mother Dorothy, the order's mother provincial in Vancouver, said the old style impeded the view, especially when driving.

More widespread changes have included adoption of lighter materials and substitution of two-piece for one-piece habits. These changes are said to make the garments more comfortable and easier to clean.

NUNS' NEW LOOK — Cuffs have been streamlined and pleats modified in the new habit of Nuns. Billowy sleeves in the old mod to narrow cuffs in the new habit which also has a simpler head dress. (CP Photo)

MAY PREFER COATS

Sister St. Miriam said changes made by her order have included elimination of a large over-sleeve, shortening of skirts, and frequent substitution of coats for long winter capes.

Others among the 80 communities of nuns in Montreal "have made similar changes in the last four years or are at least considering them."

Mother Marie Laramee, assistant-general at the Grey Nuns' mother house in Montreal, said their order has made changes in its dress for reasons of hygiene, simplicity and time-saving.

The new habit consists of a blouse and jumper, which can be laundered more often, and detachable bib. The old dress, including its bib, was all of one piece.

Narrow sleeves, ending in tight, less cumbersome cuffs, were substituted for wide, bell-shaped sleeves. Wide sleeves were found to be particularly impractical for hospital work, Mother Laramee said.

SAVE NUNS' TIME

The new habit also has a simpler head-dress and fewer pleats.

She said it is simpler to make and to keep clean and thus saves time for more important work.

The same view was expressed by Sister St. Miriam, who said the modern nun is usually engaged in more classroom, hospital or office work than her predecessors and doesn't have much time for the upkeep of clothes.

A piece instead of one-piece habits is part of that image and of the whole tradition behind the community.

This feeling for tradition was possibly stronger in Quebec than elsewhere in Canada but, nevertheless, some changes had been made for practical reasons.

EACH ORDER DECIDES

The late Pope Pius XII suggested a decade ago that religious orders needed to adapt their clothing to modern conditions, but it was left up to the individual orders to decide whether or not to make changes.

Some orders decided against making changes and, said Archbishop M. C. O'Neill of Regina, "if they haven't changed by now, I doubt that they will."

Sister St. Miriam of the Congregation of Notre Dame, Montreal, said nuns resist fashion changes—however slight these may seem to the public—partly for economic reasons but partly also because of tradition.

She said a nun has an image of herself after living in a community for awhile and her garb include the Sacred Heart sisters and the Assumption sisters.

In each case final approval for changes has come from the mother house of the order, whether it be inside or outside Canada. Often the changes were initiated only after a wide survey of opinion within the community. The Grey Nuns, for example, made theirs at a meeting of the order's general chapter, attended by delegates from all provincial branches.

MAINLY OWN DESIGN

The orders have mostly designed their own habits, although sometimes in consultation with lay designers.

Rev. Edward Bader of the Catholic information centre in Toronto said changes in religious attire are "a much more flexible thing" than most people think.

By and large, religious orders were what was most suitable for their climate and conditions. Whenever changes were made, Other orders to adopt two-piece habits they were usually prompted by a need for more practical and serviceable dress.

As for priests, the Pope's suggestion that religious attire be adapted to the times had little relevance to English-speaking Canada. In almost every diocese it has long been customary for priests to wear suits in public and cassocks in church and in their own institutions.

In Quebec and some New Brunswick dioceses wearing of the cassock has been more general. The first formal break with tradition came in a decree of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger in June 1961 requiring priests in Montreal to wear a suit instead of cassock in public—But, in other dioceses public dress has been optional or the bishop has expressed a preference for the cassock.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

BE A WELL-SPOKEN DINNER GUEST

Dinner conversation sometimes becomes extremely difficult.

A neighbor of mine, not usually afflicted with indigestion dropped by yesterday morning for a glass of alkaliser which she said she needed, more than coffee, for an eye-opener as a result of a dinner party she went to the night before.

A squaring-are mother was among the guests and all during dinner she "regaled" everyone present with glowing accounts of her first-born, from his first purple in the morning to his last contented burp at night. No detail was overlooked and no one was permitted to get a word in edgewise, let alone change the topic of her one-woman conversation.

As my neighbor put it, "A wonderful steak dinner was ruined by an overdose of baby."

Actually an overdose of any topic can put a damper on dinner conversation with her immediate table is involved, one person often ends up holding the floor. For that reason, it's wise to converse mainly with partners on both sides, so that table-talk becomes a matter of give-and-take rather than an ordeal.

The hostess usually can enlighten a comic arrangement quite cleverly by concentrating her conversation with her immediate neighbors, while her husband does the same thing at his end. Those in-between enjoyably turn to one or the other of their dinner partners for conversational outlet.

GIVE EQUAL ATTENTION

Well-mannered guests try to give equal attention conversationally to right and left. One partner shouldn't be neglected to such an extent that the other is completely ignored. The hostess, as stage manager, should watch for such signals and be prepared to toss out a few ego lines whenever they're needed.

Actually, at most dinner parties, the conversation naturally breaks down into groups of twos and threes and flows evenly and agreeably with very little prompting. Almost any topic provoking. It's treated lightly and with good humor, makes delightful dinner fare.

Travel books, news events, the theatre, sports — all are subjects that arise naturally and are of mutual interest. Children and politics used to be taboo at the table, but, since everyone takes such a lively interest in both, they tend to crop up frequently. Debates on progressive education and what the "in" group is or is not accomplishing, as the case might be, are best thrashed out over a philosophical cup of coffee in the living room, however. Gossip about friends and deep business discussions also don't sit well with a good piece of roast beef. Courteous guests don't indulge in either.

Conversation that is pleasant, stimulating and easy-going is the best background for a dinner party and is a compliment to the hostess and her guests, alike.

Headline-Making Democrat Irks Republican Namesake

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Please tell me what to do. A certain man in town has exactly the same name as my husband — middle initial and all. This man is always getting his name in the newspaper.

Last year he was arrested twice for traffic violations. In January he was arrested for disorderly conduct. (He got into a fight with a motorist who took his parking place.) Last week he ran a personal ad saying he was not responsible for his wife's debts. Our friends are having a panic needling us and we are plenty burned up.

The newspaper prints his address, but we don't think it's enough. We are active Republicans and happen to know this man is a Democrat. Don't you feel the paper should be willing to identify him as "Mr. XYZ The Democrat" so there will be less confusion. In your opinion it's the least the paper can do to save us embarrassment. Please comment.—GOOD NAME RUINED.

DEAR RUINED—The address makes it clear to those who know you that your husband is not the XYZ referred to. Those who don't know you are not interested.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—My parents had a beautiful marriage for 34 years. On the date of their wedding anniversary my brothers and I always sent a gift and took the folks to dinner at the elegant hotel where their romance started. (Mom was a waitress there and Pop worked in the kitchen.)

Pop died five months ago. The anniversary date comes in a few weeks. Should we continue the practice of sending a gift? And should we take mom to dinner at the hotel, as we always have?

One of my brothers says we should carry on, as before. My other brother says we should let the day pass and do nothing. I don't know what would be best for mother so I'm writing for advice. What do you say?—NOT DECIDED.

DEAR NOT DECIDED—Don't send a gift to commemorate the anniversary of a marriage which has been terminated by death. And ignoring the date would not be wise either because you can be sure your mother will not be ignoring it.

Take her to dinner at a new place, somewhere she has never been before. Going back to the hotel without your father may be a very trying experience for her.

DEAR ANN—I'm 17 and dating a nice college freshman. My cousin Rosella, who is my age, has trouble getting dates. My mother keeps insisting that I fix her up. Rosella isn't very bright and I can see why she doesn't attract fellows.

Last weekend I asked my boy friend to get Rosella a date to a Campus Hop. He dug up some guy from Boston and it was all set. We were supposed to double, but they broke away toward the end of the evening and went on their own.

The next morning Rosella's mother called my mother and gave her an earful. She said Rosella got home at 4.00 a.m. dead drunk and her clothes in a mess. My aunt blames me for fixing her up with "a no good bum." I am sick about this because my mother and aunt say it's all my fault. Is it?—NO THANKS.

DEAR THANKS—A 17-year-old girl who has trouble with one of the simplest and shortest words in the English language should not be going out with boys.

You are not responsible for what happened to Rosella. Most boys will take whatever is offered plus whatever they can talk a girl into. From here on out let Rosella dig up her own dates.

BOTH IN LAW

Asparagus Sprouts In Springtime

by Mary Moore

No wonder asparagus is so popular. Botanically it belongs to the lily-of-the-valley-family. Culinary it belongs to epicures. Providentially it is food for reducers. Nutritionally it is very high in Vitamin A and has considerable amounts of calcium, phosphorous and iron.

May Day is a propitious one to vaunt the virtues of this vegetable.

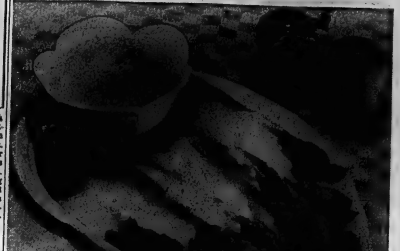
WEDNESDAY: (This is a reducer's menu — see Tuesday. For non-reducers add soup, and fig bars for dessert).

Dinner Menu

Top-Of-Stove Cheese Soufflé (see Tuesday) Green Pea Sauce (see Tuesday) Medium-Small Boiled Potatoes; Tomato Jelly Mould on Finely Shredded Cabbage; Rhubarb Sherbet (see Tuesday); Coffee.

ASPARAGUS — GENERAL RULES:

1) The obvious rule (and the one most frequently broken) is to undercook your asparagus. Do not cook it until it loses its bright greenness. When it reaches your plate it should be as green as it is in the garden before it is cut. 2) Wash, cut off hard stubs. Pare off some of the skin from remainder of bottom ends. Cut tips 4" long. Put less tender bottom pieces in small amount of boiling water and cook for 3 minutes, then add tips, cover and boil hard 2 or 3 minutes. Asparagus should be softly crisp. Drain. If to be served hot serve with melted butter or one of the following sauces.



HOT ASPARAGUS WITH SAUCES:

White: Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, stir in 3 tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Stir to blend. Stir in 1½ cups milk until thick. Cheese: To White Sauce add ¼ lb. process cheese or 1 cup grated cheese. Hollandaise: In heavy saucepan put 2 egg yolks. Add ½ cup cold butter and stir over low heat until butter is melted and mixture thickens. Meanwhile gradually be adding 3 tablespoons lemon juice and ½ teaspoon salt. As soon as these last 2 ingredients are added sauce has thickened, remove from heat and serve.

COLD ASPARAGUS WITH SAUCES:

NOTES:

These ideas are especially good for hostesses who are preparing beautiful buffet meals in the spring. If served cold, 2 lbs. cooked asparagus is sufficient to serve 8. Mayonnaise: Arrange in precise order on bed of leaf lettuce. Cover with broad band of mayonnaise. Strew with sieved hard-cooked egg yolks. Vinaigrette: One-half teaspoon each salt, sugar, dry mustard, paprika, 2-3 cup salad oil, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco, 1-3 cup vinegar (or mixed vinegar and lemon juice). Mix dry ingredients thoroughly; add oil and Tabasco and vinegar (and lemon juice if used) and shake well. Arrange cooked asparagus in colorful low bowl like a salad with two many spokes and pour Tabasco French Dressing over. This is at its best ice cold.

PREPARE STRIKE

MADRID (Reuters)—A Communist leaflet distributed to foreign reporters Tuesday said Communist policy in Spain following the execution of party leader Julian Grimau was to prepare a "political general strike." Communists also wanted to establish a common opposition front and a provisional government, it said. No indication was given of what form this would take nor was a strike date specified.

W. C. T. U. County Convention Held at Holloway St. Church

The W.C.T.U. county convention was held in Holloway St. United Church, Belleville, April 29th, beginning with an executive meeting at 10.00 a.m., the general session began at 11.00 a.m. Local presidents gave a brief summary of the year's work.

Mrs. L. G. Wilton of Wellington, led in the noonide prayer.

After a delicious luncheon provided by the church ladies, the afternoon session opened with Mrs. R. McCabe's welcome to the guests. An inspirational worship service, followed by a Memorial service for recent departed members was led by the Picton Unico, assisted by Mrs. S. F. Donahoo, of Salty.

Piano duets of "The Rosary," "Bells of St. Marys," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" were played by Mrs. V. Barkley and Mrs. W. Hubbs, later followed by a solo, "These Lovely Things," by Mrs. V. Barkley.

FILM SHOWN

An educational film entitled, "This is the Answer" was shown by Mrs. L. Trupp. It depicted high school graduation night and all the happy plans made by the parents for their young people. The young fellow man at the door stated that there had been a car accident and a boy and girl were dead, due to drunken driving.

The father, in his grief and rage that drinks were being served to minors, formed a citizens' group and invaded all the bars endeavoring to find the person who had served the young people with alcohol. He was a social drinker himself and in his despair, decided to have a drink at home to settle his nerves. In his liquor cabinet he found a note from his daughter saying she had taken a bottle from his private stock to celebrate with her friends and she hoped he would not mind. The father was one of those parents who felt the children should be raised in an atmosphere where they could learn that moderate drinking was not harmful.

Mrs. S. G. Way, of Tweed, gave a fascinating reading on the "Child Idly." Mrs. Trupp showed the second film entitled "One in 20,000." It was based on the life of a newspaper editor who smoked heavily while he was preparing his paper for publication. In an editorial he had advocated TB tests and when the canvas was in town, decided he should take his own advice and have an x-ray. A few days later, he received notification to see his local doctor regarding a spot on his lung. Further tests indicated cancer. He was sent to specialists in New Orleans who were fortunately able to remove the cancer with the one lung. It showed the operation in full detail and the black condition of the lungs of heavy smokers.

Mrs. E. V. C. Lewis, of Picton presented awards won by children who had written temperance essays and Mrs. C. McConkey, of Trenton and Miss Margaret Mitchell, of Newburgh gave reports on Conseon Children's Camp.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

Committee reports were given as follows; resolutions, Mrs. Head; plan of work, Mrs. George Finlay; finance, Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, who also brought in the nominating report for 1963 officers; past president, Mrs. Don Walbanks, Picton; president, Mrs. R. G. R.M.T. Association Holds Meeting In Carrying Place

The regular meeting of the Registered Music Teachers' Association was held at the home of Mrs. Earle MacKay, R. R. 1, Carrying Place, on the afternoon of April 26th.

The treasurer's report was read and the current expenses ratified.

Sister Mary Rosaria, convener of the present CJBQ piano scholarship series for Grades VII and VIII, in giving her report thanked the teachers for their co-operation and response to this project.

News items and pamphlets were distributed among the teachers in connection with CJBQ radio programs, the "Summer Course" being given by the Hockley Valley School of Fine Arts and Crafts, Glen Cross, Ontario. Special attention was drawn to a new music magazine entitled "Music Across Canada," copies of which were on display.

The highlight of the meeting was a report of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' 32nd annual convention, held at the Sheraton-Connaught Hotel in Hamilton, April 16th - 18th, by Mrs. E. MacKay, who was the official delegate from the Belleville branch. Her fine report was much appreciated, by all. Mrs. MacKay was thanked by the secretary, Mrs. T. F. Townsend.

Following this, an interesting discussion ensued on the benefits of conventions, and even greater interest was encouraged in these events, by the exchange of views and ideas among the teachers.

The president, Sister Mary Avila, thanked Mrs. MacKay, on behalf of those present, for her hospitality in the use of her home for the meeting.

After the meeting was adjourned, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Manly Macdonald Paintings Feature of May Spring Fair

This month the University Women's Club of Belleville and District for the 12th consecutive year, will present an exhibit of Manly Macdonald paintings in connection with their annual Spring Fair.

Mr. Macdonald first displayed his paintings at this event in 1945 and each year has donated a painting as a draw prize. Proceeds from this generous donation have always been used to provide scholarships for city and district high school graduates who plan to enter university in the fall.

The first scholarship was for $50, and this as the exhibit at the Spring Fair became more widely known, its value was increased to $100. Later a second scholarship of $100 named after Mr. Macdonald was added.

In 1962 during the presidency of Mrs. A. Lewis the amount of the scholarships was increased to $300 and this year a third scholarship of the same value, named after Mrs. Macdonald, will be awarded.

STARTED IN 1939

The local University Women's Club was inaugurated back in 1939 by Isa Mills Agnew and Sweney with Mrs. Precious as the first president. The main objective of the Club is the promotion of education through the provision of scholarships.

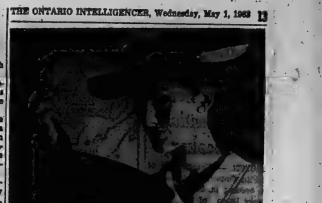
Originally there were 50 members but today the number has swelled to more than double that figure.

The Belleville branch is one of many clubs across Canada affiliated with the Canadian Federation of University Women which, in turn, is part of the International Federation of University Women.

Many of the present day members are charter members. They include Mrs. R. A. Pringle, Mrs. J. Haig, Miss Kris Grout and Mrs. A. Locke, all past presidents, and Miss Hazel Farley of Trenton, a past vice president.

Many universities across Canada and the United States are represented in the membership of the local club.

WANT REPRESENTED



Other universities represented are the University of South Africa, the University of Glasgow, Philippines Women's University in Manila and the University of Manchester.

Through these associates of other countries a rich background of knowledge is brought to local members and a better understanding of customs and human relations is achieved.

The club extends to all an invitation to attend this year's Spring Fair and to enjoy once again the Manly Macdonald exhibit. Tickets on the draw for painting will be available on the day of the Fair and tea. A home baking sale will also be featured.

Preparing Soil Most Essential Says Speaker

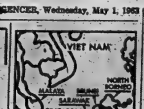
PICTON — The meeting of the Film Council was held Monday evening in the Chiffen's Library Room of the Picton Library. Mr. Armand had charge of the meeting in the absence of the president, Wayne Smith, and introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Ivan Bell, B.S.A., member of Ontario Institute of Professional Agrologists and associate fellow member of Mr. Armand's who also is a member of the Institute of Professional Agrologists. Mr. Bell graduated from the Ontario Agricultural College in 1951 and since 1960 has been agricultural representative for Prince Edward County.

Mr. Bell said that before farmers start their spring seeding the preparation of the soil was most essential and that cultivating, tilling, insecticides etc., should be done well before the spring seeding, if a good job was to be done. He said that soil erosion is taking its toll and that valuable top soil must be replaced; that heavy rains and wind wash the top soil away, but by the use of potash, nitrogen, phosphorus etc., the land will yield well again, if not neglected too long.

Three films were shown to illustrate Mr. Bell's talk, viz: deficiency symptoms, soil sampling and soil test. In the first film it showed the contrast between the healthy plant growth and the ones that lacked the necessary phosphates, potash, calcium, magnesium etc., and the vivid color of the film showed how the leaves curled up and turned yellow, with only a strip of green in the centre presenting a ragged appearance, this was worse in the tobacco plant, other plants like clover and alfalfa told of their deficiency by coverings of white spots all over. Soil sampling showed how to dig out enough soil and to dig in at least about 10 places, and not in the best spots of the field.

The soil test picture showed the samples of soil being packed in a tight box and then being tested in the Science Lab. at the College of Agriculture in Guelph by trained technicians and scientists. Mr. Bell said that crop rotation and more drainage would help to prevent erosion and that crops will suffocate if they do not have sufficient drainage. In the picture he deficiency symptoms we saw grapes shriveling up on the vine due to lack of sufficient potash and corn in a sad condition due to lack of ammonia and nitrogen.

SOIL SAMPLES



Farmers can send samples of soil to be tested by leaving same at The Agricultural Office on Elizabeth Street to be sent to Guelph and for this test no charge is made. He cited a case where a farmer did not get his test in early, so he decided to plant before the testing report got back and when it arrived he found out that if he had waited he'd had saved $30.

Mr. Bell urged farmers to take advantage of this free test of their soil in order to produce more and better quality produce and he gave some statistics on various plants and fruit, one of tomatoes, which Prince Edward farmers grow best of all and said that ten tons of tomatoes take out of the soil 100 pounds of nitrogen and 175 pounds of potash, so that, if only for the growing of this product the farmer should look well to his tomato fields.

Mrs. Kearney gave a vote of thanks to Mr. Bell for his interesting talk and films and said the only regretted that more people had not come to hear him, especially the farmers, whom she thought would have benefited by his talk.

MAY VISIT

LONDON (AP) — The British government is considering a state visit by Queen Elizabeth to West Germany — but its timing is likely to await West German Chancellor Adenauer's departure from office, authorities indicated, Monday. The New York Times has suggested the Queen will probably make the trip next fall. Buckingham Palace through a spokesman said there are no plans for the Queen to go to West Germany next fall.

TROOPS MOVE IN — Special British jungle troop reinforcements have been moved into Singapore amid rumors of possible communist-backed violence in opposition to the proposed Malaysian Federation.

The federation, scheduled to be set up in August, would unite Singapore, Malaya and the British territories of Sarawak, North Borneo and Brunei in a new, independent member of the Commonwealth.

power. There was no question of merely building transmission lines across Quebec province.

He said the power would be sold at the Quebec-Labrador boundary in Hydro-Quebec and integrated into the Quebec power grid. Hydro would "thus become owner of the power."

If there was a surplus, he said, it could be sold to the U.S.

The pelletizing plant — for handling ore—is planned by Wabush Iron Ore Company.

Mr. Lesage indicated Wabush made an "initial decision" to build the $50,000,000 plant at Pointe Noire on the Quebec side of the border.

But there was apparently a change and now his government's expert on the boundary issue feels the site is on the Newfoundland side. He said he has "consistently continued steps" to have the plant built in Quebec.

NEW YORK INTERESTED

An interested party in the power issues is Consolidated Edison Company of New York which supplies electricity in much of the northeastern U.S. and New York City.

The company has entered negotiations to import whatever power is not consumed in Canada.

Mr. Smallwood returned to St. John's Monday from a trip to New York and Washington for undisclosed business and in an interview he described the proposed Hamilton Falls development as the "greatest industrial project" in Newfoundland's history and the greatest single hydro - electric project in the world.

He said the $1,500,000,000 project has a maximum production potential of 7,000,000 horsepower and the cost would be relatively cheap.

Contracts for construction, he said, are expected to be awarded this fall with work to start in the spring. It would take 10 years to build.

Few Women Will Admit Being Homely

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Not a thing will cheerfully admit he is homely, but few women will. . . . A study at Brooklyn College found the ladies tend to delude themselves about their own beauty. . . . Most thought they were far better-looking than did impartial observers.

Here's a good reason for taking care to see that your pet pooch is healthy: A dog can transmit more than a dozen ailments to man.

Tip to fishermen: One of the latest gadgets is a bell-cod blanket. . . . Made of absorbent cellulose, it helps keep a bucket of worms moist and lively.

INFLATION

Prosperity note: A marketing survey showed that the most popular U.S. grocer's tag today is 49 cents. . . . A decade ago it was only 25 cents.

Our quotable notables: "There is not the least use in preaching to anyone unless you chance to catch him ill." —Sydney Smith, English clergyman.

Totalitarian life: Red China now not only has thought police but also "smelling squads". . . . Made up of nosey cops whose job is to sniff the aroma of cooking meat. . . . They toss you in jail unless you can prove you didn't buy the meat on the black market.

Woman's work: A housewife, keeping house for just her husband and herself, washes more than 3,000 dishes annually — plus a countless number of cups, saucers and glasses.

TOUGH TALKING

Language lore: Do you find English difficult? . . . Euskara, the language of the Basques in Spain and France, has "consistently continued steps" to have the plant built in Quebec.

Cross-Canada Survey

University Enrolment Said Rising Faster Than Chances For Summer Employment

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's getting harder for university students to find summer jobs. Main reason appears to be that university enrolment is rising faster than opportunities for summer employment.

Indications are that many university students will find it hard to get a job this summer. Or, if they do find work, it may be for only part of the four months from spring exams to fall enrolment.

While the outlook varies, this seems to be the consensus of university placement officers, polled in April in a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press.

Many students are still scrambling for jobs to help them meet academic costs that average more than $360 a year for tuition in a general arts course, and more for courses like engineering and medicine. About $1,800 is needed by residents at most universities for room, board and tuition.

BORROWING LIKELY

"Many students will feel the financial squeeze during the coming academic year," says Bruce Wells, placement officer at the University of Western Ontario in London. "An increasing number of students will have to borrow funds to finance their education cost."

University students are finding some potential jobs grabbed off by high school students. Says one placement officer: "Employers prefer to hire high school students at $1 an hour rather than a university student at $1.50."

The tourist industry takes many university students. Hotels, summer camps and resorts all have openings for students but these jobs are filled quickly.

Hotel and camp pay ranges from less than $200 a month to more than $500, depending on the type of work, skills, location and experience. Resort workers earn less, but their meals and lodging are provided.

Students in specialized fields such as engineering, forestry, science and mathematics have a better chance of finding a job in their chosen field. But even here the situation varies across the country.

WATERLOO ENGINEERS SET

Best — set students are the trainee engineers of Ontario's University of Waterloo, where a co-operative program provides for alternating four-month periods in the classroom and in industry.

While some students are willing to take any kind of work—with an income target of at least $50 a week—there are a few who have specific ideas of what they want to do.

J. E. Andoff, director of student personnel services at Hamilton's McMaster University, reports that one student wants to be a summer pilot. Another, bitten by a go-north bug, signed on as deck hand on an Arctic supply ship.

REGIONAL OUTLOOKS

Here's the outlook by provinces as reported from the campuses:

Newfoundland: About 600 Memorial University students are seeking summer work. Placement officials said it was too early to say how many would succeed. Pay rates in the St. John's area were expected to run between $30 and $70 a week.

Nova Scotia: More than 2,500 students applied for summer jobs and about 700 were still seeking placement at mid-April. Average pay runs between $200 and $300 monthly, or about $60 a month plus room and board at Atlantic resorts.

New Brunswick: At least 500 of the 2,200 University of New Brunswick students were still job hunting at mid-April and some of these said prospects looked hopeless. While most of the forestry students were set, only about one-third of the engineering undergraduates reported success.

Prince Edward Island: Most students at Charlottetown's St. Dunstan's University find summer work in the tourist industry both in and outside the province. Many hold the same summer job from year to year, passing it on to an undergraduate friend at graduation.

SCARCE IN MONTREAL

Quebec: McGill University students, particularly girls and men in the earlier years, are having a hard time getting summer work in Montreal. However, Laval University students at Quebec report better luck. Emile Simard, director of the National University Placement Service, says 70 to 75 per cent of Laval's 7,000 students will be busy by mid-June and more will find work later.

Ontario: University of Toronto placement officer J. K. Bradford reported a few students lacked job prospects in mid-April "but we hope to have a job for nearly everybody by the end of exams" in May. But the reports were less encouraging at Sudbury's Laurentian University and at Western Ontario in London, where opportunities have been reduced because tobacco acreage on farms near London—normally a good summer job bank—has been cut 40 per cent this year.

Manitoba: Placement officials at University of Manitoba handle about 4,500 job applications, including bids from graduates seeking permanent work. But as usual there are more applicants than jobs.

Saskatchewan: University of Saskatchewan officials both in Saskatoon and Regina report the demand for students to fill summer jobs has been excellent.

Alberta: Construction work, offices and resorts in the Rockies offer job opportunities for University of Alberta students but many do not hire immediately after the spring examinations, causing many students to wait for a few weeks.

British Columbia: Most of the University of British Columbia's 12,000 students are looking for summer jobs, with forestry, fishing, mining, pulp and paper and summer resorts the major sources of work. John McLean, UBC director of personnel services, said some 2,000 students generally look for jobs and are forced to "mortgage their future" by borrowing next year's fees.

Camp News of Guards

PICTON — On 22nd and 23rd of April, Number 4 Company was exercised on "Improvisation". After receipt of a warning order this sub-unit marched to an assembly area in the South Bay training area. After a short rest of the tired "Foolies" this sub-unit was ordered forward to occupy a "Hide". The remainder of the exercise consisted of patrolling, moves into and out of battle positions and normal operations in the field. The welcome "cease fire" came at approximately 2 a.m. on Tuesday 23rd of April. The exercise lasted only 33 hours but in value and practical results the time spent was well worthwhile.

On the 24th and 25th of April the second "Improvisation" exercise was held for Number 3 Company. Slight variations were made in the exercise in case some "information had leaked out." Once again valuable lessons were learned.

TRACK AND FIELD

The inter-company meet will be held on the 24th of May this year. We expect quite a few interested visitors. All companies will, shortly, be sending in their teams down to a workable time. Then the serious training will begin.

BASKETBALL

The unit team is now part of a three way tie for first place in the Area Finals with the teams from the RCEME School and 1 Signals Unit. On Monday 29th of April, there was a draw to determine the team receiving the bye. The other two teams played a sudden death semi-final; the final and championship will be determined in a single game on Tuesday the 30th of April. Command finals will be held on 1st, 2nd and 3rd of May.

SOFTBALL

Just to keep readers posted in this sport, the following games were played recently:

Company vs 3 Coy, 7-4; 4 Company vs 5 Coy, 11-16.

The standings of the first two games in the inter-company league are Number Five and Two companies with 4 and 2 points respectively.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING

The team is continuing its practices under Captain HG Ball's direction every week-day afternoon. The Area competition will be held in Picton approximately the 19th of May and another competition will be held in Borden on the 18th of May.

CORPS OF DRUMS

This group will take part in the Sportsmen's Show parade and activities in Picton on the 3rd and 4th of May.

APPOINTMENT

Effective the 16th of April, Captain J. C. Hayter is the Adjutant of the First Battalion, The Canadian Guards. He replaces Captain R. R. Geddes who becomes the Acting Company Commander of Number One Company pending Major J. Fyrde's return to the unit after the Gagetown Concentration of this summer.

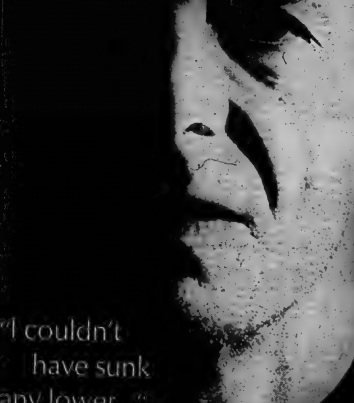
Egypt Lures This Soldier Again, and Yet Again

CAMP RAFAH, Egypt (CP)—Cpl. George Vital of Hull, Que., recently arrived here for his third one-year tour of duty with the United Nations Emergency Force.

Asked the inevitable question the 40-year-old electrician with No. 56 Canadian Infantry Workshop replied:

"I honestly don't know why. I was sitting having a cup of coffee and looking over the snow-covered sand at (Camp) Petawawa when I suddenly said to myself 'I'm going back to Egypt.'

"The same day I put in an application, a few weeks later I received my posting instructions and here I am. Four others with me volunteered but they are still back in Petawawa.



"As to why, I'm sure there's a reason if I looked deep enough. Perhaps it's because I like travelling."

Of his first tour, in 1958, Cpl. Vital said:

"I volunteered because it was something new and I enjoyed the posting. At the end of a year I swore I'd never come back but 14 months later I was on my way again. I had a good reason then. I didn't like where I was and it was the only way I could get out."

Cpl. Vital served with the Regiment de la Chaudiere in the Second World War and has done a two-year hitch with Canadian NATO brigade in West Germany.

Pharmacists Want Laws Prohibiting Chiropractors From Prescribing Drugs

QUEBEC (CP)—The College of Pharmacists of Quebec Tuesday suggested legislation to protect the public against the prescription of drugs by unqualified persons—namely chiropractors.

The suggestion came in a brief read to a canadian royal commission on chiropractics.

Georges Pelletier, president of the college, told Judge Gerard Lacroix that chiropractors don't rely entirely on spinal manipulation as a cure.

They also prescribe medicaments and some firms are manufacturing exclusively for chiropractors, he said.

Mr. Pelletier said pharmacists feel there should be legislation in Quebec to protect the public against prescriptions by persons lacking an adequate medical or pharmaceutical background.

ASK LIBERTY

The chiropractors earlier asked full liberty to practise and train in Quebec. Dr. Jean Larouche, president of the Quebec College of Chiropractics, said they should be given the same recognition as the medical profession.

Dr. Larouche said chiropractors had disciplined themselves while in Quebec for years, sometimes severely, without any legal obligation to do so.

Chiropractics students would work another five years, but quite like" norms, he said. An arts degree would be required for students enrolling in the four-year course leading to a degree of chiropractic.

Father Perland, legal adviser to the College of Chiropractors, said doctors who read briefs Monday supported their opposition to chiropractics with "falsehood and caricature."

He doubted the objectivity of the medical profession and said it had refused an invitation to visit a chiropractics clinic in the United States.

PUBLIC HAS RIGHT

Dr. Larocha asked objectivity in dealing with chiropractors and said the public has the right to consult the practitioner of its choice.

He said surveys showed at least half the ill would turn to chiropractors. One survey of 946 Canadian chiropractors showed among their patients 23,450 members of the clergy or of medical professions.

Dr. Paul Martin, director of the Quebec Association of Chiropractors, said few charistans hold bachelors' degrees. He was astonished at the criticism of the doctors in this regard.

Dr. Larocha said chiropractic students permit a "first and satisfying primary diagnosis" from which the chiropractor may treat the patient himself or refer him to another doctor.

The four days of hearings here ended with Judge Lacroix putting a series of questions for the expected answers when the hearings are held in Montreal June 20-21.

Just Matter of Time Before Duvalier Deposed in Haiti

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The threat of a Caribbean war between Haiti and the Dominican Republic has receded as Haitian President Francois Duvalier yielded to some Dominican demands.

The Organization of American States here is a fact - finding mission in the troubled area to find the root of the turmoil.

But United States authorities maintain this doesn't mean Duvalier's future now is secure. They anticipate that stronger, described in U.S. quarters as a "tyrannical" dictator, will be deposed, by force or another, and that the life of his despotic government will be short.

The land of the United States in the Dominican Republic's threat of war against Duvalier is the latter's hatred, between the two tiny countries on the Caribbean island of Hispaniola is deep enough to foment a death struggle without U.S. intervention but the U.S. has proclaimed it wants no part of Duvalier.

FAVORS DOMINICAN

U.S. sympathy is strongly on the Dominican side. And it is evident that if the Dominicans need help the U.S. would be glad to supply it.

It also is evident that having suffered a defeat in Cuba—the Fidel Castro still rules—a victory of sorts in the Caribbean would help restore U.S. prestige.

Now that a great deal of anti-Duvalier propaganda has been whipped to a keen edge in the United States where newspapers refer to him as a corrupt tyrant, it would reflect to the advantage of the U.S. administration if Duvalier were ousted. Clearly, the Negro leader is a marked man.

Yet he widespread is ignorance, poverty and illiteracy among the Haitians that the problem would become one of finding some democratic and enlightened politician who could extract sufficient popular appeal to exert effective leadership.

DUVALIER CONTRAST

What now is said about Duvalier is in contrast to his presidential inauguration as a country doctor who cured thousands of his countrymen of the yaws and other disease. He gained a great deal of popularity among the people.

He was loved and respected. But apparently power went to his head. He palace in time turned into a fortress and a palace guard and a civilian militia has been formed as a virtual army.

Some in the U.S. appear ready to settle for Haitian rule by a military junta as an alternative to Duvalier. But the fact is oppressive as Duvalier dictatorship.

But the argument in U.S. quarters is that the junta would be more responsive to public needs and that with increased U.S. aid, the Haitians may at least get some chance for a better life.

At the moment U.S. policy is to keep careful watch. There is a feeling in Washington the fact-finding mission will find Duvalier in the wrong and that widespread diplomatic isolation of his regime will result—just as it was started against the late Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo whose life was ended in assassination.

An OAS finding of guilt against Haiti likely will mark the beginning of the end for Duvalier.

3 Stowaways Found on Ship

MONTREAL (CP)—A hold of the United Arab Republic cargo vessel Salah - el - Din will be searched for a fourth stowaway before the detention of three Portuguese stowaways Tuesday in Quebec City.

"It is unlikely more stowaways will be found but a thorough search will be made before we make certain," Capt. Hassan el Hefnawy in Montreal said behind schedule.

He denied rumors that the trip taken off at Quebec City had been armed with machine-guns and that attempted to take over control of the vessel during severe storm off Cape Race on the southeast coast of Newfoundland.

The stowaways sneaked on board the Salah-el-Din at Rotterdam and emerged six days later during the storm, terrified and thirsty when their water ran out.

In Quebec City, immigration spokesmen said "they were just ordinary stowaways looking for a job and that's all." The three are being held under guard pending an immigration hearing today.

HILLBILLIES NAMED

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Beverly Hillbillies, already a top show in audience ratings, was nominated Tuesday for an Emmy as the best comedy program. Nominations for the 15th awards of the Television Academy disclosed that the CBS series was pitted against the Dick Van Dyke show, Candid Camera and the Jerry Kaye special with Lucille Ball in the comedy division.

Motor Vehicle Shipments up During March

OTTAWA (CP)—Shipments of Canadian-made motor vehicles rose 13.5 per cent in March to 52,524 units from 46,281 in the same month a year ago, the bureau of statistics said today.

In the first three months of the year, shipments advanced 25.1 per cent to 159,111 units from 127,227 in the first quarter of 1962. Gains of 97.3 per cent were posted in January and 26 per cent in February.

At the same time imports from the United States dropped sharply to 310 units from 1,944 in March a year ago. In the three-month period shipments from the U.S. fell to 1,020 units from 5,038.

Shipments of Canadian-made passenger cars increased 13.9 per cent in March to 43,330 units from 38,215 in the same month last year. They included 42,025 units for sale in Canada as against 37,118 a year earlier and 1,505 for export, up from 1,097 in March, 1962.

For the firs three months of the year shipments of Canadian-made passenger cars were up 24.9 per cent at 134,622 units compared with 107,822 a year earlier. The total for the domestic market rose to 130,191 units from 104,397 and for export to 4,431 from 3,355.

The agreement, signed with Local 247 of the International Hod Carriers (CLC), will raise the basic rate for laborers to $1.50 an hour from the previous $1.25 an hour. Other benefits in clude overtime pay after 44 hours a week.

Skilled laborers will receive an extra 10 cents over the basic rate, giving them $1.80 an hour. The contract expires April 30, 1964.

The men are working at the company's construction site at Du Pont of Canada's new plant and addition at Maitland seven miles east of Brockville.

Promise-Has Caused Stir on Capital Hill

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson has indicated he is not worried by press attention to his campaign promise to "do more of decision."

He has caused quite a stir on Parliament Hill, especially in the Press Gallery," he told publishers, editors and newspaper executives Tuesday night at the annual dinner of The Canadian Press.

"Every day that goes by is ticked off as one day of action gone by. I have even been asked whether there is an election.

"I have been told that members of the Press Gallery are keeping a close check on each day's developments, keeping a detailed record for posterity, I suppose.

"I understand they plan regular recapitulations — weekly, 10 days, after 30 days—with a full form chart to be published after 30 days of 'promises and errors,' especially errors."

Mr. Pearson said he is convinced that after 90 days there may be an idea that the government's job is done.

"This is not my intention."

Labor, Business, Govt. Asked to Stem Canada's Reliance on Foreign Capital

MONTREAL (CP) — N. R. Crump, CPR chairman and president, today called on Canadian labor, business and government for greater efforts to stem Canada's reliance on foreign capital.

He told shareholders at the company's annual meeting that the major economic problem Canada faces is the "serious imbalance" in international payments.

Canadians had imported more goods than they exported for seven of the last 10 years.

This—combined with foreign travel, interest and dividend payments—added up to a $10,000,000,000 deficit.

Foreign capital is not being borrowed because of Canada's rapid economic growth, Mr. Crump said.

"These last six years have not been created for rapid growth in either the economy or capital investment."

He urged greater business to seek "much higher and ever improving productivity" and to "make a conscious effort . . . to develop new products and new markets."

"Workers' wage demands should reflect "mature responsibility" and the Canadian government should "take full advantage . . . of forces working in the direction of free multilateralism."

MAY EMPHASIS

If Canada failed to meet the competition of other countries in world trade, "the result will be impairment in Canada's living standards, a continuing balance of payments problem and worsening unemployment."

He opposed said taxation by various levels of government "ultimately comes to rest upon the trade and commerce of the nation and . . . further impairs our ability to compete in the markets of the world."

Improvements in government efficiency and a fairer distribution of the tax burden were "highly desirable."

The CPR president said that, despite increased dependence on foreign capital, Canadians now hold the largest block of the company's voting strength for the first time in its history.

More than 37 per cent of CPR voting stock was held in Canada, compared with 31 per cent in the United Kingdom, 30 per cent in the United States and 10 per cent in other countries.

The Canadian holds held only about nine per cent.

Commission on Taxation Opens Hearings in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The royal commission on taxation opens a five - week hearing in Toronto today following a six-day Montreal sitting which indicated, not surprisingly, that what most people want from taxation is less of it.

Among other things heard in Montreal by the six - member royal commission were: That corporation taxes should be eliminated, that personal income tax be eliminated, that sales tax be eliminated, and that fuel and resources taxes replace them with other tax.

And the 18 briefs presented in Montreal represent only a small start. The commission is due to receive at least 300 by June 30 and it will be holding sessions, off and on, in various cities until the end of the year.

Included in the commission's terms of reference is the stipulation that recommendations must provide for a sufficient flow of revenues from that eliminates any wholesale cuts, without alternate sources of government income. Only a small proportion of the briefs presented so far offered proposals regarding taxes collected through the elimination of their most disliked targets.

Only two of the briefs dealt almost exclusively with raising additional money, and both the Federated Council of Sales Finance Companies and the Canadian Underwriters' Association said it should come from cooperative type organizations. The finance companies argued in favor of corporation taxes on credit unions while the underwriters' association wanted mutual insurance companies to shoulder a bigger slice of the tax burden. It also favored a tax on type organizations were in direct competition with them.

The brief that appeared to have the most impact came from Frank S. Capon, vice-president of Du Pont of Canada and a chartered accountant, who appeared as a private citizen. He offered a package system of eliminating corporation taxes, heavily taxing accumulated profits and thereby forcing more investment control back into the hands of average Canadians.

Among big companies were paying a 50-per-cent corporation tax on their incomes, he said it resulted in lavish spending, industrial inefficiency and "astronomical" salaries. Unless more Canadians took part in capital investment "our people will have to rely more and more on socialistic handouts."

Two Lake Ships In Difficulty In Gale Winds

DETROIT (AP) — Gale and whole gale winds hampered rescue efforts on the Great Lakes at opposite ends sides of Michigan Tuesday night. Two vessels were aircrews in turbulent seas. They were undergoing repairs today.

But, there was no sign of life aboard a boat that crashed in Lake Michigan under the force of winds up to 73 miles an hour, crew members of a U.S. Coast Guard search plane said.

The 25-foot cruiser was found awash, with about two feet of the bow above water, about 30 miles east of Port Washington, Wis.

Aboard the boat when it left Sheboygan, Wis., Sunday on a return trip to Ludington, Mich., were Albert Boertman, about 52, and Arthur Cramer, 48. Both are employees of a gravel products firm in Ludington. They were returning home from a weekend visit in Sheboygan.

The coast guard cutter Mesquite moved through stormy waters Tuesday in an attempt to take the cruiser in tow. Waves reached 20 feet, hampering the operation.

FIGHTS HIGH WAVES

In Lake Huron, the coast guard cutter Sundew battled the Canadian tanker Cape Transport aboard midnight. The 20-foot waves forced the ship six hours to reach the disabled tanker.

The Cape Transport reported that high waves had crushed its pilot house and washed away all electronic equipment. Only a radio was its only means of communication. It reported at 5 p.m. that it had lost its steering gear and direction finder.

A British motorship attempted to reach the vessel's aid but developed trouble itself and abandoned the mission.

The tanker reported it had been proceeding under an emergency steering means.

In Lake Michigan, the cruise ship South American was disabled when an engine gasket blew out.

The vessel kept up enough power to head into the wind and repairs were expected to be made once the waters calmed. The ship was en route from Winter Quarters at Holland, Mich., to Manitowoc, Wis., with a crew member aboard.

The coast guard cutter Woodbine headed to the area to assist the vessel.

A. F. Mercier Again to Head Canadian Press

TORONTO (CP)—A.F. Mercier of Quebec City was unanimously elected president of The Canadian Press by his fellow directors Tuesday.

John K. Stotz of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record was re-elected honorary president. Stuart Keate, Victoria Times, first vice-president, and Mr. Clair Mailhour, Winnipeg Tribune, second vice-president.

Mr. Mercier was chosen by the board after the annual meeting of members at which newspaper executives from coast to coast across Canada discussed affairs of the association, the news partnership formed with the country's daines exchange the flows of their areas and receive world news coverage. Mr. Mercier reported on the co-operative's operating position and Gillis Purcell reported to members on details of the news service.

The annual meeting elected nine directors to serve three year terms. By regions they are:

Atlantic: J. R. H. Sutherland, New Glasgow News.

French-Language: A-F. Mercier, Quebec Le Soleil.

Quebec: Walter O'Hearn, Montreal Star.

Ontario: L. H. Macdonald, Cornwall Standard. Frost-Bowden: Ronald Bonderich, Toronto Star; R. A. Farquharson, Leader-Post.

Alberta: St. Clair McCabe, Medicine Hat Times-Herald and Basil Dean, Edmonton Journal.

British Columbia: Stuart Keate, Victoria Times.

Nine directors elected last year continue in office: Jean Desruisseaux, Sherbrooke La Tribune, appointed by the board Monday to fill the unexpired term, completing the 19 man board.

215,000-Mile Rail System In United States Suffering From Starvation and Bloat

The nourishment on which it once thrived—freight and passenger revenues — increasingly has been gobbled up by trucks, cars and buses and by airplanes, barges and pipelines.

The industry's anemotoh physical plant and staggering costs haven't shrunk correspondingly even though half of its 1,400,000 employees of 1946 have been cut loose. That's where the bloat comes in.

In 1920, three of every four tons of inter-city freight moved on rails. This 74.3 per cent fell to 61.2 in 1940, 56.3 in 1950 and to about 43 per cent last year.

About 30 per cent of trackage carries just two per cent of rail freight.

MONEY DIDN'T HELP

More than $17,000,000,000 plowed into improvement and modernizing of rail plant since the Second World War brought striking advances in speed, reliability and efficiency of service but failed to halt the industry's decline.

Buses, which carried one-fourth as many inter-city passengers as the railroads in 1930, by 1962 ranked ahead in passenger traffic in 1962.

All is not rosy with other segments of transport.

Although air and truck lines rebounded a bit last year, about one third of the nation's for hire truck firms lost money in 1961 and the U.S. airlins industry lost $36,900,000 on $3,000,000,000 turnover.

Even last year, the airlines were outpolled in earnings nearly 100-fold by the hard-hit railroads, four to one by "poor relations."

All the blight afflicting rail transport have one thing in common, the railroads report in full, airplane, ship and truck certificate run half empty or lie idle in much of their time.

The pipeline, snaking underground and operating almost automatically, has emerged as the cross-country movement of vast volumes of petroleum products formally dispatched in rail, truck and barge tankers.

It's cheaper and more dependable.

In 1961, 18 per cent of all inter-city freight tonnage was carried by pipelines.

COMPETITION IS KEEN

No one disputes the railroad's primary in hauling tremendous tonnages of ore between inland points. But where water movement is an alternative, the issue becomes debatable or the advantage goes to the Great Lakes water carrier — perhaps the barge operator.

Some of the disputes that arise in situations where rail and bargemen or truck and railmen collide, each seeking the business, would test the wisdom of a Solomon, the patience of a Job.

Harried and overburdened government umpires do the best they can under ramshackle rules and procedures but the results sometimes are questionable.

President Kennedy recognized the problem in a 1962 plea to Congress for a transport overhaul.

He urged ironing the kinks out of a "chaotic patchwork of inconsistent and outmoded" legislation that stifles initiative.

Common carriers are required to charge rates which are high in relation to cost in order to "shield competing carriers," Kennedy said, all separately with the railroads in mind.

He referred to inequities that cost railroads nearly $2,000,000,000 a year in taxes and upkeep compared to their private-owned rights of way while barge, truck and air carriers, using facilities built with tax dollars, are not equally burdened—or pay virtually nothing, as in the case of inland water carriers.

The president's pivotal proposal would free railroads from minimum rate curbs on agricultural and fishery products and bulk commodities, a freedom long enjoyed by trucks on land and fishery products and by barges on bulk commodities except grain, chemicals and sugar. Fifty per cent of rail tonnage is in these categories.

Inter-American Peace Corps Studies Situation in Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The dispute between Haiti and the Dominican Republic marked time today while an inter-American peace corps studied the situation in the Haitian capital.

Haitian President Francois Duvalier told a cheering crowd of 10,000 Tuesday night "nobody has a right to worry. I am the personification of the Haitian nation.

"I will keep power," Duvalier declared. "God is on my side and who can take it from me."

Duvalier had just finished meeting with the members of the peace mission from the Organization of American States. They came to Port au Prince from Santa Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, where Foreign Minister Andres Freites charged that Duvalier had offered $1,000,000 to Communist Cuba, 50 miles away.

In Washington, state department officer Lincoln White said he was unaware of any such offer to Premier Fidel Castro. U.S. officials also said American forces patrolling the Caribbean would block any effort by Haiti to establish military bases in Haiti or send arms there.

MINOR NEWS

Duvalier's regime imposed censorship on outgoing news dispatches shortly after the OAS mission arrived here.

The U.S. government provided incidents last week involving U.S. Marines. The skirmish of a Marine sergeant was reported by Haiti's Haitian guard and a note of protest was set off at the home of another Marine sergeant. The sergeant's wife was held for 3½ hours, then released.

The United States also protested a fiery anti - American speech made by Duvalier's personal physician, Dr. Jacques Fourcand, pistol-packing president of the Haitian Red Cross. The United States has a claim for discrimination against Negroes and hinted U.S. funds were backing anti - Duvalier forces.

Duvalier asked the U.S. Embassy Friday to withdraw the 60-man Marine mission sent here to train Haitian army troops. He revoked the training agreement, indicating he considered the mission was involved in an alleged plot by army officers to overthrow him. The Embassy has denied any such involvement but said it would withdraw the mission.

WITHDRAWAL BEGINS

Tanks which had been stationed alongside the presidential palace were withdrawn and Haitian army units were ordered to guard embassies where about 100 refugees of Duvalier have taken refuge.

The flight into the Dominican Embassy of these refugees sparked the crisis that developed over the weekend between Haiti and the Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola.

The Dominicans charged that Haitian troops invaded their embassy in search of the refugees. Dominican President Juan Bosch threatened to use force unless the troops were withdrawn. He prepared his army and navy for action. Haiti moved its guards to positions across the street from the embassy and removed its troops.

Haiti also broke diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic. Haiti said that the Dominican Embassy personnel would not leave Port au Prince until the refugees in the embassy were given safe conduct out of the country.

BEN'T THE STRANGLER

BOSTON (AP)—A man accused of forcing his way into a back bay apartment at gunpoint Sunday night, robbing three girls of cash and raping one of them was cleared Tuesday in connection with eight unsolved stranglings of women in the last 18 months. Police said two women who may have seen the stranger could not recognize Leon Hardy, 38.

Work on Trans-Canada Highway in Newfoundland Will Be Pushed by Govt.

By STUART LAKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Work on the Newfoundland portion of the Trans-Canada Highway is expected to get a big push now that a Liberal government is in power in Ottawa.

Only about 200 miles of the province's 540 miles have been brought up to standards required by the 1949 legislation providing for construction of the national highway.

F. W. Rowe, Newfoundland minister of highways, says his province will rush to finish its route under a 90-10 cost-sharing plan promised by the federal Liberals when they were in opposition in Parliament.

Under the present federal-provincial agreement, Ottawa pays 50 per cent of the cost of the 4,900-mile road from St. John's, Nfld., to Victoria, in addition the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of the most difficult 10 per cent of each province's mileage. It bears the entire expense of construction through national parks.

FOUR FINISHED

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have completed their sections of the road. Other provinces are mostly engaged in bringing already-paved sections up to standard.

Exceptions are Quebec, which entered the agreement 11 years after most other provinces, and Newfoundland which was a special case in that most of its route stretches across difficult terrain and was entirely unpaved.

A plank in the Liberal party's 1958 federal election platform said the Atlantic provinces should be given special help in completing their portions. It proposed that the federal contribution in the area be 90 per cent. This stand was reiterated in Commons speeches by Lester Pearson, then Opposition leader.

Highways Minister Rowe says the Liberals have promised to make the 90-10 cost split retroactive to April 1. He adds that his province will rush to finish its work before the agreement expires at the end of this year.

AWAITED ELECTION

In addition to the 200 miles completed, Newfoundland has another 140 miles done except for paving. The province spent $2,000,000 in 1962 but made no firm spending plans for 1963 as it was awaiting the outcome of the federal election.

Only six miles of Quebec's 396 miles are up to standard but the province is expected to accelerate construction in order to get as much work as possible done this year while the federal-provincial agreement is in force.

Quebec will spend $33,000,000 to complete the route from the Ontario border to Montmagny, southeast of Quebec City. Included in this program is a tunnel-bridge crossing the St. Lawrence and a four-lane boulevard across the province when work is completed.

TWO LANES STANDARD

The provinces are responsible for the entire cost of anything beyond the standard required ment of a two-lane highway with broad shoulders.

Nova Scotia: With 119 of its 1,436 miles completed, the province will spend nearly $1,000,000 bringing the remainder up to standard.

New Brunswick: It has completed 209 of its 390 miles and another 22 are graded. Plans this year include 20 miles of paving and eight miles of grading at a cost of about $3,000,000.

Ontario: It has 1,490 of its 1,638 miles completed and expects to add 74 miles of standard road by the end of the year. Work will consist mainly of widening and repaving highway in the Kenora, Dryden, English River, Lakehead, Sault Ste. Marie and Madoc areas, 300 miles last year.

Saskatchewan: Work on its 406 miles was finished in 1957.

Alberta: Its 282 miles were completed in 1960.

British Columbia: It has 469 of its 532 miles completed, and the remaining 63 are in the final stages, with work consisting mainly of widening and improving existing paved roads.

One-Way Tickets Bring Dreary Life for Negroes Fleeing From Segregation

By IRISH DONNELLY

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly a year has passed since the first Negro left the south for the north on a one-way bus ticket supplied by southern segregationists. He was followed by more than 100 others, many of them children accompanying their parents.

What has become of them? To ask one truism has emerged:

The living isn't easy, north or south.

A dreary picture emerges, for the most part, from surveys in the cities to which the voluntary exiles went in search of a better life—Hyannis, Mass., near the summer home of President Kennedy; New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, Dayton, Ohio, and Chicago.

Any other result would have been astonishing, for the "reverse freedom riders" — the south's answer to the freedom riders — were ill prepared to cope with a high-cost area alien to them.

MANY GO BACK

Not all can be traced, but it was ascertained that many had returned here disillusioned and homesick. Some went on relief and are still receiving assistance. Some found jobs and are working out new lives for themselves and their families.

One of the first to come north was Louis Boyd, 41-year-old unemployed New Orleans longshoreman. With him on his arrival in New York on April 21, 1962, were his wife and eight children, ranging in age from three to 18 years.

"My wife and children were freezing," Boyd said in explaining why he had accepted an offer by the citizens council of New Orleans to send north any Negro who thought he might fare better there than in the south.

Things looked good at first for the Boyd family. The Travellers Aid Society placed them in a three-room, $23-a-day suite in the Wolcott Hotel in midManhattan for a weekend, and he promptly got a job.

But the firm which had employed him as a $100-a-week handyman was out of business within a month.

Boyd finally got another job at a small steel mill in Jersey City. He and his family live in a federal housing project.

Of six others who followed Boyd to New York City, at least two—Jonnie Fil, 31, and Morris Price, 20, returned to New Orleans less than two weeks after their arrival.

Another, Shelva Williams, 36, found a job in a grocery. There is no record of what happened to the others.

Nineteen went to Cape Cod. Of these, a mother and her family of 11 remain on public relief in Hyannis. She occasionally earns a little money when older children relieve her of family tasks on non-school days. One boy has a newspaper route.

Two young women and four children remain in Newburyport, Mass., to which they were sent from the cape for housing and public cars. The women are working and virtually self-sustaining.

Of the remainder sent to Cape Cod, the majority have wound up in Boston jobs.

It is known that at least four others have returned south and that five left seeking jobs outside New England.

GOT OUT FAST

One New Orleans Negro chose to try his luck in Philadelphia. He remained less than a week, then boarded a return train.

Archie Campbell of Macon, Ga., arrived in Detroit May 18 but returned to Georgia two days later on a bus ticket supplied by Ronnie Thompson, a jeweler in his hometown.

Three Louisiana Negroes chose Chicago, but one, Benie Moffett, 45, of New Orleans, returned there after nine days because he failed to find a job.

Another, Clifford Taylor, 25, a handyman who arrived with Moffett, stayed a while longer but dropped out of sight and didn't leave an address.

The third, Frank Hill, 43, of Shreveport, La., fared better and got a job as laborer with a contractor. When last heard from he was still working.

American Symphony Group Mixes Youth, Experience; They Teach Each Other

By MILES A. SMITH

NEW YORK (AP) — At 75, maestro Leopold Stokowski still carries a musical banner for youth and its future hopes.

And he has developed some ideas about the responsibility of cities and states in helping talented young people.

Still tremendously busy — building another orchestra, making guest appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra and others, reading manuscript scores that pour into his studio overlooking Central Park—the man who once formed an All American Youth Orchestra manages to find time to give encouragement to young musicians.

All this, while he keeps passing new milestones in a long career.

Recently, he went to Philadelphia for an anniversary concert, commemorating the 50th season since he made his debut there.

LOOKS TO FUTURE

But, in answering an interviewer's questions about the anniversary, he soon turned the subject aside.

"I would rather talk about the future," he said with a smile. "The past is something we no longer can do anything about."

He began talking about the American symphony, which under his leadership began giving concerts last fall.

"One-third of our players are the most talented youth from great music schools of New York, Boston, Rochester, Philadelphia and Baltimore — young people with tremendous talent," he said.

"For the remaining two-thirds we have the great, experienced free-lance players of New York, whom I know personally from making records for years.

"The young players learn from the experienced players, and the latter gain from the enthusiasm and vitality of the young people."

In connection with this project, he continually auditions young singers, young players and young conductors.

JUST HELP ALL

Then the talk turned to public support for youthful talent.

The Maestro turned his leonine profile toward the window—the flowing shock of hair is white now—and in gentle, measured words said:

"At the one extreme we have the very talented young people, and at the other we have those who are frustrated and disappointed — the delinquents. We must consider them both, because both will be helping to make the future.

"We should give opportunity to the talented youth, but also a friendly hand to the disappointed youth. I feel every city and state should take care of itself in these two responsibilities."

$3 Million Job Will Keep Pisa's Tower Leaning Right

PISA, Italy (AP)—The leaning Tower of Pisa will get a $3,200,000 foot lifting during the next four years — to keep the lean right where it is.

Engineers and geologists fear that otherwise the' tower, increasing its tilt by a quarter-inch every 10 years, may become the Toppling Tower by the year 2100.

Prof. Letterio Donato of the University of Pisa civil engineering faculty outlined an elaborate stabilization project at the end of a recent national hydraulic and geodetic convention here.

The plan is aimed at keeping the eight-storey white marble Tuscan tower permanently tipped 16 feet off centre—as it now is.

SOIL UNSTABLE

Donato made a series of subterranean soundings, with electronic equipment a few years ago. On the basis of those findings and further study by experts, the new program calls for:

1. Sinking, two huge steel screws into the unstable soil from opposite sides of the famous bell tower at a distance of 150 feet. The idea is to keep the ground perfectly still during successive stages.

2. Planting eight pneumatic caissons in an outer ring 185 feet from the tower at a depth of 36 feet below sea level. Each caisson will be 33 feet square.

3. Removing the old supporting soil under the tower as far out as the steel screens, taking out an accumulation of concrete and rubble shoved underneath during the centuries in an effort to stop the steadily-increasing lean.

4. Replacing the earth and building a new foundation under the tower according to modern techniques of substructural engineering.

BEND PLUS LEAN

The tower was begun in 1174 by Bonanno Pisano. When he saw his tower leaning dangerously he tried to correct the tilt by straightening the successive storeys. As a result the tower has a bend in it, as well as a lean.

The last three storeys, plus a belfry, were added in 1350 when the tower was already 10 feet off perpendicular.

Legend says that Galileo Galilei, most famous alumnus of the University of Pisa, climbed to the top and dropped objects off the downslope side to test his theories on the laws of free-falling objects.

The bells in the tower are never run, for fear of what their vibration might do. But more than 150,000 tourists annually climb about the tower, some of them nervously, after paying a fee equivalent to 16 cents.

Prominent Quebecers State Views on Place of Province In Canadian Confederation

The Canadian Press invited a number of prominent Quebecers to state their views on the role of their province in Confederation. The following story is based on their comments.

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

MONTREAL (CP)—Novelist Hugh MacLennan says he wishes English-speaking Canadians would stop looking upon Quebec as a "problem."

He says this attitude stems from the false idea that Canada is a "British" country, tied by nature to Britain, and that the aspirations and demands of Quebec's French-speaking population disturb this "natural" relationship.

French - Canadians are "exasperated" by the "slavishness" with which English-Canadians cling to the old notion that Canada is bound to develop as a British state, he adds.

"The British Empire is a thing of the past and the British fact is dead in this country. The French have been vindicated in their general view of Canada's future, namely, that there is no choice for this country but to accept its dual culture."

Professor MacLennan, who teaches English literature at McGill University, was among several prominent Quebec residents invited by The Canadian Press to state their views on the place of Quebec in Confederation.

LOOK TO GOVERNMENT

Historian Michel Brunet of the University of Montreal says "simple arithmetic" indicates that the French-speaking population will never enjoy practical equality with the English in federal affairs. In any conflict of interest, the will of the larger group would prevail.

"But the majority of Quebec's citizens regard themselves as a distinct people or nation, and Quebec is the only political entity in which this sense of identity can be expressed. Their collective ambitions therefore depend to a large degree on the power and competence of the Quebec government for fulfillment."

He says Premier Jean Lesage addressed himself to "this desire collectivity" in the 1962 provincial election campaign, virtually ignoring particular interest groups, "and it is mainly because of this collective approach that his government has won re-election."

Professor Brunet describes the Lesage program as "nationalist enough" to deprive the separatists of any fundamental quarrel with it. "They can only maintain that it will be impossible to fulfil this program without political autonomy; for them, the present government is a step on the way to independence."

PROVINCE RESTRICTED

A separatist spokesman, Marcel Chaput, director d'Allemagne, vice-president of Le Rassemblement pour l'Independeadance Nationale (National Independence Rally), says the Lesage government has launched a program of "creative nationalism," designed to make Quebec a more modern and stronger state.

It will never be able to complete this design, without full powers in economic planning, taxation, foreign trade, immigration, social security, money and credit, he declared. In short, it had to have the powers of a national rather than provincial government.

The role of economic planning in Quebec's future is also emphasized by Jean Marchand, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, but he expresses a belief that this future will be better if it is built in co-operation with the rest of Canada.

Separatism "isn't strong at the moment" but an atmosphere had to be created in which Canadians of either language could feel at home anywhere in the country.

STRESSES EDUCATION

Mr. Marchand says the importance of expropriating private electric power companies was exaggerated in the last provincial election campaign, giving rise to some hopes that it would make the province an industrial power overnight.

"This isn't going to happen quite that way. Our future can only be assured by long-term economic planning, taking into account all our human and material resources, and we can't be ready to get into serious planning of this kind for some years to come. We haven't enough people who would know what they are doing.

"Our attention at this stage must be focused on the domain of education, and I think the general trend is in the direction of constructive effort. The people are ready to make sacrifices for education."

Separatism is raised a stronger force by political scientist Leon Dion of Laval University, Quebec City, who says the only alternative to it is "positive nationalism."

"The provincial government should project throughout Canada an image of Quebec indicating strength, ability, capacity and efficiency."

SEPARATIST AT HEART

Abbe Gerard Dion, a priest who teaches at Laval, says 80 per cent of Quebec's French-speaking people are separatist in their feelings and, in a plebiscite, would vote against political independence "only for practical reasons."

He says separatism, as a political force, is strong enough to tempt "an opportunistic politician" into trying to exploit it but the Lesage government "defends the people . . . and in the long run will improve the situation." The late premier Maurice Duplessis "was nationalist only in word."

"I am a separatist at heart," Abbe Dion declares, "but I feel the general trend all over the world is toward co-operation. I feel that we should stay within Confederation, but we now are strong enough to put the other side on the spot."

Political scientist H. F. Quinn of Sir George Williams University, Montreal, says Quebec's French-speaking people haven't entirely lost their "defensive attitude" toward the rest of Canada but "they are conscious of growing strength and they are evolving into a society that will place more emphasis on aggressiveness and technical competence."

SEES RAPID PROGRESS

"If present trends continue, Quebec should move ahead of the other provinces in the next several years, particularly in the field of education. In fact, one of the most interesting trends is toward official stimulation, shall we say, of education and culture. The government is not merely saying it will offer help where needed, it is pressing universities and other cultural institutions to expand, to set their sights higher and higher."

Expressing similar optimism, Professor MacLennan says: "French Canada is clearly going to succeed as a culture. . . . French-Canadians have developed remarkably and, at present, they have superb leadership in this province. They are going to exist and they have never been in a stronger position than now to maintain their existence.

"The Lesage government is determined not to leave culture at the mercy of a mass, continental market."

TAXES ARE KEY

Striking a note of warning, Professor Quinn says the Lesage government "has full constitutional authority to do everything it says it wants to do but it does, of course, face a serious disparity in fiscal relations with Ottawa.

"The federal government got into the income tax field first and, now that Quebec is beginning to move and the provincial government is seeking the revenues to finance its ambitious program, it finds there isn't much left for it to take after Ottawa is finished."

The Lesage policy of expropriating private power companies was a partial answer to this problem. The province hoped to produce additional revenues by stimulating great industrial expansion.

"Mr. Lesage can't cut a bigger slice of the existing pie, not with the knife he has now, so he will have to try to bake a bigger pie unless—through new arrangements with Ottawa—he can get a new knife."

All Life of West St. Modeste Centres on Hillside Church

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

WEST ST. MODESTE, Labrador (CP)—The cross on the church of Our Lady of Labrador is its glow across the Straits of Belle Isle. Rimmed in floodlight lights, it is visible for miles.

It is the heart of West St. Modeste. All the community's economic, religious and social life centres on the hillside church. It stands bright and new, symbol of how much better a fisherman's life can be made.

By Labrador standards the 36 families in West St. Modeste and the 24 in nearby Pinware are prosperous. Although even today they seldom reach a level where they pay income tax, they earn enough to satisfy their basic needs and to have something left over. Not many years ago, they lived in constant debt and want.

How they have a co-operative factory that brings them a good price for their catch, and a co-operative store that supplies their needs at a fair price.

They have a 32-mile road—the only one of any substantial length on the entire Labrador coast—that links them with Pinware and Blanc Sablon.

TRAIN OWN TEACHERS

Their school is the only one in Labrador that has been able to train its own teachers and even export native Labradorians to teach in other settlements.

Nearly all the credit for getting these things belongs to Rev. Alphonse Maurice Tessier, a chubby, crew-cut French-Canadian priest.

Father Tessier's early interests were not in missionary work, although his order—the Roman Catholic Order of Oblates of Mary Immaculate—is best known for its missionary work.

He was first an administrator and historian for the order in Ottawa, then a chaplain with the Hull Regiment and the Royal 22nd Regiment overseas during the Second World War. In 1947 he was asked to go to Labrador for a year.

"It's been a long 'year,'" he remarked dryly.

LOOKS AHEAD

Father Tessier, now 61, is affable and sturdy as a man 20 years younger. He looks to the future.

"Oh yes, I am proud of the co-operative, the school and the road. But we are not stopping yet. This year we are going to start a caisse populaire." (The French term for credit union comes more easily off his tongue than the English.)

"It will be another step in the advancement of these people. You would not believe how far they have come."

When he first came to West St. Modeste, said Father Tessier, he found the fishermen at the mercy of the "summer merchants" who arrived in spring and left in the fall.

LIVED IN 'SLAVERY'

"Slavery is the only word to describe the system. Our people never saw money in their lives. They only knew they were in debt to the merchants in the spring, and when the merchants left in the fall they were still in debt.

"The merchants advanced them salt, nets and hooks, food and clothing, and they took the fish in payment. Our people never knew what fish prices should be—they only knew what the merchant allowed them for fish. The merchants set the prices for what was bought and what was sold.

"I didn't know anything about fish when I came, but I asked a lot of questions and I learned. I knew it had to stop."

PRICES HALVED

Today, canned soups that the summer merchants sold for 32 cents are sold for 16 cents—at a profit—by the co-operative.

The co-op store is open all winter. "I have seen times," Father Tessier recalled, "when after the merchants went our people had supplies only for a month or two. By March, they sometimes had nothing in the house but a little salt meat, some fish, flour, sugar and maybe tea. We have stopped that."

No one in St. Modeste now lives on the dole. Even non-members of the co-operative benefit from the lower prices at the store and from the higher prices the co-op commands for fish, which it sells under contract to a Halifax firm.

Getting the co-op going took five years of preparation. Father Tessier got the men talking about it by dropping into their homes and sitting around the kitchen, chatting.

'MEN ARE PROUD'

"Our people are not the type for big public meetings. They are too independent for that. I had to start informally."

When he thought the people were ready, he asked the Newfoundland government to send in an expert on co-operatives to make the basic plans. The co-op was launched, dealing at first only with the small salmon catch. Later it went into cod, then all fish. Membership grew, and the store was launched.

"The best thing about it has been the spirit," Father Tessier said. "The men now are proud. They are interested in life, and they discuss things. Not only is the price for fish better, but they catch more fish, and they cull them better. In the old days the fish were hot theirs, and so the men just dumped all sorts of undesirable fish on the merchants. Now they care. They work together."

With the co-op established, Father Tessier turned his attention to making communications easier. He urged the government to build a road, and he drew up a map for it.

CAN REACH HOSPITAL

"All I knew about surveying was what I learned in the Boy Scouts at Roberval," he laughed. (Roberval, Que., 110 miles north of Quebec City, is his home town.) "But they built the road."

Main advantage of the road is that sick people can be quickly transported to Blanc Sablon, where there is a well-equipped hospital. The Newfoundland government has an arrangement with the Quebec government to cover costs of treatment in Labrador.

Also at Blanc Sablon, one of West St. Modeste's future "exports" teachers is being trained. Five St Modeste girls are now are teaching in other settlements.

This is a big change from the days when the Anglican and Roman Catholic missions took turns sending in a teacher to West St. Modeste for alternate three-month terms. Classes up to Grade 11 now are taught, and Father Tessier has plans for a centralized high school that would bring in children from miles around.

Even the construction of his $35,000 church, presbytery and parish hall in West St. Modeste—to replace a ramshackle one in Pinware—was an education for Father Tessier's people. They were hired to help build it, and were taught better methods of construction.

His first attempt to build a church ended in a fire in 1926 that destroyed all the records, manuscripts and documents he had been collecting for 10 years, for a history of Labrador he has started all over again on this project, and the people help him by turning in any historic items they find.

History has inspired one small ambition in Father Tessier. He would like to have the community's name changed back to its original name of Modet. St. Modeste, which used to be across the bay, no longer exists so the "West" is superfluous.

"Modet was a Viking who settled in Normandy," he explains, "and the Norman town of St. Modet is named after him. This area was once the old French settlement of St. Modet, after the Norman name."

TO STAND 'OPEN' TRIAL

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Briton Greville Wynne, a 42-year-old London businessman charged with spying, will stand trial in open court and his wife can be present, Russia's authorities said Monday. A British embassy spokesman said the embassy was told Wynne's health is "good" following his arrest nearly six months ago.

Writer Tells of Changes Years Have Brought to His Haunts of Wartime Days

Canadian Press reporter Joseph MacSween was stationed in wartime Britain as a serviceman. Recently, he returned to take up residence again as a member of CP's London bureau editorial staff. In this story, he tells of the changes the years have brought to his haunts of the wartime days.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

MAIDENHEAD, England (CP)—A jet plane can carry you at landing speed back to the scenes of the past, but it can never overtake the flying years between.

So, anyway, it might seem if, as this Canadian did, you returned to this Thames-side city to look again—for the first time in 18 years—at the haunts of wartime days.

The girls, you would notice, are beautiful as always. But, alas, they're the daughters of the girls you knew.

No trouble, perhaps, in finding the favorite pub. You really couldn't forget that route down York Road—and to the left.

So you followed the well-worn path—and found a parking lot where you once quaffed ales-and-bitter, bawled bawdy songs and shot darts with the best of them.

"My dear chap, you're talking about Stonehenge matters," an elderly gent replied when asked what in heaven's name had happened to the old institution. "The proprietor of the public house left 13 years ago."

STONEHENGE GONE

Commiserating, he added: "Come along and have a pint at the Albion. All is not lost—not quite."

This glum philosopher then set about demolishing the no-change image of Britain so firmly entertained by some Canadians, including this one.

"Men of our Guards regiments are running off absent for trivial reasons," he muttered. "Our Beefeaters went on strike. Film - flam television satirists are spoofing royalty and the Church of England.

"What can you call beatniks are able to penetrate our nuclear defence secrets. The Irishman (President Kennedy) and the Frenchman (President de Gaulle) are making monkeys of us. It's even talk that the beer is being watered . . .

"The Thames is still there and you'll notice it's still raining outside. Otherwise, everything has changed."

A FATHER TYPE

Undaunted by this latter-day Jeremiah, you turn toward the much-loved hotel where in the era of Hitler's doodle-bugs and V-2s a group of Canadian and British ferry pilots had their meals at the home of Mrs. Lally Gay.

The once - bare shelves of Maidenhead stores are crammed with merchandise and expensive sports cars roar along the streets that were comparatively silent in wartime austerity. The old morte house—remember those queues? — is still there but it's a bingo emporium now.

"Remember me?"

"Let's get my glasses," said Mrs. Gay. "I think you're a voice from the past."

"Yes, it's Joe. Such a surprise! But Joe—you've become so Pepys-ified. How many children have you?"

Mental Health Week

By MATTHEW B. DYMOND, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

There are patients in Ontario mental hospitals, patients attending mental health clinics, patients in psychiatric wards of general hospitals and patients visiting their own psychiatrist or physician, all with some emotional or mental problem. This is going on fifty-two weeks of the year. But for one of those weeks attention is focused on the problems of mental health and of mental illness. This is Mental Health Week and it is now being observed for the seventh year all across Canada. The emphasis is not only on mental illness, and people sick in mental hospitals, but also on the promotion and safeguarding of good mental health in the community.

Are you curious about what goes on in a mental hospital? Have you ever thought about the men and women who are patients there? Have you ever wondered about the life they lead? the kind of treatment used to help them? the number of years they have been there and how soon they will recover? Have you ever considered a career in mental health as a psychiatrist, an attendant, a nurse or social worker?

Mental Health Week is a time when you can very easily find out about some of these things.

Mental hospitals and mental health clinics all hold open house during the week and during guided tours you have an opportunity to chat informally with patients and hospital staff. Perhaps you have already toured the hospital or clinic in your community. Doubtless there will be other ways in which you can participate in Mental Health Week. Film festivals, public meetings, workshops and other "come see, come learn" activities will be sponsored by local voluntary organizations and they deserve your attention and support.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

There will be some who feel that not only Mental Health Week but even mental health problems are of no significance to them. To the contrary, this is everybody's business and all of us in the community have an important role to play, to remove the stigma, the element of hushed secrecy from those afflicted with some mental illness and to be aware of the need for projects that promote positive mental health.

For some their involvement is very active. For example, those who work in the mental health field, dealing directly with patients as part of a medical team; or those who visit patients in mental hospitals as volunteers. For others participation is more passive, by being informed laymen through reading and being generally alert to the problem. Community attitudes have a significant bearing in matters of mental health. During Mental Health Week your Ontario Department of Health urges you to learn more about these matters in order to have better understanding the other fifty-one weeks of the year.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

There is nothing wrong with the Bay of Quinte Country Club that some added membership won't cure.

And this would be as good a year as any for those people who have watched the game from afar, so to speak, yet have a secret yen to get out there and knock that little white ball over rough, fairway and green, to get in on the all-round fun, social and course-wise.

The doorway of the 1963 season opens to a brand new era in the history of the club. The long-cherished dream of a fine eighteen-hole course has been realized. Quinte now rates with the best clubs of its kind in the district.

The "new nine" holes, which brings the status of the club to "man-size" offers excellent opportunities for fun, relaxation and what not on the part of the experienced golfer and a topflight teaching and learning area for those ready to take up the great summer pastime.

Add to this the new lounge and other club house facilities and you have the background of a sport made infinitely more pleasurable by the foresight of the club's present and past administrative bodies.

Now is as good a time as any to become associated with the club—and don't worry about whether you can learn the game. You cannot learn the game overnight, nor in a year. But you can have a barrel of fun learning, even if you're not nominated for the golfer most likely to succeed with a dozen lessons.

For every spring in almost every club of any importance there is a large number of "duffers" who have carried on with intestinal fortitude for years who try to recall sundry golfing advice given by their friends and others, and are ready to heave their clubs into the nearest ravine before the first spring session is over.

On the other hand, as a former professional once told me, if a student is willing to devote himself or herself to improving their game and take four or five lessons a week, it is possible to build a competent golfer in six months' time. With normal reactions, the pro said, the same student may break 90 within two years.

I recall a certain newspaperman who years ago felt he could improve another Bobby Jones or a Gene Sarazen. He forgot that the beginner must be a student before he comes a player and should understand the game and its component parts before any real course action is taken.

He teed up, took a few practice swings, admired his own form and stepped up to hit the ball. His second up, uncorked a tremendous drive, missed the ball by six inches and nearly strangled himself with a disjunctive follow-through. His partner did it Highland Fling before addressing the ball, missed it and wound up with both feet in the air. But we had a lot of fun.

A good pro has the remedy for those whose skill does not match their ardor and can build confidence and a correct swing in a comparatively short time. Golf is a difficult game to play well and the service of a professional are needed. But the tuition process can be painless and to those anxious to succeed, enjoyable.

The Bay of Quinte Country Club now has practically everything to offer in the new golfer. The ladies' section under president Ina Corbe has an increased membership and a social and games program that rates very highly. The men's division with club president George O'Brien at the helm also has an outstanding slate of summer activities.

It would be an excellent year to get in "on the golfing swim."

Boxer Puts The Bite On Foeman

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) It was obvious Argentina heavyweight Oscar Bonavena came literally and figuratively armed to the teeth for his Pan - American Games boxing match Tuesday night.

When Lee Wallace Carr bounced him to the canvas in the first round with a snappy right cross, Bonavena took the mandatory eight count, got up, dusted the resin off his seat — and promptly sank a mouthful of teeth into the American's right forearm.

He was disqualified. Aside from a bruised pugilistic dignity, Carr apparently suffered no ill effects from the bite.

Argos Plan Summer Camp

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League will open their rookie camp for Ontario at Exhibition Park June 9, Teddy Morris, director of Canadian football, said Tuesday.

Morris said some 20 players will attend the camp, which will last for five weeks.

Those who show to best advantage will be invited to attend Argos' pre-season training camp at Aurora, Ont., he said.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting—Julian Javier, Cardinals, homered in fifth inning for decisive run in 2-1 victory over Milwaukee that extended St. Louis' winning streak to four games.

Pitching—Curt Simmons, Cardinals, won his fourth without a loss, allowing only four hits in 2-1 triumph over Braves.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP)—Canadian soldier Fredrick Weller of Alliston, Ont., won the men's individual gymnastics championship and shared in a team silver medal Tuesday night as Canadians picked up four more medals at the Pan-American Games.

Weller's gold medal was the fifth for Canada so far.

The Canadian men's team won a silver for second place behind the United States while two Montreal boats picked up silver and a third-place bronze when results of the seven-day yachting regatta were announced.

Meanwhile, William Gairdner of Thornhill, Ont., and two hall-millers from British Columbia—Don Bertoia of Rossland and Sig Ohlemann of Vancouver—gave promise of more medals for Canada in today's track and field finals.

Weller, a 27-year-old German-born gymnast who has competed successfully in 35 championships in Canada and abroad since 1956, took the individual gold medal in the first finals of the gymnastic competition with a point score of 113.67.

U.S. WAS SECOND

Donald Tonry of the U.S. was second with 113.20 points and Jay Werner of the U.S. was third with 113.70.

The U.S. team won the gold medal with 568.56 points, compared with Canada's 555.47 picked up by Weller, Yvan Boisclair, St. Agathe des Monts, Que.; Roger Dion, Quebec City; Nino Marion, Windsor, Ont.; and Richard Mongeau, Montreal, Que. Cuba was third with 534.15.

The yachting silver was won by Argo III, with veteran Dr. Samuel MacDonald of Westmount, Que., at the helm. The U.S. finished third.

Brazil's three gold medals boosted its total to eight, second only to the United States which has amassed a whopping total of 68 golds, 51 silvers.

Canada has five golds, 15 silvers and 20 bronzes.

More medals may be added today as Gairdner, a husky all-round athlete, completes the second half of the gruelling 10-event decathlon and Bertoia and Ohlemann race in the final of the 800 metres.

Gairdner, 23-year-old University of Colorado student who holds the Canadian decathlon record of 6,307 points, was a close second behind Hector Thomas Martinez of Venezuela after Tuesday's five events.

He had scored a total of 3,213 points in the 100-metre dash, broad jump, shotput, high jump and 400 metres to stay within less than 100 points of Martinez, who had 3,982.

Russell Hodge of the United States was third with 3,784.

HAS FAST TIMES

Gairdner turned in the fastest time in the 400 metres and the second fastest in the 100 metres —48.8 and 11.0 seconds, respectively — and his showing in these two events helped keep him near the top. He finished forth in the broad jump and fifth in the shotput and fifth in the high jump.

Today, the 110-metre hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and 1,500-metre race complete the rugged event.

Bertoia, 23, a Washington State University graduate, turned in the fastest time of the qualifying heats n the 800 metres, finishing in 1:51.6.

Ohlemann, 23, working on his masters degree at the University of Oregon, wasn't pressed in his heat and won it easily in 1:55.0. Lieut. Ernie Cunliffe of the U.S. took the other heat in 1:53.0.

Two Canadian women runners were eliminated in preliminaries of the 200-metre sprint. Heather Campbell of Vancouver and Yvonne Saunders of North Vancouver were third in their heats, in which only the first two qualified.

BREAKS RECORD

Vivian Brown, 21, of the U.S. clipped three-tenths of a second off the games record in winning the second heat in 23.3 seconds.

In other activities, Tuesday, Canada's men's basketball team from Lethbridge, Alta., suffered its third loss in five starts as Peru triumphed 81-53. Canada dropped its fifth game in a row in water polo, losing 10-3 to the Argentine team the Canadians defeated in their first match.

Boxer Donald Harvey of Regina was eliminated from light middleweight division when he was outpointed by Leonardo Allonica of Cuba.

Two Canadian fencers, John Andru of Toronto and Peter Blackmail of Vancouver also were eliminated, losing in the men's individual sabre tournament.

League Confirms Douglas Award

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League confirmed Tuesday that Toronto defenceman Keni Douglas won the Calder Trophy as the outstanding rookie last season.

The league said, however, that his margin of victory over Detroit's Doug Barkley was even closer than originally announced.

The league statement was issued after Detroit Red Wings asked for a recount on the first announcement, which had Douglas winning by 100 points to 99 for Barkley.

The actual totals were 99.4 for Douglas and 99.2 for Barkley, the NHL said.

These totals were based on the results of voting after the first half of the season and the results after the second half.

RECEIVED 42.8

In the first half, Douglas received 42.8 points and Barkley 31.3. The NHL said these were rounded off to the nearest whole number—normal league procedure in avoid complicated public explanations. That left Douglas with an official total of 63 and Barkley with 31.

In the second half, Douglas had 36.8 points, which became an official 37 when taken to the nearest whole number, and Barkley 47.9, which became 48.

Added together, the results totalled 100 points, for Douglas and 99 for Barkley.

Adding confusion to the situation was the NHL admission that its official statement on the balloting reversed Barkley's totals, showing him with 48 points in the first half and 31 in the second. That slip up did not affect the standings, however.

The NHL explained that fractions were used in its calculations because not all NHL cities have the same number of voters.

Voting is done by hockey writers and broadcasters. But Toronto, for example, has 15 voters. New York has five. The other NHL centres have three. The Toronto and New York votes, therefore, are pro-rated so the total vote from those cities is the equivalent of three. That ensures all cities have equal say in naming trophy winners and all-star teams.

Noisier Than Brooklyn

The Dook Loves Mets Fans

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a little of the old Giant and a bit of the old Dodger fan in the vociferous disciples of the Mets this season, they'll have a volume and character all its own, says the veteran Duke Snider.

"I used to think the old Brooklyn crowds were the greatest. I still ever hear the graying old war horse of the National League added Tuesday. "Alongside these Met fans, those Dodger rooters might as well have been in Sunday school.

"Nowhere I've ever been—Los Angeles, Bingtyn, New York—have I seen a crowd that could generate as much enthusiasm for a sputtering noise as these people.

"I think they're wonderful," Snider, 16 years with the Dodgers before he shifted this year to the New York Mets' uniform, said he was amazed at the loyalty shown by the crowd Monday night when the third game of the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2 at the Polo Grounds.

"The weather was miserable-cold 51 degrees and windy —not more than 5,000 of them came out to the park," the 36-yearold outfielder said. "They would have stayed home and watched on television.

"No matter how punk you are or how poorly you play, they never sour on you," he added. "They're there to give you encouragement and a handful make a noise like a World Series crowd."

Hard Luck Follows Herb Score

Hard luck continues to pursue Herb Score in the minor leagues.

The onetime strikeout ace of the Cleveland Indians whose major league career was interrupted when he was hit over the eye by a line drive, lost to Richmond on his current team, Indianapolis, in a doubleheader in the International League Tuesday night. The scores of each game was 5-4. Rain washed out four other scheduled games.

Downing, first Richmond pitcher to go the route this season, scattered Indianapolis on 6 hits and blanked the Indians after Jim Hannan walked Gene Stephens tagged the Yankee's farmhand for a homer.

LASTS FOUR

Score, now owned by the Chicago White Sox, yielded three hits and walked four during his four-inning stint for Indianapolis.

Verle Tiefenthaler posted the first victory for Indianapolis in the nightcap when a pair of walks led to Richmond runs. Bob Lasher's downfall. Ken Berry homered in the second inning for the Virginians, and a walk, Don Buford's triple and a sacrifice fly by Roman Conde produced more Indianapolis runs in the third.

Tiefenthaler shut out the Virginians for six innings but stumbled in the seventh when Richmond rallied for two runs.

The mixed-up games were Arkansas at Syracuse, Atlanta at Toronto, Columbus at Buffalo and Jacksonville at Rochester.

Misses No-Hitter, But Beats Yanks

Angel With Good Wing

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ken McBride keeps setting up a rendezvous with fame but someone's always breaking the date.

The 27-year-old ace of the Los Angeles pitching staff flirted with a no-hitter again Tuesday night, but eventually needed ninth inning relief help before the Angels were able to subdue the New York Yankees and the reunited Mickey Mantle-Roger Maris combination 5-3.

Holding the Yankees hitless for 6 1-3 innings, McBride's second no-hit bid of the season was broken up with one out in the seventh inning when first baseman Joe Pepitone singled through the middle. To McBride, it was just another broken appointment.

The first came last year in August after the 6-foot-1 righthander won 10 consecutive games, pitched back - to - back shutouts and seemed headed for a possible 20-victory season with an 11-4 record. He wound up sidelined the last two months with a cracked rib.

WINS WILL FOLLOW! .....

Before the current American League season got underway, McBride said all he wanted was "to pitch a complete year. I'll take what comes after that. The Kitten Howard singled home another.

Then Fowler got out of the jam and preserved McBride's victory. Boyer fouled out and pinch hitter Dale Long lined one to Albie Pearson for a game ending doubleplay.

Billy Moran accounted for the first Los Angeles run with a homer off starter and loser Stan Williams. The Angels added another run in the fourth, then put it out of reach with a three-run fifth in which Leon Wagner's two-run single was the key hit.

LOWERS HIS ERA

Simmons, lowering his earned run average to 1.25 with his fourth complete game, was tagged for a first inning homer by Joe Reaves' Frank Bolling in the first inning, then had little difficulty until the eighth inning when pinch hitter Bob Uecker doubled.

Len Gabrielson followed with a single to right, but George Altman raced in and fired a strong, accurate throw that caught Uecker at the plate as he tried to come around with the tying run.

Julian Javier's fifth inning homer off starter and loser Danny Lazzaro proved to be the deciding run for the Cards.

Five Twins' doubles off the Orioles' Steve Barber gave Pascual an early 3-0 lead and he held on until Minnesota got it away, with a five-run burst in the eighth inning. Pascual drove in two of the runs with a single and Rich Rollins accounted for a pair with a double.

Pascual's shutout went in the sixth inning when Al Smith doubled and scored on Brooks Robinson's single.

Meet Niagara Falls on Thursday

Big Oil Kings Ready For Eastern Foes

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP) — Buster Brayshaw says his Edmonton Oil Kings are the best he's taken to the Memorial Cup junior hockey championship and the way fans are gobbling up tickets it appears he has a lot of believers.

Brayshaw, making a third consecutive attempt to bring Edmonton its first Canadian junior title, admits he's been grooming Oil Kings for three years to convert them to "the eastern style of play."

"This is the biggest club overall that I've taken to the finals. It has more weight because I've found that our light clubs in past years have run out of oomph as the season wears on.

"The larger club may take more time getting started but they have the staying power."

Oil Kings tangle with Niagara Falls Flyers in the best-of-seven Canadian final with the first game scheduled Thursday night. The second will be played Saturday. Remaining games will be played Monday, May 6, Tuesday, May 7, and if necessary, Thursday, May 9, Saturday, May 11, and Monday, May 13.

WIN CONVERTS

Oil Kings who have shown plenty of ability to throw their weight around during the last season and the playoffs, have won scores of converts and long lineups appeared Tuesday for tickets in the first two games.

Packed houses — Edmonton Gardens can squeeze in more than 8,500—are predicted for the first four games.

Included will be more than 30 Niagara Falls fans who will arrive this week by chartered flight and special cars on Canadian National Railways trains.

The Flyers were scheduled to arrive Saturday by plane. The West has won the title only seven times since 1940.

Brayshaw, who seldom goes out on the limb to say how a series will go, went beyond his normal caution Tuesday.

BEEN BUILDING

"We have been building this club for three years. I think we can play that same style of hockey as any eastern team.

"In the past they (eastern clubs) have come out on top by clutching and grabbing, playing the man and shooting the puck a lot.

"We play that way now, too. Any club that gets into a series with us now will know it as we can play as tough as anybody."

Oil Kings enter the series minus only one regular, forward Vince Downey, who suffered a knee injury in January.

A week's rest since Edmonton sidelined Brandon Wheat Kings in the Western final has helped other players shake injuries.

Beats Eight Three-Year-Olds

"Bonjour" Wins Derby Trials

By JOHN CHANDLEE
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Pierce Jacobs' Bonjour took the lead an eighth of a mile from the finish Tuesday and won the $26,200 Derby Trial Stakes by three-quarters of a length over Wheatley Hill Farm's Gray Pet. The Ambush Stable's On My Honor finished third in a field of eight three-year-olds eligible for the Kentucky Derby Saturday. A crowd of 11,700 watched the 36th running of the trial in 40-degree weather and saw Willie Shoemaker bring Bonjour up from third place to win the mile event without undue urging.

Bonjour, one of three California colts in the race, was the favorite and wagglemed it one minute, 36 3-5 seconds over a track called "good" after two days of rain.

Shoemaker, however, will not ride the New York-owned colt in the $125,000-added Derby at 1¼ miles Saturday. He will pilot the favored Candy Spots, and trainer John Jacobs, brother of the owner, said Ismael Valenzuela will be named to ride Bonjour son of Prince Khaled-Murier, W. by Nyrnie.

Manuel Ycaza, who rides Never Bend in the Derby, brought Russell Firestone Jr.'s Jet Traffic out of the gate first at the start with Gray Pet right alongside. Jockey Avelino Gomez sent Gray Pet in front after a few strides, but Jet Traffic came right back to take the lead as they went to the stirring pole.

JET LEADERS SCRAP

Shoemaker was content to allow the two leaders to scrap it out and midway down the backstretch Bonjour had taken a almost eight lengths.

Approaching the far turn, with about one-half mile to travel, Jet Traffic held a head lead as Gray Pet challenged on the outside. At that stage, Bonjour was beginning to close in.

Gray Pet showed his head in front as they turned for home with one-quarter of a mile to go and Jet Traffic began to show signs of wear and tear. Bonjour passed Jet Traffic and within a few more strides sailed past Gray Pet.

Meantime, On My Honor, winner of the California Derby, had rallied from eighth and last place and in the last few strides overhauled Jet Traffic for third place.

Bonjour returned $4.40, $2.00 and $2.40, and carried 123 pounds as did On My Honor and Jet Traffic. Gray Pet, with 116 pounds, was the third choice at 5-1 and paid $3.20 and $3.20. On My Honor, fourth choice at 8-1, was $3.80 to show.

Regains Vault Record

He called for meet officials to move the bar up 2¼ inches but failed in three tries at that height.

Pennel's pending world mark of 16 feet, four inches was eclipsed Saturday by University of Washington sophomore Brian Sternberg at the Penn Relays. Sternberg went an inch better. Highest vault in the world is 16 feet, 8¾ inches by Finland's Pentti Nikula. The mark was set in indoor competition and does not count as an official world standard.

Sport Snapshots

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP) — "Dit, Artoor (Arthur) to call coach Trimble all yours plain."

Coach Jim Trimble of the Montreal Alouettes hung up the telephone in his small office and shrugged his big shoulders.

"That's tuff French," he explained, a little hurt. "I'm trying to learn this language for my own personal satisfaction, not anyone else's. I wish I were more eloquent."

Trimble's French may not be eloquent, but the language he's employed to create a new Alouette image since coming to Montreal as coach last February certainly is.

Hardly a day or night passes when he isn't speaking to some group, in English, about the virtues of his new team, the city of Montreal, or Canada itself.

"The Als are a great ball club," he said in an interview, repeating some of the things he tells audiences. "The team is like Canada itself, a sleeping giant ready to burst."

NEW EXCITEMENT

Can he set them off?

"I think I can set off a little fire-cracker," he said matter-of-factly. "You just watch the repercussions."

There is a new spirit of excitement around the Alouette office on downtown Mountain Street, a vibrant expectation that can only be attributed to Trimble's huge affability and absorbing salesmanship.

The excitement reaches Montrealers, who look to 1963 as "the big year," as Grey cup.

Does Trimble think he can produce a Grey Cup team in his first year with Montreal?

"I'd be a poor coach if I didn't think so," he says. "To me every year is a big year."

Trimble plans some major changes in the Alouettes' style of play, rather than in the makeup of the team itself. He calls it changes "more in theory than in personnel." Lines will be revamped, and some of the club's highly-paid talent may find themselves expendable under Trimble's theoretical manoeuvering.

BUSY BUILDER

Trimble wants his team to be tough down the middle, and he is negotiating strenuously with a star National Football League quarterback to rival All-American Sandy Stephens, acquired by the Als last year from Minnesota. Trimble considers his NFL prospect a better passer than Stephens.

The Alouettes have two training-camp periods lined up at Joliette, 30 miles northeast of Montreal. The first, July 1-15, will be for aspiring Canadian or local players, while the second later in July will be the team's regular training camp.

Trimbe has been putting in 16 hours a day, alternating between football duties and supervising the building of his new six - room home in Hudson Heights, a semi-rural suburb.

His family—still in Hamilton where Trimble gained his greatest success in Canada as coach of the Tiger-Cats—spent a week with him here recently "and fell completely in love with Montreal."

ABLE SPOKESMAN

The banquet circuit—he considers the public relations effort is vital—continues to give Jungle Jim the forum he seeks to build the new look the Alouettes are acquiring.

Among the tidbits he drops to these audiences:

"The Alouettes can be an organ of solidarity in Quebec."

"Alouettes will start each game with four plans, a prime plan and a substitute for the first half, and the same pattern for the second half.

"If the quarterback doesn't stick to the plan, we'll take him out of there."

"Stephens should forget his little two-step shuffle before being tackled. If you run hard right at them, you might just hurt the tacklers rather than get hurt yourself."

Bears Nip Bisons To Even Series

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Clis Duff scored in a four-minute span in the third period to lead Hershey Bears to a 3-1 victory over Buffalo Bisons Tuesday night in the sixth game of the American Hockey League Calder Cup championship series.

The Hershey victory evened the best-of-seven series 3-3. The deciding game will be played tonight in Buffalo.

After two scoreless periods, Mortson found the range with a 10-foot backhand angle shot which eluded goalie Dennis Dejordy at 2:03.

Exactly four minutes later, Duff scored to put the Bears ahead 2-0. Less than two minutes later, defenseman Ian Cushenan drove a rising 35-foot shot at goalie Ed Chadwick. The puck struck Chadwick on the left shoulder and flipped into the cage.

Players Will Operate Ball Club

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A number of local players have banded together to field an entry this season in the Senior Inter-County Baseball League.

The players, staging a door-knocking, telephone ringing campaign, amassed sufficient funds in the last few days to make the entry possible.

The future of the team depends on public support, says Kerry Leitch, adding that the players themselves will operate the club.

"It's been proved in Brantford, Galt and Guelph that player-operated clubs can function properly and without major loss," comments league president Reid Buck of Galt. "With the drawing potential in London, I don't see how it can help but succeed."

This is news from Australia

An electronic impulse, flashing at the speed of light, brings news of a major news event from "down under" . . . and other distant places. As it arrives, the story is coded onto a tape that is duplicated by wire in newspaper offices across the country and fed into their typesetting machines.

You get the complete story—on the pages of your daily newspaper.

The Teletypesetter that prepares this tape is used by The Canadian Press, the clearing-house for news from within Canada and from the outside world. It's one of the many fascinating ways in which your daily newspaper gets you the news, swiftly and authoritatively.

Yet, there's still another important thing about the daily newspaper. Without it, the individual in the free world might still not know what is going on around him. He might still be oppressed by ignorance, exposed to rumors and half-truths—as are the citizens of those countries where there is no free press today.

Only in your daily newspaper do you get complete reports of the world around you. Keep abreast of all the news every day . . . in your daily newspaper.

Welter Title Won By Indian

LETHBRIDGE (CP) — Eddie First Rider of the Blood Indian Reserve near Cardston, Alta., won the Canadian welterweight boxing championship Tuesday night with a unanimous 12-round decision over defending champion Peter Schmidt of Toronto.

First Rider, who weighed 145½ pounds, opened a cut over Schmidt's eye in the fifth round and blood streamed from the wound through the remaining seven rounds of the fight before 2,800 fans. There were no knockdowns.

It was the ninth professional bout for First Rider, 24. He has won five, drawn three and lost one. For Schmidt, 30, who also weighed 145½, it was his eighth defeat in 40 fights. He has drawn three.

Schmidt gets a chance to regain his crown in a rematch called for in his contract. The return bout must be held within 60 days.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Cold, rainy Tour drivers injured in a six-horse Brandywine Raceway Monday night remained in Wilmington Memorial Hospital Tuesday.

Jack Boring, 50, of Harrington, Del., whose horse broke stride in the fourth race to start, the pile-up, stayed in hospital and was x-rayed for possible shoulder and pelvis fractures.

CAMPBELLEVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Cold windy weather struck southern Ontario Tuesday night, reducing the harness racing fans to 1,294.

But Ken Galbraith, undaunted by the frigid air, was the hottest item at the track, winning three races as he duplicated Monday night's feat by Keith Waples, who became the first driver in the province to notch three victories in one evening.

Edged out as Greenwood Raceway's leading driver on the final night at the east Toronto oval, Galbraith only had three horses entered for the nine - race program and he made each count.

RUSSIANS SKIP IT

LONDON (AP)—Russia's tennis stars will miss Wimbledon this year, the British Lawn Tennis Association said Tuesday. J. Eaton Griffith, chairman of the association committee organizing the women's new international team tournament in London June 17-20, said the Russians also had not entered it. He said this was because of a big sports meet in Russia this year.

Fisherman Find That Perch Have Moved to Deep Water

MONTREAL (CP) — It used to be worth while, despite the cold and necessity of heavy clothing, to fish through the ice for perch in the shallow waters around Montreal Island.

But the ice fishing in the 1957-58 season was the worst in half a century. Apparently the fish have moved into deeper water.

A small number of fishermen landed big catches in about 40 feet of water in Lake St. Louis, while those fishing close to shore gained only half-empty creels.

Outdoor columnist Ronald Poupart told of spending nearly all winter fishing in Dutton lake before striking a school of perch. "Fishing like mad" in 50 feet of water.

These experiences lend support to the findings of a United States survey team on Wisconsin. Using sonar gear, they tracked perch over a 24-hour period and discovered 50 per cent in water less than 25 feet deep.

LONG-TIME FAVORITE

Annual Ice Fishing Derby didn't learn about the deep-water theory, or test it, until the fall-end of the season when it was too late to remove the low catches. They have long relished the small, delectable pan fish, for which 10 inches is about the maximum length.

The over-all perch shortage affected both the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers, and Mississaqui Bay. Pickings were just as slim in the usually prolific waters around Cornwall, Ont.

Annals Bay on the Pervis in the west end of Montreal Island, where many ice fishermen congregate, is fairly shallow. Carillon Bay, another favorite spot, is only four or five feet deep, while the Mississaqui Bay water dips down to about 15 feet.

A provincial government report in February told how 138 fishermen spent 68 hours catching 131 perch.

"That was the general picture this year," said a government spokesman. One party of 15 fishermen got no fish at all.

VARIOUS CAUSES

The poor yield has also been blamed on heavy snowfalls, pollution and over-fishing in previous years.

Bait may have had something to do with it. In the large bay above Carillon fishermen using minnows instead of minnows got good catches.

The supply of perch in Montreal area waters had been considered inexhaustible. There has never been any size or numbers limit placed on the catch.

But now science is being employed to find answers to last winter's shortage.

Albert Courtemanche, chief provincial biologist in charge of the Montreal district, began a study of ice-fishing. His team of experts so far has discovered that perch mature more slowly in the Rigaud area than in Grand Anse and Lake St. Louis.

"But that's only a beginning," says Courtemanche.

Mets Top Twin Plays In Majors

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Mets may be flirting with the basement in the National League standings but they top both major leagues in double plays.

Just why isn't quite clear, but the Mets have completed 28 double plays, twice as many as New York Yankees and nearly three times as many as San Francisco Giants.

In case anyone has forgotten, these are the two teams who met in the World Series last fall.

Chicago White Sox, who last winter traded away Luis Aparicio to Baltimore Orioles, have completed only six double plays through games of Monday.

SCIENCE-FICTION THRILLER DUE TO OPEN HERE SOON

One of the highest rated science-fiction stories, "The Day of the Triffids" has been filmed in color and Cinemascope and will open Thursday at the Park theatre for its first Belleville and district showings.

The suspense-packed picturization of John Wyndham's best-selling novel stars Howard Keel and Nicole Maurey. Janette Scott and Kieron Moore also have top roles.

The fast-moving story tells of the horrible effects of a meteorite shower, its brilliance leaving most of the world's population blinded, and the threat made against civilization by the triffid, mysterious prolific, mobile plant which strikes out at humans with a lethal stinger.

The film opens in London which, like other great centres of population, experiences havoc and panic as the meteorite shower blazes through the sky, leaving in its wake hordes of unconscious humans, aircraft pilots and motor vehicle operators whose vehicles come to death-dealing crashes. The relatively few whose eyesight is spared are the almost insurmountable problems of caring for the stricken and finding a means of destroying the fast-growing triffid plants.

Keel, Miss Maurey, Miss Scott and Moore are among those who miraculously escape blindness. Keel, as an American seaman hospitalized in Falmouth at the time the meteorites flash with blinding brilliance, and Miss Maurey, a chatelaine, left to care for large numbers of the blinded until forced to flee for their own lives from the triffids. Unknown to them, a group of British engineers, aircraft pilots and motor vehicle operators whose vehicles come to death-dealing crashes. The relatively few whose eyesight is spared are the almost insurmountable problems of caring for the stricken and finding a means of destroying the fast-growing triffid plants.

Unknown to them, a group of British scientists (Miss Scott and Moore) labor in a lighthouse home-laboratory in an effort to find a way of destroying the man-killing plants that eventually begin to grow amidst the rocks on which the lighthouse stands.

An added action packed outdoor thrill of gold mining days, "Rider on a Dead Horse" stars John Vivyan, Bruce Gordon and Lisa Sa. Complete shows at 7.00 and 8.55 p.m.

Jayne Mansfield Secures Divorce In Mexico

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—Actress Jayne Mansfield, wearing a low-cut yellow dress, was granted a Mexican divorce on grounds of incompatibility from musician Mickey Hargitay.

Miss Mansfield, in testimony by night club entertainer Nelson Sardella, said:

"Mickey is a great man, I respect him but we just could not get along."

Sardella said he is engaged to Miss Mansfield. "We are very much in love."

Miss Mansfield was granted custody of the couple's children, Nikki, 2, and Zoltan, 1.

After the divorce, the actress told her lawyer, Javier Alvarez, "I'll see you in a year."

"Make it in three and I'll give you a discount," he replied.

Golden Emmy Awards Will Be Broadcast on May 26

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's equivalent of the motion picture "oscars" are the golden Emmy Awards, which will be presented to the winners in 30 categories during a 90-minute NBC broadcast May 26.

Meanwhile, the 6,000 members of the National Academy of Television Arts and sciences scattered through nine chapters across the country and in various television jobs will be casting their ballots for some of the 160 or more candidates.

The very nature of television suggests that the voters must have missed some or many of the programs and performances nominated for honors.

Unlike a motion picture, a television program usually is broadcast once and then vanishes, if not forever, at least until rerun time. It is logical to assume that many of the eligible voters had bridge dates, went bowling, dined fancy faces or watches programs on other networks when some of the selected programs had their exposure.

The two producers who signed Elizabeth Taylor for a CBS special next season have lined up Vincent Edwards of Ben Casey for a musical variety show next fall—and probably not even on his home network.

Recommended tonight: CBS reports, 7:30@:30 EDT—Walter Cronkite, news analyst and columnist, is interviewed on world affairs.

Venerable Stage Veteran Turns Hand to Villainy

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In Hollywood, Wm. Kindly Walter Brennan plays the most dastardly villain imaginable.

And he's catching hell from all sides, especially at home.

"My wife says grandpa McCoy should n't play such parts. I tell her: 'You're eating, darlin'" and that settles that argument.

And, he could add, eating well.

At 63, Walter Brennan is one of the most successful and richest actors in town. He lives on a 10-acre grapefruit ranch and commutes some 120 miles back and forth to work each day. His eldest son operates the Brennans' 12,000-acre ranch in Joseph, Ore. The Real McCoys has been renewed for the 4th season on television and Walter sells record albums like a bobby sox idol.

That's pretty good for a guy who can't sing a note," Brennan beams.

He's also in demand for top movie roles.

Brennan is something of a character. He's a charter member of Lakeside Golf Club, favorite links of Bob Hope, celebrity.

NOT EVEN DUFFER

He's managed there for more than 30 years," says Walter. "And I have yet to play my first game of golf."

He also does the greatest imitation of Sam Goldwyn in town. Walter, who made some of his best movies for Goldwyn, not only talks like Sam but can make himself look like him.

One day on the Goldwyn lot, Brennan called the makeup department.

The head makeup man, obviously expecting a call from the big boss, answered with: "Yes, Mr. Goldwyn."

"Now, you know," says Walter "that's all I need, a little of Goldwyn imitation and fired the first time I see the phone.

"Later, I wandered over to the department and there was the guy grinning because 'Goldwyn' had fired him. I explained that it wasn't Goldwyn, that it was me imitating Goldwyn. He wouldn't believe me.

"So there was only one thing to do. I went back to my dressing room, called the guy on the phone and, mimicking Sam, rehired the guy."

Oscar Winner, Rita Moreno Turns Back on Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Says Oscar winner Rita Moreno: "When I hear people say, 'the arrogance of this girl, turning her back on Hollywood,' I have to smirk."

Rita is smirking at the irony of it all: In the year since she won her Academy Award for West Side Story, Hollywood has not offered her a movie role she has considered worth taking.

For that reason she is planning a move to Europe.

"Oh, I've had offers for film roles," she added. "Latins. You know the kind I mean—spitfires know the kind I mean—spitfires, girls with wild tempers.

"Look—I don't mind playing a Latin. I am one. But I'm a girl with dark hair and large, flashing brown eyes. I don't expect to play a Debbie Reynolds or a Mary College. I wouldn't begin to know how to play Mrs. Doble Gillis.

"But there are all kinds of Latins. Anita in West Side Story was a Latin, and she had a temper. But she also had depth of character. I was proud I am offered don't.

"Rita Valez! She's the one who started this kind of Hollywood thinking. She never knew what to play. Latins were hard to face, following her."

HAS FIXED PURPOSE

By now you may have gathered that this actress is a woman of fixed purpose. True. Even though most Oscar winners strive to consolidate their boon by making more pictures, she has declared, for matters of principle. Her only forthcoming film is To Be a Man, which she was making in the Philippines with Van Heflin and Tommy MacArthur at the time of the awards last April.

That doesn't mean that Oscar hasn't proven golden to her. She has been her best earning year, thanks to other fields besides movies. She has made several appearances on television musicals, including an international revue she made with Van Johnson.

She toured summer theatres last year in 7 to Miracle Worker; she'll do it again this summer with Little Mary Sunshine. And she made her first trip to Europe to help open West Side Story in some cities and celebrate its first anniversary in others.

AT THE BELLE — Final Day—Fred MacMurray plays that wacky professor again in Walt Disney's "Son of Flubber" also starring are Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk. Comedy with fun and loaded with laughs. Starts tomorrow for 3 days. Complete shows at 7.00 and last times at the Belle Theatre.

Winter Fair To Be Held In Halifax

HALIFAX (CP)—After five years, Atlantic area livestock producers next fall will again have a showplace for their cattle.

The Atlantic Winter Fair, established with support of the City of Halifax, will fill a void left when the Maritime Winter Fair, a half-century-old exhibition, ended after fire destroyed its headquarters in Amherst, N.S.

A number of Maritime centres, including Halifax, negotiated with the Maritime Winter Fair backers to relocate. The attempts failed and Halifax went out on its own.

Don Oland, a Halifax businessman who spearheaded creation of the Atlantic fair and now is its president, says:

"Every major livestock group supports it. There are indications in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island farmers will enter and we are hopeful Newfoundland will follow."

PRECEDES ROYAL

The fair, aimed at stimulating interest in livestock production, will move into the city-owned forum and exhibition buildings, once occupied by the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition which has since moved to Truro.

When the first fair opens in November it will be timed to precede by a few days Toronto's Royal Winter Fair. This will give Maritime farmers a chance to show their best in Ontario after exhibiting here.

"We anticipate a healthy operating profit of between $10,000 and $20,000," Mr. Oland says. "The financial prospects look most encouraging because we have a potential customer capacity of 90,000 people."

The city has agreed to lay out $238,000 to renovate the exhibition buildings. The fair will run six days for the first few years and may later be extended. It will be primarily agricultural but will include industrial exhibitions, displays of arts and crafts and flowers, and a horse show.

Sees Nuclear Apocalypse In Custard-Pie Tradition

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — As Stanley Kubrick sees it, world leaders will go to their nuclear doom covered in custard and confusion.

The climax of his new film, Dr. Strangelove or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb, is a scene that the 34-year-old American director describes as "the definitive pie-throwing sequence in film history."

Kubrick believes nuclear war by accident is "entirely possible." The film deals with such a situation and plays it for laughs—nightmare comedy and apocalyptic slapstick.

"I've been living with this theme for three years," said Kubrick, interviewed on the set at Shepperton Studios just outside London.

"I decided that satire was the best way to put the point across. People are complacent. They trust the guys at the top and the experts with their finger on the missile button.

"But the United States president may be drunk when the red light flashes—it happens, you know. And air force generals can go-insane just like anybody else."

LEGAL CONFLICT SEEN

The film is a Kubrick elaboration on the book Red Alert, written by a former RAF officer, Peter George. It postulates an almost identical situation to the U.S. novel Fail-Safe, published about the same time, and a legal conflict between the authors is in the offing.

The plot, in a nutshell, is that a psychotic USAF general sends a wing of B-52 bombers irrevocably towards Russia. After all attempts to abort the mission have failed, the U.S. president picks up the hot line to Moscow and offers a swap of cities, to prevent all-out retaliation.

Unfortunately the deal cannot be made because the U.S.S.R. has just installed—but neglected to make public—a Doomsday mechanism. This ultimate deterrent is a network of subterranean cobalt bombs that will be triggered off by any nuclear attack and destroy the whole world.

The film's principal set is the legendary War Room seven floors beneath the Pentagon—a huge concrete bunker that officials have never admitted exists in reality.

PETER SELLERS FEATURED

The floor is shimmering black lacquite. Flickering electronic maps fill one sloping wall. In the centre 30 men sit round a splendid baize-green table toying with the destiny of the world. Their surroundings are awesome. The men are buffoons.

Kubrick has even gone to the trouble to reconstruct in section an entire B-52, the details of which are exact down to the knobs on the emergency hatches.

"I want people to realize that these rooms and planes actually exist," he said. "The characters are exaggerated but the settings are real."

Peter Sellers plays four roles. He is supported by George C. Scott and Sterling Hayden. Kubrick says he prepared Sellers into accepting the parts because "he's the best comedian available and the only actor I know who could portray the characters properly."

Three Canadians have minor parts. Jack Creeley, one of the Clap Hands cast, plays the president's assistant. Winnipeg's Gordon Tanner and Roy Stephens of Vancouver are two of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

TROUBLED COUNTRY — Fighting continues in Laos as the United States and other Western leaders continue their efforts to keep the strategic country neutral. There are rumors that the U.S. plans to build up strength in neighboring Thailand. (CP Newsmap)

Gamblers Join Forces To Lick Bettor's Disease

By MIKE GAVIN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A well-dressed man in his early 30s stood before a small group gathered in the basement of a church and calmly told of having fleeced his widowed mother out of the life savings she had "gathered a nickel at a time."

In a conversational tone he told of squandering the money in a poker game.

Next, a middle-aged businessman told of cheating customers and creditors to finance his unrequited love for roulette.

Still another said he forced his wife and child to exist on a diet of "red beans and rice" while he sat across the table eating the same things with enough money in his pocket for filet mignon.

"I couldn't touch my taw," he told the group and they nodded in mute agreement. The taw, in gambler's language, is betting capital.

As each speaker introduced himself he was given a warm round of applause, followed by another hand when he sat down after telling his story of "lies, loans and misery."

FORMED BY FAIR

The listeners were all familiar with the "three Ls" of the strange affliction called compulsive gambling.

This was a meeting of Gamblers Anonymous, an organization formed in Los Angeles—ironically on Friday the 13th of September, 1957—by two compulsive gamblers. On the verge of economic and moral bankruptcy, they joined forces to lick the bettor's disease that had them licked individually.

Since that time the organization has grown in membership to more than 500 members of some 60 groups spread throughout the United States.

The members, who come from all economic, racial and religious backgrounds, have one common bond—their uncontrollable desire to bet.

The compulsion to gamble is a little-understood malady that is perhaps best summed up by Dr. Edmund Bergler, who calls it "psychic masochism."

Dr. Bergler, author of The Psychology of Gambling, says compulsive gamblers have come to find a perverse pleasure in punishment.

WANT TO LOSE

In other words, while they think they want to win at gambling, actually they gamble to satisfy their deep-seated desire to lose.

The true compulsive gambler cannot quit any game a winner, Dr. Bergler said.

Most GA members come to their first meeting in answer to an ad in the personal column of a newspaper which asks "Do you have a gambling problem?"

The ads, telling where to go for further information, are financed by member contributions. There are no "dues-paying" members of GA.

A first cousin to Alcoholics Anonymous, GA depends for its success on a program which leads the compulsive gambler through three phases on the road to recovery.

First, he admits he is "powerless" over gambling. Through the help of others and much effort on his own part he next learns that while he cannot lick gambling alone, he can do it with the help of others. In the third, "mature" stage he shares his new strength with an "unreformed" gambler who has not yet learned that two hearts are better than one.

SCENE OF UNREST — Political unrest is bubbling in the Caribbean republic of Haiti amid rumors of a revolt. French-speaking Haiti, with a mostly-Negro population of 4,200,000, takes up the western third of the island of Hispaniola, with the Dominican Republic occupying the other two thirds. (CP Newsmap)

TALK PROGRAMMING

TORONTO (CP) — New programming concepts for the exchange of original Canadian-written and Canadian-produced radio material will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters which opens here today. Leroy Collins, president of the United States National Association of Broadcasters and Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of Canada's Board of Broadcast Governors, will be guest speakers.

Should Boost Canada Tourism

WINNIPEG (CP)—A French tourist official has suggested Canada would be wise to increase its publicity abroad to attract tourists to Canada.

Robert Hollier, director of the French government's tourist bureau in Montreal, said in an interview here that Canada has a lot to offer tourists from France. But the present tourist trade was one-sided in France's favor.

Last year, he said, 98,000 Canadians — about one-third of them French-speaking — visited France, while only about 2,000 tourists from France visited Canada.

He said he expects to see more tourists from France visiting Canada in the next few years as an increasing number of people in France can afford overseas holidays.

GUARDS ALLIGATOR

SURBITON, England (CP)—A car safety belt manufacturer has received an order for one to fit an alligator. The order came from Surrey reptile collector Capt. J. Edwards who takes a four-year-old South American alligator with him on lecture tours.

Real Pleasure of Living Comes From Small Joys

By HAL BOYLE

walk comments by a pavement Plato:

Most of the real pleasure of living comes from small joys that give you a big moment.

Such as:

Getting an abject apology from a bank after they make a 27 - cent clerical error in your savings account. . . . Opening a neighbor's letter by mistake and finding it's a love note from one of his old girl friends. . . . Finally paying off a 30-year mortgage in the house—before the roof falls in. . . .

Discovering the dentist wasn't lying when he told you that you could still enjoy corn on the cob with the new store teeth he installed. . . . Turning on a radio and hearing something by Mozart instead of a rock 'n' roll record. . . . Finding that you can again wear size 38 shorts instead of size 40. . . . Meeting a former high school classmate who was voted "boy most likely to succeed" and finding out you are making $12 more a week than he is. . . .

UNEXPECTED PRAISE

Watching children catch fireflies in a milk bottle on a summer night. . . . Having your wife give you an unexpected bit of praise, such as: "No other husband in the world quits the manly way you do, dear." . . . Hearing your daughter introduce you to a playmate—"and this is MY daddy, Judy"—in a tone that makes you feel like royalty.

Waiting for the alarm clock to go off—then realizing it's the first day of your vacation. . . . Testing the first strawberries of the season, and knowing it won't be too long before the watermelons will be ripe, too. . . . Being invited to the boss's home for dinner and finding they pick up chicken in their hands and eat it just like everybody else. . . .

Getting an unexpected $10 pay raise the week before you were stocking up your nerve to tell the big man you had to have five bucks more or you'd quit. . . . Having the barber tell you: "So help me Hannah, I believe it's growing back again."

Fraser Valley Honey of Spot

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia's Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island may become a major breeding ground for bees, if tests planned by an Ontario honey producer prove successful.

Canadian apiarists now import their bees from the United States, mainly Florida, California and Alabama.

D. H. Oldershaw, B.C.'s inspector of apiaries for Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island, says Vic Mealey of Kemptville, Ont., hopes to breed bees in southern B.C. and move them north in the spring.

Nuclei for building larger colonies in the Fort St. John and Dawson Creek area, they would be returned to southern B.C. each winter.

Mr. Oldershaw says Mr. Mealey hopes to set up 1,000 colonies in the northern Peace River district this spring.

If the plan is successful it will open up a new industry in packaged bees and nuclei.

Canadian bee keepers paid $257,300 for bees from the United States in 1962.

The Fraser Valley has become popular for wintering Peace River bee colonies because of its milder climate, Mr. Oldershaw says.

"Honey production in the valley is unpredictable and unsatisfactory. But the entire valley could become a breeding ground for bees to be sent into northern B.C."

TOP EARNER

In 1962 tourism was Britain's biggest earner of United States dollars.

Trent University's Opening Will Be Free of Confusion For It Will Lack Students

By ALAN WALKER

TORONTO (CP) — His mind, whirling with plans for his new university, Dean Tom Symons, Canada's youngest university president, stared out the window at a bleak Toronto day.

His thoughts were far away in Peterborough County, at Nassau on the green summer banks of the Otonabee River, where Trent University officially opens July 1.

The 33-year-old Dean of Devonshire House residence at the University of Toronto has a lot of new ideas about running a university. It's been suggested that he's close enough to his own university days to realize from a student's point of view what a university should be. Take his ideas on a "liberal education," for instance.

"When people talk of a liberal education they usually mean literature, philosophy, history—that sort of thing" he said in an interview.

"We'll stress a broad education mixing arts and sciences. A liberal education offering arts without sciences in the 20th century is dangerously illiberal."

SPORTS FOR ALL

Sports will be different at Trent too. Mr. Symons deplores the organized shrieking and hero-worshipping of spectator sports such as football.

"Yelling at football games doesn't really indicate college spirit," he said. "The real college spirit is what makes graduates turn their minds back gratefully and give thanks for the things their university gave them in education and character."

Trent's site will be ideal for skiing in the winter and rowing and golf in summer — sports that students can enjoy for the rest of their lives.

"We hope to have 500 acres," Mr. Symons said "Think of that! With Champlain's river running right through the middle, and Peterborough, a perfect university town, close by."

Mr. Symons graduated from U. of T., squashed into the centre of a vast city. He wants to avoid the big city influence on Trent.

"Universities should be away from major centres of population so students can experience leaving their home environment."

Trent will be strongly residential, allowing each student to develop what Mr. Symons calls "total commitment" to the university career. Peterborough poses no threat to this, in fact, Mr. Symons believes it is sufficiently small to supplement the university, to inspire and encourage students.

"We want a 'town and gown' tradition with good relations between the city and Trent. After all, Peterborough is a very old Ontario city with great cultural traditions and historical interest. It can contribute a lot to the university, and we hope we can contribute to it too.

"The area is the cradle of Upper Canada's literature, some of it pretty horrendous but some of it pretty great. It's no coincidence that Peterborough has, apart from some of the huge metropolitan dailies, the greatest newspaper in Canada."

Colleges will be the unit of expansion at Trent and they will be kept small.

"In a large university, a student can get lost," Mr. Symons said. "A small college gives him something to hold on to."

LITERARY LEGACY

Through his family Toronto-born Mr. Symons has always had close connections with Ontario and with its literature. His father Harry was the first winner of the Stephen Leacock Medal, for his book Oilsway Melody in 1946. His grandfather was president of the Ontario Society of Architects.

Since he returned from Oxford University, where he took his master's degree specializing in history, Mr. Symons has been offered careers in fields including the diplomatic service, but he turned them all down.

"They keep asking but I want to be at a university. I'm intensely fond of Canada. Although I've been at universities in Europe and the United States, Canada is my home and I could never live anywhere else for long."

Although Trent's first academic year officially starts this fall, only staff members will be in the temporary headquarters in Peterborough's South Central School.

"New universities are usually expected to start operations as soon as they open," Mr. Symons said. "We tried to avoid confusion by having a year of organization without students."

CAMPUS DONATED

Approval of proposals for Trent University's establishment was announced by Premier Robarts last June on recommendation of the province's university affairs advisory committee. Mr. Symons had been chairman of Trent's academic planning committee, so that his appointment as president was not unexpected.

The Canadian General Electric Company donated 100 acres as the campus core. Gradually, by gift and purchase, the whole 800 acres will be obtained.

Dean Symon's hobbies include gardening. In his bachelor quarters at the U. of T. there is a cramped plant in a huge glass bottle. Uneasy in the steel and stone city, Mr. Symons looks forward to the day when he and his plants can escape to Trent.

He looked out the window at Trinity College's red brick walls. The fire in the fireplace had died down. The room was quiet. Mr. Symons was back on the banks of the Otonabee.

CRITICIZES METRO

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Donald Summerville said Monday the City of Toronto is being milked by the suburbs through the system of metropolitan government. He told the annual dinner of the Canadian Club of Toronto that Toronto has paid more than 50 per cent of Metro's expenses during 10 years Metro has been in existence.

Fisherman Turned Farmer Bought Tax Sale Land, Built Agricultural Colony

PASADENA, Nfld. (CP) — Since this island province hasn't any great tracts of fertile farm land, it's something of a surprise to learn that Leonard Earle was once honored in George VI's birthday list for his contribution to agriculture.

As Member of the Order of the British Empire, 51-year-old Mr. Earle is the only Newfoundland farmer who can put MBE after his name.

That he ever became a farmer is a bit surprising in itself. He was born the son of a fisherman on the tiny island of Fogo off Newfoundland's northeast coast.

He says he always wanted to settle down to farming and education in England gave him considerable respect for it. Over there, he says, "it's a matter of pride but here in Canada we're apt to apologize for being farmers."

"When we lived in St. John's (where he was a fish buyer) we had a small farm of about 11 acres where we grew vegetables and raised some poultry.

"In 1933 I decided to move west and go into full-time farming. I bought 2,300 acres at a tax sale for $1 an acre and I've never regretted it."

He settled in a spot near Coyner Brook. He had first seen it 10 years earlier and named it Pasadena's Valley of the Mountains. Of the original acreage, he has sold all but a few hundred. And where no one lived in 1933 there now are 80 families on land bought from him.

In recent years Mr. Earle has gone in for fruit growing and market gardening. He has been successful with strawberries, growing as much as 8,000 quarts annually. Those he doesn't sell fresh he makes into jam and sells to stores.

One feature of his farming is that not one of his fruit trees has ever been sprayed. He doesn't approve of chemical sprays and fertilizer and says he keeps his soil in good condition with plenty of manure and lime.

"As far as root crops are concerned I have been content to grow them on the amount of land I could manure.

"Three tons of lime to the acre with plenty of manure and you won't wear out your soil. What's more, crops will be of superior quality and your plants, too.

"Take turnips for instance. We have as high as 320 barrels to the acre. That was using manure, mind you, not chemical fertilizer."

Byronic Link In B. C. Attic

VICTORIA (CP)—A diary believed linked with the life of the poet Lord Byron has been discovered in a Victoria attic.

John Thompson, a third-year student at Victoria College, found the 150-year-old book in the home of his grandfather, Maj. H. C. Holmes.

It is being investigated by Prof. Grant McOrmond of the college to determine whether the book actually was written by the person whose name appears on the inside cover—Augusta Leigh, Byron's half-sister.

Byron was accused of having a love affair with Augusta, and the ensuing public scandal drove the poet out of England, never to return, although he corresponded with Augusta through a friend. Byron's family drew a veil of secrecy over the whole matter.

The small diary—about the size and thickness of a pack of playing cards — may unlock some of the mystery.

Whether or not it was written by Augusta, Prof. McOrmond believes it probably was owned by her, and certainly was written by someone remarkably familiar with the poet and his works.

Positive identification is complicated by the fact there are virtually no personal references in the whole book. In addition, Prof. McOrmond has been unable to find locally any samples of Augusta Leigh's handwriting or signature.

Cass Says Probe Being Made Of Private School

Now Operating Under Re-Training Program

TORONTO (CP)—An inspector from the provincial police is expected to submit a report shortly on his investigations into the operations of a private school for salesmen operating under the federal-provincial retraining program for unemployed, Attorney-General Fred Cass said Wednesday.

Mr. Cass said in an interview Out., that an inspector from the criminal investigations branch has been investigating for nearly a month the operations of the Canadian Sales Motivation Institute in Windsor, Sudbury, London, Ottawa, North Bay and Cornwall, as well as at Hamilton where it offers two courses.

The institute, a profit - making agency, offers a course in salesmanship under the provincial vocational training program, under which the province pays 25 per cent and the federal government 75 per cent of costs.

LL-Col. D. C. O'Brien, co-ordinator of the Windsor program, has admitted accepting fees for sponsored services to the institute when in its operations spread from Windsor to other Ontario centres.

BEGIN INVESTIGATION

Mr. Cass said the investigation began after "we had some talking of it" from the education department and after a brief was submitted to Mr. Cass by Education Minister William Davis and Harold Greer, special assistant to Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer.

Although the education department was about to make its own investigation, Mr. Cass said he felt the provincial police were in a better position to handle it.

Mr. Wintermeyer said Wednesday his staff has been in possession of the basic facts since March 19. He said he had taken the honorable course and "did what was necessary."

"I could have gone into the legislature and blown the top off this matter."

Mr. Wintermeyer, Mr. Greer, Dr. Boyd Upper, assistant to the Liberal leader, and Arthur Reaume, Liberal member for Essex South and a former mayor of Windsor, had met with Mr. Cass and of-

RED BOAT SUNK, WARSHIPS SEEN IN THAT AREA

Chinese Freighter's Crew All Rescued

TOKYO (Reuters)—The Japanese Broadcasting Corporation said in a television newscast today its reporters saw two unidentified warships in a flight over the area where the crew of a Communist Chinese freighter claimed it was torpedoed Wednesday.

The Japanese maritime safety board commented that neither Japan nor the United States had any warships in the area at that time.

The 9,482-ton Yue Jin sank off South Korea, reporting it was attacked by an unidentified vessel in the East China Sea.

The Japanese Broadcasting Corporation (NHK) showed pictures on a television newscast of two warships steaming in open waters. It identified the two vessels as the most spotted by its reporters in a flight over the area.

NHK said the two warships were steaming in a circle about half a mile from the spot where the Chinese Communist freighter sank. The warships appeared to be cruisers, it added, and one of them bore the number 205. However, it added, the reporters aboard the plane could not spot any further identification.

NHK said its reporters saw oil and debris from the Chinese freighter on the water.

Meanwhile, Japanese officials were trying to get details of the sinking. Japan's Maritime Safety Board said officials aboard its patrol boat taking the freighter's 58 rescued crew members to Shanghai had no authority to conduct an official investigation but the crew was being questioned.

Japanese officials could not confirm the crew's claim that it was hit by three torpedoes and suggested, because all crew members survived, that the vessel might have run aground or hit a Korean War mine which minesweeping teams failed to clean up.

ADMITS GETTING $1,050 TO SET MONTREAL FIRES

Two Insurance Adjusters on Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Dominique Dettore, 23, a waiter, testified Wednesday he was paid $1,050 last fall to set two fires that led to $128,000 in insurance payments.

He said he got the money from two insurance adjusters whom he identified as Wilfrid Jarjour, 49, and Jean-Claude Duquette, 34.

Three other witnesses testified they made payoffs totalling almost $17,000 to the two adjusters after collecting insurance money for their fire-ravaged properties.

They appeared at the preliminary hearing of Jarjour, committed for voluntary statement May 8.

Dettore testified with the court's protection. He and Duquette are also before the courts in the case. The charges against the three men include arson and conspiracy.

The waiter said he was paid $700 for setting fire to the Hotel des Quatres Saisons in nearby Ile Perrot last Sept. 27 and $350 for setting ablaze a garage in nearby Ste. Therese in October, 1961.

PAYS $10,000

Onesime Menard, 66, the owner of the hotel, said he gave Jarjour and Duquette $10,000 after collecting $115,000 in insurance.

The arage owner, Roger Chartrand, 39, said he gave the men almost $5,000 after receiving an insurance payment of $22,000.

Andre Delisle, 39, the third witness, testified he collected $10,000 in insurance after an empty building was destroyed by fire in suburban Chomedey last Dec. 11 and he gave Jarjour and Duquette 10 per cent.

He also paid them more than $300, he said, for what he described as "the work." He said this meant "for setting the fire."

The charges against the men arose from an investigation by the fire commissioner's office into a series of fires in various parts of the province in the last five years.

Motion Ruled Out of Order By Speaker

QUEBEC (CP) — Charges of "muzzle" and "gag" were hurled across the legislature floor Wednesday as Union Nationale motion against storage of nuclear weapons in Quebec was declared out of order and dropped from the order paper.

Premier Lesage suggested to the Speaker that the motion was irregular because it dealt with a subject outside provincial jurisdiction, which under House rules could not be debated.

Retorted Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson:

"It is infinitely regrettable that under the pretext this is a federal field, the Quebec representatives of the province of Quebec are muzzled on a subject which goes beyond the boundaries not only of Quebec but of the nation."

France to Give up A-Test Bases In Sahara Desert Late in 1964

ALGIERS, Algeria (Reuters) — France will evacuate the Sahara bases at which it carries out nuclear testing in "the last months of 1964," the Algerian information ministry announced here today.

The announcement of the French decision was read out before Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella and French secretary of state for Algerian affairs, Jean de Broglie.

The communique said Ben Bella and de Broglie reviewed Franco-Algeria military questions on Wednesday and discussed the use of bases France kept in Algeria under the Evian peace agreements which ended the Algerian war.

The Reggane test base in the Hoggar Mountain range of the Sahara was last used in March for an underground test and brought Algerian protests and a call from Ben Bella for changes in the Evian agreement.

France expects to have a nuclear test centre in the Pacific Ocean at Mururoa Atoll, 1,250 miles southeast of Tahiti, ready by 1966.

The announcement also said French forces would be withdrawn from the Algerian areas in eastern Algeria before the end of this year.

The Evian agreements originally called for France to evacuate the Sahara test base by July 1, 1965. The announcement that the evacuation now will take place during the last months of next year and "this time limit could eventually be moved forward."

It also said one-fifth of French aid to Algeria would be used to compensate French settlers whose property has been taken over by the Algerian government.

Hon. Earl Rowe Takes Over Lieutenant-Governorship

TORONTO (CP) — A veteran parliamentarian has been appointed his constituents at Ottawa for more than 35 years shouldered less controversial but perhaps more onerous duties Wednesday.

William Earl Rowe began his term as Ontario's 20th lieutenant-governor with frank humility at the prospect of filling the shoes of his predecessor, J. Keiller Mackay.

Declaring Mr. Mackay to have been "one of the finest lieutenant - governors the province of Ontario has ever had, the former federal Conservative member for Bafferin - Simcoe confessed to guests at his swearing-in ceremony in the Queen's regal suite at Queen's Park:

"I feel rather nonplussed as to how I should approach this honorable office."

Premier John Robarts, who presented Mr. Rowe to Chief Justice Dana Porter in beginning the swearing-in ceremony, later expressed his congratulations to the new lieutenant-governor and his wife Varta.

Among the guests for the ceremony was Mrs. Jean Casselman, a daughter of the new lieutenant-governor and federal member of Parliament —Lor

Diplomats Fear New Violence In Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Diplomats feared today that the departure from Haiti of commission would be followed by new and bloody repression of President Francois Duvalier's political foes.

Concern also spread because Duvalier's regime had offered safe conduct out of the country for only 15 of 22 Haitians who took asylum in the Dominican Republic's embassy during a weekend wave of terror. The Dominican government was expected to insist that all 22 be allowed to leave, prolonging the crisis between the two neighbors on the island of Hispaniola.

Retiring lieutenant - governor Mackay won't bow out of public life entirely on leaving the vice-regal post after 5½ years. Effective immediately, he becomes the first chairman of the recently - established Ontario Council for the Arts.

SIR WINSTON STEPS DOWN AS MEMBER

Weight of Years, Injury Reason

LONDON (CP)—It was on a dull February day in 1901 that Winston Churchill, 25, made his maiden speech before the House of Commons.

The member whom the Conservatives followed on that day was a Liberal, described by Churchill as a "rising young Welshman" — David Lloyd George.

The Boer War was the topic of the day—Churchill had won fame in that conflict—and no one could guess that these two men were destined to lead their country in far more terrible struggles.

Sir Winston, 88, announced Wednesday he will not contest another election because of the weight of years and the injury he suffered in a fall in 1962.

Self-styled "child of the House of Commons," Sir Winston said in a letter to his Woodford constituents: "I need not tell you with what sadness I take this step."

SPEAKS ONLY ONCE

It was a prosaic step. Sir Winston has spoken in the Commons only once—a 14-word acknowledgment of congratulations on his 85th birthday—since he resigned as prime minister in April, 1955.

Churchill's long years in Parliament prepared him for two grand climaxes—the two world wars against Germany. In the second he rose to his most shining hour.

The British people, facing peril and defeat, found in him a symbol of their refusal to surrender.

Churchill seems to have recovered from his accident last July when he fell while vacationing in the south of France but he has been greatly enfeebled.

Wednesday night he sipped champagne at the annual banquet of the Royal Academy in London.

Nicholas-Peconi Loses Leave To Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — Nicholas Peconi, operator of a dead animal receiving plant at Peterborough, has lost an appeal in the Supreme Court of Canada today against his conviction on a charge of selling dead animal meat for human consumption.

Peconi was convicted at Peterborough Dec. 5, 1962, to six months in jail and a fine of $2,000 or an additional six months imprisonment. He was convicted under the federal food and drug regulations that he did "unlawfully sell as food a dead animal."

The conviction was upheld by the Ontario Appeal Court and the Supreme Court today refused Peconi's application for leave to appeal against his conviction. No reasons were given by the Supreme Court.

400 Continue To Huddle On High Ground

Hay River in N.W.T. Suffers Second Flood

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP)—At least five airplanes dropped in quick succession on to a partially flooded airfield late Wednesday to plant 222 persons from this flood-stricken town and carry them to distant points.

The evacuees were the first of 355 who chose to leave the area after flood waters swept through the island community at the mouth of the Hay River on Great Slave Lake for the second day, causing heavy damage.

The airlift was halted when darkness made landing conditions here too hazardous. The other evacuees were to be picked up today, and more than 400 persons continued to huddle in a school on high ground.

There was no precise measurement of the river level. Wednesday afternoon the water receded temporarily. It again began to rise again in the evening.

No injuries were reported but one evacuee said on arrival at Fort Smith, 100 miles southeast, that many of those lodged in the school were becoming panicky and many children were sick. Early arrivals at Yellowknife, 117 miles north, were described as quiet and sad.

Mayor W. R. McBryan said no serious sickness had been reported but some may become ill owing to a combination of polluted vaccine administered before evacuees departed and the ride on the planes.

FACE HEALTH HAZARDS

While officials said there appeared to be no physical danger in remaining on the flooded island, the town faced increasing health hazards. Flooded outdoor sewage facilities, a shortage of drinking water and restricted electric power. Power was off completely for several hours Wednesday as the temperature lowered around 30 degrees above zero.

A poll was conducted and 333 elected to leave.

After a 45-minute flight to Yellowknife with the evacuees in a C-46 transport, Capt. Kurt Fransberger, a pilot with Pacific Western Airlines said his passengers "looked very sad and quiet." Several of the 18 children on the plane were crying.

Capt. Fransberger said the

TOP OFFICIALS OF BBG TO MAKE REPORT

'Traffic Problem' In Broadcasting

TORONTO (CP)—State Secretary J. W. Pickersgill said Wednesday a report on Canadian broadcasting, which he indicated would be a prelude to a full government inquiry, will be prepared by the top officials of the Board of Broadcast Governors, the CBC, and the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

He told the C.A.B. annual meeting here that both BBG Chairman Dr. Andrew Stewart and CBC President Alphonse Ouimet have requested such an inquiry.

Mr. Pickersgill said he is sure that about 400 C.A.B. members who represent most of Canada's private radio and television stations "also feel that there are many aspects of broadcasting which need further investigation before any new attempt is made to define public policy on the whole complex field of broadcasting."

Dr. Stewart, Mr. Ouimet and C.A.B. President Don Jamieson all were in the audience. Mr. Pickersgill asked them to discuss broadcasting "without malice," and to "figure out where they agree and disagree." The government would "study" their report.

Mr. Pickersgill has responsibility in the Commons for broadcasting.

CONTROL NECESSARY

He said Wednesday there is a "traffic problem" in broadcasting, and, while he does not feel it is a desirable function of government to control anything just for its own sake," he thinks some sort of responsibility is necessary in the industry."

"While I do not feel that all broadcasting should be put in public domain by any means," he said, "I do feel that it should have public responsibilities."

To "save time" for the three men who will report to the government, Mr. Pickersgill outlined what he called "certain basic points of departure policy to which the present government is already committed."

He said there should be scope

Rules of Safety Taught Children In Miniature Toronto Village

TORONTO (CP) — Six-year-old Kevin Turton was jumping along in his pedal-driven car Wednesday when he came to a crosswalk.

He applied his brakes—well, he stopped pedalling—and came a smooth stop. Seven-year-old Sarah Hanly safely crossed the street.

Lesson: When Kevin becomes a pedestrian he will stretch out his arm and clearly indicate he wants to cross, giving the driver time to stop.

The action took place in a Plywood Village, officially known as Safety Village, which is a miniature community of five streets, two houses, eight five feet-high stores, a service station, bank, red schoolhouse and church.

It also has automatic traffic lights, crosswalks, stop signs and nearly 600 feet of white and yellow striped roadway. Its citizens are between the ages of four and seven. They are there to learn traffic safety.

On an adult or real-life scale, Safety Village is a 140-foot-by-60-foot section of land at a shopping centre in suburban Don Mills. It was officially opened Wednesday and is thought to be the only project of its kind in Canada.

Police and shopping centre officials paid most of the costs, but Don's model became the 432 children were involved in traffic accidents here this year alone, failing to follow safety rules.

Through practical example, traffic safety officers hope to teach the children basic rules like obeying crossing guards and showing courtesy to the other driver.

The children will be invited to drive one of the pedal cars during a one-hour session. A report card on their safety knowledge will be passed on to their parents.

Pearson Has Busy Day

Talks With Wilson, Grimond, Macmillan

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson had a private talk with British Opposition Leader Harold Wilson as a prelude to luncheon discussions with Prime Minister Macmillan.

Wilson was one of the Canadian prime ministers' first visits on this second day of Pearson's British visit.

First caller this morning was Sir Harold Caccia, undersecretary of state for external affairs, followed by Sir Saville Garner, permanent undersecretary of state for Commonwealth relations. Both are old friends.

Pearson also had a brief talk with Jo Grimond, leader of the British Liberal party. Grimond had previously seen Pearson during an Ottawa visit in February.

Just after breakfast Pearson talked with J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, who currently is touring Europe seeking long-term contracts for the Crown uranium-selling agency.

Pearson visited Buckingham Palace briefly on his way to the first formal conference with Macmillan. He was to sign the guest book at the palace—a formality which does not require the presence of the Queen or any of her ministers.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearson lunched with the Macmillans at Admiralty House, the official residence of the British prime minister during a restoration project at 10 Downing Street.

The two prime ministers were to get together in private shortly after the luncheon for a discussion of defence and economic subjects.

Later in the afternoon Pearson had scheduled a conference with Dirk Stikker, secretary-general of NATO, a job which Pearson himself had a few years ago when he himself was one of the chief organizers of the North Atlantic alliance.

Pearson arrived in London Wednesday for a series of talks with Macmillan and other British cabinet ministers. He is expected to fly back to Ottawa Saturday night.

Real Estate Board Not Sure Low Income Housing Now Needed in Belleville

Despite the fact that a survey last year indicated there was a need for low income rental housing in this city, members of the Belleville and District Real Estate Board feel the need may now have lessened.

In a report to the local real estate board at their regular monthly meeting this week, Mr. R. B. Bradley from the Department of Economics and Development housing branch, stated there was a positive need for low income and senior citizens' housing in this city.

Real Estate Board chairman Gerald Joyce said that members questioned Mr. Bradley on the current accuracy of his report inasmuch as since the survey was made many new rental housing units had been either built or planned.

Last year members of the real estate board, through city council, asked for the housing survey, at that time indicating they were prepared to sponsor low rental housing for senior citizens.

INCLUDED TWO GROUPS

The survey, conducted by the Department of Economics and Development, included rental housing for both the low income group as well as for senior citizens, although only the former was asked.

This week Mr. Bradley asked members of the real estate board recommend to council that the municipality enter into a joint housing program for Belleville with costs shared 75 per cent by the federal government, 17½ per cent by the provincial government and 7½ per cent by the municipality.

A year ago council shied away from this program and allowed the real estate board to take the initiative in asking for the survey.

Under the suggested program the three governing bodies would be responsible for costs of land acquisition and construction costs on the above percentage basis while cost of services to the development would be borne by the city.

Administration of the project would be by a housing authority.

SINGLE UNITS URGED

If a low rental housing project is to be considered for the city, Mr. Bradley recommends that it be composed of single family residences rather than apartment buildings.

The city would receive a grant in lieu of taxes, this amount not to exceed one-third of the rental.

Although the local real estate board instigated the survey, members now feel that construction of multiple family units since the survey has lessened the need for low income housing.

Accordingly the board executive members will discuss the problem and decide on what recommendation if any, is forwarded to council.

TO HOLD ANNUAL DINNER

Another item of business on this week's real estate board meeting was confirmation of a date for their first annual civic dinner.

The civic dinner to be held at the Hotel Quinte on June 5th will see members of council and other civic dignitaries invited. The speaker will be Roy Sanderson, president of the Ontario Real Estate Association.

Many Questions To Be Discussed By Leaders

OTTAWA (CP) — Talks between Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy May 10-11 at Hyannis Port, Mass., are expected to touch off a series of Canada-U.S. defence negotiations.

Informants indicated Wednesday that, besides a nuclear custody-and-control agreement, the negotiations will cover these subjects:

1. Possible Canadian participation in development and production of the new TFX (tactical fighter, experimental) jet plane in exchange for Canadian acquisition of a number of the fighters for air defence.

2. The number of flights made by nuclear bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command over Canada. Sources said such flights were severely restricted by the Conservative government, forcing SAC to operate mainly over the Atlantic and Pacific.

SEEK MORE VOODOOS

3. More Voodoo jet interceptors for RCAF Air Defence Command. The 1961 agreement under which the RCAF obtained 66 Voodoos from the U.S. did not provide for spares.

4. The proposed by North American Air Defence Command that the underground combat centre near North Bay be made NORAD's alternate headquarters.

Informants said that, apart from the nuclear question, it is unlikely Mr. Pearson and Mr. Kennedy will go into any detail on these subjects.

But the general outline of defence co-operation between Canada and the U.S., at least until 1968 when the present NORAD agreement expires, is expected to emerge from the Hyannis Port meeting.

MARKS 100TH YEAR

The Montreal Corn Exchange, an association of grain traders in the port of Montreal, was 100 years old Wednesday. Board of Trade and transportation officials from various parts of Canada and the United States are in Montreal for a three-day program of meetings and visits to mark the anniversary.

WAGE LEVEL STEADY

Paid Canadian workers received an estimated $1,699,000,000 in salaries and wages and supplementary labor income in February, unchanged from January but up 8.5 per cent from February of 1962, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday. Labor income in the January-February period climbed 6.9 per cent to $3,398,000,000 from $3,178,000,000 in the corresponding 1962 period.

Only 10 Feet From Home And Safety

A Marysville district man who missed his driveway by 10 feet was sent to jail for two weeks for drunk driving.

A provincial police constable told Magistrate T. Y. Wills while patrolling Highway 401 east of Marysville he saw the accused man's car in the ditch with the driver slumped over the front wheel.

The man had turned off the highway 10 feet short of his own driveway.

The accused driver, who pleaded guilty, had been convicted of impaired driving in February, 1961.

Sub-Dividers Will Receive Better Deal

Local housing sub-dividers will get a slightly better deal from city in their sub-dividers' agreement as result of their meeting yesterday with city council.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said "quite a bit" had been accomplished at this meeting and that covering recommendations would come before council at the next regular meeting.

The engineer said that several difficulties with present, at least two proposed sub-divisions had been ironed out and also there had been a slight change in the city policy.

One of the changes was the lowering of the sub-dividers' performance bond from 97 per cent to 50 per cent and the easing of the sub-dividers' requirements with respect to certain boundary roads.

Liberal Party Workers Enjoy Election Win

Liberal Party workers in South Hastings last night hailed the election victory of candidate Robert Temple — now Member of Parliament — with a big if belated celebration.

With all the wrinkles of down - the - line campaign battle finally ironed out, the workers swung-to at Club Canara to mark the victorious end to their efforts April 8th.

Close to 1,100 people thronged both floors of the club as members and their wives turned out for the event.

The party, starting at 9 p.m. and lasting more than four hours formally greeted Mr. Temple's victory in traditional informal fashion.

Mr. Temple spoke briefly to the party workers after he and Mrs. Temple toured the assembly, meeting each party members personally. Immediately afterward, Mrs. Temple was presented with a bouquet of red roses by the party's local ladies' association.

Tyendinaga Man Sent to Jail For 3 Months

A 22-year-old Tyendinaga man was sent to jail for three months today for theft of jewelery.

Sentenced was Albert A. E. Culbertson, arrested after his May Hill of Tyendinaga Township reported $150 in rhinestone jewelery and wedding and engagement rings were missing from her home.

He also was given seven days concurrent for driving while his licence was suspended and fined $30 and costs after falsely claiming a driver's licence.

The licence offences were discovered while provincial police were investigating the theft charges.

"This theft business is pretty tarnished," commented Magistrate T. Y. Wills as he passed sentence on Culbertson who pleaded guilty last week.

Bird House Contest Had 30 Entries

The rapidly growing interest in the Belleville Horticultural Society has spread to an eager group of students in the Grade Dale area, who have formed themselves the enthusiastic leadership of one of their teachers, Mrs. W. Slack, what is known as the Dale Junior Horticultural Society. Among the first successful projects thus far of this active group, the most recent has been its Bird House Competition.

During the winter months, thirty thoughtful young people labored diligently and produced thirty houses which showed degrees of success to accommodate the wrens, robins, swallows and chickadees that would spend the winter months in the city.

Other prizes will be presented at an Awards Night in the fall by the Belleville Horticultural Society.

ENTRIES COMMENDED

The judges commended the competitors for their keen interest and examined the entries with constructive criticism. The houses were judged on general suitability, size and placement of entrance and the allowance made for ventilation and for end-of-season cleaning

In this day of advancing urban centres and diminishing frontiers, such projects are invaluable and worthy of encouragement. To Mrs. Slack and her proteges should go the good-wishes and thanks of the members of the community for their efforts at conservation and their desire to make Parkdale a more colorful and tuneful residential area.

BAPTISTS TO MEET

26 Permits In March Total $265,941

Nine new houses valued at $109,420 were built, and there were repairs to 12 others costing $11,485. Two new commercial buildings were erected for $22,900 and repairs to two others cost $30,460. In the institutional category, St. George's Sunday School building was valued at $82,325, while repairs to the CodyFellows Hall cost $9,000. One garage was built for $300 and other repairs cost $16.

The April building record contrasted strongly with March, when no actual new building was carried out. The total value of repairs to commercial and residential buildings in that month was $10,630.

The total value of all new construction in the town since the beginning of the year is $318,326.

Canada's Major Sugar Refiners Increase Price

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's major sugar refiners announced a further price increase Wednesday—the third in three days for most—giving further impetus to a trend that started last January.

Three Montreal-based companies with national marketing facilities and a Vancouver company hiked the price of a 100-pound bag 20 cents to $13.15 compared to $9.10 at the beginning of the year.

The present spiral makes the price an all-time high, the previous high being $11.75 a bag in 1952.

For the Montreal companies —Canada and Dominion Sugar Co. Ltd., Atlantic Sugar Refineries Ltd. and St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries Ltd.—the hike followed hard upon increases of 25 cents Tuesday and 20 cents Monday.

For the British Columbia Sugar Refinery Ltd. it was the second increase in two days and the 33rd since last September. The B.C. company's price went up 25 cents Tuesday.

Manitoba sugar prices were expected to go up proportionately but an official of the Manitoba Sugar Company in Winnipeg declined to give figures.

Although prices began spiralling in earnest last January, the start of it all can be traced to the Cuba-sucalear arms crisis of Oct., 1962. At that time the price of a 100-pound bag was $7.50 but in a week rose to $7.85.

A series of wildly-fluctuating changes since—about two of them downward—have brought prices to 50 per cent over the pre-crisis level.

Manufacturers say the price charged for Canadian refined sugar is a direct reflection of the raw sugar prices on the world market in London. Some countries, such as the United Kingdom, buy under special price agreements while Canada buys on the world market.

Spokesmen for the Montreal and Vancouver firms said the higher world prices on raw sugar made the increases necessary. The price in London rose 16 points to 8.3 cents Wednesday. The New York price was 8.5 cents.

CROPS DECREASE

The European beet crop, another major source of Canadian raw sugar, was only 6,500,000 metric tons this season compared to about 7,000,000 metric tons in the 1961-62 growing season—due to the cold wave that swept the continent early last winter.

Prices of the Montreal companies include transportation and so are higher at all points west of there. The refiners' price is 20 cents higher at Toronto and $1.40 higher at Winnipeg.

Caught in the squeeze are manufacturers whose products have a high sugar content. Soft drink manufacturers have increased their price on single small bottles to eight cents from seven since the spiral started and candy and ice cream manufacturers have been forced to take similar steps.

Labor Congress Opposes Nuclear Role for Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress says Canada simply cannot afford to keep up with the nuclear weaponry of what it calls the "military Joneses."

Reiterating its opposition to a nuclear role for Canada, the CLC favors full Canadian membership within NATO based on a non-nuclear military contribution.

This idea, argues the congress, is a third alternative for Canada. It says it is a better choice than the "military" view that Canada should remain in NATO and accept tactical nuclear weapons or than the "neutralist-pacifist" view that Canada should quit NATO and stand neutral.

The defence thinking of the congress, central body for more than 1,050,000 trade unionists, was approved in February by the CLC executive council, inner cabinet of organized labor. It was made public, without fanfare, in the latest issue of Canadian Labor, official journal of the congress.

The congress says the military value of the tactical nuclear weapons acquired by Canada "has become questionable as weapons are either obsolete already or will be soon, it says.

"The question, which a country of Canada's size must face, is whether it can afford to indulge in this type of investment in military weapons, which become obsolete even before they are off the assembly line.

"By the logic of our size, our resources, our technical capabilities, we should be making our military contribution to NATO which we could develop and maintain."

Jury Urges Signals at Level Crossing

WHITBY (CP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday night recommended signals be installed at a three-track Canadian National Railways level crossing here where two persons were killed February 24.

Mervin Bersto Bernstock, 22, and Karen Kirsch both of the Toronto suburb of Downsview were killed when a car in which they were passengers was struck by a train at the crossing.

Driver of the car Richard Rosenthal, 24, of Toronto is still unconscious in hospital.

The jury, which made a site visit to the crossing recommended an illuminated and noise-making signal, and also that approaches on both sides of the track be levelled.

Chief Jury of Belleville, engineer of the freight train which was involved in the accident, said he had a close call at the crossing on another occasion.

Hearing Is Adjourned

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)— The preliminary hearing of 19 settlers charged with non-capital murder was adjourned Wednesday by Deputy Magistrate S. C. Platus until next Tuesday.

Twenty settlers were charged after three striking loggers were shot to death Feb. 11 at Reesor Siding, 37 miles west of here, as a small army of strikers moved into a logging camp being operated by non-striking, independent settlers.

One man, Paul-Emile Coulombe, was bound over earlier to stand in Ontario Supreme Court on the murder charge. However, a defence lawyer successfully argued before a Supreme Court justice that the other 9 could not be committed to trial on the basis of evidence applying to Coulombe, as had been done at the mass preliminary hearing here.

Mayor Whitton Saw Moscow May Day Parade

MOSCOW (AP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa said today Moscow's May Day parade crowds reminded her of a coronation crowd in London.

"I've seen two coronations," she said in an interview, "and it was much reminded of a coronation crowd in London.

"In the side streets, behind the barricades, I saw people dancing in the streets. It was the general holiday spirit of the people that impressed me."

She said she believed Western reporters have been paying too much attention to the military portion of the parade—"without due attention to the other features."

When asked to state her reaction to the rockets and other military equipment, she replied:

"From a defensive viewpoint, they would be reassuring. From an aggressive angle, they would be terrifying."

Vanier Will Not Officiate At Opening

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier is making a satisfactory recovery from a mild heart attack but will not officiate at the opening of Parliament May 16, Government House said Wednesday.

Gen. Vanier, 75, suffered the attack April 9 and, after being confined to bed for a period, has been getting up periodically. He has continued to perform administrative work during his convalescence.

A spokesman said Gen. Vanier has had no setbacks but it was thought inadvisable for him to go through the strain of a long ceremonial opening of Parliament.

Chief Justice Robert Taschereau, sworn in last Friday as chief justice of Canada, is due to substitute for the Governor-General at the opening.

Divorced Wife Of Gary Powers To Sell Story

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP) The divorced wife of Francis Gary Powers, former U.S. reconnaissance pilot, is selling her life story under an arrangement which it was reported could net her as much as $250,000.

The project was announced Wednesday by Mrs. Powers, 28; her lawyer, Robert H. Green; and W. W. Diehl, a writer-photographer from Detroit.

Diehl said the contract included serial, book and movie rights.

Diehl said a serial entitled The Ordeal of Barbara Powers would be run under Barbara's byline in a news tabloid issued by Allied Publications, Chicago.

Powers, 38, served 21 months of a 10-year sentence in a Moscow jail after conviction on spy charges. His high-altitude U-2 plane was brought down May 1, 1960, while on a reconnaissance flight over the Soviet Union.

The couple was divorced in January. They had been married eight years.

Newly-Created Peer Still Chooses His Own Title

LONDON (AP)—It's not the easiest way to change your name, but it has clearly stepped in generations of tradition.

You can do it if you are named to the peerage in Britain.

The first Earl of Birkenhead was formerly Frederick Smith. The first Lord Leicester was Tom Coke. Lord Annaly was plain Luke White and Baron Esmond was Fred Lewis. A Jones — Antony Armstrong-Jones — wound up as Earl of Snowdon.

The etiquette of title picking is so complicated it is still being argued after nine centuries of English monarchy. But a newly-created peer still chooses his own title, provided the Queen approves.

Lakes, towns, mountains may all be assumed as titles. Five peers are named after rivers, including former prime minister Anthony Eden, now Lord Avon. Most of the English counties have dukes or earls named after them and Ireland's Donegall has a marquess.

A mere baron might be considered ill-bred if he chose a whole county for himself. Today these are normally reserved for royalty. So far no subject has dared ask for the title of Greater London.

Choosing a baronial name is still a serious undertaking for a new peer, even in 20th-century Britain. Peter Carr, all his family may live with it for 500 years. Once the monarch's will has been issued there is no way of changing or rescinding a title except by committing treason.

FAULT UNCHANGED

Viscount Glerawly knows the permanence of a royal style. There is no such place as Glerawly. It should have been spelled Glenawly but a clerk made an error. That was nearly 200 years ago and the title is still going strong.

A well known public name may change dramatically when his owner is raised to the peerage. Walter Guinness, head of the Irish brewing concern, became Lord Moyne.

A new peer may elect to use his own surname, or an old family name as his title. Viscount Montgomery, Earl Lloyd George and Lord Attlee all chose to retain their old identities.

Montgomery, however, elected to use the name of his most famous Second World War battle. His full title is Viscount Montgomery of Alamein.

The practice of adopting more common surnames has grown in popularity over the last century, though it is still frowned upon by traditionalists. The editor of Burke's Peerage, L. G. Pine, once forecast that the British aristocracy might one day have an Earl Smith.

Stress on Job Contributes to Heart Disease

NEW YORK (AP) — A heart specialist said Wednesday new studies have confirmed that emotional stress on the job contributes to heart disease—probably more than fat, smoking and other suspected causes.

Dr. Henry J. Russek, consultant in cardiology with the U.S. public health service, said job stress showed as a significant factor in studies of 1,500 coronary patients on Staten Island and a survey of 5,500 doctors, lawyers and dentists across the country.

In the Staten Island study, he said, all the persons involved were heart patients under 60.

"Ninety-one per cent of our young coronary subjects," he added, "were actually holding down two jobs, working more than 60 hours a week or experiencing job frustration or worry."

He said he believes emotional stress is far more significant in these cases than heredity, dietary fat, obesity, smoking and other factors usually associated with coronary conditions.

Dr. Russek, telling of his findings at a press conference at the New York Heart Association offices, said stress factors also are present during leisure hours. He cited "the predetermined play, the dancing lessons, the bowling, the card playing."

This Is a Provincial Problem

In Montreal, selected squads of city firemen and policemen will be given a special course in handling explosives.

This is no more than prudent, in the light of recent terrorist activities by the so-caled Quebec Liberation Front.

One could have wished, though, that some other method of meeting the emergency could have been discovered which would have avoided utilizing the Canadian Army. This course will be given by army experts and many of the men taking instruction will have had army service. Now the army of service, as anybody knows, are not universally popular in Quebec. The Quebec Liberation Front regards these services as one of the main instruments by which English-speaking Canada dominates Quebec. It is a pity that the present plans for combatting Liberation Front activities may provide some slight color of accuracy to this description.

Most French-Canadians, of course, are completely out of sympathy with the Liberation Front terroristic tactics, whatever may be their feelings about bi-lingualism, bi-culturalism and separatism.

It is greatly to be desired that the terrorists should have brought forcibly home to them their isolation from the great mass of their fellow French-Canadians. For this reason it would appear the wisest course would be to entrust the campaign against them wholly to French-Canadians, preferably under the direction of the provincial government. Creation of a special anti-terrorist squad of provincial policemen which would operate throughout the province, might be a helpful measure. Because Montreal is a city which is part English-speaking, it would be unfortunate if the brunt of the fight against the terrorists was placed on the shoulders of its city policemen.

Past experience in other lands suggests that it would be most fool-hardy to regard the threat of terrorism lightly. Terrorists are always fanatics. As such, they will not be easily discouraged. The campaign against them will be long and difficult. Vigorous measures are essential, and the earlier these are taken the better. But above all care must be taken not to permit the terrorists to win sympathizers. There is always the danger that they will do so if the campaign against them can be traced, ever so remotely, to English-speaking Canadians.

Trend to Extremists

It is difficult to say what conclusions should be drawn from Monday's election in Italy, the country with the largest Communist Party this side of the Iron and Bamboo Curtains.

True, the loses suffered by Premier Amintore Fanfani's Christian Democrats had been predicted. They were perhaps no more than might be expected for a party which had to shoulder the burden of government in a povertry-plagued land like Italy.

It is disturbing, though, to find the Communists making bigger gains than had been foreseen.

Those with long memories may be consumed that the Liberals should have almost doubled their share of the popular vote. In Italy the Liberals are a right-wing party.

The trend in Italy is not yet strong enough to be really alarming, but should be carefully watched in future elections. Two factors may mitigate results in Italy. One is the fact that the country has experienced Fascism and has repudiated it—the Neo-Fascists, while they scored points, obtained only 5.1 per cent of the popular vote. The other is the existence of a formidable rival to the Communists in their bid for the radical vote—the Nennl Sollalists. As long as they remain allied with Fanfani's Christian Democrats and do not throw in their lot with the Communists in a Popular Front, they may siphon off many of the Marxist votes from the Communists.

What possible deterrence can there be in a penalty we invoke only 2 percent of the time? . . . We sentence to death members of minority races, the poor, the unintelligent and the friendless.—Governor Edmund G. Brown, asking California Legislature to place four-year moratorium on death penalty.

The British aristocracy has survived partly because it has never been very exclusive. It has always been ready to admit outsider sons-in-law, provided they were rich.—Author Anthony Sampson.

Crackerjack Stenos Red-Hot Commodity on Capital

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — If a member of the Federal Civil Service brags these days that he has been buying a box of bon-bons or a pot of posies for his steno, it does not necessarily mean what you might suspect.

No indeedy.

The poor guy is merely trying to keep her happy.

And this, with the good secretary-stenographer just about the hottest commodity on the Capital's labor market, is not easy.

So what else is new, you ask.

Well, just this.

It used to be that one of the things that kept the Capital more or less in pace with life in the rest of Canada was the steady influx of brightly amblitious young girls from what Ottawa, in its lunatic way, regards as "The Outside," into the secretarial and stenographic ranks of the Federal Service.

Off the beaten track, Ottawa would become completely isolated, living in a Never-Never Bureaucratic World of its own, if it were not for fresh air and new ideas imported with visiting businessmen on missions to the Government and "Lost Girls" of the Departments.

A COLD WIND

That was the way it was for years.

Ano then came Austerity. There had to be a quick ten per cent cut in the big Federal staff.

But this being Government Ottawa, nobody could be fired. Instead, nobody would be hired.

At least, almost nobody.

Rule of hiring thumb was that 9 people had to die or quit before one could be hired.

And, in six months, there was a 8.3 per cent shrinkage in the staff from 116,000 to 106,000.

The big cut, as it usually does came in the lower ranks, especially in the weak army of stenos and secretaries.

The New Liberal Government has thus been faced with all the cold biting wind of Austerity, and with things the way they are economically, will not likely be in a hurry.

Departments that find themselves absolutely strapped for staff, to the point where actual operations are becoming paralyzed, can plead desperation and may win the special concession of being able to hire somebody after only five people have died or quit.

Imagine, if you will, what such a staff policy would do-to the place where you work.

The crew goes down 10 or five at a clip, and then hands come on, one at a time.

It's fascinating; it seems, of all enterprises in the country can afford to take this Alice in Wonderland approach to things.

A HARD LIFE:

From that distance you, like most of the taxpayers over the border, would think Ottawa's Afternoon Capital ,probably take the view that the Civil Service was unusually over-staffed anyway, and that a 10 percent cut is not going to do any harm than put some of it to useful work.

This, it appears, also is the view of the Treasury Board, an organization peculiar to the Federal Establishment, dedicated to the proposition that the taxpayer should get at least a few cents shake from his dollar.

So when Civil Service Brass have been coming hat in and crying towel in hand to the Treasury Board, begging piteously for staff, they have been sent away with a stern lecture to make do with what they have by the simple process of getting more work out of fewer people.

This has been known to work in business and industry where the pressure of economic requirements often have slight regard for the sensibilities of people caught up in — and often enjoying — the hard demands of competitive enterprise.

But this kind of philosophy is of no help at all to the Civil Service executive who must pamper and pet his stenos with flowers, theatre tickets and other goodies — or do his own typing.

Away with Austerity. Give me back all those glorious gals from Medicine Hat, Fort Frances, WaWa, Cobalt, Simcoe, Trenton, Shakespeare, Aylmer, Sturgeon Falls and those wonderful points north, south, east and west.

Modern Nonsense

Stratford Beacon-Herald

In a time when double-talk nonsense is being described with such phrases as "pre-tested" (How do you test before you test?), it's nice to come across some easy-to-understand nonsense.

Strictly Personal

Executives Are Society's Big Drudges

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: To achieve self-honesty, we should approach with mistrust all those "principles" we uphold that coincides so neatly with our profit and self-interest; it is only when we hold to a principle that does not benefit us (and may, indeed, injure us in a material way) that we may feel reasonably confident of its truth

From many writers, we learn something; from a few writers, we become something; only the later are ultimately of any value.

The men who make a revolution are usually the first ones to be unseated by it, as the Old Bolsheviks were swiftly executed in Russia, and the fatal flaw in all revolutionary doctrines is that they provide no pattern of steady succession, and simply create an atmosphere for their own overthrow.

It is a singular trait in Anglo-Saxon society that brilliance is usually rewarded all the surest way to evoke suspicion in the company; unlike the Latins, who appreciate and admire verbal dexterity, we and the English instinctively suspect any man who speaks fluently and amusingly of being either "slippery" or "not quite sound."

No laborer works as hard for his necessities as the executive does for his luxuries; and this is the irony of modern-day affluence, as compared with the poverty of bygone eras — that what used to be called the "leisure class" is now the coronary class.

The psychological reason that it is becomes clear when excellence was shrewdly put by Goethe, when he observed: "There is no defense against someone else's superiority except love."

No supersultion of the ignorant is half as damaging as the chief superstition of the educated — which consists in the erroneous belief that knowing about a thing is the same thing as knowing it.

Men of real knowledge, together, not for company but for camouflage, for when the birds are all of a feather, the real stripping of each does not stand out in mass.

The conscious search for serenity is one of the main sources of conscious agitation and perpetual unfulfilment.

The real reason that it is pro. foundly immoral to live by the rule that "the ends justify the means" is that nobody can know what the ends will be, so often are they contrary to our best intentions), and all we can regulate are the means we use; and if these are cruel or evil, they in themselves pervert and deflect the ends we aim at.

Shackleton's Appeal Blunt

Vancouver Province

"Men wanted for hazardous journey"..... " When Ernest Shackleton printed the famous advertisement in 1908, he offered small wages, bitter cold, long months of complete darkness, constant danger, safe return doubtful."

Yet 5,000 men and three women volunteered to join the British Antarctic Expedition, seeking the Pioneer and recognition" which Shackleton promised in case of success."

Would an appeal of this type, which The Province reprinted the other day, bring such a response today?

We believe it would. Despite all the talk that men and women crave security and are unwilling to take risks, the emergencies of our times are usually greeted by volunteers who will accept constant danger."

There is only one warning in the advertisement we wonder about. Would today's adventurer accept those "small wages?"

Guest Seeks To Pick Menu

Ogdensburg Journal

Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, the Cuban exile leader, is in the position of the man who is invited to dinner and then tries to dictate what's to be on the menu.

After having been granted asylum in Florida, he has chosen bitter denunciation of American foreign policy as a means of expressing gratitude.

Specifically Dr. Miro charges that President Kennedy has welched on a promise to buy him a new invasion.

Whether this promise was ever actually made is not immediately clear, but there is a strong suspicion Dr. Miro is shaping matters to suit himself by giving a very broad interpretation to whatever was said between himself and the President.

What Mr. Kennedy probably promised was that Cuba one day would be free. How this freedom is to be achieved is something else again.

Dr. Miro at age 60 and full of Latin temperament is understandably impatient.

His purposes would be best served by piling his fellow exiles and a few crack American divisions in landing craft and taking off to the island. That this course of action might lead to nuclear war between the United States and Russia is of no secondary importance.

Even if Mr. Kennedy did promise Dr. Miro a new invasion which we won't believe until we hear it from the President himself — the situation has changed notably in the interim. Brave talk is fine but the fact of the matter is that Nikita Khrushchev is a more formidable enemy than Fidel Castro and plans and policies must be shaped accordingly.

Dr. Miro would best serve the cause of Cuban freedom by simmering down a bit and looking for ways to dovetail with U.S. efforts rather than with them. It should be clear at the very outset that U.S. Cuban policy is not going to be influenced by tantrums.

To Your Good Health

There Is No Sure Way Of Preventing Snoring

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear, Dr. Molner: Is there any way to make a person stop snoring? This may sound funny but it isn't. My husband is a strong, healthy man but he snores every breath he takes, and loud. He tried hard not to, but I get so little sleep. — Mrs. O. B.

I know it isn't funny. Snoring is a fluttering of the soft tissues which come during sleep. Sometimes a different position — not lying on the back — helps. Sometimes keeping the mouth closed helps by changing the air flow. (Chin straps have been used for this.)

Again, there may be an obstruction of nose or throat passages, as a result to the doctor is advisable. But there is no sure-fire answer for all cases.

Sometimes ear plugs (or cotton in the ears) will help. In the other person's ears, I mean.

Dear Dr. Molner: Kindly advise how to get rid of pinworm in a child over six. My child has been under a doctor's care, has taken medicine, scrubs his nails, we wash door knobs, etc., but he still becomes infected and it is affecting his nervous system and school work. — Mrs. E. H. M.

There is no way to do it "once and for all." Send a stamp out the sources from which he becomes reinfected. It is highly probable that someone else in the household, maybe several people, are infected but do not know it. I'd have the whole family treated at the same time. Just recently a mother complained of rectal discomfort. Pinworm was found. The children were checked and all had pinworm. The whole family is being treated simultaneously. A struggle suggest that you read my booklet, "Pinworm — The Commonest Pest." Send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper and ask for "the pinworm booklet.")

Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done for cold sores? I frequently break out with four or five of them on my lip. Some people believe this to be hereditary and others that it is a nervous condition. — J. M.

Neither heredity nor nerves is the cause. It's a virus (Herpes simplex). There is considerable medical opinion to the effect that some people are exposed to it in childhood but do not acquire any immunity to it as they do to other germs. The virus remains (according to this belief, which is planted) and breaks out into a new cold sore when resistance lags, as when you have a cold, get too tired, etc. A smallpox vaccination has been helpful for some people. For others, it doesn't, and the application of a drying agent, as a camphor lotion, is about all that you can do.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a fungus infection over the body? I have had ultra-violet treatments for it, but still have some spots left. Will this infection come back or is there a sure cure? My doctor advised spending at least an hour a day in the sun. Is this a help? — A.M.

These fungi (something on the order of mushrooms, on a microscopic scale) flourish when they happen to land in a place that suits them — sometimes the skin. The feet (athlete's foot) and the ears (fungus infections are fairly common there) are moist, warm areas, but fungi can spread to other areas. It is less usual to hear of such a widespread case as yours. It is perhaps a special type of fungus. The only cure is to make sure all of it is killed. Sunshine might contains a lot of ultra-violet, your doctor has simply pointed out a way to make your treatment less expensive.

Reply to an unsigned letter: That rectal bleeding is a clear sign of something that needs treatment. Don't worry about it at once. Treating yourself is impossible and delay may be very dangerous.

Words Alter Their Values

Memphis Commercial-Appeal

Our druggist, a highly accommodating man, had nothing but the small tube of our favorite styling cream when we inquired a few days ago. He said, however, that he would order the large size next morning and have it ready that afternoon.

The man ordered the "large" size and got more of the small tubes he already had, but when he ordered again he asked for the "giant" size and got the larger ones. In the same vein is the current tendency to speak of a "half quart" instead of a pint. The super deluxe special turns out to be the lowest priced, smallest automobile in the line and so on.

It is, we suppose, right in line with what the word "woman" knows — not to mention the men — that $4.98 is not nearly as much as $5. There seems to be a direct connection between certain words and our sense of values that we rather wonder who is being deluded. If anyone, the super public spending and straight thinking might not be an improvement.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends prides himself on fiercely being always on time that as a rule he arrives fifteen minutes ahead of time for every appointment and then parks half a block away, with his eye on his wristwatch, so as to pull up at the door exactly on the dot.

As a rule, arriving right on the dot he is rather annoyed ten minutes early, since whoever he was to meet is usually that many minutes late. It never occurs to him that his pride has cost him fifteen minutes of life.

Many a time I have pointed this out to him. But it appears that small prides are all that really hobbies. A man who can find no interest in collecting stamps, watching golf balls, poking billiard balls, or making bird houses in his cellar, can often be quite happy over sleeping in after six a.m., or always having a crease in his trousers.

Former NHL Star Dave Kerr Has Bought Queen's Motel

Former National Hockey League goalie with the Montreal Maroons and New York Rangers, Dave Kerr, is seen outside Queen's Motor Hotel of which he became owner on May 1st.

A former National Hockey League goaltender, who a couple or more decades ago played for the Montreal Maroons and the New York Rangers, is now in the motel business in Belleville.

He is 53-year-old Dave Kerr who May 1st took over ownership of the Queen's Motor Motel from Belleville hotel and motel owner J. N. Vanover.

Mr. Vanover will continue operation of the New Queen's Hotel.

Although Mr. Kerr is no stranger to the hotel business, this is his first experience as a motel owner.

"I feel the two businesses are quite similar," he laughted, "the only real difference is that in the motel business you move horizontally."

Mr. Kerr is former owner of the Empress Hotel at Peterborough and at one time was associated as a partner in the operation of the Wellington Hotel in Barrie.

PLANS IMPROVEMENTS

At the Queen's Motor Hotel he will commence immediately a renovation program to fit the premises for introduction of a dining lounge. The existed motel was one of four Belleville establishments which this week had dining lounge licences approved by the Liquor Board.

Eventually a banquet room and meeting rooms will be added at the Queen's Motor Hotel, Mr. Kerr said.

He will continue operation of the motel under the same name and with the same personnel as under Mr. Vanover's ownership.

Toronto-born, Mr. Kerr played amateur hockey with the Toronto Canoe Club juniors and then played senior hockey in Montreal before turning professional with the Montreal Maroons. He played with the Maroons for four years before going to the Rangers.

RETIRED IN 1941

He retired from hockey in 1942 and for a time worked with a Canadian brewery company before going into the hotel business.

Mr. Kerr plays golf but admits he has a soft spot in his heart for fishing and is looking forward to tossing his line into Quinte district waters this summer.

He now has his home in Toronto but will move to Belleville shortly. He has a son, David Jr., still in high school and a married daughter.

JUST USUAL SMOG

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fourteen thousand students were evacuated from 15 schools Wednesday when an obnoxious odor spread over a 20-square-mile area of east Los Angeles. Fears that the odor indicated a major natural gas leak proved groundless. Officials traced it to an unusual combination of large-scale spraying of weed killing chemicals, industrial smells and smog.

Grant Four Dining Lounge Licences Here

Dining lounge licences for two Belleville hotels and two motels were approved this week by Ontario Liquor Board.

Licences approved were for the Quinte Hotel, the New Queen's Hotel, the Queen's Motor Hotel and the Tops Motor Hotel.

In the local plebiscite held in Belleville last September, dining lounges were approved and cocktail lounges were turned down by the voters — both by very small margins.

Hay River airport was "surprisingly good."

"We were a little apprehensive at first because there was a weight limit of 16,000 pounds and the loaded C-46 weighs more than 46,000 pounds."

Capt. Fransberger said the plane had to wait 48 hour at Hay River while evacuees arrived "by canoe and outboard and everything."

A relay of trucks and boats carried evacuees through the town, laced by stretches of water and mud, to the airport.

RESCUERS RUDE

First evacuees to reach Fort Smith said flood damage was heavy.

"It was terrible," said Mrs. Alex Gordon as she stepped from a plane carrying an infant wrapped in blankets. "You wouldn't believe how bad it is if you haven't seen it."

"Everything has moved. Houses are pulled over. Cars are ruined. Telephone poles are down. There are boats — big boats — floating loose in the streets.

"I was never so scared in my life. I saw the water coming into my house Tuesday morning. We moved to a duplex on higher ground. There was water around it but the water didn't come in. There was no heat and no electricity."

She said food was running short at Hay River despite supplies. Sandwiches being flown in from Yellowknife and Fort Smith.

Meagre radio reports from Fort Simpson indicated that the island was three - quarters flooded and the river rising.

Water was believed backing up from an ice jam 10 miles downstream.

Authorities in the community wanted residents moved to the mainland one mile away.

More than 200 persons, mostly women and children, were airlifted from Hay River Wednesday.

PHILIP FIELDS FAINTER

WICK, Scotland (AP)—Prince Philip caught a 12 - year - old member of his guard of honor who fainted Wednesday as the prince passed along the ranks. Philip arrived at Wick airport for an official tour of the Highlands and was inspecting local sea cadets. James Miller pitched forward just as the prince was passing. Philip neatly caught him and handed him to an aide.

for the parallel development of both public and private broadcasting in Canada, "with an impartial agency of control."

He also said the budget for the CBC should be determined by Parliament for a period of years "in such a fashion that it cannot be changed or influenced by the government of the day, in order to preserve public broadcasting from partisan political pressure."

SESSIONS PRIVATE

Except for Mr. Pickersgill's speech late in the day, all sessions at the meeting were closed to the public and press. Reports were read to members.

The only report made public dealt with a plan for extending the exchange of recorded tapes and films to all C.A.B. members. Such tapes and films would be of Canadian content and would use Canadian acting staff and technical facilities.

The BBG requires Canadian stations to broadcast about 50-per-cent Canadian material. It was felt the exchange program would assist stations to meet the BBG's demands.

ficials of his department about the subject.

Mr. Winstermeyer said information concerning the institute's operations was brought to the Liberal party office at Queen's Park March 13 by Donald Armstrong of Windsor, brother of Howard Armstrong who, with William J. Taylor, founded the institute.

A. William Fair, co - ordinator of the retraining program for the Toronto board of education praised the Sales Motivation Institute as having "success to techniques that an ordinary individual doesn't have, and a trained full-time staff."

Mr. Fair said he had thought of organizing his own program and hiring staff instructors, but found it would be more economical to buy the course from the institute. Payment was $2.80 a day a pupil, plus 50 cents a day for administration.

(In Windsor, W. C. White, director of the Windsor board of education, said Wednesday night he was reserving comment on the subject while it was under police investigation.

BURNITS RESIGNATION

(Mr. White said Col. O'Brien had submitted his resignation a while ago and it will be considered at the next meeting of the school board May 8. He said the resignation was based on the grounds that Col. O'Brien, at 63, is one year over the regulation retirement age.

(The Windsor school board had a $30,000 surplus from operation of the program in 1962, its first year of operation, and Windsor officials say the money will be returned to the provincial government.

(More than $1,000,000 in federal and provincial grants have been paid to Windsor in student allowances and per-diem rates paid in fares for retraining unemployed workers since the program started.)

have been shown in Royal Academy exhibitions, arrived in his car 10 minutes before the banquet got under way.

PRESENTS ARMS

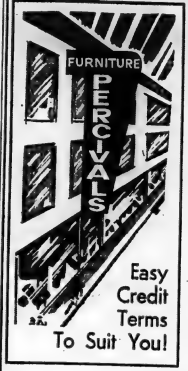
A guard of honor presented arms as he slowly climbed the steps leading to Burlington House. His chauffeur and bodyguard helped him up the steps.

A crowd gathered in the courtyard applauded the elder statesman. He smiled in acknowledgement. He wore the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter and the medallion of the Order of Merit around his neck.

At the entrance hall he was carefully guided to a wheelchair to be used to take him up to the main gallery in the elevator. He made a gesture as though to rise and said: "I'll walk." But one of the officials said: "I'm afraid you will have to keep in the chair to go up in the elevator."

Sir Winston smiled his agreement and remained in the chair as it was wheeled to the elevator.

The former prime minister served under six British monarchs—Queen Victoria, King Edward VII, George V, Edward VIII, George VI and Queen Elizabeth II.



During the intervals between cabinet jobs, Churchill served as a soldier, was a prolific writer ranging from fiction to momentous chronicles of history, painted well enough to give a one-man exhibition, and held a card in the Hucklayer's union.

He has lived—even in his declining years — always with gusto. His enjoyment of brandy and good cigars are legendary.

Fuel, Wood Business Run By Woman

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—When Eileen Lowe hears those stories about women invading fields of business formerly occupied by men, she chuckles.

She crashed a real male stronghold years ago.

Miss Lowe runs a one-woman fuel wood business. She has a truck, a tractor - driven buzz saw and a home-made conveyor to load up the truck.

She cuts up slabs from a mill and delivers the fuel for $20 a truckload.

Until a few years ago she regularly went into the woods to fell her own trees. Now she goes only occasionally.

Asked how she happened to get into what is considered among the toughest of jobs, she explains simply that she wanted to make a living.

She once tried hiring men to help her but says they didn't work hard enough. Several other women also tried but failed to keep pace and so she's on her own.

Betty Miller Flying Solo To Australia

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Mrs. Betty Miller is proving that she's a professional pilot—not just a housewife with a high-flying hobby.

Mrs. Miller, 36, of Santa Monica, Calif., is in Honolulu today after completing the first leg of her scheduled solo flight from Oakland, Calif., to Australia.

At their Santa Monica flight school, husband Chuck Miller said his wife is just a little disturbed at the frequent references to her as a "housewife."

"She's been a professional pilot for over 10 years and she doesn't want to give the impression that just anyone can cross the Pacific on a solo flight," Miller said.

Petite and pretty, Mrs. Miller serves as office manager and a senior instructor at the flight school and takes time out every year to compete in the Powder Puff Derby, the transcontinental air race for women.

She has raced six years and came in second last year.

Commissioner Booth Brings Fine Message to H.L Rally

"Love is very fragile," stated Mrs. Commissioner Wycliffe Booth, wife of the national head of the Salvation Army in Canada, as she spoke to the Women's Home League rally yesterday afternoon in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, under the heading, "Happy Family," dealing with better home life in Canada.

Basing her searching message on the story of Elisha and the Shunammite woman, whose luxuries in life were non-existent, but who, content withal, save the lack of a son, had, out of her little, bit by bit, made a room for the "Man of God" who on his various visits might have a place of rest. In return for her kindness and that of her husband, he had asked her what she most desired, to which she said, "a son." "At this time next year, God will grant the request," Elisha answered, and it was so.

The child grew and flourished, but one day in the field, he was overcome with the sun, and died from the effects. When Elisha again passed that way, the mother told him of her grief, and God, through Elisha, restored the little son to life.

DEBTS ALSO FOR WORRY

The Commissioner said that contentment with little, rather than much with debts, was better. "If you want a mind free from worry do not go into debt; if no debts, there is no worry, you are free as air; be satisfied with what God has given; buying in instalments eats up the living."

It tends to create disagreement in the home, and thereby love suffers. There were three questions Mrs. Booth asked her audience, "Is it well with you? Are you, as a mother meeting your obligations to your child; are you guiding him, physically and spiritually? Have you a spirit trust in God? Put your hand in God's; He will not leave you; He will walk with you all the way."

GUIDED ARIGHT

The second question was, "Is it well with your husband? Love is very fragile; pray for your husband," and the third was, is it well with your children, have you given them the best, and mutually? Have you helped them to lay hold on God? Have you guided them in the right choice of good literature; cautioned them about the danger of smoking, drinking? Do you protect them against the evils of the world? Do not let them grow up without protection from that which harms."

Previous to the address, a Scripture recital was given by the Picton Home League in unison, followed by a welcome by Betty Jose, who, garbed in that of a milk maid, presented a gift of cheese in a beautifully yellow decorated box, to the Commissioner, and gave a brief history of Belleville as an agricultural city.

DIVISIONAL SHIELD

One of the highlights of the afternoon was the presentation of the Divisional Shield, by the Commissioner, to Belleville for attendance and membership growth during the year. Another was the two minutes of silent tribute in memory of three who had passed on during the year — the beautiful white and pale chrysanthemums which lined the chancel were silent tributes.

A contest, which was most interesting, was that of the Canadian Home Leaguers, when each leader presented the project which they had made during the year as a means of raising money and stated the amount earned. These included little clothespin bags; floral articles, morels and others.

Mrs. Major Lindsay gave a lovely recitation bringing out the message of "in as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

A pleasing number was rendered by Mrs. Captain J. Johnson and her Home League singers, while appropriate hymns were used through the program.

Commissioner Booth was introduced and welcomed by Mrs. Captain Tuckaberry, who also extended a welcome to the Home League delegates.

The meeting, which was exceptionally well attended, was closed with prayer by Captain V. Droumbolis.

Following the afternoon message, a supper was later served in the lower auditorium of the church, to which the Dorcas Society catered.

Convention Resume Given At PTA Meet

The April meeting of Nicholson Catholic College P.T.A. was held at the College on Tuesday evening the 30th. Mr. Oriel Griffiths, the president, chaired the meeting, and Sister Mary Teresa led in prayer.

Mr. Jack Murphy gave the financial report and correspondence was read by Mr. Griffiths. This included a letter regarding the Archdiocesan Convention in Kingston, on May 11th next and a letter from Federation of C.P.T.A. re increase of per capita membership fees.

Mr. A. Mercier, on behalf of Club Pere Marquette, announced that a first prize of $10. will be awarded to a student of Grade 12 for best progress in French and second prize of $5. to student of Grade XI.

CONVENTION RESUME

Mrs. Herbert Brown gave an interesting resume of the proceedings at the C.P.T.A. convention held recently at the Royal York Hotel, in Toronto, and highlights of talks by eminent speakers including the Most Rev. P. F. Pocock, Co-adjutor Archbishop of Toronto and the Most Rev. Jos. P. Ryan, Bishop of Hamilton. The convention also featured a talk on "Citizenship" by Mr. G. P. Allen of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration, followed by a panel discussion.

Sister Teresa expressed thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Brown for her report and to Mr. Herbert Brown on his appointment as treasurer of the Federation of Catholic Parent-Teacher Associations of Ontario.

THE GIFTED ONES

At the conclusion of the business meeting, a film was presented, entitled, "The Gifted Ones," illustrating the manner in which gifted children should be treated in the school.

A social hour followed, with refreshments served by Mrs. G. Gist and her committee.

Ladies of Bay of Quinte Yacht Club Sponsor Dessert Bridge

Despite strong gusty winds a large number of ladies dressed in all their finery turned out for the dessert bridge, sponsored by the ladies of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, held yesterday afternoon at the club house. Mrs. Fred Vealland and Mrs. O. L. Pinkston warmly greeted the thronging guests at the door, while tickets were in charge of Mrs. W. Purdy.

The spacious club rooms were appropriately decorated in keeping with the spring theme for this social event, with large white baskets containing yellow chrysanthemums, giant pompoms, daffodils and pink snapdragons placed at strategic points.

The long dessert table with its snow-white linen cloth was laden with an eye-catching and mouth-watering assortment of jellies, salads, pies, tarts and cakes and was centred with an exquisite arrangement of white 'mums, pink snapdragons and pink and gold carnations. This was flanked with pencil slim tapers set in delicate Swedish crystal holders.

PRIZE WINNERS

Following the serving of desserts, (buffet style) 33 tables of bridge were played with the winners as follows: 1st, Mrs. J. Weymark; 2nd, Mrs. H. Trepanier; 3rd, Mrs. R. Booth and consolation, Mrs. A. C. Taylor. The winner of the door prize was Mrs. Grant Badgley, while winners of the other lucky prizes were: Mrs. W. Riley; Mrs. Charles Cox; Mrs. P. Hart; Mrs. J. Burkenshaw; Mrs. B. Royce; Mrs. R. Ketcheson; Mrs. J. Shiels and Mrs. Cara Allen.

A number of the ladies of the Yacht Club contributed to this successful social event.

Squadronettes Have Heavy Agenda

The Bay of Quinte Squadronettes recently held their spring meeting at the home of Commander, Doris James, 94 McDonald Gardens.

A heavy agenda of business faced the new executive, but this was dealt with quickly and efficiently.

Commander James congratulated those students who were successful in passing the recent piloting examinations. She also welcomed those who indicated a wish to join the Squadronettes. It was also pointed out that anyone holding a piloting certificate who wished to become an associate member of the National Body of the Canadian power squadron must first register with the local branch of the C.P.S.

BOATING ACTIVITIES

Also under discussion were the upcoming boating activities which commences with the spring rendezvous to be held on the Bay of Quinte June 16th. In this connection it was decided to hold three instruction periods in order to familiarize the new graduates with actual competition conditions.

The first of these lessons will be held at the home of Commander James on Monday, May 6th, commencing at 8 p.m.

The instructions will be given by Squadronettes who have experience in local, district and International competitions. It is hoped that these instruction periods will give added confidence to the lady contestants when competition time comes around.

Commander James thanked those who attended the meeting and expressed the hope that the club is now embarking on what will be a season of safe and pleasurable boating.

Simplified Stroganoff

by Mary Moore

Perfect for Buffet or Smorgasbord

This all began with Rilda, our friend in California, sending us a recipe called Hamburger Stroganoff. Down-there if you buy a hamburger in a "Hamburger Heaven" you can pay as high as $1.50 and quite properly (it appears) should be in evening dress for the occasion.

So this Hamburger Stroganoff was worth investigating. But the hamburg meat in my store looked too fat for my liking so I ordered 1¼ pounds ground roums which cost me $1.34.

So use your own judgment. This is so good I recommend it for a guest meal. The combination of flavors seems to be perfect and the dish will serve from 6 to 8. Add $1.34 to 30c for the mushrooms and about 20c for the sour cream and with the other ingredients it will cost around $2.00. If you use hamburg meat take off 70c (and when making it leave out the butter for you can saute the onion with the hamburg which has enough fat in it for the rauteing).

ELEGANTLY SIMPLE STROGANOFF:

2 tablespoons butter or margarine or beef fat or drippings, 2 tablespoons dried onion or ½ medium onion, chopped, 1½ lbs. ground chuck beef (or lean hamburg), 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper (preferably freshly ground), ¼ cup flour, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons whole milk, ½ lb. fresh mushrooms, scrubbed and sliced, 1 cup dairy sour cream, noodles or rice.

Melt butter or margarine or beef fat and add onion, then ground beef broken up and stir constantly until beef is not red. Add flour and salt and pepper and stir well. Add sliced mushrooms. Stir. Stir in milk until it thickens. Add sour cream. Heat through. Serve with or over noodles using a 13-oz. package cooked in plenty of salted water until tender, and drained or serve with or on hot fluffy boiled rice.

NOTE:

If desired, a little garlic may be added.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Chili con Carne; Buttered and Oven - Toasted Rye Bread; Asparagus Salad on Leaf Lettuce with Mayonnaise (see Wednesday); Ice Cream with Chocolate Sauce; Almond Macaroons; Tea.

SUNDAY (Guests)

Elegantly Simple Stroganoff with Noodless or Rice (see Thursday); Hot Asparagus with Hollandaise (see Wednesday); Waldorf Salad with Almonds; Stuffed Prunes Dorchester (see Monday); Lady Fingers; Coffee.

NOTE TO DIETERS:

This dish is simply elegant even before the sour cream is added. So let conscience guide you.

NOTE TO BUDGETERS OF TIME AND MONEY:

When you have to count time as well as pennies, this is a grand dish to make up in advance and reheat to serve over noodles or rice at mealtime. To reheat stand casserole in a pan containing hot water and heat, covered, 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. Cook the noodles or rice at mealtime — not in advance. You can leave out the sour cream, of course if you're watching cost.

WEDDING

KINGSTON — CAMPBELL

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, April 6, at 1.00 p.m., in Christ Church, Belleville, by the Rev. R. J. Fleming, rector of the church, when Sharon Dawn Campbell, of Belleville, young-est daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton T. Campbell, became the bride of J.C. Wayne Williams, Kingston, of Olympia, Washington, D.C. son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kingston. Lovely Easter lillies, and ferns adorned the altar for the ceremony.

Mr. John "Sodden" Withers, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her pale pink bridal gown of peau de soie in cocktail length, fashioned with fitted bodice accented with white lace appliqué. The bell-shaped skirt was enhanced by a lace side panel ending at the back. She wore a scarflized headdress in floral shape and finger-tip veil of silk tulle illusion, matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of pale pink Sweetheart roses centred with a white orchid surrounded by white stephanotis, and tied by a white satin bow.

Her attendant was her only sister, Mrs. Ronald Riles, who was gowned in deep pink shantung, with pink petal headdress, with matching accessories and carried a bell shaped bouquet of pink carnations tied with lace streamers.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Gerald Kingston of Olympia, Washington, D.C.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents which was adorned with pink and white spring flowers and pink and white candles for the occasion. A buffet luncheon was served.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white damask, and centred by a double tier wedding cake topped by two white doves with wedding rings beneath an arch of lilies of the valley. Tall pink and white candles in crystal holders and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting. Lovely pink tulle encircled the base of the cake.

The bride's mother received, attired in a two-piece beige linen suit with pale green accessories and corsage of white and pale pink carnations.

For the wedding trip by motor to New York City and western points, the bride chose a two-piece blue linen suit, with white accessories and corsage of white carnations and a white orchid.

Guests were present from Olympia, Washington, D.C., Whitby, Ontario, and Belleville.

Hospital Auxiliary Problems Discussed at Region 9 Meet

A most successful meeting of Region No. 9 of Women's Hospital Auxiliaries was held on May 1st, 1963 in Education Hall of the Belleville General Hospital. Presiding was Mrs. Harold Keefer, of Trenton, who is chairman of this region.

Some 30 Hospital Auxiliary members were present and participated in a profitable day's analysis of Hospital Auxiliary problems. The ladies were welcomed by Mrs. F. A. Beeby, president of the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary.

Delegates were present from Trenton, Kingston, Brockville, Campbellford and Napanee. All the complexities of the business session members were given a presentation of the recent Leadership Training Conference in Toronto by Mrs. E. M. Billings of Brockville. Following this, Mrs. D M Brebner, Director of Volunteer Services for Kingston General Hospital, gave a most interesting talk on "Teenage Volunteers" and showed how these young people could be interested in hospital work and encouraged towards subsequent service. There were, Mrs. Brebner stressed, several areas within hospitals in which teenagers could serve most successfully.

MONEY RAISING WAYS

There followed an illuminating presentation of novel ways of raising money for hospital auxiliary work. Mrs. W. F. Scott of Campbellford, Mrs. A. Clarke of Prince Edward County and Mrs. B. A. McNamee of St. Mary's-on-the-Lake, Kingston, all told of their most successful fund-raising activities and, since the subject vitally interests every auxiliary member, this was a popular topic.

After luncheon, the head table guests were introduced by Mrs. Keefer, who extended a particularly warm welcome to Mrs. K. McFarland, the first president of the newest auxiliary within the region, Leanox and Addington. The thanks of the gathering were expressed to Mr Werner Dauchez, administrator of Belleville General Hospital.

Miss Hazel Naudett, Admistrator of Trenton Memorial Hospital, who was introduced by Mrs. Thorne Spear, gave a most interesting adress on the subject, "The Administrator looks at the Auxiliary". One gathered from Miss Naudett's enthusiasm that there was little doubt that district hospitals function more smoothly with the help of well qualified, active auxiliaries. Miss Naudett emphasized the importance of the closest co-operation between the administrator and the auxiliary. The long-term value of this discourse was pointed out by Mrs. M. L. Jones of Belleville when thanking the speaker.

"STRIP TEA"

Next, the ladies of Belleville General Hospital Auxiliary presented their famous "Strip Tea" and showed in a most hilarious manner, how, by this means, valuable merchandise was secured for their Opportunity Shop, which is the chief money-raiser for their auxiliary. Taking part were: Mrs. J. B. Casey, Mrs. J. Darlington, Mrs. J. Parrott, Mrs. J. Eliard, Mrs. G. Harvey and Mrs. J. H. Forrester.

The concluding item on the program was a problem Clinic. This took the form of Buzz sessions on the following topics - Fund-raising, Interpreting the Hospital to the Community, program-planning, New Trends in Volunteer Services and Leadership training. These groups were conveners by Mrs. A. Clark of Picton; Mrs. B. E. Burley, Belleville; Mrs. C. Baker, Trenton; Mrs. D. M. Brebner, Kingston and Mrs. E. M. Billings, Brockville.

Thanks were expressed by the chairman to Mrs. M. F. L. Jones who had been in charge of arrangements at the hospital, and by Mrs. Kelly of Kingston to the ladies of the Trenton Auxiliary who had compiled the program From the enthusiastic participation and enlightening discussions it would appear that a most profitable day had been enjoyed by all auxiliary members present.

Ghanaian Girl Wins Medal In Proficiency

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 23-year-old Ghanaian student will have to wait two years before being able to show her gold medal to relatives and friends.

Agnes Aidoo, an attractive senior at St. Paul's College here, won the Lieutenant-Governor's award for scholastic proficiency with an 80-per-cent average during the 1961-62 school year.

Miss Aidoo, who will graduate this spring with a BA, is studying in Canada under a Commonwealth scholarship.

She's anxious to show off her medal to her parents, six brothers and four sisters "but that will be at least two years from now."

After graduation here, she plans to seek an MA at the University of Toronto and then return to Ghana to teach.

She had originally planned to study law in Canada.

"Time, lack of money and a desire to get back home influenced my decision," she said, "but most important I feel that I can contribute more to Ghana by teaching than by practising law."

NOW MODELS

MONTREAL (CP) — Maria Beatrice Tucci, 23-year-old Italian actress in Tennessee Williams' play "The Milk Train Doesn't Stop Here Anymore" which folded after two months in New York, is filling in time promoting Italian fashions. She was in Montreal for two days modelling Italian clothes.

Contact Club Presents Colorful 'Coffee Serenade'

The Parish Hall of Christ Church was transformed last evening into a musical spring garden announcing to all the "Coffee Serenade" of the Contact Club. Graciously receiving the many friends who arrived were, Mr. R. Fleming, wife of the rector and Mrs. E. Lake, president of the Contact Club.

The tea room hostess, Evelyn Beeby, greeted the guests as they entered through the arbor. Those serving were Ruth Owen, Irene Weatherstone, Edith Pringle, Mabel Danjanou, June Fisher and Trudy Sands.

The popular bake table, adorned with Maypole supported with yellow and turquoise streamers, was convened by Myra Cresswell and Joan Ford, and the tempting array of tarts, cakes, pies, bread and rolls, kept their helpers Mary Phillips, Dorothy Sinclair, Dorothy Kelly and Dorothy Montague profitably busy.

ATTRACTIVE TEA ROOM

The tea room was attractively decorated in a musical floral theme. Individual tables covered with dainty pastel cloths were centred with spring flowers surrounded by delicious sugares, fancy cookies and tarts. The head table with a tastefully arranged centre floral display, set off the silver tea services. The beautiful candle holders, an heirloom, were graciously loaned by Mrs. R. Owen. Those who poured were: Mrs. Roulet, Mrs. Fussen, Mrs. Shappee and Mrs. Stewart.

Ticket convener was Mary Fletcher.

June Woodley handled the advertising and the pleasing music was rendered by Laura Bird.

Convener of the "Coffee Serenade" was Shirley Harris, who is to be congratulated on this successful evening enjoyed by members and guests alike.

Nurses May Form Union To Bargain

TORONTO (CP)—The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario will consider the advantages of forming a union for collective bargaining with hospital boards at its annual meeting which starts here today.

The organization would hope to achieve standard pay rates throughout the province, said Doris Gidney, assistant executive secretary.

She said a growing number of nurses are in favor of turning the organization into a bargaining agent.

At present, the 30,000-member voluntary organization, representing about 70 per cent of all nurses in Ontario, can make recommendations but has no power as a bargaining agent.

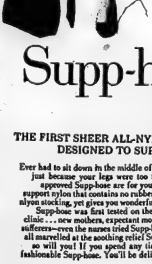
The association recommends a starting salary of $325 a month for general staff nurses.

'Wardrobe Co-Ordination' Topic at Med. A.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Hastings and Prince Edward County Medical Societies was held at the home of Mrs. J. Hartt.

From the proceeds of the "Fashion Show" held last February, it was decided to give a donation to the Salvation Army to send children to summer camp. Cheques will be sent also to the Belleville Association, and to the Trenton and Brighton Association for Retarded Children; to Care of Canada; and to the Bursary and Loan Fund of the Ontario Medical Association.

The guest speaker, Mrs. M. Burgess, was introduced by Mrs. N. Reid. Mrs. Burgess gave a most interesting and entertaining talk about "Wardrobe Co-ordination". She spoke about style line, color and fabric and said that in choosing one's wardrobe the wearer must keep in mind her activities. Mrs. Burgess was thanked by Mrs. A. Miles.



Refreshments were served by the hostess.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A wise old proverb reminds us that while one father can sustain a dozen children, a dozen children find it difficult to sustain one father.

It is, of course, easy to love children. Just a society is tested by how it behaves toward the old.

In our day, science has succeeded in adding long years to life. Yet many who have received this "bonus" have no place where they may cash it. More and more of our older folk are made to feel that they have outlived their usefulness. Many even feel that they have to apologize for being alive.

The great tragedy is that instead of representing victory, old age now symbolizes defeat. It is not really a privilege; it is a punishment.

We have a long way to travel to move off the low road we have taken — the road that leads nowhere. We worship youth as if we never expected to reach older age. We have dumped our elders as so much unnecessary, excess baggage; one day we, too, will arrive at the end of the road — empty-handed.

As a result, elderly people now assume, together with others, that older age is a time of stagnation. They have been coerced into believing that their productive years have come to a "timely" end and that there is no room left within them for growth.

But is childhood the only formative period of life?

MANY OPPORTUNITIES

The years of older age offer many opportunities to re-form our lives. They provide us with ample chances to unlearn the foolishness of a lifetime, to refine our sense of fair - play, to see through our self - deceptions. When we were younger, we wrongly supposed that our colleagues stood as obstacles to our achievement; we were so busy trying to win the race, all the time. Now that life's moments have changed our pace to slower speeds, time can be cherished, not squandered. We have time and experience — the present, as well as the past — to help us see life's meanings in new proportions and dimensions. We need not repeat our old failures nor continue to hug too closely to our bosoms the vain and impossible pursuits of our youth. We not only have new lessons to learn, we've got new concepts to teach.

One teacher has suggested that we ought to enter old age the way one enters the senior year at a university, in exciting anticipation of consummation: "Rich in perspective, experienced in failure, the person advanced in years is capable of shedding prejudice and the fever of vested interests." Since we need not be afraid of having to repeat the course, we ought to take courage that we have already passed the preliminary tests. Instead of fearing failure we can speak with the confidence born of past achievement.

But truth to tell, many older folk fear the wrong things — they are afraid to act their age, when being themselves is their only way to self - fulfillment. But there is no fool like an old fool who is trying to act like a young fool.

Instead of capitalizing on their often - transferable assets, they lose themselves in their vain attempt to be someone else. Bankruptcy follows.

Young people have duties to perform to elders: the duty of hearkening and reverencing those who have given them life.

But elders have duties, too. Theirs is the duty to make the most of their years — to think, speak, live and act their age.

They have words to speak and ways to explore which younger hearts need to hear and to understand.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: Is the maid of hon. or supposed to give a shower for the bride-to-be? A friend has asked me to stand up for her. I work as a secretary and have a small apartment of my own. It wouldn't be large enough for a shower. If I'm obliged to give one, I'd probably have to hold it in a restaurant, and I cannot afford that kind of expense. Would you kindly advise me on this point? If a shower is necessary, I'll have to decline her invitation, much as I'd like to be her maid-of-honor? — R. H., Stamford, Conn.

NO OBLIGATION

Answer: Any close friend of the bride-to-be may give a shower. The maid-of-honor often gives it, simply because she's usually the bride's closest friend but she's under no obligation to do so.

Question: A boy I know has invited me to a formal dance at his school. He already has asked me what kind of flowers I'd like to wear. Since he is bringing me a corsage, should I buy him a flower to wear in his buttonhole? Several girls I know are doing this for their dates. Of course, they go steady and they tell me that it's proper for them to do so. I do not go steady with the boy who has invited me, and I'm afraid it would seem forward of me to buy him a boutonniere. What do you think? — E. M., Chicago, Illinois.

Answer: I agree. A young lady may snip a flower from her corsage and give it to her date to wear, but I don't think it's necessary — or even generally customary — for a girl to buy her date a boutonniere, whether they go steady or not.

'Spring Time' Theme of Tea Held by the Rebekah Lodge

PICTON — About three hundred ladies wended their way to the OddFellows hall Wednesday afternoon when Macbpelah Rebekah Lodge held its annual tea. The theme was "Spring Time" and this was effectively carried out in the decorations. The sun shone brightly outside, causing the early morning snow to disappear and make a more suitable setting. Although the weather man co-operated, there was nothing but signs of spring indoors. At the top of the stairs at the entrance, huge flowers were entwined on a white trellis while a huge "sun" and streamers added to a colorful background.

On the main floor was the long table laden with tempting baked and canned goods, with Mrs. Gene Miller, Mrs. Reta Foster and Mrs. Earl Hicks as conveners. Here, also, tea were received by Mrs. Laura Crawford at a flower-decked table beside which a rose tree bloomed.

On the second floor, bazaar tables had bright backgrounds. Bright red geraniums, bunches of cut flowers and plants made a flower bower in charge of Mrs. Maude Carson and Mrs. Lillian Reid. Much fancy sewing and knitting and unusual items were offered in novelty nook by Mrs. Mary Wilson and Mrs. Mabel Lovell. Aprons of every description were in the booth convened by Mrs. Gladys Sayers and Mrs. Hilda Higginson. Making a gay splash of color was the array of straw hats for every occasion, in charge of Mrs. Kathleen Brummell.

RECEIVED GUESTS

At the entrance to the dining hall, with standards holding baskets of flowers as a background, Mrs. Elsie Hicks, Noble Grand and Mrs. Dorothy Preston, Vice-Grand, graciously received the guests. They, with the officers convened the tea, while Mrs. Coral Gardiner was convener of the bazaar. Reservations were received by Mrs. Edith Bryant.

Showing guests to tables in the lodge room and dining hall were Mrs. Reta Francis, Mrs. Alice Lavender, Mrs. Katherine Bowers.

Pretty young girls, carrying gaily decorated baskets, moved through the rooms selling homemade candy under the direction of Mrs. Irene Pearsoll. Conveners of the food, Mrs. Maizie Carson and Mrs. Mary Coulter were assisted by Mrs. Margaret Burford, Mrs. Kay Wright, Mrs. Henrietta Cockburn, Mrs. Nedra Palen, Mrs. Artilla Emerson, Mrs. June Gayton, Mrs. Mae Everall, Mrs. Grace Gayton, Mrs. Edythe Hubbard, Mrs. Vera Campbell, Mrs. Viola Smith.

Serving were Mrs. Ruby Whitney, Mrs. Marion Wright, Mrs. Doris Head, Mrs. Muriel Lehaup, Mrs. Helen Walker, Mrs. Mildred Fennell, Mrs. Phyllis Wight, Mrs. Doris Seeley, Mrs. Janet Jeffery, Mrs. Norma Guernsey, Mrs. K. Brummell, Mrs. Madeline Rolston, Mrs. Betty Stevenson, Mrs. Nancy Jones, Mrs. Ila Rand, Mrs. Bessie Taylor, Mrs. Doris Robinson, Mrs. Neida Barker, Mrs. Hilda Foster, Mrs. Connie Rabbie, Mrs. Doris Tripp, Mrs. Rosemary Brown, Mrs. Joan Hay, Mrs. Olive Fraser, Miss Dorothy Thurston, Mrs. Lillian Lobb.

Assisting in the kitchen were Miss Christie Mitchell, Mrs. Ruth Ackerman, Mrs. Lillian Channell, Mrs. Doris Whiteford, Mrs. Hilda Fraser, Mrs. Hazel Ciark, Miss Shirley Blower.

The draw was in charge of Mrs. Gerry Dulmage.

BOUQUETS ARRANGED

Throughout the rooms, double baskets filled with pink flowers were suspended from the ceiling. About the walls were artistically arranged bouquets of spring flowers. A color scheme of pink and blue was carried out on the tables with white linen cloths. Pink napkins were banded in blue. Place cards were enhanced by a flower while centres were daintily painted branches with delicate pink and blue blossoms.

Adding to the beauty of the scene were the ladies themselves, with new spring dresses and hats blending into a scene of loveliness.

The Rebekah tea is one of the season's most popular events, reservations closing weeks before the event takes place. Members excel not only in novel ideas and decorations, but in the refreshments as well. This year's "special treat" was a pineapple dessert served in pastel shades. May baskets which blended with the overall color scheme.

Even before the event was over, there were requests for next year's tea and this will likely be a "Golden Tea," since 1904 sees the fiftieth anniversary of Macbpelah Rebekah Lodge.

Among the hostesses were Mrs. Norman McDonald and Mrs. Earl Benson who entertained seventy guests; Mrs. A. LeHeup and Mrs. A. B. MacDonald. Presbyterian Church ladies, twelve Trenton Rebekahs, Mrs. B. Gerow, Mrs. William Gassire, Mrs. W. W. Clow, Crystal Chapter, Miss Emma Welbanks, Mrs. William Lane, Mrs. E. Carley, Miss Gertrude Walmsley, Mrs. A. O. McGinnis, Mrs. Milton Dulmage, Mrs. Ralph Grimmon, Mrs. Edgar Keep, Mrs. Amos McKibbon, Mrs. W. Tree Planting Now in Progress At Sand Banks

PICTON — Annual tree planting on the dunes at the Sand Banks is again in progress. Rainy weather has been ideal, since plenty of moisture in the sand gives the trees a good start.

Up to Wednesday, 50,000 Scotch pine, 20,000 white spruce and 50,000 white pine had been planted.

Shipment of 25 to 40 thousand Carolina poplar expected Thursday are being planted this weekend.

The planting is done to prevent drifting of sand. Many are planted beneath trees which have grown quite high but will eventually die, so that replacements are ready. Planting provides employment to about 25 persons.

Transportation Bootlegging, Infant of the Early 1930s, Now an Economic Monster

NEW YORK (AP)—Bootlegging of liquor went out with prohibition 30 years ago—but when bootlegging in U.S. transportation was being born.

Today, the illegitimate infant of the early 1930s has grown into an economic monster. Some authorities estimate that one of every four trucks on the highway operates outside the law or in the "grey" area of questionable legality.

They think possibly $5,000,000,000 a year in illicit or doubtful revenues is involved. This is income siphoned away from the legitimate truck, rail, water and air transporters, the ones publicly enfranchised to serve all the public under rigid rules on rates, schedules, safety and financial responsibility.

The diversion contributes to the wobbly condition of many legitimate carriers.

EVADE LAWS

The shady and outlaw truckers specialize in evading interstate commerce laws, often by complicated truck leasing arrangements and phoney deals.

So complex are the regulations, so ingenious the evasions, so vast the U.S. highway network, that officialdom approaches the policing problem haltingly and, more often than not, ineffectually.

There is yet another type of unregulated hauler, strictly illegitimate, who saps the strength of companies that make transportation their sole business.

This is the industrial or private carrier transporting his own product, a class that has claimed a big and growing slice of the transportation pie.

Using purchased or leased equipment, he seeks lower costs and topnotch service for particular business needs—better, he believes, than the public transportation specialist can provide.

COULD MAROON TOWNS

From U.S. Steel Corporation on down, industry provides at least some of its own transportation. Unregulated carriage by both the lawful and the chiselling—before long may swamp the whole regulated or common carrier system, marooning small communities and small shippers off the beaten track, some experts say.

"Gypsy" trucking has flourished via a regulatory gap that exempts all carriers except railroads from controls in haulage of agricultural commodities.

Originally intended to protect the farmer moving crops to a nearby market, the agricultural exemption has been stretched to cover cross-country movements and such cargo as TV dinners, powdered milk, eviscerated chickens, shell eggs, shelled peanuts, certain citrus juices in bulk and a variety of other products.

Inter-regional movements of such vast crops as wheat and corn are legally exempt, of course.

SEEK RETURN LOADS

In the economics of any form of transport, a revenue load on the return trip is critical. This makes the agricultural exemption a tempting lure to the private industrial carrier going both ways home.

And it provides an almost indispensable disguise for many black marketeers as well as cut-throat return-trip hauling "for gas money" that steals business from legitimate transporters with rigid published rates.

It explains, for example, why a trucker supposed to be hauling 10 pounds of paint, a load subject to regulation.

Clarence Kelly, board chairman, says the American Trucking Association believes a major blow could be struck for legitimate operations by restricting the agricultural exemption to the farm - to - market movements.

But Ben Heineman, board chairman of the Chicago and North Western Railway sees this as a half measure impossible to police, and asserts throwing the field wide open to all public carriers is the only effective answer.

Maze of expensive lathes and other machines in the machine shop of the new wing at Moira Secondary School is seen above. Class is part of new technical shops training offered under the Robarts plan. Display Night Is Staged at Moira School

It was display night last night at Moira Secondary School when students in the various departments stgatted their stuff for admiring parents and friends.

School Principal James W. Musgrove estimated that at least one thousand persons, in addition to school students, turned out for the night's program.

"We feel that the display night was very successful," he said.

Included in the night's program were displays of shop and art work, with students working at their machines or doing the work in their particular departments.

FASHION SHOW HELD

In the school gymnasium a well - presented fashion show drew a large attendance, as did the gymnastic display, which saw three sets of activities presented simultaneously.

In fact parents found the evening so integrating that many remained long after the intended closing hour at 9:30 and were still inspecting the various displays until after ten.

Of particular interest to many was the new girls' occupational training department which has been set up at Moira as part of the new Robarts school curriculum plan.

Here the girls learn sewing, restaurant services, home nursing, merchandising and personal grooming.

Last night the girls studying in this department demonstrated what they have been learning, while other classrooms, shops and workshops were also open for inspection.

Refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

Italian Voters Are Playing Both Ends Against Middle

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Italian voters are playing both ends against the middle and parliamentary democracy may suffer as a result.

In the weekend election, confounding most forecasts, extremist parties of right and left registered gains at the expense of the moderate centre that has dominated Italian politics for nearly two decades.

Fourteen months ago, seeking greater political flexibility, Fanfani boldly brought his centrist party into association with Pietro Nenni's socialists, accepting their supportin return for promises of legislative reform.

PUSHED TO RIGHT

If successful, the left-centre alliance would have eased the pressure exerted upon the Italian political system by Palmiro Togliatti's Communists, long locked in uneasy alliance with the Nenni socialists.

In Italy as in France, the extreme left acts as a negative influence. Fear of the Communist "scarecrow" pushes the right-wing parties away from the centre and leaves the moderates suspended between two extremes.

The elections seem to show that Fanfani did not detach the socialists from the Communist embrace may need more time. Some of Nenni's supporters, involved at the idea of collaborating with the Christian Democrats, have voted Communist.

POOR VOTE RED

One of the puzzles of Italian politics is the durability of Communist electoral magnetism. Italy is booming; but one of every four voters follows the Togliatti line.

One explanation is the uneven distribution of post - war affluence. The glittering prosperity of northern cities such as Milan stands in an affront to the desolation of the backward south and the disparity grows despite all efforts to shift industry southward. Thousands of farm workers annually trek north, cluster in the northern slums and cast their votes for the Communists.

As Italy's industrialization proceeds, workers may become more attracted to "bourgeois capitalism," thus improving prospects for an effective "opening to the left." Meantime, a period of uncertainty may ensue.

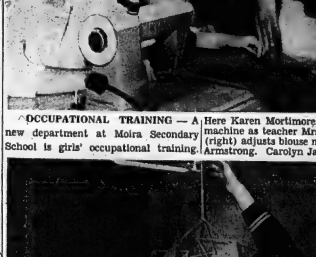
One Reason for NATO Force Is to Halt West Germany

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the underlying reasons seen here for a NATO nuclear force is to prevent West Germany from embarking on development of its own nuclear strike group.

The new Liberal government is said to feel committed to supporting creation of such a force for this and other reasons although it does not look on it as a foolproof safeguard against an independent German nuclear arm.

No official here regards a NATO nuclear force as militarily worthwhile. Canada would prefer to have the U.S. retain under its sole control, the world's nuclear striking power.

But political advantages are foreseen: Advancement of the Atlantic Community concept as opposed to President de Gaulle's Europeanism; a larger voice for European NATO countries in nuclear control; and the firmer binding of West Germany to the North Atlantic alliance.



The NATO ministerial meeting here May 22-24 is expected to take a small step toward creation of a genuine NATO nuclear force by approving an inter - allied combination of nuclear fighting groups already in being.

This combination would bring together, under U.S. control, some American Polaris missile submarines, RAF Bomber Command, and tactical air groups in Europe including Canada's eight-squadron air division.

Officials here say about the only advantage in such a force would be co-ordinated assignment of targets.

This is a long way from the "close and flexible political control that meets the needs of all NATO countries" which President Kennedy proposed in his speech to the Canadian Parliament May 17, 1961.

The NATO meeting is expected to mull this over for the fifth time without reaching any decisions on NATO nuclear control.

IT'S A MOBILE—Marianne Bakker and Gayle Flindall offer moral assistance to Bill Gibson as he hangs a "mobile" in preparation for display night at Moira Secondary School. Construction of a mobile gives art students training in three dimensional abstract work.

Behind Abortive Bombing Raid on Havana Refinery Lies a Frightening Story

The following story concerning the buildup for a bombing raid over Havana, Cuba, last Thursday was made available to The Associated Press by the Boston Traveler. It was written by Traveler reporter John Raymond who spent time with the raiders as they made preparations.

By JOHN RAYMOND
Copyright, 1963
Boston Traveler

BOSTON (AP) — Behind last Thursday's abortive bombing raid on a Havana oil refinery lies an amazing, even frightening story.

It is a story of secret Florida "arsenals" . . . a makeshift air "fleet" . . . gun-running missions to the Cuban coast . . . and a band of American adventurers willing to risk war to gain Fidel Castro's overthrow.

Their raid on the Cuban refinery last week was merely one facet of their operations. Here is a first-hand look at some of the others during four hair-raising days spent with these self-styled freedom fighters earlier last month.

Among other things:

I watched some of their Cuban-exile comrades load hand grenades in a Miami apartment.

I saw a 100-pound high-explosive in a backyard Miami shed.

I flew to a hidden arms cache on a tiny key in the Caribbean.

DROP OFF ARMS

I spent a harrowing night in the Florida Straits, on a boat which dropped off guns and ammunition on a Cuban beach for anti-Castro guerrillas.

The trip began with a phone call from Alexander I. Rorke, Jr., a 36-year-old New Yorker who is head of a group known as U.S. Freedom Fighters and ther chief recruiters.

He was later to take part in the air attack on Havana.

"I'm flying to Florida and the Bahamas tonight to get my boat back and annoy Castro," he told me. "Want to come along?"

The boat Rorke referred to was Violynn III. It had finally turned up in Miami with its crew of 16 Cuban exiles and one American. They had been thwarted in an attempt to run guns into Cuba and then attack a Russian ship heading for the Red-held island.

Picked up on Normans Cay by Bahamas police and Royal Marines, the raiders were put in prison on Nassau for four days, then released. Their guns were returned but not their ammunition.

When Violynn III pulled into Miami, U.S. customs agents seized the 35-foot motor boat but let the crew go. The guns had "vanished."

Rorke said there were more than 200 in the freedom fighters, all Americans. They operate out of Florida and the Bahamas—also the Caribbean area—and include a number of college students, some from the Boston area.

EXILE EXILES

He continually referred to those in his group as "freedom technicians" and said they assist exile groups in their anti-Castro activities.

Rorke is a tall non-smoking, non-drinking, black-haired Irishman.

He believes anti-Castro guerrillas must be well-armed if they are ever to stage a successful revolt. But that, he insists, still isn't enough.

"We should attack Soviet ships bringing weapons and other supplies into Cuba," he said. "We should throw a total blockade around the island." To fill the breach, "Rorke's Raiders"—as they are known around Miami and the Bahamas—are engaged in arming Cuban guerrillas and "planning" hit-run commando raids.

Some of Rorke's critics say he is sitting atop a nuclear powder keg with political matches. But he shrugs off such comments.

"We're already fighting a war," he said. "Now it's just a matter of whether we win or lose."

Professor Suggests All Corporate Income Should Be Taxed on Shareholders

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto university professor tackled the problems surrounding the retained earnings of corporations today by suggesting that all corporate income be taxed on the shareholders regardless of whether they receive the money.

Professor J. E. Sands of the University of Toronto's political economy department said the practice of shareholders allowing their dividends to accumulate within corporations — so they won't have to pay personal income tax on them—is bad for investors and for the country as a whole.

When income is retained by a corporation the value of the shares tend to rise and the shareholders can sell their shares at a tax-free capital gain.

Professor Sands said in a brief to the Carter royal commission on taxation that these accumulated earnings stimulate corporations to expand continuously "even though profit prospects may not warrant expansion." It brought about artificial stimulation of investment and "resources are misallocated and aggregate production is reduced."

AN EFFECT, A LOAN?

To permit shareholders to defer taxes indefinitely on income retained by corporations, "is, in effect, to make interest-free loans to them for investment, out of the taxes paid by the rest of the country."

He said his suggestions would probably result in bigger dividends with more money flowing through the economy.

An apparent objection to this plan, said Professor Sands, involves the argument that "it would be unfair to tax a person on money he did not receive.

"The answer to this objection is that it would seldom be the least bit difficult for a shareholder to obtain the necessary cash." Even if the shareholder did not want to sell the shares, he could borrow money against them.

A second objection, he said, might be the fact that shares are often held for a short period of time and it would be difficult to calculate the amount earned by a corporation in these periods.

The answer would be make the tax payable over a complete fiscal year of the corporation.

Premier Lloyd Critical of Ontario Plan

REGINA (CP) — Premier Woodrow S. Lloyd of Saskatchewan says Ontario's proposed medical care insurance plan has some "serious shortcomings."

Mr. Lloyd, whose CCF provincial government implemented a compulsory universal medical plan last summer, said in a statement Tuesday the suggested voluntary Ontario scheme could not offer insurance at minimum cost.

"This is only possible when everyone is required to participate," the premier said.

He was critical of the Ontario plan for proposing to segregate persons who cannot pay their own medical care premiums and for not relating cost to ability to pay.

The Ontario plan proposes that private insurance companies will offer a basic contract of medical insurance at a premium fixed by a government committee. The contract would be available to all but would not disturb the 70 per cent of the province's population who now have some form of medical insurance. The government will be responsible for persons unable to pay the premiums.

Mr. Lloyd said the Ontario plan would segregate people into two groups—those who can pay their own way and those who receive public assistance. The Ontario plan would put an unfair burden on borderline income groups, he added.

His Success Wasn't Enough, Now He Works for the 'Y'

WINNIPEG (CP) — In the unusual career of Maurice Strong, business success wasn't enough.

He had attained that 10 years ago in the Alberta oil business after leaving school at 13 and serving a stint as a sailor. He was 23. But he was looking for something else.

"One day I went home and told my wife we'd sell our new home and furniture and go around the world to search for something I knew I had to find."

In Asia, Africa and Europe he found the YMCA at work.

"He had been unconcerned about "Christianity, the faith and certainly about the YMCA," he said in an interview recently. But when he got back home to Calgary he "just walked into the Y and congratulated them on their success everywhere."

It was just a matter of time before Mr. Strong, formerly of Oak Lake, Man., became involved in YMCA work.

Now he is chairman of the National YMCA world service committee in Montreal, chairman of the association's international world service planners in Geneva and YMCA representative at the Canadian Council of Churches.

WENT TO RUSSIA

Father of five—one an adopted girl from Austria — he recently returned from a trip to Russia to arrange an exchange of four Canadian and four Russian youth leaders this summer.

Last fall he attended YMCA meetings in Stockholm and other European centres and, when interviewed, was preparing for a trip to Madras for consultations and then to Korea and Hong Kong to see the world service in action.

He said he is still a businessman. He belongs to about a dozen business associations and is a director, president or chairman of 30 commercial enterprises in Canada.

Mr. Strong hopes to see increasing government realization in Canada that youth is important. In time, maybe within five or 10 years, he said, the state might decide to subsidize independent youth activities.

He would oppose a government policy of merely picking up the tab or one involving political or non-political interference by the government in youth affairs.

HAMPERED BY APATHY

What he would like to see is a self-help stimulation program through state resources matching funds raised by groups.

"This would induce and stimulate ingenuity, initiative and appreciation of activities."

Mr. Strong said he thinks the YMCA is hampered in Canada by general apathy. . .

"We've all ready and willing to risk resources and life in war and make sacrifices for the country and our way of life. But in peace we seem to lack a sense of crisis, a sense of urge."

He suggested more education and understanding to help the situation.

"We know how to die for our values, but we don't know how to live for them."

SINNERS WELCOME

CHICOPEE, Mass. (AP) — Rev. C. W. Kirkpatrick, pastor of the federated church, says the sermon at next Sunday's 10:45 a.m. service is "for sinners only and all saintly persons are requested to stay home."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Wednesday in Peterborough a husky young gentleman inhaled deeply, puffed his cheeks and jetted the air at a handsome birthday cake that was adorned with five candles.

Five years ago Wednesday in the roaring cheering cacophony of a hockey dressing room in the arena at Kelowna, B.C., a sweat-streaked, champagne-drenched hockey player-coach joined his mates in vociferous celebration.

Held high with proud hands the time-honored Allan Cup gurgled with the "bubbly" as photographers' bulbs flashed and a hockey-weary crew of Belleville McFarlands toasted the first national senior hockey championship .to come to the banks of the Moira.

Proudest man in the room was the 153-pound coach, Ike Hildebrand. You couldn't blame him for Ike had two of the best reasons in the world to "flip a celebrative lid."

Hadn't the club he brought through the hockey battles of grupy, playoff and playdown wars just won the coveted peterware symbolic of the national amateur title?

And hadn't attractive Mrs. Helen Hildebrand back home in Peterborough presented him that day with a bouncing eight-pound hockey player?

Paternal and maternal forebears were proud too even if they were not honored with the new baby bearing their names.

The Hildebrands named the healthy young newcomer "Allan" after the battered old mug that "Dad" had helped win in that tremendous seventh-game comeback in Kelowna.

May Day may be Labor Day to some people but to Ike, Helen and Master Allan Hildebrand it is a day of celebrative nostalgia.

The "old man" looks over a large collection of trophy miniatures, wades through scrapbooks and souvenirs. Allan blows out birthday candles and "Mama" beams over the boys with maternal pride.

Ike has laid up the hockey gear, he told me via the telephone, "but how I miss the action. Sometimes I feel like trading a referee's whistle for a hockey stick and getting in there with the boys!."

Ike, who in his McFarland days, formed a hurricane package of less than 500 pounds with Bert Bradley and Gerry Theriault, was an OHA referee last season officiating at more than fifty games in junior and intermediate hockey.

But giving up the more rugged sport of puck-chasing does not mean that "Isaac Bruce" is ready for the slippers and ole rockin' chair. Far from it.

He is as active as a colt in other sports, albeit hockey and his onetime favorite lacrosse are now things of memory. Believe it or not Ike slides a mean curling stone between whistle-tooting appointments and early Saturday mornings and other spare periods finds him coaching one of Peterborough's minor hockey clubs.

The lush greens and fairways of one of the Lindsay City's fine golf clubs form another outlet for his athletic activities and Ike admits that he is now shooting in the low seventies. In fact he was recently named a director of the club.

The former professional hockey player and lacrosse star has had many thrilling moments in his long and colorful sports career, but he said this reporter will never forget that day in Prague, Czechoslovakia in 1959 when the Canadian Ensign-flattered sixth, 13,000 Czechs and others stood while "O Canada" was played and the Belleville McFarlands were proclaimed the amateur hockey champions of the world.

"That," said Ike, "was the greatest day of my life."

Western Hockey

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—Seattle Totems defeated San Francisco Seals 3-1 Wednesday night to move within a game of the Western Hockey League championship.

Seattle leads the best-of-seven series 3-1 and can take home its first league championship since 1959 with victory in the fifth game here Thursday.

A crowd of 6,679 saw Bob Sabourin, George Knolik and Bill MacFarland score for the winners and Len Haley spoil a shutout for Seattle goaltender Al Millar with a goal at 11:37 of the third period.

Millar blew his top over Haley's goal. Four players had piled up in the goalmouth and, when officials untangled them, the puck was discovered in the net.

When the red light was finally turned on, Millar charged over to referee Willie Papp, then screamed at the scorekeeper and finally skated to his bench to voice his complaints to coach Keith Allen.

Gymnasts Add Silver And Bronze ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Trackmen Win Gold, 2 Silver Medals

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) Don Bertola, Sig Ohlemann and Bill Gairdner basked in the limelight in Canada's Pan-American Games camp today, polishing a gold and two silver medals they added to their country's growing list in track and field.

Bertola, a 23-year-old agricultural trainee from Rossland, B.C., gave Canada its third gold medal in the big track and field program here, winning the 800-metre run Wednesday in the Games-record time of one minute, 48.3 seconds.

Ohlemann, German - born 25-year-old from Vancouver, followed Bertola across the finish line to win the 800 - metre silver.

Gairdner, 22-year-old from Thornhill, Ont., added another silver with a Canadian-record-breaking performance in the 10-event decathlon, one of the toughest events on the program.

FINEST SECOND

Gymnasts added a silver and a bronze medal to the over-all Canadian team total Wednesday. The Canadians finished second to the U.S. in women's team competition behind 16-year-old Gail Daley of Saskatoon picked up a bronze in the individual standings although she finished behind three U.S. girls.

The U.S. women's team scored 383.18 points to win, Canada got 376.67 and Cuba took third with 345.87. Doris G. Fyshe was the individual crown with 77.21 points and Dale McClements and Kathleen Corrigan tied for second with 77.01 and each received a silver medal. Miss Daley had 76.69 points and was given a bronze medal.

Members of Canada's second-place team were Miss Daley, Dorothy Howarth, 16, Saskatoon, fifth in individual; Susan McDonnell, 18, Scarborough, Ont., sixth in individual; Maureen McDonald, 18, Saskatoon, seventh in individual; and Leisaa Krol, 17, Hamilton-born but living in Detroit, 11th in individual.

Canada's medal totals now stand at six gold, 18 silver and 21 bronze—and half the gold harvest has come in track and field where Canadians failed to win a championship in the previous three Pan - American Games.

MAY ADD MORE

The totals may go higher before the fourth Games end Sunday. More gymnastics competitions are scheduled and the track program, also today, will be completed Friday and Saturday.

One of Canada's women trackstars qualified Wednesday for Saturday's 80-metre hurdles final—Jennifer Wingerson, 20-year-old Toronto secretary, easily winning her heat — and Nancy Mackey, the 18-year-old Brampton, Ont., girl who won the gold medal in women's shot put, is rated among the favorites in the discus Friday.

Canadian competitors did not fare as well on other fronts Wednesday.

Doug Kyle, veteran distance runner from Calgary, finished fifth in the 10,000 metres, won by Irish-born Peter McCardle of New York, who with decathlon winner Gairdner, David Martin and women's 200-metre sprint winner Vivian Brown salvaged some of the U.S. track history here.

U.S. BEATEN

U.S. competitors were beaten in the men's 200 metres and 400-metre hurdles in addition to the 800.

Lethbridge, Alta., Nationals suffered a heart - breaking 84-80 loss to Brazil in the men's basketball tournament — the fourth loss in five starts for Lethbridge, which turned in its best performance so far in Wednesday night's thriller. The Canadians led by two points over the world-champion Brazilians with six minutes left but couldn't hold the advantage.

Vancouver Maids, the women's basketball entry, took their fifth straight loss when the U.S. whipped them 68-21, and the Canadian water polo team's record went to 1-6 when Brazil won 7-2. Ben Simo of Montreal finished seventh in the men's sabre fencing final.

But the performances of Bertola, Ohlemann and Gairdner brought glee to the Canadian camp.

Bertola, a graduate of Washington State University, finished about a yard ahead of Ohlemann in the 800 final after both had turned on finishing spurts to pass Lieut. Ernie Cunliffe of the U.S. Air Force, who took the bronze medal. Ohlemann, timed in 1:48.7, and Cunliffe, in 1:48.8, also were under the previous games record of 1:49.4 set in 1959 by Tom Murphy of the U.S.

BEATS RECORD

Gairdner's performance in the decathlon was the best ever turned in by a Canadian competitor. The University of Colorado student piled up 6,812 points 505 better than the previous Canadian record which he held.

The five-foot, 11½-inch, 190-pounder Gairdner had led the competition after seven of the 10 events but fell behind on the pole vault.

The day was about the worst in the games history for the U.S., which now has won only the 400 metres in men's track

'Rather Quit Than Be Traded'

Dickie Moore To Hang Up Gear

MONTREAL (CP) — Dickie Moore, fifth-highest scorer of active National Hockey League players, has decided to quit hockey rather than take a chance that he'll be traded.

Moore, after learning that Montreal Canadiens were prepared to deal him away, announced Wednesday he is hanging up his skates at the age of 32.

"I've played here all my life," the aggressive left wing said. "I just don't want to play anywhere else."

Frank Selke, managing director of Canadiens, said he hopes Moore will reconsider.

"He is still far too good a player to retire from hockey," Selke said. Moore, twice National Hockey League scoring champion and holder of the NHL's record for total points in one season, finished the last season with 24 goals and 36 assists despite a poor, injury-plagued start.

Selke said no specific deals were in the wind, but Moore had been informed that some players could be traded, and he could be one of them.

MIGHT RECONSIDER

Moore left the gate open for a possible return — he said he might reconsider if Canadiens decide to give him a chance to play here again.

Brian Kane Wins Cross-Country Run

Beats Field of 63

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Brian Kane, the lone Trenton color-bearer in a field of 63 district high school harriers, galloped across the finish line well in command of the race yesterday to capture the 19th annual Ken Colling Memorial Cross-Country Run.

Kane, running in strong fashion in later stages of the race, covered the estimated four-and-a-half mile distance in the time of 23:9.4, some 43 seconds in front of his nearest competitor, Moira Secondary School's Stan Woodcock was in the runner-up position in the time of 23:51.7, closely followed by Bob Sinasac, of Albert College. Sinasac's time was 23:57.5.

Finishing out of the top six prize list was Fred Singleton, of the Ontario School for the Deaf, timed at 24:15, Clyde Jordan, also of OSD, clocked at 24:42 and Francis Provost of Tweed High School in 25 minutes even.

Cliff Brooks, Madoc; Bill Angove, BCIVS, and Johnny Hayman of Moira, were close behind in that order. A number of close two and three-man heats kept the campus crowd cheering as the runners flocked down the finish tunnel in quick order after the ninth man.

Kane's time will go as a record, due to the fact that the course was changed this year. While the distance is listed at 4.5 miles, the general feeling among the participants was that it was closer to five miles. The old course record, of 19:39.5, was set by three-time winner Bill Vermilyea in 1961.

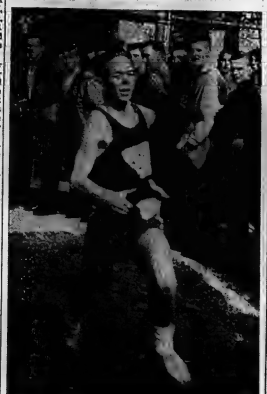
Kane, a slim, blonde student, impressed finish line enthusiasts with his dashing windup, leaving the impression that he might have bettered his time with a little more pushing.

Kane, 19 years old, came to this area when his father was stationed at the Trenton RCAF base last September. Prior to that he has done his running mostly in the mile and some two and three mile cross-country races, for the High School of Montreal, in Montreal, Quebec.

While active there for the past two years, Kane admitted that this was the longest distance competition he has entered.

Questioned as to whether he might have done better had there been a man on his heels, the quiet-spoken youngster started to say he thought so but quickly added, "No, just say I ran all out today".

Woodcock also finished strongly but appeared to slack up once near the finish when it was apparent he could not overtake the leader. A word of warning from a bystander to "keep going, there's a man right behind you," spurred him on to hold his position ahead of Sinasac.



Post-race ceremonies were held in the BCI auditorium, with Father McGee handling the master of ceremonies' job. He thanked Mr. Cleo Colling, who donates the race trophy and awards for the first 36 finishers and Mr. Stan Barbour, who looked after race arrangements this year in "Red" Townsend's absence.

Mr. Colling congratulated all participants and especially the winner, presenting him with the new Ken Colling Memorial Trophy. Kane will receive a miniature of the trophy as his permanent possession.

Peter Carver, president of the Boys' Athletic Society, who also acted as official scorer for Yesterday's race, presented crests to the first 36 finishers, while treasurer Al Mott presented the top six with their special prizes.

A good crowd of students, former students and other interested spectators watched the start and finish of the race under sunny, cool skies. Earlier in the day two inches of snow had threatened to dampen the event.

Schools represented were Tweed, BCIVS, Campbellford, Albert College, Moira Secondary, Picton, Madoc, Quinte Secondary, O.S.D., Trenton and St. Michael's.

GALLOPS TO VICTORY — Brian Kane, Trenton High School's lone entry, finishes strongly to win the 19th Annual Ken Colling Memorial Race here yesterday. Kane, a newcomer to Trenton, led the pack of 63 entries from secondary schools of the district over the 4½-mile course in a little over 23 minutes. He comes from Montreal.

"Prolonged Entertainment"

Wrestling Phony? - Silly Boy

CHICAGO (AP)—No matter how you look at professional wrestling—if you look at all—there's big money in human beings making pretzels out of each other.

"A million groans, a million dollars," says Fred Kohler.

Kohler, 50-year-old Chicago promoter, is king of the ham market. He's been in the business 30 years.

One of his promotional tricks is to tape a television wrestling show, give it free to a local station, then several days after it has been telecast, move in with the same cast of anatomy benders to perform in the flesh.

A million dollars passes through his hands yearly, he says.

Kohler says a wrestler must have three things: ability, showmanship and personality. "There are about 75 wrestlers in top demand today, but none has all three of these assets like Buddy Rogers.

"Buddy is in four or five good business."

Trainer of 'No Robbery'

Wants Crowd Noise, Big Wind

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — If the trainer of Greentree Stable's Kentucky Derby hopeful No Robbery had just one more wish, he'd ask for the noisiest crowd in Derby history and a stiff cross-wind at the head of the stretch.

John Gaver, who has won five straight races, including the Wood Memorial, with No Robbery, is still worried his wandering colt may try in Saturday's Derby to pull his old trick of running where he pleases.

"I'll just hope for a screaming crowd to scare him to the rail when they hit the stretch," Gaver said. "And a little cross-wind wouldn't hurt."

No Robbery, one of two unbeaten colts in the derby—the other is Candy Spots, the likely favorite—went wide in the Wood for no apparent reason, causing Gaver and jockey Johnny Rotz more than their share of worrying.

The little son of Swaps-Bimlett will go postward in the $129,000-added Derby with a new bit to hold his tongue in place and will race with blinkers for the first time.

"I don't know what causes him to wander," Gaver said. "You never know, it just might be something about Aqueduct (site of the Wood). That's the only place he's ever done it."

Rotz worked No Robbery earlier in the week with the new bit and blinkers and said the colt handled well.

CHESS MATCH ADJOURNED

MOSCOW (AP) — The 16th match in the world chess championships was adjourned Wednesday after the 40th move with neither Mikhail Botvinnik, the defending champion, nor Tigran Petrosian, his Russian challenger, having an apparent advantage. Play will be resumed today with a draw likely. Petrosian, playing black in this game leads 8-7 in the 24-match series.

Pickerel Derby on The Moira

The Belleville Fish and Game Club will hold a two-day fishing derby, for club members only, this weekend.

The derby starts Friday, May 3 and Sunday midnight, May 5, is the deadline.

Participants will fish for pickerel or walleye in the Moira River from the mouth to the Canniffon dam.

The fish will be weighed at Bob Bland's sport shop, with a first prize of $18 and a second of $5.

Club members are urged not to miss a good weekend of fishing, plus the chance to pick up a little extra ball money.

Whip Hershey Before 11,536

Bisons Take AHL Title

BUFFALO (CP) — Buffalo Bisons wound up their 1962-63 season in the American Hockey League on an extremely successful note.

They did it Wednesday night, beating Hershey Bears 6-2 to take the Calder Cup before a record Buffalo crowd of 11,536. The Bisons, who earlier captured the league's Western Division title, beat the Bears 4-3 in the best-of-seven final.

Johnny McKenzie broke up the offensive game by scoring the first two goals. The two teams went into the game tied 3-3 in their series, and played tough, tight hockey until McKenzie broke through for the first goal with just over a minute remaining in the second period.

McKenzie added another goal in the first minute of the third period and the rout was on. Barry Cullen got the third Buffalo goal, and Cliff Schmautz scored the last three for the Bisons.

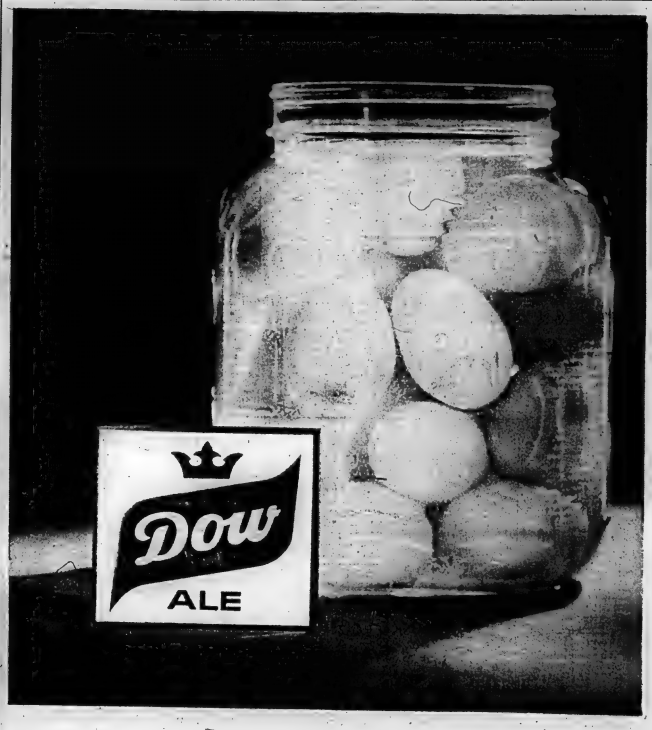
CORKS GO POPPING



Corks were popping in the Buffalo dressing room after the game as the Bisons celebrated the victory with champagne. It was their first Calder Cup in 17 years.

McKenzie was the first to drink—but he did it before the game was over.

McKenzie was in the penalty box for holding with 15 seconds remaining in the game when an elated Buffalo fan ran up to him with an offering of champagne.

Belinsky Wins 1st From Yanks

Grand-Slammer Helps

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bo (Seabiscuit) Belinsky, who admits he's on the way to the glue factory if he fails to get off to a quick start, has finally come up a winner.

The Los Angeles left-hander finished what he started for the first time this season Wednesday night, limiting the New York Yankees to four hits while George Thomas hit a grand slam homer that gave the Angels a 5-3 victory over the world champions.

Belinsky, fined and sued so often in his short major league career he may wind up pitching for nothing, almost wound up pitching for Kansas City after the 1962 season. But an under-the-table deal that would have sent Bo to the A's was vetoed by Commissioner Ford Frick.

When Belinsky signed his contract this season, he admitted:

"I get the picture. If I win, they keep me. If I lose, they throw me out. It's a sap who doesn't know where he stands."

So with an 0-3 record, Belinsky stroke out to the mound against the Yankees and pitched probably his finest game since his no-hitter against Baltimore last May 5, 361 days ago.

TROUBLE ONCE

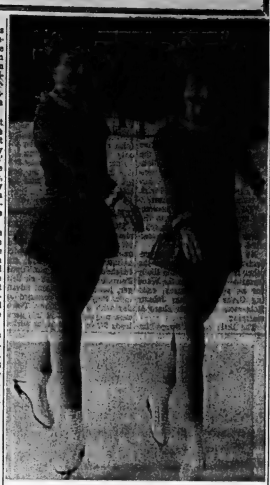
He allowed the Yankees' first hit when Roger Maris singled with one out in the fifth and ran into serious trouble one inning when the Yankees scored their third run on a walk and singles by Harry Bright and Tony Kubek.

Belinsky, nicknamed Seabiscuit by Manager Bill Rigney because of his prancing running style and the fact he "has a different way of doing everything," then avoided a photo-finish by getting Jack Reed to ground out for the final out with two on.

Orlando Pena, Tom Cheney and Ray Herbert also turned in top pitching performances. Pena's four-hit pitching and a 13-hit Kansas City attack subdued Cleveland 11-3 and kept the A's in first place.

Chene struck out 12 and allowed only seven hits as Washington downed Detroit 4-1 while Herbert started Chicago off to a doubleheader sweep over Baltimore with a 7-0 four-hit job. The White Sox took the nightcap 6-4. Boston walloped Minnesota 14-5 to round out the schedule.

Thomas took care of Yankee starter Ralph Terry, now 3-2 in the first inning when he tagged his grand slam following singles by Billy Moran, Lee Thomas and Leon Wagner. Belinsky took it from there before a crowd of 36,577.



FOUR IN-ROW

Pena, purchased from Toronto of the International League won his fourth without a loss as the A's balloon remained inflated. The Indians' runs came on homers by John Romano in the eighth and Joe Adcock in the ninth. Wayne Causey, leading the league with a .420 average, led the Kansas City attack with three hits, one a homer off loser Gary Bell.

Cheney, who also has not lost turned in his fourth complete game victory. The Tigers got the first earned run of Cheney this season on Gus Triandos' run - producing double in the sixth. Cheney's batterymate, Don Lappert, provided the key hits for the Senators with a homer in the second and a double that snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh.

Herbert retired 15 Orioles in order and contributed a double and single to the attack, but the big blows for the White Sox in the opener were a homer and triple by Jim Landis. The White Sox knocked Robin Roberts out in a two-run sixth in the nightcap, moving ahead 4-2 on Floyd Robinson's homer and a squeeze bunt by Sherm Lollar.

Chuck Schilling hit a two-run homer and also collected a double and two singles as the second-place Red Sox lashed 16 hits against Twins' starter Jack Kralik and five relievers. Eddie Bressoud also homered for Boston. Earl Wilson got credit for the victory.

PRECISION PRINCESSES—Jane and Peg McCutcheon, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. W. McCutcheon of this city, are featured artists in the Toronto Rotary Club Ice Revue being staged in Maple Leaf Gardens today, Friday and Saturday.

'Will Protest Every Game'

Emms Keeps Cup Pot Boiling

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP)—The way the rival coaches are performing, Niagara Falls Flyers and Edmonton Oil Kings will have to be nothing short of sensational if they hope to gain any headlines during the Memorial Cup junior hockey championships which opens here tonight.

The Oil Kings, making a record fourth consecutive appearance in the best-of-seven final rule as slight favorites with the advantage of home ice. Edmonton has never won the crown.

Coach Hap Emms of the Flyers is trying to upset the home-ice advantage and has gone to the rule book to do so.

Emms said Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules restrict placing of the goal lines to 10 feet from the end boards. The lines on the Edmonton Gardens ice surface are 15 feet from the boards. The rink is 210 feet long.

WILL PROTEST, UNLESS

Emms said that unless the lines are moved he will protest every game of the series. He said he sent his first protest to Art Petter of Edmonton, CAHA president, Wednesday night.

Potter said the rule was not adhered to at the Gardens, but said this was because the rink served both amateur and professional clubs.

Western League rules stipulate the goal lines must be 15 feet from the boards in rinks with surfaces longer than 200 feet and this had been followed in the Gardens for years.

Potter declined comment on the possibility of moving the lines, but Emms said he believed he had a legitimate protest and would carry through with his demands.

Bids Being Considered

'Dogs', Chatham Eye IHL

ST. PAUL (AP) — Directors Wednesday accepted the bid of Des Moines, Iowa, to join the International Hockey League but took no action on a similar application by Tulsa, Okla.

Also being considered are bids by Chatham and Windsor, Ont., to field teams in the loop. The meeting continues today.

A spokesman said the future of the league would not be finally determined until directors hear from Ben Berger, owner of the Minneapolis setup who is reported eager to sell out.

Because Berger is in Europe and won't return until May 15, officials set another session for directors May 30 at Port Huron, Mich.

Currently in the league, in addition to Des Moines, Minneapolis and Port Huron, are Fort Wayne, Ind., St. Paul, Muskegon, Mich., and Omaha. It was indicated that, should the league expand to 10 clubs, it would be split into eastern and western divisions.

Greatest Story Ever Told To Cost Over $10,000,000

By BOB THOMAS

FYFE MID LAKE, Nev. (AP) The Pinte Indians have a name for it—Evil Land.

Nothing but the scrubbiest of brush grows here. The flat desert land slopes gently to the placid, deep-blue lake. The plainness of the landscape is relieved by dramatic outcroppings of rock and bulbous monuments created by eons of mineral springs.

George Stevens chose this barren place to depict ancient Capernaum beside the Sea of Galilee. Here he is nearing the end of filming what is planned as his masterpiece, The Greatest Story Ever Told.

It will be the most expensive film ever made entirely in the United States. The projected cost was $10,000,000; the finished product may double that.

When you visit the location, you can understand how the expenses mount up. A small city has been erected on this dismal plain. Three hundred film workers are housed in luxury trailers, reuled from an air force contractor in Idaho, and in aluminum-sided shacks, built from the floor up.

DINE IN TENT

Huge tents contain the mess hall (the food is well above average for film locations), wardrobe and makeup departments and theatre. The latter is used to show daily rushes and for a feature movie each night.

The logistics of the operation are enormous. Everything has been planned, from the ancient glass fibre boats that line the shore to the piles of fish (plastic) drying on rocks. Weathered gates and temples were built next to the lake, blending amazingly into the landscape.

A menagerie of biblical animals has been assembled. The Stevens company has a corner on the American camel market, having collected 22 from circuses and compounds as far away as Florida. Three have died during the six months of filming, but two babies have been born.

The logistics of the human actors is more complex. Max von Sydow, who plays Jesus, and the young actors who portray the apostles have been present throughout the production. Other performers come and go, and their availability must jibe with their own schedules.

Standing by at this location were Joseph Schildkraut, Sal Mineo and Shelley Winters. The latter's character was listed woman of no name.

One cast problem was presented by Joanna Dunham, the English actress who plays Mary Magdalene. The scenes of her stoning were being hurried because she is eight months pregnant.

Name Officials For Cup Series

EDMONTON (CP) — Frank Daigneault of Montreal, referee-in-chief of the Quebec Amateur Hockey League, will handle the Memorial Cup junior hockey final series between Niagara Falls Flyers and Edmonton Oil Kings, Art Potter, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association president, said Wednesday.

Potter said Dutchy van Dealen and Curly Brault, both of Edmonton will be the linesmen.

The best-of-seven series opens tonight.

'THE DAY OF THE TRIFFIDS'

Excellent Screen Thriller

Springing from John Wyndham's best-selling science-fiction novel of the same title, "The Day of the Triffids" unrolls at the Park Theatre as one of the screen's great suspense thrillers.

It is a gripping, chilling story of mankind at first almost wholly blinded by the brilliance of a meteorite shower and then held in an almost petrifying state of terror by the invasion of the triffids, prolific, mobile plants that attack with a lethal sting.

It is at once a story of human emotions set free, of selfishness and generosity, of violence and kindness, of lustful action and decent living, of tranquil moments and moments of horror, of tender love and searing bitterness. It runs the gamut of them all.

Howard Keel toplines the cast as an American seaman who is recovering from an eye operation in London, when the blinding meteorites flash through the sky. Bandages over his eyes save his sight, but he is left unimpaired; she is a chatelaine, who has opened her big home to many of the blinded as refugees with them until convinced by Keel she and the little girl must leave France for it now is being overrun by the triffids.

Excitement mounts as they head for Spain, not knowing that on a tiny island a man-wife scientist team labor in a lighthouse, which is their combined home and laboratory, to find a means of killing the triffids. Even now the lethal plants are beginning to threaten their lives, for the winds have carried seeds to the tiny island on which the lighthouse stands, and the fast-growing plant is spreading all about. English-born Janette Scott and Ireland's Kieron Moore portray the scientists.

Steve Sekely directed the film for executive producer Philip Yordan, who wrote the screenplay which was filmed in color and Cinemascope. George Pitcher was the producer. The excellent photography was the work of John Wilcox, and the music compositions were by Ron Goodwin and John Douglas.

On the same program action packed gold mining feature, "Rider on a Dead Horse," starring John Vivyan, Bruce Gordon and Lisa Lu. Complete shows at 7:00 and 8:55 p.m.

Dickie Moore

The best year of Moore's career was the 1958-59 season when he and centre Jean Beliveau, who have never since played regularly together, went on a remarkable late - season scoring splurge.

That was the year he scored 96 points—the league record—on 41 goals and 55 assists, and Beliveau wound up with 91 points. No two players on the same team had ever scored more than 90 points a season, and none have since.

Moore's 12 seasons in the NHL have been marked by persistent injuries and is only four of those 12 has he ever played out the full schedule of 70 games.

He was an all-star left wing in both 1958 and 1959, and was on the second all-star team in 1961.

If Moore sticks by his retirement decision, his career will end with 254 goals and 340 assists for 594 points.

Many Medical Shows Move Into Field of Mental Illness

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — During the current television season, there has been one hour - long dramatic program, 11th Hour, focusing on the problems of mental illness and the mentally ill, but all of the medical shows have moved into that area frequently.

Next season, there will be a second entertainment program about psychiatry, Breaking Point, and if that is popular with audiences, there undoubtedly will be others in 1964. Meanwhile, there is real concern about this "entertainment" treatment of the delicate subject, particularly among psychiatrists and psychologists.

Last month broadcasting representatives met with mental health professionals for three days at West Point, N.Y., to try to find a way to eliminate some trouble spots.

Dr. William Menninger, perhaps summed up best psychiatry's fears about the effects of these shows:

"The public must be led to see mental illness in its true light, as an illness," he said in part. "And the mentally ill or sick people in need of help—not as some kind of strange, weird persons."

CBS has Peter Ustinov and Anthony Quinn for a special dramatic special next season, a play adapted by Ustinov from a short story by Ustinov, to be directed by Ustinov. The Ed Sullivan show will make a big fuss about its 15th anniversary this summer.

Recommended tonight: The Voice of Charlie Post, ABC, 10-11 EDT—Repeat candidate for an Emmy award.

The U.S. also suffered in baseball, won by Cuba with a 6-4 record. The medals were presented to Cuba and third-place Mexico Wednesday, but nobody was there to collect the U.S.' silver and there were distinct catcalls and boos in the baseball park. The U.S. team, twice beaten by Cuba and second with a 5-3 record, had already left for home.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Success From Doris' Advice

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I want to say thank you for the advice. I took the initiative and told myself that I was not going to waste my life by sitting home and waiting for Frank every night. I've been having a great time. A couple of times I'd see him and say "Hi," but would never let it go any further.

I've been out with about seven different guys in the past four years and I always like lots of fun on a date. One of them was home from college one week end and he asked me out. So I went to a hockey game with him. Who should I see but Frank. As we walked by Frank said that he would see me next day. Sure enough on Sunday evening he came over as we were making pull taffee.

He and Dad got wrestling and he was teasing Mom. Everyone was so different. They think a lot of Frank and are always talking about him.

So, I have discovered that what you told me is really true. The more I play the field, the more interested he becomes.—SEVENTEEN.

DEAR SEVENTEEN—Take a bow for making it work.

DEAR DORIS—I feel sorry for "Only for Freedom" and thought she was wise to avoid her mother-in-law. I have found in-laws can be so cruel at times with their remarks about how you do things, and as for walking into your home without knocking, I think this is plain ignorance on their part.

I never walk into anyone's home without knocking, no matter how closely related. Doris, what do you think about this? —KNOCK FIRST.

DEAR KNOCK—I think it's tops. In Canada, good manners demand that we respect privacy—whether this means knocking first, delivering mail unopened, or minding our own business.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PERVERTED—I am sorry but Lonely Forever did not give me a name or address.

(Doris can tell you about a Canadian resource to help. Write to her today—and remember that stamped envelope.)

Ann Landers

Snoopy "Super's" Wife Looking for Real Trouble

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I live in an apartment house which has about 50 tenants.

Several months ago I noticed my mail appeared to have been opened and the envelopes glued back together. I thought it was imagination, but when I discovered one day that the glue was still damp, I was certain.

I decided to keep my eyes open and catch the culprit. As I suspected, it was the wife of the building superintendent. I saw her jimmy the lock which gave her access to all the mail in the building. (We each have our own key but one master key can open the whole works.)

Isn't this illegal? What should I do about it?—ANTI-NOSE TROUBLE.

DEAR ANTI—There are Federal laws that clobber people for tampering with the U.S. mails. The superintendent's wife could be faced with something far more serious than "nose trouble" if you reported her.

Give her the break she doesn't deserve and tell her you are wise. Unless she is a total nut you'll have no more trouble.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I just finished parent-teacher conferences and am thoroughly disgusted. I have 30 pupils in my class. Fourteen come from broken homes. Every divorced mother sings the same song. I've memorized all the verses: "I know my child is lonesome for his father but he's better off without him."

"Don't believe everything the child says about what goes on at home. Children have vivid imaginations, you know."

"I have suspected Johnny may have a sight or hearing problems but I haven't had time to take him to a doctor."

"I'll see if his grandmother can help him with the work he's behind in. I'm dead tired after putting in a full day on my job and when I get home there's the washing and ironing."

Invariably these children from broken homes are nervous and high strung. They are starved for affection. We teachers can't be father and mother to these poor kids—though heaven knows we try.

Please print this letter for the benefit of parents who may be planning a divorce. Remind them that parents chose each other. Children didn't ask to be born. I say a man and wife should stick together and learn to live with their problems—whatever they may be.—DAKOTA TEACHER.

DEAR TEACHER—Your letter has a good bit of truth in it, but some marital situations are impossible. Children fare better with one sane, relaxed parent than with two nervous wrecks who are constantly at each other's throats. I sometimes recommend separation (not divorce) and I will continue to do so.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

Judge Sentences Wife to Death, Spares Husband

SAN FRANCISCO - (AP) - Judge Harry J. Neubarth Wednesday sentenced Iva Kroeger to death but spared the life of her husband, Ralph, whom he called "a victim of her evil doing" in the murder of an elderly couple.

The jury which convicted Iva, 44, and Ralph, 61, of murdering Mr. and Mrs. Jay Arneson for their motel had agreed on death for both.

Neubarth said he had decided after "countless sleepless nights and prayerful contemplation" that Ralph should be sentenced to life imprisonment but Iva deserved to die.

Neubarth used his trial judge's authority to overrule the jury's death-penalty recommendation for Ralph.

When the jury's death verdicts were returned, Iva shouted:

"He shouldn't die! He wasn't even there."

Neubarth declared Iva had "fleeced Ralph of his home and his life savings and never would have shared with him the spoils of the murder plot."

FIND BODIES

Ralph was jailed Aug. 20, the day Jay Arneson, 68, was found buried in a shallow grave in the basement of the Kroeger home. The body of Mrs. Arneson, 58, was uncovered a day later. Both had been strangled.

Iva, found sane by the jury in a separate trial on her plea of not guilty by reason of insanity, staged frequent outbursts during the trial.

Psychiatrists said she was attempting to feign insanity.

A date for the execution will be set later—after Iva's automatic appeal is heard by the supreme court.

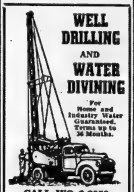
Golf Note, "Yell Fore Or Pay up"

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—It's a golfer's responsibility to yell "fore" before he takes his shot, a federal judge has ruled.

Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld made the comment Wednesday in awarding $1,730 in damages to a man struck by a ball at the Yale golf course two years ago.



The blow produced a scar on the forehead of Eugene J. Sugarman of Riverdale, N.Y. The judge didn't consider the injury serious. But he said the defendant, Dr. Stanley Lavietes of New Haven, Conn., had a duty to sound a warning before swinging.

Judge Blumenfeld brushed aside a defence claim that Sugarman contributed to the accident by failing to move quickly off the green.

"Golf," said the judge, himself a golfing enthusiast, "is still a leisurely sport for many golfers and haste in completing a round is not an object of the game."

THREE WOMEN AND CHILD ARE SLAIN

Guard And Convict Killed

Cells Stormed With Gunfire At Montreal

Prisoners Wanted Moves To Other Penitentiaries

MONTREAL (CP) — Guards at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary stormed the cell of two rebelling convicts with pistol-fire Thursday in a desperate, but unsuccessful, attempt to save a fellow guard's life. He died after being stabbed.

One of the convicts was killed and the other, his cousin, wounded.

It was the third time within two weeks Canadian convicts have tried to get transferred to another penitentiary by holding a guard hostage.

Guard Raymond Tellier, 35, was forced into a cell at knife-point after supper hour by two convicts, who demanded they be given transfers to Manitoba's Stony Mountain Penitentiary.

Warden Michel LeCorre ordered a charge on the cell five minutes later when he saw blood oozing into the corridor from the cell. He said he knew it must be Tellier's, as he was unarmed.

HOW THEM DOWN

The convicts were mowed down by bullets. Marcel Marcoux, 36, was killed and his cousin Claude, 28, hit on the arm by a bullet.

Tellier died within half an hour from loss of blood. The warden said he had been slashed twice in the legs and stabbed in the abdomen.

Two weeks ago two convicts in the British Columbia Penitentiary at New Westminster, B.C., started a riot and forced authorities to grant them a transfer by holding a guard hostage.

Ironically, the two convicts asked, and received, transfers to St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, a massive, maximum-security prison on the north outskirts of Montreal, a third B.C. prisoner was transferred to Stony Mountain.

Just recently, two prisoners at St. Vincent de Paul seized a prison instructor at knife-point and held him for four hours until authorities granted them transfers to Dorchester Penitentiary in New Brunswick.

SLASH GUARD TWICE

The warden said the two convicts slashed Tellier twice, once in each thigh, before announcing their demands. They had waited 20 minutes before answering his questions.

Marcoux was asked for a transfer and gave authorities 15 minutes.

PEARSON BEGINS FINAL ROUND OF CONFERENCES

Will Dine With Queen and Prince

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson held his final conference with Prime Minister Macmillan today and said he is highly pleased with the results of his two days of talks with British leaders.

The Canadian leader spent 20 minutes at Admiralty House, Macmillan's residence. Then the two prime ministers went to a luncheon given by George Drew, Canadian high commissioner here.

Earlier Selwyn Lloyd, former chancellor of the exchequer, and Jo Grimond, leader of the British Liberal party, called on Pearson at his Dorchester Hotel suite for separate half-hour discussions.

Lloyd, who was foreign secretary at the time Pearson was Canadian external affairs minister, said they talked mostly about old friends.

Grimond said he and Pearson dealt with trade problems, especially British-Canadian trade relations.

"I found the prime minister full of ideas and energy," he said, but declined to discuss any specific suggestions made by Pearson.

The Manchester Guardian calls in a front-page story that the lack of news from the talks "appears to mark a return by Canada to the tradition of secret diplomacy in the field of Commonwealth relations."

It refers to the frustration of 20 Canadian reporters who flew here with Pearson and have been unable to pry any solid in-

Surtax on Gross Personal Income Is Urged to Replace Sales Tax

TORONTO (CP)—A new tax on personal income was suggested today by a Canadian manufacturing firm which said it should replace the "extremely awkward, cumbersome, inefficient and . . . costly" federal sales tax.

In a spirited attack on the sales tax, Diversey Corporation (Canada) Ltd., of nearby Clarkson, told the Carter royal commission on taxation that the tax has scared outside manufacturers away from plant-building in Canada.

They understand that Austin Motor Cars, for example, decided not to build their plant in Canada for this reason."

Diversey, manufacturers of industrial cleaning compounds, presented a brief to the six-man commission which said the federal sales tax gives the importer an unfair advantage over the competing Canadian industry and "we have heard sales tax officials freely admit that this is the biggest single weakness in the act."

The brief said that revenue from the sales tax—about $800,000,000—equals about 3½ per cent of total personal income in Canada and "we believe it would be better to eliminate federal sales tax entirely and to levy tax on gross personal income." The collection system could be worked into the existing personal income tax system.

HOUSE CLIMATE LESS TENSE THAN YEAR AGO

Feeling Liberals Should Get Chance

OTTAWA (CP) — Less than eight months ago Parliament met in an atmosphere of tension in which the big question was: "How long can it last?"

Although many of the circumstances are closely paralleled in the forthcoming meeting of Parliament, the political climate is far less tense and questions about the life of the new Parliament have fallen off considerably.

Broadly speaking, a number of reasons lie behind this apparent change in attitude, despite the fact this Parliament again finds the government short of a majority in the 265-member Commons though it is not so serious a shortage as in the last.

The Liberals hold 129 seats, the Progressive Conservatives 95, Social Credit 24 and New Democrats 17. At the opening of the last Parliament, which followed an election just as this one does, the governing Conservatives held 116 seats, the Liberals 100, Social Credit 30 and New Democrats 19.

One factor contributing to the generally more relaxed air as the new parliamentary session approaches on May 16 is that a new government has taken office. The tendency among MPs in opposition is to give the generals a chance to show what

Investigation Is Refused By Macmillan

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan has refused an investigation into conflicting reports about Queen Frederika of Greece fleeing from sidewalk demonstrators during her visit to London.

Macmillan told the House of Commons an investigation was not necessary and he regarded the 12-day-old incident as closed.

Nearly 800 Negroes Jailed In Integration Tussle

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Birmingham jails were filled today with hundreds of Negroes arrested in what integration leaders described as the initial thrust of a massive renewal of protest demonstrations.

The number arrested in Thursday's waves of marches and picketing was estimated at 700 by city jailer Chester Austin. He said more than 300 were booked at city jail.

A mairon estimated 300 to 400 were lodged at the juvenile detention home and the country jail reported about 100 prisoners were taken there.

Police said a few rocks were thrown at officers during the demonstrations but that none was hit. There were no reports of any other violence.

"We are definitely starting a stepped-up campaign to lay our grievances before the conscience of the community," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of the southern integration fight.

The obviously well - planned waves of marches and picketing, mostly by children who skipped school classes, erupted without warning. Ten groups converged on city hall from all directions.

Walkie - talkies were used to co - ordinate the simultaneous demonstrations, said the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, strategist for the movement.

Teachers shouted encouragement as pupils, some only first-graders, marched in an eight-block radius of city hall. One group of about 20 pupils got by police lines and knelt near the city hall steps to pray.

School buses were used to haul the Negroes to jail after the first three waves were arrested.

Although firemen laid out high pressure hoses in the area, they did not use them in dispersing several thousand white and Negro spectators. Warned by police the hoses would be turned on if they didn't leave, the onlookers quickly scattered.

Charges of parading without a permit were filed against most of the Negroes. Some results were charged with failing to obey officers.

Lesage Threatens to Disbar Opposition Chief as Lawyer

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage has threatened to try to have Opposition Leader Pierre Johnson disbarred as a lawyer if he repeats outside the House charges he made against Mr. Justice Elie Salvas who headed a royal commission investigation of the former Union Nationale administration.

The premier's threat came Thursday night at the height of the bitterest feud between the two party leaders so far this session.

During the 40-minute battle, both men charged each other's administrations with having interfered with judges.

Mr. Lesage threatened to call before the bar of the House judges whom he said had told him they were given orders by the late Union Nationale premier, Maurice Duplessis.

Mr. Johnson countered with a threat to call Jean-Paul Boisjoly, before the courts in the seizure of 4,000 false voting slips during the November provincial election campaign.

The opposition leader said that Boisjoly has been bragging that Lesage's General Georges Lapalme had intervened with Appeal Court judges on his behalf.

The whole affair started innocently enough when Mr. Lesage "teased"—as he later put it—Mr. Johnson about having a higher revenue than he did. In the ensuing interchange Mr. Johnson said Mr. Lesage already suffered enough from the accusations made by the premier when he was a party leader before 1960".

He was apparently referring to the Salvas report on alleged gas distribution facilities in Montreal to Quebec Natural Gas Corporation in which a number of legislature and government members held shares.

Their participation in the sale was condemned by the Salvas commission in a report last August, although the report said there was nothing in the law expressly to forbid members from being shareholders.

"We were amazed, we were amazed, Mr. Speaker, unjustly, unjustly, by the accusations of the premier and by the conclusions of a judge named Judge Salvas," declared Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson was listed among the shareholders of natural gas

Three Homes At Castleton Are Turned Into Shambles, Three Men Also Wounded

Police Guard Former Preacher Under Treatment in Cobourg Hosp.

By HARRY MULHOLL

CASTLETON (Staff) — A father of four was under police guard in hospital today after a lethal shooting spree that killed his wife, two daughters and his sister, and wounded three men.

In hospital at nearby Cobourg is Robert Killins, age about 55.

Dead are Mrs. Florence Killins; her eight-months-pregnant daughter, Mrs. Pearl Campbell, 19; Patsy Killins, age 7, and 46-year-old spinster Gladys Killins.

Hospitalized are Mrs. Campbell's husband, Fred, about 22; Peter Miller, 28-year-old school teacher and Thomas Major, 63, of Quebec, a friend of Mrs. Killins.

Miller is believed to have had his hand shot away. Campbell suffered a wound in the side of his neck. Major's injuries were not known.

Robert Killins, described as diabetic and in ill-health for years, was reported to have a head injury.

The shootings occurred in three homes, all adjacent to a tiny shack occupied by Mr. Killins, described as a former preacher in British Columbia, who moved to this area about 12 years ago.

Provincial Police Constable Lorne Stinson was reported to have chased a car from the scene and forced it off the road three miles away.

Three ambulances, including LaSalle Ambulance from Belleville, were needed to rush the injured to hospital after the shootings that turned the line of houses into a veritable Death's Row.

BORDER COUNTRY ROAD

The row of houses, two of them built by Mr. Killins, border a country sideroad nestling in a hollow of rolling Northumberland countryside, a half-mile south of here.

Gladys Killins, who moved recently from Parry Sound, died in a small house at the top of the row; Florence Killins and Patsy were shot in their home alongside the shack, and Mrs. Campbell was killed in the adjacent house she occupied with her husband.

Police said the two other Killins' children, Peggy 12, and Brian 11, raced unharmed from their mother's house. Brian ran across the roadway to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Day, where he asked Peter Miller, boarding at the Day home, to go with him to his mother's house.

Miller was reported wounded outside the Campbell residence.

Today police held sealed off the homes, and were questioning witnesses in Cobourg. It was not known where the other Killins' children, Peggy and Brian, had been taken.

The incidents occurred around 11 p.m.

Canadian Legion Building Bombed In Quebec Town

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP)—A dynamite explosion described by municipal police as "a big job" early today blew out the front windows of the two-storey Royal Canadian Legion Building in this centre about 25 miles southeast of Montreal. No one was injured.

Shortly after the blast, an anonymous person telephoned the Canadian Press bureau in Montreal and said in French: "La Front de Liberation Quebecois has struck at St. Johns."

St. Johns municipal police said the last persons left the building about 30 minutes before the explosion which originated under the cement front steps.

The cement was cracked, bricks were chipped on the face of the building and all windows of the front of the building were smashed.

The Quebec provincial bureau in St. Johns said it was under instructions to release no information about the explosion.

The Front de Liberation Quebecois is a self-styled separatist, terrorist organization which has been blamed for the killing of W. V. O'Neill, 65, by an explosion at an army recruiting centre on Dorchester Street in the heart of Montreal on April 5.

The group has claimed responsibility by means of secret communications for the recruiting centre blast and other explosions since it announced its existence.

1,300 EVACUATED FROM HAY RIVER, FORT SIMPSON

90 Per Cent of One Town Under Water

HAY RIVER, N.W.T. (CP)—Airlifted over the rampaging Mackenzie River system waters, more than 1,300 residents of two inland communities waited out a destructive spring flood on the mainland today while another 1,200 stood by amid Hay River's devastation.

All 750 men, women and children of Fort Simpson had been evacuated from that flooded hamlet 625 miles north of Edmonton. More than 600 were plucked from Hay River, 125 miles to the south, in the last two days.

Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, in office only two weeks, was flying into Hay River today to take personal charge of rescue work and consider whether to have the Canadian Army Reserve Militia regiment based there called out.

Ninety per cent of Hay River was under water, swollen by spring thaw and packed with grinding ice. Damage was estimated at more than $1,000,000. Most of Fort Simpson was submerged.

The new northern affairs minister flew to Yellowknife, N.W.T., from Vancouver Thursday and was to fly the last 117 miles to Hay River today in a small plane.

Mt. Everest Conquered by Yanks, Second Team Now Trying for Top

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—With the Stars and Stripes already planted on the roof of the world, word today was awaited today whether an American expedition had succeeded in conquering Mount Everest for a second time.

Two members of the American Everest expedition reached the 29,028-foot summit of the world's highest mountain Wednesday, an expedition spokesman announced Thursday night. Presumably the two climbers returned to the assault camp at 1,228 feet below the summit before nightfall Wednesday.

The expedition's base camp radioed Katmandu today that all personnel were well but added no details.

The expedition's plans called for a second team, which had been climbing a day behind the first group, to press on to the summit. This would match a Swiss feat in 1956, when two teams reached the peak on successive days.

Later, a third American team was to try for the top. But in Katmandu today there was no word beyond the bare announcement that the first team had reached the peak and planted the U.S. flag.

The expedition's policy is to keep the identities of the various teams secret until all three groups have returned to safety. It was not even known whether both of the first conquerors were Americans or whether one was a Sherpa, from the native tribe of mountaineers that furnished the guides and porters for the expedition.

New Zealander Edmund Hillary—now Sir Edmund—and Sherpa, Tensing Norgay, first climbed to the ice - crusted "unsurmountable zone," as Hillary described it, on May 28, 1953.

In Washington President Kennedy has hailed "our gallant countrymen" who scaled the icy heights of Mount Everest.

He issued this statement honoring the climbers:

"I am most pleased to learn of the success of the American expedition on Mount Everest. These American climbers pushing human endurance and experience to their farthest frontiers join the distinguished group of British and Swiss mountaineers who have performed this feat."

County Museum Opens Saturday For Season

The Hastings County Museum opens Saturday (May 4) with a special display on early education. Many articles used in the early school rooms have been arranged for this exhibit, which promises to be one of real interest to both young and old.

As a special opening day feature, there will be slide shows in the afternoon featuring pictures of early local schools. These shows have been arranged by Gerald Boyce.

Also, there will be placed on sale for the first time a beautifully illustrated booklet outlining some of the advances in the schools of the Belleville area since the late 1700's. This booklet features comments from teachers, students, and inspectors in the period 1830 to 1860. Illustrations in the small booklet include reproductions of pages from some of the school books in common use in those days.

In addition to a large display of school books and other equipment, there will also be a special display on the history of the Ontario Business College which was established in 1873.

Other features include the Couldery Gallery of fine European furniture in the rink, the tent (which has been somewhat reduced in size this year); a display of early textile products and in this area; the historical paintings by Rev. Bowen P. Squire of Marmora and certain other interesting displaying.

The museum's sale desk has been expanded, it is also announced that, in addition to the history of local education by Gerald Boyce, at least three other new local publications will be on sale for the first time — a history of Shannonville by Miss Betty Ann Fort, and a history of Melrose by Miss Barbara Weese. Both of these publications won prizes last year in the essay contest sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society. Other books have also been added to the sales stock, which now boasts the most complete selection of books on this county available anywhere.

All in all, it promises to be a fine day for prospective museum visitors.

The museum is open this Saturday at 2 o'clock for the official ceremonies, and for the next five weeks the museum hours will be Saturday and Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5. In mid June, the museum will be open seven days a week.

Cement Floor May Be Placed In Curling Rink

The possibility of a cement floor being put in the Curling rink sponsored by the Curling Club and the Board will ask the Board to have the use of the building at fair time was the annual meeting of the Quinte Curling Clubhouse Company, held on Tuesday. It was reported one of the most successful seasons since the club was incepted six years ago and a profit of over $2,500 was shown along with $4,000 put away for redecorating of the clubhouse this year. Ev Gowsell, the energetic president of the club presided and handled the meeting in a most capable manner.

A nominating committee brought in a slate of directors and after a vote was taken, Ronald Bean, Everett Black, James Cowdenhan, William Gandy, A. McCullum, Stan Reston, James Walker, Gil Warnholtz and Cecil Winwood, were elected this board a president will be elected and the executive committee will be appointed. Bob Bastable and Harry Fuke were re-appointed as auditors.

The meeting was started with a social hour and this was followed by a delicious lunch dinner, the main course being roast beef and all the trimmings topped off with coffee and tea. The meal was prepared by Mrs. James McKenna and her staff and was served by members of the Ladies Auxiliary who were appreciated by the 100 members present at the meeting.

Hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. McKenna.

During the progress of the meeting the Bill Gault trophy was presented to a rink of Dr. Nellis in honor of Bill presented the rink with gowns, masks and a certificate of merit. After each report a discussion was held and many suggestions were brought forth that will be of assistance to the directors. In the matter of the ice maker, it was felt that the professional advice will be obtained and it is hoped that the ice maker will be put in more straighter and faster ice for the members. The fair board will have access to the building previous to the fair and a new deal forwards for cleanup purposes. A lengthy agreement is being sought with the board.

It was felt that the end of the meeting that more improvements should be made to the property and the building and the club had an obligation to reduce the indebtedness before embarking on other projects. There was considerable discussion on the status of different units in the club and some useful information was uncovered that will be a help to the directors. A letter of sympathy will be sent to L.E. McLean in his sad bereavement.

Trout Stocking Now in Progress In Tweed Area

Hatchery stocking of trout in Tweed District lakes is well underway at the White Lake Hatchery...Stocking began this year on Thursday, April 25th, a week earlier that in previous years.

This year the following fish will be available for stocking Tweed District lakes: Brook trout — 250,000, Lake trout — 90,000, Rainbow trout — 30,000, Maskinonge — 500,000. Yearling trout and walleyes will be used in experimental stocking in pre-selected lakes and a limited number of new introductions.

Crew census carried out on district brook trout lakes during March and April, as a result of the early March ice opening this year shows 34 lakes, where heavy fishing pressure resulted in the removal of a good number of the brook trout stocked in the previous year. These lakes this year will receive supplementary plantings of large size trout that will be keeper size by mid - summer and should greatly enchance the fishing on March 1st next year.

Find No Proof Prices Raised As RCAF Paid

TRENTON — The May news letter of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce reports that the chamber has been unable to find any evidence that some local merchants might raise their prices on air-force pay days.

"We have not received any specific cases by naming the articles, the date or the store," said chamber secretary, Nora Strand Sprague, who was appointed to investigate the charge.

"We have checked and do find that some stores feature certain items at cost or a reduced price in order to attract customers during the slow days and the prices on these items are changed to the regular price when the sale ends, but a number of items are rising in price all the time. Fruits and vegetables imported from Florida are up in price on account of the heavy frosts in the Florida area last winter. Most of the citizens of Trenton do their shopping on Friday or Saturday or on the 15th and the end of the month, so they are getting the same prices that the others do".

Kiwanians Told About Gathering Of Key Clubs

TRENTON — President Jas. Adix and three other members of the Trenton Kiwanis Key Club, reported to Kiwanians at their meeting on Wednesday to attend the three-day convention of Key club members from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes at East York Collegiate in Toronto.

The Trenton delegation, which also included Michael Mignacca, Robert Shoniker and Robert Singer, met in several caucuses where various key club projects were suggested and discussed. Up to 700 boys attended the convention. They were addressed by Peter Kidall, international president of Kiwanis Key Clubs, who told them that more work could be done to improve inter-club relations between the United States and Canada. Also, at the convention, he suggested exchanging letters and other club information with clubs in the U.S.A.

One project which appealed to the Trenton delegation, and which may be adopted, was a "who's who" directory of high school students, listing home addresses, telephone numbers and other information. The directory would probably sell for 25 cents apiece.

President Adix reported that the International Key Club convention will be held in Pittsburgh in July, and the Trenton club hopes to send a delegation.

The local club has also decided to assist Kiwanians in their two-week peanut drive, beginning May 13.

Kiwanian Allan Weaver thanked the boys for their assistance in making props and in backstage preparations for the recent Kiwanis Follies show.

To Start Assessing Commercial Property

TRENTON — Assessment commissioner Allan Smith said today that his staff had completed the 1963 assessment of the town's sub - division and would start assessing commercial property in the downtown area next week.

Trenton's overall assessment last year passed the $14 million mark.

Mr. Smith said that as soon as he received official permission from Murray Township authorities he would start on the assessment of property in the township which will become part of the town when annexation becomes a reality on Jan. 1, 1964. This will be followed up by assessment of property in Sidney Township which will become a part of Trenton after annexation.

Cadet Inspections

TRENTON—Two cadet inspections — one for the navy cadets and another for the air force - - will take place on successive days next week. Wholesale Price Of Sugar Hiked In United States

NEW YORK (AP) — Wholesale prices jumped up by another one-third of a cent a pound Thursday in what has been a soaring sugar market. The price boosts in the eastern and southern United States.

Beet areas of the west have not been affected nearly so much.

Thursday's increases, posted by National Sugar and Refining Company and Food brand, was the ninth this year and the third in seven days.

The 10 to 11 cent raised its wholesale rate on refined sugar 30 cents to $12.30 for 100 pounds in New York City. That compares with $10.10 at the end of March and about $8.55 last fall.

The acceleration is the result of a combination of factors, including mismanagement of the Cuban cane crop, which, during the last two years, a late winter this year for Europe's best cane and world shortages.

The cane time that supply had dwindled, demand has grown rapidly in recent years as the developed nations large raise their standards of living and increase sugar consumption.

A sugar industry spokesman said it seems unlikely that production will gain enough to satisfy demand within a year.

He said that Communist countries, rumored to have large sugar inventories, may come into the world market in pursuit of foreign exchange and thereby relieve some of the pressure.

A DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER, nine-year-old Jane Douglas of Belleville, was fascinated by the injuries simulated by the nuclear defence experts of R.C.A.F. Station Trenton, for the demonstrations at the annual inspection of the Quinte Corps of the St. John Ambulance Brigade last night in Belleville. After consulting with Clorketer of the R.C.A.F. on the technique he used to simulate a burn she asked Mrs. Olive Hansen of Number 416 Trenton Combined Division to lift the bandage, so she could inspect the result. Albert Bowman, of Trenton, is the "victim."

Brigadier T. A. Johnston, Deputy Chief Commissioner of the St. John Ambulance Brigade in Canada, (right), takes time out from inspecting the Quinte Corps of the Brigade in Belleville last night to tell A. J. Eady, of the Belleville Ambulance Unit, and Wm. James, of the Belleville Branch, about some of the changes to be made in St. John Ambulance equipment next year.

St. John Groups Inspected, Told Big Overhaul Coming

A major overhaul of the St. John Ambulance Brigade in Canada is now underway, according to Brigadier T. A. Johnston, Deputy Chief Commissioner of the organization.

In Belleville for the inspection of the Quinte Corps of the brigade at the armories last night, Brigadier Johnston explained that tradition was a fine thing, but "the brigade can't live on it." He said the present St. John Ambulance traditions had originated in England, for English conditions, and they are now being changed and adapted to allow the brigade to operate more efficiently under Canadian conditions.

The new regulations, which will be released next fall, provide for new uniforms for women and new dress regulations for men in the organization. A new Divisional officers' handbook will be issued with all organizational changes listed. The new regulations are not to be considered static, Brig. Johnston said, and the brigade headquarters expects to adjust them as indicated by experience, once the new rules take effect.

About 75 members of the brigade were on parade for the inspection, representing Number 399 Belleville Ambulance Division, Belleville Cadet Ambulance Division, Number 127 Picton Nursing Division, Number 150 Belleville Nursing Division and Number 416 Trenton Combined Division. More than 100 spectators were present.

The inspecting party, headed by Brigadier Johnston, of Ottawa, included Lt. Col. Campbell of Toronto, Deputy Provincial Commissioner of the Brigade; Lt. Col. Dr. Calvert of Peterborough, Area Surgeon; Major Huggins of Toronto, Provincial Staff Officer; Miss P. Hayward of Toronto, Provincial Nursing Officer; and Mrs. C. D. Ashley of Belleville, Provincial Cadet Officer. With the inspecting party were Maj. Ken Wilcox of Belleville, Quinte Corps Superintendent and William James of Belleville, president of the Brigade in Belleville and secretary of the Belleville branch.

Brigadier Johnston presented a ten-year-certificate to Mrs. Mary F. Dillon of Number 416 Trenton Combined Division, in recognition of the tenth consecutive year in which she has passed her annual first aid examinations.

As a climax to an evening of fun and gaiety, every one assembled in the cafeteria for refreshments.

The catering was handled by Mrs. Hollinger and her staff of Moira Secondary School cafeteria.

The end of classes does not signify an end to square dancing. These enthusiastic and energetic dancers will carry on throughout the summer on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Tobe's County Gardens.

September will see the beginning of a new series of lessons, and ever-increasing numbers enjoying the fun of square dancing.

Paratroopers Crush Revolt By Congo Police

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP) — Congolese paratroops crushed a mutiny today by Leopoldville city police when arrested their superior officers in a bid for higher pay.

More than two companies of paratroops surrounded the city's main police camp, pointing automatic weapons into the compound.

Other paratroopers entered the camp and seized armored cars. Commandeered trucks and jeeps took the rifles and ammunition to safety.

Paratroop officers outside the camp said no shots were fired.

The police demanded a 25-per-cent increase in pay. To back up their demand, they arrested their officers, a high official of the interior ministry said.

Under Congolese law, police are not allowed to strike.

Russian Killed In Ottawa Crash

OTTAWA (CP) — A Russian scientist was killed today in an auto accident. Police said a second Russian, driver of the car and an officer of the Russian trade council, has been charged with impaired driving.

Dead is Vladimir Tcheremshinov, 33, an exchange scientist serving at Canada's National Research Council here.

Police identified the driver of the car as Leonid Tebernyther, 36.

Police said the accident occurred in the south end of Ottawa at Colonel By Drive and Hog's Back Bridge, which spans the Rideau Canal. They said the car struck a bridge abutment.

200 Attend Graduation Square Dance

On Thursday evening, some 200 square dancers attended the graduation party in Moira Secondary School gymnasium. Out of this number there were 80 graduates. These dancers started a series of 15 lessons in January. The married couples' class, conducted by Norm and Nina Wilcox, met at Sir Winston Churchill School, and the single group, under the direction of Bob and Bea Williamson, met at Queen Elizabeth School.

The balance of the crowd was made up of members from the three local clubs and the Campbellford club.

Mr. Pierson Cargill, a full time caller from Peterborough, was caller for the memorable occasion.

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED

The highlight of the evening came at 9:15 p.m. when presentation of diplomas took place. These are based on attendance. Out of the 80 people receiving diplomas, 18 received "gold star" diplomas signifying they had attended 100 per cent of the classes.

Also at this time, the members of the two graduating classes presented their leaders with gifts. Mr. Glen Baxter made the presentation to Norm and Nina Wilcox; and Bruce Jarvah, assisted by four subbodied men, made the presentation to Bob and Bea Williamson.

As a climax to an evening of fun and gaiety, every one assembled in the cafeteria for refreshments.

The catering was handled by Mrs. Hollinger and her staff of Moira Secondary School cafeteria.

The end of classes does not signify an end to square dancing. These enthusiastic and energetic dancers will carry on throughout the summer on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Tobe's County Gardens.

R. A. Knowlton Named Manager In This City

Three members of the Kingston branch of the Canada Life Assurance Company were honored on Thursday evening, May 2nd at a reception and dinner held at the Catarqui Golf and Country Club. Among those attending the reception were a number of leading citizens in this community and members of the Canada Life organization.

Present on this occasion were John S. Harris, general superintendent of agencies, John M. Munro, superintendent of agencies and Donald A. Fowlie, C.L.U. assistant superintendent of agencies. They had made a special trip from the home office in Toronto to be here.

At the dinner meeting, attended by all the representatives of Kingston Branch and their wives, Mr. Munro acted as chairman.

Mr. Harris announced that Bert T. Trenouth, C.L.U., who had been manager of the Kingston branch since 1958, had been appointed manager of Montreal St. James Branch, one of the top branches in the company's international organization. Mr. Trenouth, a graduate of Queen's University and associated with the Canada Life for seventeen years was in a senior position in the home office prior to moving to Kingston to be in charge of operations here.

E. F. (Bill) Moores, C.L.U. was introduced as the new Manager of Kingston Branch succeed Mr Trenouth. He joined the Canada Life in this City over fifteen years ago and early became one of the leading life underwriters in the company.

Ralph A. Knowlton, C.L.U., a member of the Branch for eighteen years, has been appointed District Manager of Belleville Branch where he has represented the Canada Life with distinction.

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Harris referred to the long history of the Canada Life in the Kingston area. Established in 1847, the Company was represented in this City from its first year of operation. Since that time this, the first of the Canadian life insurance companies has attained a total of five billion dollars of business in force, four billion of this in the past sixteen years. Kingston Branch has grown along with the Canada Life and is considered a most important part of the organization.

Smelt Run Reaches Peak In P.E. County

The smelt run at North Bay, Prince Edward County, reached its peak during the past weekend, April 27-28. Approximately fifty car loads of smelt fishermen were on hand to participate in the smelt harvest and Conservation Officer Claude Winters reports that there were plenty of smelts to accommodate the fishermen.

A smaller smelt run occurred at Wicked Point (Salmon Point) and area, but attracted a small congregation of fishermen.

At North Bay on Prince Edward County, more than thirty bonfires lit the area up like a Christmas tree and the jolly smelt fishermen could be seen cavorting in the flickering light while they dipped for these much sought after tasty little fish, or lounged in deck chairs while they watched the antics of their friends while they took their turn at dipping.

Dr. Mathers Speaks to Queen's Alumni on 'Too Many Religions'

On Wednesday, the Picton graduates of Queen's University were hosts to over 100 members of the Belleville District Branch of the Queen's Alumni. The dinner was served by the ladies of St. Mary Magdelene Church in their freshly decorated parish hall. The candle-lit tables looked charming with their posies of fresh spring flowers in the tra ditional Queen's colors.

The Reverend Mr. Hommersen of Stirling, said grace. After the usual reports, Mr. Lorne McDougall brought in the nominating committee's report, and the New president, Mr. John L. Good, was installed.

While the table was being cleared, Mr. Ron Robinson played for a few college songs. Herb Hamilton spoke of what is new on the campus.

Mr. Deemea introduced the speaker, the Reverend Doctor Mathers of the Queen's Theological faculty, author of the "Word and the Way," whose subject was "Too Many Religions"

The speaker glanced at the religious problems of the past, particularly the question of clerical control which is now on its way out.

RELIGIOUS PLURALISM

"The present problem of the church is religious pluralism. Christianity is losing ground to the position it occupied in the second century. It is one of a number of religions: Taoism, Hinduism, Buddhism, Islamism and Christianity, which are struggling for the minds of men.

"Each of these religions has its own sphere of action and each has been reassessing its position on its theology. Since the age of colonialism began, men have encountered other religious systems. Now we meet them on our own college campuses and on our own street.

"Christianity, in its early days, was envisaged as a world power, but its scope has been confined to the west and its influence has been on western culture. It is becoming in our day a world of religion.

"The power of Christianity is the past has been and flowed. For example, the bishopric of St. Augustine has been engulfed by the Moslems. The Nestorians, a barely branch of the Christian church, which, for a time, held a strong hold on the north of China, have all but vanished. How will Christians answer the challenge?

BE MORE BROAD-MINDED

"Not by being all things to all men. It will have to be more precise in its theology, liturgy and discipline. It will have to show how it differs and why it differs from other faiths. We have been reading of the ecumenical movement to unite Christians. Christian sects must learn to be more broad-minded and know why this is necessary.

"What strategy should be adopted to meet the problem? The historian Toynbee suggests (All truth is common to all men). This is an attempt to find Deism which might appeal to the Hindus who believe that religion is an amalgam of various faiths. But differences in religion are real and cannot be forcibly settled.

"Flocking believes that the map of the world should assign certain religions to certain areas and that there should be no attempt to convert peoples in those areas from their own faith. This is impossible.

"Niebur states that Christian culture is still growing and that we must realize that we cannot keep our history apart from our religion. Even so-called Atheists have a religious origin. An Atheist with a Roman Catholic background differs from one with a Presbyterian origin.

"There was a time when we pictured the society of the future as being Christian with a varying social and political background, but the tendency of today seems that countries tend to a common social and political background and a variety of religions.

"There should be a religious department in every university to foster the understanding of Christian thought and institutions and give knowledge of the thought and philosophy of other religions so that understanding may be achieved."

After Mr. Zufelt had thanked the speaker, a delightful trio of musicians, Mrs. Walmsley, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Christie, sang selections from Mozart's "Figaro," and "Cosai sans Tutte," and a very pleasant evening came to a close.

Terrazzo Chips Firm Is Formed

The firm has leased the mill building constructed by Building Products Ltd. on No. 7 highway from that and Ray Surris. The plant is now being renovated and re-equipped" Mr. Revoy will manage the new business.

Feinberg on Nuclear Arms

Rabbi Abraham Feinberg of Toronto has said that, if the United Arab Republic acquires nuclear arms, Israel should have such weapons.

There would be little startling about such a declaration were Rabbi Feinberg not vice-president of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

Rabbi Feinberg justifies his deviation from that body's principles in the following words: "I do not believe that the policy of deterrence being practised by the West will ultimately bring peace. But if we accept that policy we must be consistent in applying it."

This defence hardly seems logical. Rabbi Feinberg does not accept this policy. He reiterates that he does not believe it will bring peace. Why, then, does he advocate a course for Israel which he does not believe will bring peace?

To be consistent, Rabbi Feinberg ought to have opposed for Israel a policy which he opposes for his own country. But, like all Jews everywhere, he they Zionists or anti-Zionists, Rabbi Feinberg is deeply involved emotionally where the fate of Israel is concerned. It is difficult, if not impossible, to be logical and emotional at one and the same time.

Even for the unemotional, what is logical is not so easy to find in the case of Israel and the Arab lands which surround her on three sides. Nor is the question of these lands acquiring nuclear arms a purely academic one. Recently there have been news stories about the attempts of the Israeli secret service to prevent German scientists designing rockets for The United Arab Republic. It is doubtful whether such expensive arms would be justified if they were to be equipped with conventional warheads. Israel, too, we be sure, is actively studying the question of acquiring nuclear arms.

If both Israel and the United Arab Republic were to arm themselves in this fashion, we should have an expansion of the "nuclear club" in a most dangerous form. Whatever one may think of the present leaders of these lands, one cannot deny that both countries have their fanatics. It is just possible that the United States and the Soviet Union may be able to fight a cold war for years without permitting it to flare into a hot one. It is more doubtful whether the bitter hatred that exists between Jews and Arabs would permit continued abstention from a resort to nuclear weapons if both sides possessed them.

Nor can one expect either of these countries to accept an inferior position in this regard. Here on this continent, where there are so many influential men of the Jewish faith, we may consider it unthinkable that the United Arab Republic would be permitted to carry out a nuclear attack on Israel without instant retaliation by the West. But the Jews, with their memories of ages of persecution, and their knowledge of recent oil-politics in the Middle East, cannot be expected to share this assurance. For the Arabs, after the British and French attack on Suez any dependence on the West would appear madness. As for Russia, who knows how she would react?

So, in one sense, Rabbi Feinberg may not be so very far from right—if the UAR obtains nuclear weapons we cannot logically object to Israel arming herself in like fashion. But this would push us all to the volcano's brink: the only sensible conclusion is that the present nuclear powers should unite to forbid such weapons to both the United Arab Republic and Israel. It is in the best interests of these powers themselves that such a restriction be placed on their enmity.

Infant Mortality Rate

So you are going to have a baby? Better leave Hastings County. Only twelve of the 55 counties and districts in Ontario have a higher infant mortality rate than this county—and 42 have a lower. In Hastings there were 30.6 instances out of 10,000 that your baby will die, while across the Bay of Quinte in Prince Edward the chances are only 272 in 10,000 and in Lennox and Addington only 247 in 10,000. Safest county—Wentworth, 185 chances in 10,000; riskiest, the Patricia portion of Kenora district, 476 chances in 10,000.

Ontario's infant mortality rate in 1960 was 24 per 1,000 live births. Canada's rate was 27. This looks good compared with Portugal's 77, Austria's 38, West Germany's 34 and even Ireland's 29 and France's 28. It is almost as low as the infant mortality rate in the United States, 26 per thousand live births. But have we any reason for complacency when Australia and New Zealand have cut their rate to 20, the Netherlands has lowered it to 17 and Sweden reports 16, less than two-thirds of Canada's rate?

Politicians Mature Late

Hamilton Spectator

It is said, and with considerable justification, that politics is the only field in which old men are looked up to. Unlike the products of most other fields of endeavor, the politician has a long growing season, he matures late, and he can withstand any numbers of storms and vicissitudes.

It can also be said that when a man gets too old to play hockey he can enter politics and be referred to as "a young buck, still wet behind the ears."

What other field of endeavor can boast of a Gladstone still blooming at age of 85, an Adenauer at 88, a de Gaulle at 73, a Churchill at 87 (when he retired), and an Eisenhower at 70 (when he fell victim to the two-term limit for U.S. presidents)? None, not even bird-watching, where eventually the eyes have had it.

Most other fields of endeavor can boast of a Gladstone still blooming at age of 85, an Adenauer at 88, a de Gaulle at 73, a Churchill at 87 (when he retired), and an Eisenhower at 70 (when he fell victim to the two-term limit for U.S. presidents)? None, not even bird-watching, where eventually the eyes have had it.

We mention all this, all these indisputable facts, because from time to time we hear Canadians say that the political parties have old leaders who should be replaced by younger men. Old is play hockey, but not too old to have political influence and power. Mr. Pearson is not too old to be Prime Minister. Mr. Diefenbaker will not be 68 until September. From a political standpoint, they are not middle-aged, and those who have two strikes against them because of their advanced years either don't know or have forgotten the political history, particularly the history of political leaders.

Sir Winston, it is quite wrong from the standpoint of past experience, anyway, to count any man out of the race just because of his age. What holds true in business life, in sports, and frequently in the fields of art and science, does not hold true in politics. Politics is, after all, a struggle between men, when a man reaches the pinnacle of leadership at age 55 or 60, he usually holds that position until the health leaves him or until such time as he loses the support of his party.

Of course, when a political leader loses the support of his party, he usually is through, even if he doesn't want to, he usually is forced by circumstances to do so. But the physiological age of the man is not in itself the reason. There is no compulsory retirement age for politicians (Canada has had an appointed senator of 101, and the U.S. a senator of 90).

He retires when he gets tired, or when his followers tire of him, but not before.

Tax Collector Acts Human

Montreal Gazette

"Paying taxes can be fun." That may not be quite the slogan that the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (the Income Tax Department) has adopted. But it is making a lively effort to give the taxpatherers a better public image.

The idea is to make them appear as "friendly folk," ready to talk over taxes with the citizen in a relaxed manner at most tender way. The door is open, it is said, just drop in and we'll do what we can. You'll find how nice we really are.

An effort is being made to get as much time and space as possible for those who will speak to the public about the Service. Each representative is to try to make himself into a beloved public personality — "Mr. Revenue." He is the man with the understanding approach, the ready smile, the sympathetic touch.

The Internal Revenue Service has also tried to get the Post Office Department to put out a postage stamp for use all the 100th anniversary of the law over the nation, commemorating Internal Revenue. The Post Office Department was not receptive to the idea, so Internal Revenue had to fall back on issuing a commemorative revenue stamp of its own.

The attempt by the tax-gatherer to show tender sympathy for the tax-payers, before they are devoured, is rather too grim to be agreeable. It is rather like Lewis Carroll's Walrus, as he, with kindness, sorted out the oysters for his dinner:

"I weep for you," the Walrus said:
"I deeply sympathize."
With sobs and tears he sorted out
Those of the largest size,
Holding his pocket-handkerchief
Before his streaming eyes.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 3rd, 1943.

At the monthly meeting of the local Victorian Order of Nurses held at Kiwanis Centre last week, delegates reported on the Victorian Order annual convention recently held in Toronto. Nurse Bostar reviewed the work of the acting chief superintendent for the Dominion, who is acting head, while Miss Isobel Mitchell, R.R.C., L.C.O.I., Elizabeth Bentley, C.A.M.C., is serving as matron in chief of Canadian nursing sisters. During 1943 Victorian Order nurses made over 700,000 visits to care for 88,646 patients. Ninety-two per cent of visits made by Victorian Order nurses combined nursing care with health teaching. A large percentage of the visits were made to families with some members serving in the Army, Navy or Air Force, stated Miss Soulsby.

A life jacket as is used by airmen, has been developed and on the shores of Lake Ontario near Cobourg. The lettering on the belt has become obliterated. That this belt may prove a clue to the fate of an aircraft missing from Mountain View Air Station is being investigated by police. The plane disappeared during a snow storm and no trace of it has ever been found. Last and most painful trafile was held up for nearly half an hour on Sunday morning between ten and eleven o'clock when the electric motor apparatus which swings the bridge into place, went out of commission. The bridge had been opened to allow a boat to go through, and when the bridge attendant tried to close it, the machinery did not respond.

Two Towns On One Site

UNESCO Features

It happened in the Soviet Union, in Georgia. Eighteen years ago, technicians planning the construction of a large modern hydro-electric power station at a site about 40 miles from Thilisi (Tiflis).

In the arid, sun - scorched steppe came an army of men and machines. They set about to dig the foundations — and, to their astonishment, in the first few days of their work, the bulldozers, they found various objects — potsherds, broken pieces of glass and ceramics of different colors and designs.

Archaeologists soon confirmed the importance of this discovery; the site chosen for the new industrial complex had once been that of Rustavi, an ancient town invaded by the armies of Alexander the Great. According to a local historian of the ninth century, these armies encountered fierce resistance in defending the town. But the people of Rustavi, or rather of Bostan-Kalaki as the town was then called, knew how to do things besides fight. Some five hundred years later, in the fourth century A.D., they built an irrigation canal whose source was in the town. From this canal Rustavi took its name, and "Tavi" "beginning". And the town, in time, got its name "Ru" meaning "little river," to Rustavelli, the great 12th Century Georgian poet, author of "The Man in the Tiger-Skin."

Very little was known, however, even about Rustavi's history. But excavations on the site are helping to bring it to light. The digs have yielded the remains of ancient houses, and discoveries continue to be made. Though the surrounding countryside is today arid, the ancient Rustavi was surrounded by vine-growing centre as is shown by the many specimens of "marani" (small wine-cellars) that have been dug up, as well as by large pottery receptacles big enough to contain ten buckets of wine. Also unearthed were petrified grape-seeds, of a kind that is no longer grown in Georgia, and burnt grains of wheat that testify to the catastrophe which destroyed Rustavi eight hundred years ago, when Turkish Seljuk invaders besieged and burnt the town.

Today a new town is rising on the site of the ruins. It already has 70,000 inhabitants, wide avenues, factories, modern buildings, and an ethnographic museum where the relics of the past are preserved.

Fluoridation

The Manitoba city of Brandon offers further evidence of the beneficial results accruing from fluoridation of a water supply.

Brandon's water has been fluoridated since 1954. The percentage of children in the six-to-eight age group without cavities in permanent teeth has risen from 32 per cent eight years ago to 74 per cent in 1962.

Abbreviations Often Become New Words

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader in West Virginia writes in to ask me whether I find the words "Gents" offensive as an abbreviation for "Gentlemen" on doors to certain public rooms.

I must confess that I do, but I must in all honesty add that my reaction is irrational and snobbish. "Gent," as an abbreviation, has been in the English language since the 16th century, and has better credentials than many words we abbreviate without realizing it.

When we think of a certain kind of doctor a "quack," for instance, we may of us realize that this is an abbreviation of "quacksalver"? Today there are many such words in the standard language that are accepted in the shortened forms of the words they have displaced.

Prof. J. A. Shead, the philologist at London University, has pointed out that nobody calls a piano a "pianoforte" any more; that a "curio" was once a "curiosity"; that nowadays no one calls a "bus" today was only a half - century ago called an "omnibus."

Even in the rigorous academic field, we speak of "exam," "lab," "math," "phys ed" and so on, rather than examination, laboratory, mathematics and meticulously.

No one considers it infra dig to speak of a "bike," a "photo," or a "prom," or to refer to the photograph and perambulator. Young people invariably go to "proms," not to promenades, and attend "preps" rather than preparatory schools.

The late Stephen Leacock, who is Jonathan Swift was complaining about the habit of shortening English words, said that particular animosities were "mob" and "banter," which are now thoroughly accepted standard English.

Indeed not one person in a thousand recalls that "taxi" is the popular form of the Latin term "mobile vulgus."

Who thinks of a "fan" as coming from "fanatic"? Or "taxicab" as being an abbreviation of the French word "taximeter - cabriolet"? A wig was once a "periwig," a drawing-room was a "withdrawing room," and even a "chap" is an abbreviation of "chapman," which was a term of trade, a generic term for a wheeler and dealer of that day.

Only a pedant or a prig would speak of taking his "canine" to the "zoological gardens" rather than to the "zoo." In our own time, a microphone was known as a "mike," a racetrack totalizator is a "tote," and the cinematograph became "cinema" in England while motion pictures became "movies" in the United States. "Gent remains a low - class stamp-word in England, but I infinitely prefer it to the ghastly American euphemism of "John," or, even worse, "little boys' room."

Blueberry Enterprise

Cape Breton Post

The Federal Department of Agriculture will share half the cost of preparing 600 acres of land in Quebec's Abitibi County for the growth of blueberries. According to the official release, the land will be rehabilitated under the Agricultural Rehabilitation Act. The total cost over three years will be $38,756.

This seems an indication of the shifts and things to come. Land on which blueberries formerly grew abundantly without the slightest help from man, is to be returned at considerable expense to its original condition and then to it as can be approximated.

We have come full circle in the use of land when time, effort and money is expended to bring it back to the state in which the settlers found it in the first place.

This indicates clearly that there's a growing market for blueberries which will flourish if given half a chance.

Move Joints, Apply Heat To Ease Pain of Arthritis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am only 50 but have been told by two doctors that I have arthritis and that there is nothing they can do but give me pills to ease the pain.

I don't believe in "living on pain pills" so I don't take anything. I have tried applying heat to my legs and they feel fine for a while. However, someone has told me heat is bad for this and that I should use cold packs instead.

I don't know whether I should exercise my limbs or not. — Mrs. H. J.

If by "pain pills" you mean salicylates (aspirin and similar ones) you are overlooking the fact that they are anti-inflammatory medication as well. Yes, they calm down headaches, but they also combat inflammation in the joints and over years of testing they still seem to be the best thing yet found for arthritis.

So, for your own well-being as well as comfort, abandon this notion about "living on pain pills."

Heat also is excellent for these stiffened, painful joints. A hot bath, a hot pack, or a hot water bottle, any means that applies heat will bring relief. It won't, to be sure, be a cure. None exists. But relief does. Why don't you forget about the advice of "someone" who has told you the opposite? Heat is not bad for the joints, or arthritis.

As to exercise, no. Movement yes, a "forcing" of movement, no. Be clear. Sheer exercise, just for the sake of the exertion, will not help and may harm the arthritic joints. On the other hand, movement of them, to the fullest degree possible, prevents them from becoming gradually stiffer. Work your knee or wrist, move it as far as possible in the directions it is supposed to go. With the knees of course, the direction of movement is more limited. But move the knee as far as it normally should go. Move — don't exercise." You'll get enough exercise in ordinary daily activities anyway.

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you explain why in the morning I weigh 110 pounds and maybe 111 or 112 in the afternoon or evening? — B. C.

Easily. Take athletes, such as football players, either in a game or in practice. They lose five pounds quite readily and some even more. Most of this is in loss of moisture through sweat. By the next day they have gained all of it back.

A pound or two is easily explainable in terms of moisture alone. You expel a little moisture every time you breathe. You can see this when people breathe on their glasses to clean them. Let's say you breathe 3,00 times or more while asleep. It mounts up into ounces of moisture.

Then at breakfast and lunch you not only eat, but you drink coffee, milk, water. You are constantly gaining or losing a little.

That's why, for people who keep track of their weight, we suggest weighing at the same time each day, preferably the first thing in the morning.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband recently had a terrible pain in his side. The doctor called it an incomplete hernia. Please explain. — Mrs. H. C.

Sure he didn't say indirect? Hernias are classified as direct or indirect, depending on location in the groin area. There is also the situation of a relaxed inguinal ring which is what some of us refer to as a potential hernia formation. The doctor may have referred to the latter as an incomplete hernia.

"Don't Quit Because Of Arthritis" is the title of my booklet designed to help all who suffer from aches and pains of arthritis. For a copy write to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover the cost of handling.

Today in History

Christopher Columbus discovered Jamaica 460 years ago today—in 1494—and on this day in 1655 an English fleet, under Sir Oliver Cromwell, captured the island from the Spanish. Columbus had named the island Saint Jago but it has retained a derivation of 111 Indian name Xaymaca or Xaymaca — "land of water."

1958 — A trust and savings company at Brockville, Ont., was robbed of $2,350,000 in bonds and securities.

1948 — Pennsylvania forbade the jailing of fugitive slaves.

Explain It, Please

London Daily Mail

A sudden burst of wind in Plymouth blew a letter out of the hands of a young girl. The letter was found two weeks later on the roof of a three-storey building in Saint Mabyn, 50 miles away. The post office department is still confused because the wind was blowing in the opposite direction.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There was recently an interesting panel show on TV in which university students were interviewed about the sad effects of examinations on them. Some of them confessed to taking pick-up pills prior to the exams. Others deplored the shattering emotional disturbance that examinations inspired in them.

Temperament is a word that we don't hear nowadays. But it is used to be quite familiar in the days before the psychoanalysts and psychiatrists came along with newer and more confusing words.

We used to say that certain young people didn't have the temperament to be college students. The dictionary says that temperament is "that individual peculiarity of physical organization that affects the manner of thinking, feeling and acting; every person is permanently affected by it." Good definition is "natural disposition."

It was that second definition that was the one we are most stood by the word in those days when a college education wasn't for the many but for the few. Not everybody was supposed to take the apt, they failed, nobody bleated. They just went and got jobs.

Charge Couple Under Child Welfare Act

Convicted on charges of neglect under the child welfare act, a Belleville couple living common law, were released on their own recognizance Thursday and will appear for sentence on June 13th.

The man and woman appeared before Deputy Judge Col. T. V. Wills of the family court.

The court was told that the couple had separated, with the woman leaving to take care of the man's 2½-year-old son by a former marriage. The man was to pay for the boy's maintenance.

When the boy's maintenance fell behind the woman called a taxi Tuesday night and sent the lad back to his father. The father in turn refused to accept the child and eventually the boy was taken to the police station, with the resulting charges of neglect against the two adults.

FOR THE RECORD — Home and School secretary Mrs. H. C. Nettleton checks her minutes for the last night by Ontario Education Minister William G. Davis (centre) after speech at Queen Elizabeth public school. Elmer (Sandy) Sandercock, MLA West Hastings, accompanied the minister to the meeting of parents and teachers.

Need Constant Surveillance Of Course of Study Says Ontario Education Minister

Ontario's school curriculum must be kept under constant surveillance and when necessary, Education Minister William G. Davis said in Belleville last night.

"It is my own personal opinion that all curricula today must be kept under constant review," the minister told an assembly of teachers and Home and School Association members in Queen Elizabeth School.

The curriculum must reflect the contemporary society and hence it is only realistic to keep it under constant review.

"Curriculum is a continuing process and one which we must have under close scrutiny — and I want to assure you this is the intention of the department in his province."

Mr. Davis dealt broadly with the field of education in his address, touching generally on most aspects of either public interest or confderm.

"Today, it is suggested that the schools of the recent past, to their effort to be fair to the pupil of average or less-than-average ability, were sometimes prone to demand less than they should of the above average or brilliant," said Mr. Davis.

NOW DEMAND MORE

"The onset of automation, the increasing role of science in our daily lives . . . have all played a part in the current trend towards a more rigorous education.

"I am not one," nor is the department a group of people, who will be stampeded into change for the sake of change," warned the minister. However, current emphasis is upon higher standards, said the minister.

There also has been a change in the personal attitude of parents to the future contributions of their offspring. People are realizing it is not necessary for their children to enter the professions to be contributing to their country.

"To me, this is a most encouraging change."

"I think parents are realizing there is a great deal of satisfaction for their child to be a good mechanic or technologist."

Personal attitudes to education combined with a social whole will be the keystone of Ontario's future economy.

ECONOMY CHANGING

This is underlined by the changing aspects of the provincial economy itself, said Mr. Davis.

For years, Ontario residents prided themselves on their wealth of natural resources. The shift which lays increasing stress on secondary industry brings a demand for new ideas and new products.

"There must be a greater degree of productivity . . . and this can only be done through development of what I think is our greatest resource, and that is students, in this province."

"I think the future of this province will depend upon the attitude people have and the interest they take in education in this province," he added.

But, pointing his remarks at his audience, Mr. Davis reminded the assemby that education is a partnership of teachers, trustees and the department, supported by full co-operation from parents and pupils.

The minister was introduced by public school administrator Lawrence Kells. An after-speech presentation was made by Quinte Secondary School principal Leslie Reid.

Split Reported In Syrian Govt.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The unborn Arab union of Syria, Iraq and Egypt was reported threatened today by a split in the revolutionary government of Syria.

Reliable sources in Beirut reported pro-Nasser members of the Syrian cabinet and of the ruling National Revolutionary Council have resigned, leaving the Ba'ath socialist Party in control of the country.

Tight censorship in Damascus prevented direct reports on the split between the two factions which staged the March 8 coup.

Recreation Highlights

By BRUCE JARVAH
Assistant Director

Everybody can't be a major league baseball player, professional football player or National Hockey League star, only a few make the big step.

In sports, however, there is something everyone can do and it starts with the beginner It involves enjoying sports and participating in them in a sportsmanlike manner.

The key phrase in this year's local minor softball program is "participation by all" and it is felt that even at the end of the season, this word will still be a key phrase among the coaches and players alike.

Last year saw approximately 600 participants in the softball program and it appears as if this figure will only slightly increase this year. However, the problem that usually presents itself every year has arisen once again, and this is the matter of coaches.

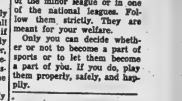
Although there are already more coaches than at this time last year, interested persons are still required to coach in the tyke, squirt and peewee divisions.

Last year there were 27 coaching positions, but because of an increase in the bantam registration this year, approximately 30 coaches will be required for the opening of season.

Both the tyke and squirt teams will be zoned because of the age limit involved, but the bantam league will play in different areas of the city and there will probably be an interlocking schedule between teams of East and West Hill regions.

Possibly due to a lack of coaches, there were only three bantam teams active in last year's program, but as it appears now, the Minor Softball League is hoping to have at least six teams in this year's summer bantam division.

Recreation Highlights AL As of this date, there is not a sufficient number of midget players to warrant a midget division and unless this changes in the near future, those who registered for the midget division will be allowed to play with the bantam players. Depending on the total number of midget players registered, they will be allocated evenly to all bantam teams.



Minor softball forms were made available to the public separate, and high schools last week and already the majority of these forms have been returned and are in the process of being sorted according to age limit.

It is hoped that playing can begin sometime within the next two weeks. However, all hopeful participants should watch their local newspaper and listen to the radio, to be certain of the actual dates of commencement for the various divisions.

All schedules will be listed in your local newspaper and those concerned should cut these out and put them in a safe place for easy reference.

There are rules to follow in any sport, whether it be part of the minor league or in one of the national leagues. Follow them strictly. They are meant for your welfare.

Only you can decide whether or not to become a part of sports or to let them become a part of you. If you do, play them properly, safely, and happily.

France Will Advance Date For Withdrawal

ALGIERS (Reuters)—France has agreed to advance the date of withdrawal of her troops in Algeria, it was announced here Thursday.

A communique on talks between Premier Ahmed ben Bella and the French state secretary for Algerian affairs, Jean de Broglie, said the date of repatriation would be brought forward from July 1, 1965, to the latter end of 1964.

Troops in the Constantine area will be withdrawn even earlier—before the end of 1963, the communique said.

The communique reference followed immediately a statement that the two ministers had reviewed questions relating to the use of France's Sahara bases, but did not indicate the result of these discussions.

When the communique was read, reporters assumed the reference to evacuation also covered the bases test sites. But when Information Minister Moulmoud Belahoune was questioned about this several hours later, he replied: "I cannot tell you anything on this subject."

"I hope to be able to tell you in a few days," he said, indicating that the exact date for the test-site evacuation had not yet been set.

Before Belahoune clarified the communique, Reuters erroneously reported that the test sites also would be evacuated next year.

Terrorist Army Still Haunts Gen. de Gaulle

By RODNEY ANGOVE

PARIS (AP) — The terrorist Secret Army Organization still haunts France although bombings and threats have dropped to a feeble echo of last year.

Every few days there are reminders that the secret army and its companion political front, the National Resistance Council, threaten the country's peace.

Bombs smashed the home of a city councilman at Perpignan, a police station in Corsica, and a dance hall, service station and parked car in the Toulon area.

A secret army gunman was shot dead in a back street in Paris after mortally wounding a policeman. His companion, brought bruised and bleeding to headquarters, turned out to be Serge Bernier, alias Jean Murat, one of three gunmen condemned to death in absentia for the machine-gun ambush of President le Gaulle last August.

STUBBORNLY RESIST

Officials admit the secret army is resisting stubbornly the increased pressure to wipe it out. The reason: More than an organization, the secret army "is a state of mind."

It's a state of mind that harbors political black any change in the old system.

Strange bedfellows have turned up as secret army activists. They all had the same goal—to take over the government.

Many European refugees from Algeria cannot forget the homeland they have lost. Some military men, embittered from Indochina, Suez and Algeria experiences, hate to see the colonial army under tight civilian control.

Two remaining kingpins of the National Resistance Council, Jacques Soustelle and former Gen. Raul Gardy, supposedly are hiding outside the country.

No one will be surprised if tomorrow a desperate group of men darts out of the shadows to strike again at de Gaulle. They know that so long as his towering figure is at the head of France, chances of their talking power are virtually nil.

although at the time of the sale —'057—he was not in the cabinet.

The opposition leader said the province was in an odd situation "when judges cannot find laws or legality and turn to imprised morality."

When Mr. Lesage protested, Mr. Johnson said he wasn't attacking Mr. Justice Salvas as a judge, but as a commissioner.

tion proceedings, to ensure all steps necessary were taken to prevent an epidemic and to survey the devastation caused by the floods and report to the cabinet on whether the region should be declared a disaster area.

Mr. Laing indicated there would be no early decision on declaring a disaster area.

The RCAF, with planes and helicopters, has spearheaded the evacuation. A medium-sized helicopter plucked the residents of Fort Simpson from danger in a five-hour operation. The residents were carried to the safety of a mainland airport from where they were to go to Yellowknife.

At Fort Simpson 300 children were included among those rescued when the Mackenzie River jammed 10 miles downstream and laid back the water.

It overflowed the island for the first time in memory. When the water began to climb Wednesday the call for help was made. Thursday 80 per cent of the town was under water.

Frank Cunningham, assistant deputy northern affairs minister, who flew from Ottawa to join Mr. Laing, has been authorized by Gordon Robertson, deputy minister and territorial commissioner, to spend up to $50,000 for relief purposes.

An additional $50,000 was granted Thursday night by Edmonton city council. It was to be made in the form of money, supplies and personnel and to be used as directed by the Red Cross. Additional funds were promised if more was needed.

Mayor W. R. McBryan of Hay River said 1,200 of the town's 1,800 residents remained Thursday night. He doubted more would leave, but was happy the women and children had been flown to safety—some going as far south as Edmonton.

Huge dirty cakes of ice, some three to four feet thick and 15 feet across, have smashed their way through Hay River, powered by the flood waters from the Hay River. Scores of houses and house trailers were overturned. Others were damaged.

Mayor McBryan said more than $1,000,000 damage has been done.

Ninety per cent of Hay River was under water Thursday from 6 p.m. Mr. McBryan said those still at the town were in adequate shelters.

The worry was the chance of another big push of ice down the river. Temperatures, which dropped to about 10 degrees in the region Thursday, built up to two inches of new ice. It hindered some evacuation operations.

TOWN IS EMPTY

Fort Simpson, built on a two-mile long island at the junction of the Liard and Mackenzie Rivers, was an empty town.

The evacuation included all 750 residents to an airport one mile away on the mainland. Of these 176 arrived at Yellowknife early today.

That town has thrown open private homes, schools and business offices to help bed down the victims.

No injuries were reported at either town and there was a plentiful supply of food.

C. L. Merrill of Fort Smith, northern affairs administrator for the Mackenzie District, said Thursday two Flying Boxcars will handle the movement of Fort Simpson people to Yellowknife. Each can carry 60 passengers a flight.

Pilot Returns From Flight to 212,000 Feet

LOS ANGELES (AP)—X-15 Pilot Joseph Walker returned from a flight to 212,000 feet Thursday confident the rocket ship will be able to double that altitude before the summer is over.

"If the next flight goes as nicely as this one I am sure the following one will be an attempt for a new altitude," the test pilot said in a post-flight interview.

The 4,000-mile-an-hour X-15's record is 314,750 feet. A flight to around 400,000 feet — nearly 80 miles — would take it to within 20 miles or so of the altitude at which missile-boosted Mercury capsules go into orbit.

Walker shut his engine down early this time and held the speed to 3,911 m.p.h.

He was not trying for a record — his craft had another mission. It was carrying instruments to measure invisible infra-red and ultra-violet radiation at high altitudes.

Two Members Suspended by House Speaker

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Charges of "Australias - brand McCarthyism" Thursday provoked one of the worst disorders in the history of the Australian Parliament.

Two members of the opposition Labor party were summarily suspended by the Speaker before the House of Representatives adjourned for the night.

During two hours of turmoil members booed, hissed and shouted "Communist," "Fascist," "Liar," "Sell Hitler" and "McCarthyite" at each other.

The uproar was touched off when a member of the ruling Liberal party, William Charles Wentworth, made a speech claiming Communists had infiltrated the Labor party.

Labor member L. C. Hayles of New South Wales was suspended after he appeared beside Wentworth dressed up as a "little man in a white coat" from an insane asylum.

Reporters said he apparently got the disguise by borrowing the coat of one of the parliamentary dining room waiters.

Another Labor member with similar views and a similar name, W. G. Hayden, was suspended for 24 hours for disobeying an order from the Speaker to keep quiet.

U.S. Relations With Haiti At Low Point

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—U.S. relations with Haiti are deteriorating rapidly.

In the last five days, the U.S. embassy has fired off five protests to President Francois Duvalier's government, complaining about different incidents. All have been ignored.

The incidents were:

A bitterly anti-American address April 21 by Jacques Fourcand, pistol-carrying head of Haiti's Red Cross, at a ceremony launching a government-sponsored "week of grateful mess" to Duvalier. Fourcand called the United States a false democracy and said Haiti would not be a "tool of Washington."

Haiti's 1,000-man Marine sergeant was held in jail for 2½ hours and a noise bomb exploded in the yard of another marine sergeant.

Police arrested a Haitian security guard employed by the U.S. embassy and are still holding her. A second Haitian security guard was marched at gunpoint by a Haitian soldier as she was about to report for duty. She was detained briefly.

A slowdown on exit permits for U.S. citizens living in Haiti. The issuance of visas was speeded up later. About 1,000 Americans reside here, but there has been no sign of an exodus.

his wife, said they first heard gunfire about 10:45 p.m.

Mr. Dean said he first heard "two rapid shots. Then there was a lapse of 10 minutes then I heard intermittently five other shots."

Mrs. Dean said at first she thought it was a car backfiring on the nearby Castleton-Haig-Cobourg road.

Mr. Deans added the first two shots "sounded like a pump gun."

The Deans said the Killins family were burned out of their home, near the present house where Gladys Killins was found dead, about a year ago. Mr. Killins built the home occupied by his sister and the Campbells.

Mr. Dean said he believed Mr. Killins had been suffering from diabetes about 10 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell had been married about one year ago. Mr. Campbell is a native of Brighton. The Deans believed the young couple moved into their home about three weeks ago.

Peter Miller, a teacher at this village's public school comes from Willowdale. His parents have announced here early today by provincial police.

Investigations into the shootings today were being conducted by OPP Detective Sergeant Lyle Crabbe of Peterborough.

PEKING (Reuters) — Communist Chinese newspapers today carried their first reports of Wednesday's mysterious sinking of the Japan-bound Chinese freighter Yue Jin but suggested no cause for its loss.

All newspapers carried on their front pages identical reports from the official New China news agency saying the government "is attaching great importance to the sudden disaster and is conducting a close investigation into the cause of the sinking."

The ship went down off South Korea. All 58 aboard were saved.

The reports made no mention of allegations reported in foreign radio broadcasts heard here that the 9,483-ton freighter was sunk by torpedoes, or other theories from Japan about a surface attack or from Washington about drifting mines left over from the Korean War.

Peking people reading the news for the first time showed obvious consternation.

The sailing of the freighter from the South China port of Tsingtao Tuesday had been prominently reported here because it was safely near Shanghai to a Chinese warship. They had been taken there by the ship's pilot, Kim Kwang Kouhk.

Two warships reported to have been seen Thursday in the area of the sinking had not been identified, the board said.

thereby trimming down administrative costs.

"It would be a relatively simple matter then to levy a surcharge on personal income in place of sales tax."

The submission did not go into details on the proposed surtax, but said it could probably be less than the 3% per cent—the amount it estimated to meet the existing sales tax revenues.

This is because there was waste involved in the present system. The brief said the federal government may be losing money by charging on sales to its own departments. This amounted to simply transferring money from one department to another, creating administrative work that may mere than offset any gain.

The brief said that a lot of revenue is also lost under the system whereby firms pay tax on many products for their own consumption but then are allowed to deduct them for expenses when paying corporate income taxes.

"In the case of corporations, for every dollar which the government collects in the form of sales tax, it loses 50 cents in income tax."

The cost of collection also reduces the effectiveness of the sales tax, the brief contended.

Ten Years After Its Birth Lynn Lake in Manitoba Remains Tiny World Apart

By CHISHOLM MacDONALD

LYNN LAKE, Man. (CP)—Ten years after it's birth, Lynn Lake remains a tiny world apart — set down in a patch of land and water deep in the Canadian Shield.

Nestled in the lakes - dotted bush of northwestern Manitoba, it hasn't a road or even a cow path to link it with another settled community.

Television sets aren't found in its households; newspapers arrive when they are two days old.

Some of Lynn Lake's 2,300 residents liken it to Washington Irving's Sleepy Hollow—seemingly untouched by time and the outside world.

The comparison isn't quite accurate, however, because the nickel mining town isn't drowsing and the best evidence of this is the $250,000 a month in income 700 employees of Sherritt Gordon mines draw.

"What do we do?" says David Tellier, one of the town's young bachelors. "Well, for one thing, we've perfected the art of neighborhood visiting."

LIFE IS CHEERFUL

Seated by the piano he brought with him from Winnipeg, Mr. Tisdall and his wife Marie talked during an intermission at a dance in their comfortable living room.

"There isn't a week that we don't have a gathering and a little orchestra of our own right here," he said. "Between this piano and what the folks bring in to play, it isn't dull. nor is it as second-hand as radio and TV."

Across town, along Lynn Lake's only paved street, is the nurses' residence where similar cozy gatherings may be found when some of the six girls have time away from their busy 12-bed hospital.

Annette Barnabe of St. Jean Baptiste, Man., who completed her registered nursing course at St. Boniface Hospital, arrived here in February after a 500-mile plane ride from Winnipeg and walked into a temperature almost 50 below.

"I almost felt like going back to the comfort of Winnipeg's 25 - degree - below temperatures," she says. "But I stuck it out, and I can't say I'm sorry. There's something about the atmosphere here—and it isn't cosmetic! But it's not easy to define. There's that something about it that makes you feel it's simple to keep up with, and maybe more satisfying than the bustling outside."

SHORT DRIVE

A car passed the residence with a young couple in it.

"They should have a nice drive today," Miss Barnabe remarked. "Still, they'll have to settle for a drive to the airport, a little more than a mile away. There's no other road into the country except to the lake, and that won't be open for a while yet."

There are a fair number of activities to offset the town's sense of isolation—the drama club, hockey, curling, church work, a school band, the movies.

And, of course, there are minerals—the reason for Lynn Lake's existence.

In 1953, after the ore reserves of Sherritt Gordon Mines in Sherridon, Man., 143 miles to the south, had dwindled, exploration turned up nickel and copper here.

The company loaded Sherridon buildings on makeshift sleighs and transported them over a trail of ice and snow to a new townsite in the middle of wilderness.

Today, there are rows of tidy homes and modern shops and a mining operation that annually produces 25,000,000 pounds of nickel, 10,000,000 pounds of copper, 600,000 pounds of cobalt, 10,000 pounds of ammonium sulphate and 10,000 pounds of anhydrous ammonia.

Picton

Two-Year-Old Child Killed In Germany

PICTON—Two-year-old Bobby Patterson was killed in an auto accident in Germany on Monday, April 29, according to a telephone call received by his grandfather, town constable George Wright. The fatality was later confirmed by cable, but full details are not known.

Admitted to hospital were the boy's father, Guy Patterson, Sr., and his son, Guy, Jr. Their condition is good.

Mrs. Patterson is the former Marilyn Wright and she was not with the family when they went for a drive during which the accident occurred.

Bdr. Patterson served with 1 SSM Battery, R.C.A., at Camp Picton before going to Germany last December. Mrs. Patterson and family joined him there a short time later.

Funeral service for the boy is being held Friday at Herner, Germany, with interment there.

House

they can do.

After the June election last year, the smaller opposition groups—Social Credit and New Democrats, whose votes were essential to the Conservative government on a vote of confidence—promised the Conservatives a chance to implement their program.

But there was a difference then. The Conservatives had been in power since 1957. They had had five years in which to get their programs into action and opposition doubts about them were colored by that fact.

Furthermore, the 1962 election represented a setback for the Conservatives who were reduced to 116 members from 208 in 1958 while the Liberals found new hope of a return to power in their gain from 49 seats to 100.

This tended to give impetus to Liberal drives for another election and it soon became evident they would try to bring one on in the last Parliament as soon as possible. After some manoeuvring, the opposition groups made common cause of the defence and nuclear arms issues to overthrow the Conservatives.

Going into the new Parliament in opposition, the Conservatives haven't the same reasons for pressing for an early election as the Liberals had last fall.

They have been turned out of office. Their strength in all parts of the country except the Prairies has been reduced by the April 8 election.

WHAT ABOUT PARTY?

Perhaps an additional reason is the uncertainty about the state of the Conservative party itself. After resignations of three ministers before the election and evidence of an attempt to replace John Diefenbaker as leader, the state of party unity remains untested by the strains of a parliamentary session.

The Liberals, before the last Parliament met, faced none of these problems which are regarded here as a brake on any drive for another election soon.

However, a number of experienced MPs don't entirely discount the possibilities of another vote in a year or so.

For one thing, Mr. Diefenbaker staged a stronger campaign this year than in 1962 and is generally considered to have held back the anti-Conservative tide to a greater extent than even the Liberals thought possible.

He has been looking forward to the new parliamentary session with obvious relish and has no stirbs on a return to office. If he performs strongly as opposition and wields the Conservative party into renewed vigor, the Liberals' honeymoon with the new Parliament may be short.

ules to make up their minds. They also asked that no legal action be taken against them for setting a guard.

Mr. LeCorre said when the blood was seen, "We had to act —and act quickly. "Our man's life was at stake."

He said it appeared the two convicts had stabbed Tellier again as the guards rushed the cell, this time in the abdomen.

Tellier was married and the father of two children. He had been working at the penitentiary for eight years, said Mr. LeCorre, and was a "good guard."

ON LONG TERMS

Marcel Marcoux, killed by the guards' bullets, had four years left to serve on a 10-year sentence, while his cousin had been in prison little more than a year serving a five-year sentence.

Both were in prison for armed robbery.

St. Vincent de Paul has a notorious record of prisoner outbreaks. There was a highly-organized mass riot last June, in which one prisoner died and more than a $1,000,000 damage was caused by fire and conflict.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Stronger measures must be taken with dangerous inmates in Canadian penitentiaries, Deputy Penitentiaries Commissioner J. R. Stone said Thursday.

The death of a guard in Montreal Thursday, and the threat to another guard's life here two weeks ago, point to a core of prisoners "who refuse to conform to authority," he said.

At the British Columbia Penitentiary here April 19, guard Pat Dennis was held at knife-point for 14 hours while three convicts bargained successfully for transfer to other prisons.

The deputy commissioner is here to investigate the incident and an accompanying riot by other inmates.

"It has become obvious that in our old prisons under present overcrowded conditions, we cannot control the psychopathic section of society even under maximum - security conditions," he said.

He estimated the hard core at 25 per cent of the population of existing maximum - security prisons.

He noted that "no trouble whatsoever" has been caused during the last year among 1,000 convicts being held in "utterly-minimum security."

The incidents here and in Montreal probably were "not connected by any "set plan," but after trouble in one institution, others often "pick up the rhythm," he said.

Students Spent Day Viewing School Life From New Angle, That of the Teacher's Desk

By BEV CLARK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jeri Hooper, a part 14 - year - old, stood before a class of boys and girls her own age at West Vancouver Secondary School and taught them French.

Down the hall in the chemistry lab Bruce Nodwell, 17, was explaining nuclear fission to his classmates. Forty minutes later the same students reviewed Canadian History from 1880 to 1906 with tall, lanky Mark Alexander, 18.

These three and about 300 other students spent a day viewing school life from a new angle—that of the teacher's desk.

Jeri Judson, 17-year-old president of the students' council, had seen the teacher-student idea in use in some states of New York and suggested the innovation for his school here.

H. E. Collis, West Van's vice-principal, said one condition was that the staff had to be convinced that the exercise was workable and educationally valid.

Apparently it was because the student teaching day now has become an annual affair.

Only students from the senior grades—11, 12 and 13—participated. Each was nominated by the students of his or her class, the final list of candidates sanctioned by the principal.

TOOK OVER SCHOOL

The student teachers later were briefed on the basics of communication and lesson preparation and in their own time prepared their assignments — from Latin to lawn tennis.

Students chosen were required to give a dress standing or better in the subjects they would teach.

The students' virtually took over the school. One acted as principal and toured the school with Ron Judson during the day for a look-in on his fledgling instructors.

Some of the regular staff wore sports shirts and sweaters to look more like students. The new teachers stood up front— the girls in smart dresses and heels, the boys in suits.

Those in class gave them the courtesy of a "Mr." or "Miss."

One of the regular teachers was whistled off to the station hall for reading a magazine in class.

Classes were not always orthodox. An English class was conducted by one teacher with a session of physical jerks. A French class had a spelling bee.

Student teacher Sally Campbell's class developed a poem during one period—a piece of paper was passed among the desks and each student added a line. The effort then was analyzed by the same class for unity of thought and mood.

"I think I've learned more today from my fellow students than I did all week from my regular teachers," said Sally.

TEST YOURSELF—3

Do People Like You?

By WILLIAM BERNARD and JULES LEOPOLD

Schools and firms sometimes use commercial measuring instruments which try to gauge social adjustment through questions of this nature:

Do some people make such foolish remarks that you should contradict them?

Are the beliefs of certain people so stupid that you should condemn those beliefs?

Do you intensely dislike certain people because they are so unreasonable?

In each case the answer sought is No. If you answer Yes, you are assumed to lack social skill or social standards, or to show "withdrawal" tendencies—which in turn is taken to mean that you are unpopular or otherwise maladjusted socially.

Then a premium is placed on unctuousness and lack of moral fiber. All of which is nonsense from the scientific standpoint. Any extensive sampling will show that your spineless fellow—while rarely the most disliked—is quite as rarely the most liked.

Social poise is a matter of negation—but of discretion, tact and approach. Who has the greater social skill—he who dunks an unpopular issue, or he who can argue it without arousing hostility?

The questions listed will give an indication of whether you have attitudes tending to evoke not hostility, but friendliness.

DIRECTIONS—Check YES if on the whole you can agree with a statement. Check NO if you are inclined to disagree. Try to answer every question. Work as slowly as you wish. NO TIME LIMIT formation from the discussions going on in a northern room overlooking Hyde Park and at Admiralty House.

A Canadian spokesman expressed surprise at the Guardian's criticism. He said it was only natural that the new Canadian government wanted time to assess the opinions of the British leaders before making pronouncements on matters involving the two countries.

Pearson planned a chat with Jo Grimond, Liberal party leader, after seeing Lloyd, then he and Macmillan were to attend a luncheon at the home of George Drew, Canadian high commissioner here.

Mrs. Pearson Thursday visited the House of Commons, in company with James Barker, an official at Canada House, and went to a London clinic where Mrs. Drew, wife of the high commissioner, is recovering from a minor operation.

Tonight Pearson and his wife dine with the Queen and Prince Philip. They will be overnight guests at Windsor Castle.

Pearson has obviously been enjoying his London visit, meeting with scores of friends he made during a first secretary in the Canadian commission office between 1935 and 1941. Thursday night he attended a reception at Drew's residence.

Child Drama Is Lesson In Living

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sylvia Demmery is a professional dancer, violinist and pianist, but she would rather mould the dramatic talents of children.

That has been her job for six years as an assistant to Peter Slade, a pioneer in the field, who is drama adviser of the city of Birmingham, England.

And that is her task during a current workshop and lecture tour of Canada, sponsored by the Canadian Child Drama Association.

"Child drama in this case has nothing to do with the theatre," she said in an interview here as she explained how she tackles the work. "Mr. Slade uses the word 'drama' as the Greeks used 'drao,' meaning to do or act.

"To us, lessons in child drama are lessons in living."

The group she handles in Birmingham is between 11 and 14 years old.

ENCOURAGE IDEAS

"We don't stand a child up and tell him to recite a piece," she said, referring to the elocution lessons of a generation ago.

"We destroys a child's natural flow of words and imagination.

"We do not govern their ideas. Rather, we try to encourage them to use their own."

The variety of accents she has encountered in England and here presents little concern. They should not be a stumbling block, she says.

"Instead of trying to give the Queen's English, we first try to get clarity of words," she said. The act of speaking clearly—of being conscious of vowels and consonants—automatically improves the accent.

Thus many adults in England who have improved their financial status are taking lessons to improve their diction.

Such lessons stress the development of poise, personality and speech," said Miss Emery.

LIKES THE SOUND

MONTREAL (CP)—Baroness Maria Augusta Von Trapp said here that seeing "Sound of Music," the musical adapted from her book about the famous Trapp family singers, was a "warm and exciting experience." She said she held out for two years against having the book made into a musical because "I was afraid how it would be done. I'm glad now."

Portraits of Brazil Thrill Capacity Audience at BCI

A fitting climax to the tenth annual World Travel Adventure Series presented by the Kiwanis Club of Belleville, was that of "Portraits of Brazil," shown last evening at the Collegiate Institute, with Curtis Nagel as narrator.

Brazil, largest of the South American states in which the whole of the United States could be placed with yet room enough for the state of Texas, is noted for its scenic beauties; its great plantations of coffee trees; its vast stores of iron and magnesium; its rubber plantations, and Brazil nuts. Only about two per cent of the land is cultivated. It is a land of great contrasts, with cities of ultra modern design and mountain sides dotted thickly with the hovels of the very poor.

RIO DE JANEIRO

Rio de Janeiro is a beautiful city bordering on the sea and backed by mountains which shelter it from the inland desert-like plains. The 2200 foot mountain of Corcovado is crested by a 120-foot statue of Christ the Redeemer, which stands with outstretched arms with a cable car carries the adventurous sightseers.

The city, founded by the Portuguese, is also noted for its beautiful statues; the University of Brazil, its modern airport, the national library, attractive parks and beautiful waterfalls, and its unusual bridges. It is also noted for its art and music where a ballet performance, with gorgeous costumes, literally sparkling in beautiful colors and designs was shown.

PRECIOUS STONES

Brazil also has mines of precious stones and semi-precious ones, including topaz, amethyst, diamond and emerald. The polishing and grinding of these were noted by skilled workmen, who seemingly were born to the trade. The coloring was most appealing looking, and meticulously served.

Then Janeiro, like Paris, has its night clubs, with the entertainers attired in voluptuous gowns (more or less) with ornate and intricate headdresses. It is also a city of great contrasts, the homes of magnificence, and hovels of squalor. Its highways are modern and well kept, and its sidewalks in mosaic patterns.

Among the flowers noted were the red bourgainvillia, the poinsettias, the orchaders, and eye-catching and breathtaking were the beautiful orchids seen in the formal gardens where the finest are cultivated, and which include new types costing as much as $1,500 for one flower plant, known as the "Butterfly Orchid."

BEAUTIFUL BIRDS

In the jungle there are farms where cattle are raised, where wild animals roam free; cocoa trees and coffee from where the world gets its major supply. Also include the pink flamingos which turn white during the hot weather; the grandiloquent crania which live to 70 and 80 years; gorgeous parrots and beautiful scintillating birds of many hues, some orange and black; green and blue, and cardinal shades.

The snakes include fierce looking lizards with crested heads, armadillos and snakes. One picture showed a huge Anaconda being dislodged from a tree around which it was coiled. It was finally brought down it measured 24 feet in length, and will spend its future in a museum place or serpentarium. The animals included leopards and jaguars.

Among the awe-inspiring views were the huge falls several hundred feet high which border the Panarma River for some four or five miles. Here rainbows were seen in the early morning.

Brasilia, the new capital of Brazil, is a unique, ultra modern city, situated on a flat plateau which had no roads; no water supply; and no railway but which was planned and built in four years' time, completely ready for occupation with all facilities of a modern metropolis. The machinery needed for its erection was flown in. The buildings are of almost extreme modern design with curved pillars; its plaza ornate with palms and flowers. Here, today, the capitals of Brasilia and here is the seat of Government.

Sao Paulo, a bustling, busy city, reminding one of Chicago, with its tall skyscrapers and its industrial projects. There are fine hotels; steel plants and apartment buildings ornate in detail.

One of the loveliest of the views was that of Rio de Janeiro's four day and night parade, including exquisitely decorated floats, all mechanized electrically; where young and old danced in riotous costumes, each individual exhibiting his enjoyment of the festivities in his or her own particular manner, even the very young took an active part in the enjoyment of the occasion. One of the floats was designed in the "Space" motif.

A truly lovely portrayal of Brazil.

The 11th "Travel and Adventure Series" will begin on October 24, 1963 under the caption, "Austria Waltzes Again," with Carl Thomson as narrator.

Mr. Nagel was introduced by Dr. Harold Craig.

30 Nurses Take Courses At Institute

TORONTO (CP) — Controversy flared when a study investigating the possibility of a course in basic nursing training within the general educational system was announced at the convention meeting of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario here Thursday.

Both the department of education and the Ryerson Institute of Technology agreed to support research for the experimental course, executive secretary Laura Barr told the delegates.

In her annual report, it was suggested the course would be based for the students at Ryerson Institute.

Catherine Aiken, dean of the school of nursing at the University of Western Ontario, said the association must be "careful what authority for nursing education we give away."

Miss Aiken said nursing schools should be autonomous institutions and until this can be established, nursing education will not be better off under the department of education than it has been under hospital and other government agencies.

The problems of placing nursing education in the educational framework would never be known unless the association is willing to support experimental courses, she said.

"Acceptance of the project is professional suicide, if we allow the educational program to slip into the hands of professional educators, in time they will be dictating our standards," Mr. Ruddock said.

Helen McArthur, president of the provincial council of the College of Nurses, brought into existence last Jan. 1 by an act of the Ontario Legislature, said no matter what the association wants to do, "it will have to meet the demands of the college—an elected body representing every registered nurse."

Professor Mary Mitchell of the University of Toronto urged delegates to stop being "afraid to try something new" and to support the investigation of the project.

A $3,000 fellowship for graduate studies in nursing was announced at the meeting attended by about 2,000 nurses.

The meeting ends Saturday.

The regular meeting of the Cannifton - Corbyville Women's Institute was held on May 1st at Cannifton Town Hall with the new president, Mrs. F. Reid, in the chair.

All necessary business was dispatched with expediency so that the convener, Mrs. George Shoemaker, could introduce the guest of the evening, Mrs. Jack Parrott, who showed films of a tour she and her husband had made of the Caribbean Islands. So interesting and attractive were the films that Mrs. Parrott was persuaded also to show films of the Holy Land and Near-East, movies that made the evening an education and a realization that many of the "far away places" had become close neighbors.

Guests included many members from district points, plus interested people of the community.

Lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. R. Stewart, and her assistants.

'Retarded' Topic at Hillcrest H-S

The Hillcrest Home and School Association held its regular monthly meeting in the school auditorium.

The vice-president, M. Hughes opened the meeting with Mrs. Williams presiding at the piano.

A short business period was held.

The attendance banner was won by Mrs. Emerson's class.

Mr. Marner introduced Mr. Tom Stovell, who spoke on the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children, and how, through these schools, the mentally handicapped children are given a chance to express themselves and live a more successful life.

It is hard to believe that just a short five years ago these same children were denied education of any sort, and Belleville should be proud to be counted as one of 80 leading centres in Canada, where a 'Retarded Child' is no longer a 'Discarded Child'.

Mr. Stovell also showed a film on these children at work and play in a Retarded School and how well, through patience, love and understanding, these "children progressed.

Mrs. McMechan moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Stovell.

Refreshments were served by D. Sidney and D. Goodhoot, room mothers of the kindergarten class.

Y.P.U. Groups Attend Rally, List Officers

RAWDON—The annual rally of the Young Peoples Unions of the Belleville Presbytery was held at Mount Pleasant-Rawdon United Church with three sessions, on April 21.

President Ian Reilly was in charge and the groups were welcomed by the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, pastor of Rawdon circuit and Miss Carol Sharpe, president of the hostess Y.P.U. group.

Rawdon Y.P.U. under the direction of their president conducted the morning worship. She was assisted by the Miss Judy Cooney and Jean Sharpe.

GENERAL DISCUSSION

A general discussion followed on the regular work of the various Y.P.U. groups throughout the Presbytery. Representatives were in attendance from Napanee, Trenton, Belleville, Plainfield, Halloway, Selby, Empey Hill, Stirling and other points in the area.

The group enjoyed a box lunch at noon.

Members of the Bridge Street Church, Belleville Y.P.U. conducted the afternoon worship service at which time the guest speaker was the Rev. W. B. Thornton, pastor of Grace United Church, Napanee. He gave two addresses—the first "Ten Minutes To Live". Following his first address the Rev. Robert Nicholls of Plainfield and the Rev. W. G. Fletcher were in charge of two discussion groups when many special items were outlined.

NEW OFFICERS

The new slate of officers was presented and Mr. Kirk Dupre of Selby was the newly elected president. The afternoon session closed with a scavenger hunt outdoors.

The U.C.W. catered for a banquet in the church hall under the direction of the vice-president Mrs. Harry McAdam and group leader Mrs. Harvey Couch.

The newly elected president opened the evening session with short worship service. The second address was given by Mr. Thornton and this was followed by another period of discussion, after which Mr. Nicholls installed the new officers.

FILM SHOWN

The group repaired to the church hall where Mr. Keith Brown of Napanee presented a film strip on "Caravaning." He is a student for the ministry and is in charge of caravaning for the Bay of Quinte conference. A humorous one act comedy play was presented by members from Selby and Empey Hill.

The closing was held in the church when Miss Margaret Dreseu of Wellington, a student at the Toronto Bible College gave a special message.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I appreciate your column so much, have saved and tried so many of your recipes and found them good. I would like to make salisbury steaks but do not know how — Lottie G.

ANSWER:

I am glad you asked for I know this is popular, because it is a ground meat or hamburg recipe. I have not given the recipe for Salisbury Steak in this column since November '59.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menus

Poached Halibut or Salmon; Egg Sauce; Potatoes au Gratin; Julienne Green Beans; Cucumber, Green Onion and Tomato Salad with Herb Dressing; Chocolate Date Layer Cake with Mocha Frosting; Coffee.

SALISBURY STEAK with Mushroom Sauce (optional):

1½ lbs. ground beef or hamburg, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ to ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 or 2 teaspoons Worcestershire or steak sauce, 2 teaspoons grated onion, 2 tablespoons liquid — milk or water, or broth or tomato juice, 1 egg, beaten, melted butter, if margarine.

Combine all ingredients except butter or margarine, mixing thoroughly but lightly. On a buttered shallow baking pan, mould the meat into the shape of an oblong, oval or rectangle to fit your serving platter, making it about 1¼" thick and pushing edges up so they will be shaped like a steak or shape into individual loaves or individual "steaks" 3 x 2 x 1". Brush top and sides with melted butter or margarine and place in hot oven of 450 deg. Fahr. Bake 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. to finishing cooking, which will take about 20 minutes longer for large "steak" — but if meat is individually shaped baking time is shorter. Some cooks (like me, for instance), underdo these steaks so they are pink inside. Brush with butter once or twice during baking. Slide carefully onto hot platter, using pancake turner. Serve with sauteed mushrooms, French-fried onions, or tomato sauce or Mushroom Sauce: Three or 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, sliced mushrooms (½ lb.), 2 or 4 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 cup beef bouillon cubes, Melt butter or margarine, add mushrooms and saute gently over low heat for 5 minutes. Then add flour, stirring to blend. Add milk and bouillon and salt and beef bouillon cubes, stirring until thick and blended. Or, if desired, serve with Savory Tomato Sauce (3½ oz. can tomato paste, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon chili powder (or less), 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ cup water, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¾ cup finely grated, strong cheese (optional). Brown onion in margarine. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 10 or 15 minutes. Excellent for spaghetti or over poached eggs.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

by pegg rogers

CANADIAN FASHION CAN BE ANNOYING!

In spite of all the advertisements headlining Canadian fashions, indicating "Made in Canada", these home-grown fashions still seem to lack the glamour that imported fashions possess. Is it just the fact, that an import, even in the middle-priced ranges, is a little different from the racks of Canadian dresses that we see in our stores? Is the workmanship better? Is the styling and use of color more imaginative? Perhaps. But I think that the fact that fewer styles are bought by a store, adds to the glamour of the import. Many run-of-the-mill Canadian fashions, at least in the middle-priced ranges, tend to be repeats of bestselling styles and fabrics from one season to the next.

Despite these drawbacks, I always try to buy only Canadian-made clothes. The other day, I was pleased to find a raincoat in a becoming shade of soft, teal blue, priced at $35. The size 13 was a perfect fit through the shoulders, but the skirt was at least one inch too short. As skirts are expected to be lower this coming fall, this is serious. I tried on a size 15, which was too big all over, although the skirt was still too short! (I am 5' 6" tall and sometimes a size 13 has to be shortened!)

SMART COAT

However, I liked the coat well enough to buy it, but I asked the store to lengthen it for me. Of course, I'll have to pay for this alteration. If the four large, cheap looking, brass buttons are removed and plain ones substituted, it will be a smart coat. Nine days later, my new coat was delivered, packed in a small box of the same kind usually used for dresses. It was so crushed it must be pressed before it can be worn.

Naturally, this was most annoying, but I was too busy to return the coat to be pressed. Now I am hunting for the plain buttons I need and thread in a matching shade. I need the thread because the machine-made buttonholes are so roughly finished, they have eyelashes an inch long!

Canadian fashions could be so much better, if the manufacturers were interested in producing not a better finished, correctly sized garment, but a great deal of annoyance and inconvenience could be spared the customer, if a store's top management would follow through on the little details, such as expert packing and prompt delivery. Perhaps we, the Canadian customers, are partly to blame because of our passive acceptance of such alteration bills.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers, care of this paper.

Ann Landers

Inquisitive Reader Has Curiosity Satisfied

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I have no problems but I wonder if you would answer some questions about your column which have been on my mind for a long time. I'll bet others have wondered about these things too.

Do you ever keep a letter out of the paper if a person asks you not to print it? Someone told me that every letter you get belongs to you and you can print it if you want to.

Do you ever change the names in the letters or the signatures to conceal the identity of people if the problems are intimate? Or do you assume the writer has already changed the names to protect himself?

Thank you very much.—NOT NOSEY JUST INQUISITIVE.

DEAR NOT NOSEY—I have the right to print all letters addressed to me. I do not, however, print letters if I am asked not to.

Yes, sometimes I change the signatures to protect the writers. But this can backfire, as it did recently. A woman who wrote about a sister-in-law problem signed herself as Sad Sally. To conceal her identity I changed the signature to Sad Mary. She wrote me the day her letter appeared in print and was furious because I had changed the name from Sally to Mary. Mary was her real name!

DEAR ANN LANDERS—My sister and I lived in the family house until this spring when my sister was married. I didn't want to remain there alone so I found a suitable apartment.

I know nothing about apartment etiquette for unmarried women. Please answer these questions:

When a single woman, age 40, lives alone in an apartment, does her gentleman friend escort her to her own door, or do they say goodnight downstairs? A doorman is on duty but only at certain hours.

Also, at what hour is it considered too late or improper to invite a man in after a date? This is a respectable building and I don't want to do anything that might give my neighbors the wrong impression of me.—ELINOR.

DEAR ELINOR—A 40-year-old woman does not need a curfew or supervision. Common sense should be your guide. Any time before midnight is a reasonable hour to invite guests in—whether there is a doorman or not.

And if you want a goodnight kiss, you'd better permit your friend to escort you to your door. With a doorman looking on like most you can expect is a pleasant handshake.

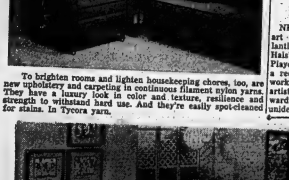
DEAR ANN LANDERS—There is big trouble at our house and I hope you can straighten it out.

The other day my father ran into a friend who served with him in World War II. He invited the man home to dinner and didn't give my mother any notice. The two of them just walked in.

My mom was wearing an old house dress, her hair was in rollers, the house was messy and we had hot dogs for dinner. Mom yelled at dad right in front of the guest and it was embarrassing. After the guest left mom and dad got into a terrible argument and they haven't spoken to each other since.

Who is right and who is wrong? My dad says a man should have the right to bring company home if he wants to. Mom says a husband should always give notice. Please referee.—IRISH TEMPERS.



DEAR TEMPERS—Your dad is off base a country mile. No husband should bring a guest home to dinner and holler, "Surprise."

Your mother, however, should not have blown her top in the presence of the guest. She should have saved the blast-off for the time she and dad were alone.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I'm never sure whether or not it's proper to shake hands when wearing gloves. For instance, should a woman take off her gloves before greeting her hostess or being introduced to a stranger? If it's proper, but impossible, to remove gloves before shaking hands, should an apology be offered? I'd appreciate your clarifying this point for me.

Mrs. J. L. L., Newark, NJ.

WEAR GLOVES

Answer: Unless she's eating, drinking or applying make-up, a woman really has little to be concerned about when it comes to the propriety of wearing gloves in most instances. It's more proper than not to wear gloves. They should be worn when one is standing on or going through a receiving line, and on less formal occasions may be kept on when a woman is greeting her hostess and other guests, both male and female. An apology, therefore, is not necessary and actually is quite incorrect.

Question: A married couple has invited me to visit them for the afternoon and for dinner, at their home in the country. I have not been invited to stay overnight and would have to travel back late on the train by myself. Do you think it would be all right if I suggested I stay overnight and take an early train in the morning? I don't want to put them out and wonder if they might take offense at the suggestion? — Mrs. G. H., Long Beach, N.Y.

Answer: The couple may not have any facilities for overnight guests, so it might put them in a spot if you suggested staying over. Instead you might ask them to make a reservation for you at a nearby inn or motel. This might impel them to insist you stay with them. If not, at least you wouldn't have to make the train trip at night and could get a leisurely start from the motel in the morning.

Question: When we have a dinner party, I sometimes have difficulty prompting guests to leave the living room and take their places in the dining room. On occasion, I've had to announce that dinner was ready three or four times before I could get them to budge. I've thought of getting a bell or a little dinner gong and making a joke of it, but I'm afraid it wouldn't be very funny. Do you ever have the same trouble and, if so what is your solution?

Mrs. F. C., Stamford, Conn.

Answer: One trick that usually works is to quietly ask one or two intimates to start into the dining room and suggest that others do the same. Once the group begins moving, even the laggards come to attention and follow suit.

Question: What's the proper way to eat spaghetti when dining out? At home we twirl the strands around the fork, using a tablespoon to help steady it. Is it correct to do this in a restaurant, or is this method considered strictly family-style? — Mrs. A. S., Bridgeport, Conn.

FORK AND SPOON

Answer: Using both fork and spoon to eat spaghetti is correct in a restaurant as it is at home, so dig in.

Question: I've just bought a raspberry-red afternoon dress and would like to accessorize it with a matching pair of sandals. I bought the shoes last year to go with a cocktail dress. They have a medium-high heel. Could this type of shoe correctly be worn in the early afternoon in the city?

—Mrs. J. S., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: T-strap sandals with open heel and toe are being shown with many spring costumes this year, including suits. Judging by the fashion shows I've attended recently, your choice of footwear would be quite correct — and fashionable.

Texture Mixture

By ALICE ALDEN

Texture is the highlight of the latest sartorial directions, with mixed fabrics taking the lead. One of the most interesting and fashionable texture contrasts is the use of silk or wool with leather."

Here is this fashion formula in a sheath dress and coat.

The fabric is nubbed silk in a golden mustard shade. Smooth suede in matching tone is used for the belt and the neck and sleeve binding.

The cardigan jacket in the same nubbed silk uses the suede leather-on the collar and all-around binding.

The trimming is navy blue looping and braid and both pieces are fully lined.

Mother of Year Believes In Lots of Love for Children and Spankings

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Bert Gutsell, chosen Canada's Mother of the Year in a nation-wide contest, believes in lots of love for children—and spankings.

The Toronto mother of two teen-aged sons has had plenty of experience with children.

During the last five years she's cared for 26 foster children, all of them wards of the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. Gutsell, an attractive brunette of 45, was in Ottawa Thursday to receive her contest award from the sponsoring Toronto Telegraph Delivery Association. She also visited Mme. Georges Vanier, wife of the Governor-General, and Mrs. Lionel Chevrier, wife of the justice minister.

She said in an interview that she began taking children into her home because other families in her neighborhood were doing it and she thought "it would be fun to have a girl."

SAYS NEVER AGAIN

Each time the foster children have left her to go back to their own parents or to adoptive parents, she has sworn never to do it again. "It's hard, because I have to pretend I'm happy at the whole thing."

But it isn't long before she takes more foster children under her wing. Currently she is caring for two small brothers aged 2½ years and 4.

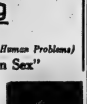
She once cared for five children from the same family after their parents were killed in an accident.

The Children's Aid Society phoned and asked me if I'd take one or possibly two of them. I said I'd take them all if it didn't matter that they didn't all have feather beds."

She's never gone more than a few months without foster children in her home. When the two young boys leave her home she hopes to get another little girl to care for.

When the children arrive at the Gutsell home, they are given a week or two to get acquainted. If they persist in acting up they are told: "We love having you here, you'll have a fine way to live," and they are disciplined.

The Gutsell family fits the children into their normal living habits and take them camping in summer.



Mr. Gutsell, 46, is a bicycle company employee.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Fiance Was "Strong on Sex"

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My daughter is on the eve of her twenty-first birthday. Two years ago she fell in love with this boy, who adored her. Unfortunately, he is very strong on sex and at least five times she's had trouble convincing him the answer was "no." Last term he'd apologize and promise to behave in the future.

They became engaged. He respected her for two months. Then one day he called for her at the house. I was on my way out but after going a block I turned back. Thank God I did, for my daughter was hysterical because he was being brutal again. The wedding is off, permanently.

Tell me, does my daughter have another chance at happiness? Does a woman get more than one chance to love and be loved.—ALL CRIED OUT.

DEAR ALL CRIED OUT—Definitely yes. She should thank her lucky stars he revealed true colors before, not after, the wedding.

With a little more maturity she has a far better chance of recognizing the Real Thing—the kind that puts the loved one first; the kind that lasts for life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JUST HOPE—As a little girl you were sinned against. It's over, and confessing to me has helped, you say. All right, go on from there. Get back your self-respect one step at a time. A personal counsellor could help you with this, be it social worker, minister or doctor.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—I have a problem. I am a Roman Catholic and I sing in our church choir. For a special service soon we may sing all Latin, and I don't know half of the songs. It takes me about five or six weeks to learn them really fast. What shall I do?—CINDY.

DEAR CINDY—There's no royal road to learning Latin. Just give it some time every day. Your choirmaster will understand and help.

DEAR DORIS—A lady friend of mine is keeping company with a man ten years her junior and is contemplating breaking her love affair because she fears there is too much difference in their ages. She is 50 years old and he is 40.

She has asked for my advice and I told her I didn't think the age difference was too great, but she continues to worry. We would very much like to have your expert advice on the subject.—DOUBTFUL.

DEAR DOUBTFUL—One social worker I know doesn't mince matters—says ten years is too much; that it becomes impossible for the older woman to keep up with the young husband.

But she does agree that other things have a bearing on it; congeniality of temperaments; whether the man is old in thoughts and experience; whether the woman is youthful in outlook and cheery in disposition. I know January-December matings which couldn't be better—even when the woman was the older.

DEAR DORIS—As a result of pimples when I was growing up, my face is a mass of scars. I am fast becoming a hermit. My husband doesn't help any because he never wants to go anywhere.

I am bored to tears. I just sit home and think how I would like to chuck the whole thing and run, but where?

I saw a plastic surgeon who told me he could perform an operation but it would only be 50 to 75 percent effective. — LONGING FOR FUN.

DEAR LONGING—Resolve right now to extricate yourself from those deadly doldrums. There are creams which can help make-up to cover skin blemishes; and the dermabrasion operation you mention can work in its own miracle. It's worth considering.

If Hubby won't budge, don't let this keep you cooped up. There's a bobby class, "I" Group or Four-H Club which has an answer for you. Seek it out. If you are friendly, people will warm to your smile and forget about the pitted skin.

DEAR DORIS—Your advice is excellent as a rule, but I do not agree at all with the answer you gave Mrs. C. M. about the timid little Robin installed the office.

She is, we hope, raising a man and not a mouse, but he is not a man yet. No child of eight should be expected to defend himself against a gang of bullies. Persistant bullying can ruin a sensitive child's development.

Let Mr. C. M. teach his boys to use their fists and send them to school together, the younger one under the protection of his older brother.

Complaining to the teacher is useless. I have tried it and been told, "I keep order in the schoolroom; I cannot be responsible for what goes our outside."

Boy gangs are not rare, unfortunately, and they can be extremely vicious.—ANOTHER MOTHER.

DEAR ANOTHER—Vicious gangs of small children are not rare? Where have I been?

I agree that there are times when a young child cannot be expected to cope. Thanks for your fine suggestion.

Any comments from our teachers?

DEAR DORIS—I feel you are much too lenient with the mothers who complain about their teenage children not helping with the household chores. What is mother doing with herself all day if the children have to do the work after school hours?

We have three girls who are doing well at school. The oldest two are nearly finished high school and the youngest ready to start and, believe me, there is no much pressure put on them at school that it is a real grind for them. One works in a store weekends and another gets up in the morning to deliver papers.

Wjih working mothers the situation is different and perhaps everyone should pitch in and help until all the chores are done, but I feel too many women who aren't working just feel sorry for themselves and by calling their kids lazy are just covering up for their own laziness!

Our children are not lazy and are very capable of managing on their own, as I found out when I was away from home for one week. Our sixteen-year-old took over and did a magnificent job.—HOMEMAKER.

DEAR HOMEMAKER—Couldn't agree more. Homework is heavy and girls like yours deserve a break. But the "magnificent job" proves you have been keeping things balanced over the years.

TO RESTORE MONUMENT

QUEBEC (CP)—The Wolfe Monument on the Plains of Abraham, toppled by vandals March 29, will soon be restored, it was announced Thursday. Gedeon Langlois, superintendent of the national battlefields commission, said tenders for the work have been submitted to the federal department of northern affairs and national resources.

Group Foster Homes Now Are Planned

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg Children's Aid Society is planning an experiment with a view to making life for children without families more like homes.

The plan calls for development of a series of "group" foster homes for children they are unable to place in private family groups.

The society now has only one receiving home for children removed from their families and the facilities there are taxed to the limit.

In the group homes, as visualized, will be house parents selected by the community and six to eight children of preadolescent and adolescent ages.

It is hoped that these homes will provide a home atmosphere, contact with the community, stability, guidance and acceptance of the children concerned.

IMPORTED FISH

The carp, a native of Asia, was imported into Canada about 1880 when the salmon fishing in Lake Ontario was declining.

Nurses Want Authority to Speak Minds

TORONTO (CP)—The ability to speak "authoritatively and uniformly" with groups responsible for health services is the critical need in the nursing profession today, Mrs. Blanche Duncanson, past president of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario said Thursday.

In an address to the first day of the annual meeting, Mrs. Duncanson said that if the profession is to have an influential voice, it must define its professional role.

The first step was taken when the Nurses Act, 1961-62, was passed and the College of Nurses brought into existence, she said. But such issues as the place of nursing in the general framework of education and a system of nursing education need to be settled.

"Nursing education has the right to expect public financial support and sufficient flexibility and freedom for experimentation. It is the business of the professional organization to define such a system and influence its development."

ACCLAIM NEW HEAD

At Thursday's sessions, Jenny M. Weir of Queen's University, Kingston, was acclaimed the new president of the RNAO.

Miss Weir was appointed director of the Queen's University Nursing School in 1960 and in 1963 became associate professor of public health nursing.

Miss Weir graduated from the University of Alberta, studied public health nursing at the University of British Columbia and before the Second World War, was a public health nurse in Vancouver.

A $3,000 fellowship for post-graduate nursing studies was announced.

Sunday School Lesson

Ugliest Fact in World

By ROY L. SMITH

This thing called "sin" is the ugliest fact in the world. There are those persons who, critical of the churches and of preachers, have declared that "sin is nothing worse than the imagination of the priests."

Actually, however, these same persons may be desperately concerned about their sins, but have become confused in the matter because they call sin by a variety of other names. PSYCHOLOGISTS AND SINS

The psalmist whose writings we are considering in this week's Sunday school lesson, speaks of sin and calls it "transgression." And a psychologist from whose book I was reading just an hour ago, talked about the same thing, calling it a "guilt complex." Still another honored practioner in the same field described one of his patients who was suffering from "tension."

Whatever the name we use, we all talk about the same thing. We are discussing the act, and the effect, of defying one of the basic laws of life.

If the preacher says that "worry is sin," someone is very apt to take offense. But if the psychologist, minister-ing to the same individual, and concerned about the same condition, insist that the individual shall divest himself of his "fears," his advice is gratefully accepted and acted upon. UNCONFESSED SIN

The preacher talks about "confessing our sins." The psalmist remarks about the one who does not "declare his sin." The psychiatrist begins by trying to induce his patient to "drain his mind." But they are all talking about the same thing.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 5 "REPENTANCE AND FOR GIVENESS," Psalms 32; 51 103:8114.

There can be no healing of the mind if we keep our sins, our unforgiven, our treasured and our fears hidden. oth science and religion require that they shall be brought to the surface and examined without mercy.

This means of course, that each individual must begin by confessing to himself. That which we believe to be a virtue, even though it be a vice, will destroy us no matter how we label it. A little child in our neighborhood drank some poison the other day, fully believing that we was harmless because it "tasted good." And a young woman in our neighborhood went on a binge, for the same reason — "because it sounded good" — and came to an equally disastrous end.

It is not until the little child, and the young woman, learn the basic facts about poisons and immoralities that either of them can hope to live in any sense secure.

But there is another very important point just here. The little child — describing his experience to a visitor, produced the bottle of poison (empty now) and said "It hurts." The young lady, on the other hand, refused to admit the basic law in the case, and insisted that she was no worse than unlucky."

Salvation begins the moment we are willing to be honest with ourselves. After that it is easier to be honest with other people.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

The Bible speaks a bit bluntly at times. Except for the fact that we do not really realize what it is saying, we might become angry, and refuse to read it any more because it "gets very personal."

There is an instance of this in one of the last verses of the lesson, wherein it is declared that the wicked suffer many sorrows ("pangs," as the Revised Standard Version translates it), whereas the man who trusts in God is surrounded at all times by a protective love.

It is a very common thing to hear someone say, "I am as good as any church member," and that is often true. Many a "wicked" man has many virtues of which to boast. But to be religious means much more than merely to be "good."

The really serious question the irreligious ought to face is the question of inner power for living. He who believes in a great God, and undertakes to live a life acceptable to such a God, may depend upon it that an inner source of power will spring up within him. With that power he has something to depend upon in the hour of distress or emergency. It is very true, of course, that the religious man ought also to be a moral man. No man, whatever his religion, is able to defend his immorality with any success.

But good religion always produces something in addition to good morals. Faith brings with it inner power of resistance, character, strength, and discernment.

The difference between men is the difference in the faith by which they live.

Canadian Army Pilots Use Helicopters for Low Flying And Are Experts in Work

SOEST, West Germany (CP) — Some Canadian Army pilots can give the RCAF lessons in low flying.

They are the pilots of the seven helicopters of the reconnaissance squadron of the Fort Garry Horse, a tank unit serving with the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade group in West Germany.

Their specialty is contour flying or, as they call it, "nap of the earth" flying. This means hugging the ground—within one to six feet at times—and flying up gullies and hills in the ground to spot an enemy before he spots them.

Our job is the locating of enemy ground defences, the confirmation of their strength, equipment and probable intentions," said Capt. Lorne Glendinning of Vancouver, commander of the helicopter unit based at Fort Chambly near here.

Flying a few feet above the ground 18 their CH-112 Hiller machines at nearly 100 miles an hour, the pilots have to watch constantly for power lines, trees and fences. They fly in all kinds of weather.

"The physical and mental strain is terrific," Capt. Glendinning said.

In the last year the unit has flown 1,800 hours without even a minor accident.

Capt. Hugh Ross of Lacombe, Alta., the unit's second - in-command, said:

"We're pioneering a new type of battlefield reconnaissance using helicopters in conjunction with scout cars. All our pilots were experienced armored corps officers before they took helicopter training so it wasn't difficult for us to adapt armored corps techniques to our operations."

COVER EACH OTHER

"A group of tanks advancing in battle is always covered by other tanks or armored cars. We do the same with our aircraft. One pops up from behind cover, takes a look, pops down and moves to right or left before moving forward again. When the pilot finds a good position from which to observe he calls the other aircraft forward."

Other pilots in the unit are Lieut. Brian Caldwell of Toronto, Lieut. Bruce Muelager of Edmonton, Lieut. Peter March of Hampton, N.B., Lieut. Terry Lacey of Camrose, Alta., Lieut. Bill Pollock of Grenfell, Sask., Capt. Fred Zeggil of Singhampton, Ont., and Capt. Harold Swain of Springside, Sask.

Each helicopter also carries an observer. Sgt. Art Brown of St. Catharines, Ont., an observer, said: "I'm doing the same kind of a job I did as a scout car commander but there's a big difference due to the speed. We may be travelling anywhere from 40 to 100 miles an hour. You've only got seconds to study the ground, identify the area you're after and look for enemy positions."

ANSWERS
to "DO PEOPLE LIKE YOU?"

1. NO: Even if folks do scrutinize you all day —which they don't, of course—you should ignore it. Self-consciousness makes you stiff, wooden; may tempt you into acting "phony."

2. NO: It's all right to bore your friends a little (that's what friends are for), but you should know when they have had enough.

3. NO: Preserving dignity at any cost only serves to keep people at a distance. When something comical happens, for instance, it is better to break down and guffaw like everybody else.

4. NO: The worst bore is the person who is always pointing out that you are inconsistent, illogical, mistaken, etc. People have a right to expect a certain amount of indulgence from others, unless the issues are gravely important.

5. NO: People are more sensitive than generally realized to another's conscious effort to "put himself across," and are inclined to react unfavorably.

6. YES: It shows interest, and is rather flattering.

7. NO: While the person who allows himself to be the continual butt of jokes is regarded as a poor specimen, the fellow who can't ever "take it" has too brittle an ego to make many friends.

8. NO: For the same reason as in Question 7.

9. NO: Often such people want appreciation, rather than a duel of wits. The best rule is to "be yourself."

10. NO: It is part of good fellowship to adjust to the mood of others if not too inconvenient; but if you are always careful to do so, you will leave the impression of being a namby-pamby with no individuality.

11. NO: A person should help his friends because he wants to help them. Ulterior motives hurt your chances of being liked.

12. NO: To win friends, don't be concerned about whether others appreciate you. Be concerned about whether you appreciate others.

13. YES: The more you give and the less you take, the more popular you are likely to be—despite the arguments of cynics to the contrary.

14. YES: He helps—even though he doesn't expect or demand reciprocation.

15. NO: For the same reason as in Question 5.

16. NO: Better to suffer in silence and let the other fellow have his moment.

17. NO: This is too close to being false and calculating; the forced laugh alienates as many as the superior smile.

18. NO: Frankness shows honesty and at least is respected; whereas a lame excuse is worse than none, for it is liable to be suspect, and at all events is insincere.

19. NO: It is right to try to help, but not to nag; accepting a person as he is, faults and all, pays dividends in affection.

20. YES: The introduction to this test argued that harmful stupidity, foolishness and unreasonableness deserve condemnation. This is not to say that every time someone disagrees with you—especially in matters of little importance—you should ride rough-shod over his opinion. Hesitate to hit the other fellow in the ego, where he is most sensitive. True persuasion comes from appreciating the other fellow's point of view.

You get 5 points for each correct answer.

Studying Maths Easy If You Learn to Relax

By JACK HUTTON

Easter exams are out of the way. But the final ones are still to come. Getting jumpy?

Just to prove you're an alert, quick-thinking type who can handle any question that comes along, give me the answer to the following question without using a pencil or paper.

An electric train is proceeding north at exactly 80 miles-per-hour while an east wind is blowing at 20 miles-per-hour. Which way will the smoke blow? Southwest you say? Are you sure? When was the last time you saw smoke coming from an electric train? If so, you'd better report it immediately—because electric trains don't produce smoke.

LONG TUNNEL

Try this next train question if you want to redeem yourself. A train that is one mile long goes through a tunnel that is one mile long. If the train is proceeding at 15 miles-per-hour, how long does it take to go through the tunnel?

That sounds easy. The train is obviously going one mile every four minutes. But first picture the train in your mind. When the front end of the train is entering the tunnel, the caboose is still one mile behind.

What you must figure out is how long to takes the train to go two miles. Your answer, therefore, must be eight minutes.

These questions are just two that you can 'find scattered through the 123 pages of one of the most fascinating books on the market today — Magic House of Numbers, by Irving Adler.

I've mentioned this book before, but several of you have written since to find out more. Just for the record, it is published by Signet (P2117) and my copy cost 60 cents.

Read this book — you'll find it written in breezy, snap-to-read style — and you will never look at numbers in the same way. The magic tricks which can impress your friends are worth the price of the book all by themselves.

Do you, for instance, know how to quickly multiply numbers that are only one number apart? Let's take 19 times 21 as an example. (This is only used where the number in between is easily multiplied.)

What's the number in between the two? Multiply 20 by itself and then subtract one from it. Your answer is 399. Even if you use this trick three times a year, it's still an impressive one.

STRANGE NUMBER

Sometimes when you have a few spare moments, memorize the number 142,857. This is a strange number that plays a weird game of ring-around-a-rosy. Multiple it by 2, then 3, 4 and 5.

Notice anything? The digits revolve like a car speedometer, jumping to the rear of the number. Finally, multiply it by 7. Previous readers of this column will find a very significant answer.

The number nine is like a magician that lurks behind the scenes, often controlling what is happening on the stage. If you want to find out more, look for a copy of Dr. Adler's book.

BOBBY'S FANS

Never realized that Bobby Curtola, Canada's successor to Paul Anka, had so many fans outside his home town of Port Arthur, Ont., until I did a column on him.

Suddenly I find he has about 400 fans clubs dotted across the map of Canada. Heather Babcock of Moncton, N.B., the president of her local club, writes:

"I was very pleased with this article. I know that Bobby Curtola is a fine guy who deserves any support he can get. If possible, I would appreciate your printing my address for anyone interested in joining the club."

Since I assume Heather is also interested in corresponding with other teenagers across the country who are interested in Bobby's future, her address is: 34 Connaught Ave., Moncton, N.B.

Teen-Age Canada suggests today that teen-agers can relax with numbers. It's all in knowing how, and once you've learned studying math becomes easier.

N.B.

SLANG LATIN

Another Moncton reader has questioned my use of Bonna Fortuna (translation: good luck) in a discussion of Latin. The phrase came from a Latin teacher, but he agrees it's a slang construction.

Julius Caesar would never have used it.

Pirates May Walk Plank In Book Trade Smuggling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Those book pirates in Formosa and Hong Kong are walking the economic plank.

Slowly but—it hopes—surely, the United States bureau of customs is choking off a once-thriving trade in college textbooks, copyrighted in the U.S. but reproduced abroad and sold here at a fraction of the regular price.

As recently as last June the trade in pirated books posed a major threat to the multi-million-dollar U.S. publishing industry. Authors were losing thousands of dollars in potential royalties.

Gray's Anatomy, a standard reference work for American medical students, could be purchased for $2.50, instead of the regular $17.50. Fermi's Nuclear Physics, regularly $3.50 in college bookstores, was available for $1.25. Encyclopedias normally costing several hundred dollas could be purchased for less than $50.

LARGE VOLUME

On one midwestern campus alone the pirated books sold at a rate of $600 a week.

Perhaps the unkindest cut of all was administered on the campus of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Students agents for a Formosa publisher took orders for the textbook, Electromagnetic Theory by Julius Adams Stratton. The quoted price was $2.50, compared with the bookstore price of $12.

The author, Dr. Stratton, also happens to be the president of MIT.

Now, through a little known law, the customs bureau is blocking importation of such books.

The law says that books copyrighted by an American citizen, or a person domiciled in the United States, may not be imported from abroad.

Customs agents, particularly on the west coast, are concentrating on packages from Formosa and Hong Kong which appear to contain books. Any books seized under the law are destroyed.

LOW COSTS

Until the government cracked down, the trade in pirated books was most profitable.

The book pirates keep their production costs to a minimum by photographing the pages of the original work and printing them on high - speed offset presses. They use an inferior grade of locally-produced paper. Their labor costs are as low as $10 an employee a month.

Nationalist China on Formosa does not belong to the Universal Copyright Convention. Thus, there is nothing to prevent a Formosa publisher from reproducing any book printed and copyrighted abroad, and selling it without payment of royalties to either the author of the original publishers.

South Africa Gets Most Drastic Security Law in Its Peacetime History

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Legislation adopted this week gives South Africa the most drastic security law in its peacetime history and grants great authority to Justice Minister Balthazar Johannes Vorster.

Vorster, 48, is a former lawyer. During the Second World War he was interned for more than a year for pro-Nazi views. He is often mentioned as a possible successor to Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd, who is 62. He controls the 27,350-strong police force.

The new law, which some members of Parliament say makes South Africa a police state, gives the justice minister authority to detain anyone suspected of having information about offences threatening security. There need be no charge and no trial.

HAS WIDE POWERS

This is a summary of what the new and earlier laws give Vorster do entirely of his own authority:

1. Hold for interrogation for up to 90 days persons suspected of having information about offences threating the security of the state. The 90-day detention can be repeated indefinitely and the courts cannot intervene. These powers are to be reviewed after one year but the president is empowered to extend them for a year at a time and to release them at any time if they have elapsed.

2. Continued detaining indefinitely members of banned organizations and advocates of communism even after they have completed jail sentences for specific crimes. These powers are subject to review each year in Parliament, where Verwoerd's government has a solid majority.

3. Arrest South Africans who have advocated forcible intervention in South Africa's affairs at any time since 1950—at the UN or elsewhere—if they return to South Africa. The minimum sentence is five years in jail, but a death sentence is possible.

4. Order summary trials without a preparatory examination. This eliminates what up to now has been an important safeguard in South African legal procedures.

5. Hold suspected letters, telegrams or parcels sent by mail.

6. Declare a state of emergency and make emergency regulations which have the force of law.

7. Prevent persons convicted under a specified law from being in a specified area and confine them to a particular place.

8. Prohibit assemblies and gatherings and ban persons from attending public meetings.

CAN BANISH AND ARREST

9. Under the suppression of communism law, brand anyone a communist.

10. Ban newspapers.

11. Deport foreigners.

12. Prohibit former officers of illegal organizations from being officers or members of any specified organization.

13. Place anyone under house arrest, prohibit him from communicating with anyone specified by the minister and prohibit him from performing any specified act.

14. Prohibit publication of any statement by a banned person, whether made within or outside South Africa.

Release of Commissioner Called "Disgraceful Act"

OTTAWA (CP)—Gordon Churchill, a former veterans minister, says he will seek an intensive investigation by a parliamentary committee later this month of the action of the new veterans minister, Roger Teillet, in releasing a pension commissioner abruptly from his $14,000-a-year job.

Mr. Churchill, who was first trade minister and finally defence minister in the Conservative government when it left office last month, accused Mr. Teillet Thursday in a telegram of "a disgraceful act, and an abuse of your ministerial authority."

Mr. Teillet replied in a letter that Ken MacKay, who had been appointed to the Canadian Pensions Commission by the Conservative government, simply was not reappointed when his term expired this week. Mr. Teillet said the same thing had happened during the Conservative government's regime to some members who had been appointed by the previous Liberal government.

Moreover, Mr. Teillet told Mr. Churchill, the MacKay vacancy would be filled by a French-speaking commissioner to restore to three the number of French-Canadians on the board, and thus enable it to form a quorum to study pensions cases in French.

DISMISSES COMPLAINT

Mr. Teillet dismissed Mr. Churchill's further complaint that dropping Mr. MacKay meant loss of representation for veterans of the First World War. There were five commissioners who were veterans of both the First and Second World Wars, Mr. Tellet said.

Mr. Churchill said he will raise the issue as a subject of questioning the new government in the Commons, and will press for an intensive investigation by the standing committee on veterans' affairs. The committee is one that is required by the rules to be set up each session.

The two men conducted their exchanges through telegrams and letters released to reporters before they were received, and in press interviews. Mr. Churchill also called Prime Minister Pearson in London: "I request an immediate reinstatement of MacKay and a cessation of this abuse of ministerial authority."

The exchanges appeared to set the stage for the first heated political argument of the new parliamentary session which starts May 16.

Mr. MacKay, 64, was not available for comment. Mr. Churchill told reporters that Mr. MacKay was told last Friday that his annual term would not be renewed when it expired Tuesday.

Oshawa Walker Wins Gold Medal For Canada

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Alex Oakley of Oshawa, won the gold medal today in the 20,000-metre walk at the fourth Pan American Games.

Oakley, 34-year-old native of St. John's, Nfld., now Canada's ninth gold medal of the current games.

In second place—and winner of the silver medal—was another Canadian entrant, Nicola Perrotta, 30, of Sault Ste. Marrone, born in Fossaceela, Italy, is 38.

Seven of the two Canadians were not immediately announced.

The 30-kilometre walk, held on city streets, began at Santo Domingo Park in the outskirts and finished at Paraense Stadium, where track and field competition is centred.

Oakley, a bachelor who works as a mechanic, holds the Canadian 30-kilometre record of one hour, 34 minutes, 10 seconds. He also holds Canadian records for three miles 1,000 metres and 30 kilometres. In 1962 he was U.S. champion at 30 kilometres and North American champion at 30 kilometres.

He was a member of the Canadian Empire Games team in 1960, the year he won the Norton H. Crowe trophy as best athlete in Canada.

Marrone, also single, is a stock dispatcher in Montreal.

He was Canadian 20-kilometre walk champion in 1961-62-63.

WILL OPPOSE SIU

OTTAWA (CP)—William J. Smith, national president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC), said Thursday he will oppose any move to allow the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) into the International Transport Workers Federation. Mr. Smith flies Saturday to Oslo, Norway, for a three-day meeting of the governing body of the international federation of major transport unions.

FLOOD REFUGEES — Several hundred Hay River, N.W.T. residents have been housed in the St. Paul's Separate School in Hay River after flood waters drove them from their homes earlier. Women and children have been evacuated to other northern communities. (CP Wirephoto)

Northern Floods Result of Local Conditions

CALGARY (CP) — Floods which this week caused evacuation of the Northwest Territories communities of Hay River and Fort Simpson probably were the result of local conditions and should not be followed by similar floods at downstream communities, a spokesman for the water resources branch of the federal department of northern affairs and natural resources said Thursday.

Both communities are on islands in the giant Mackenzie River system whose headwaters are in the Rocky Mountains and the northern prairies and which flows north to the Arctic Ocean.

The spokesman said records of water levels on northern rivers have been kept only in the last five years. In that period, spring water levels had reached considerable heights but there had been no serious flooding of settlements.

The Hay River rises near the northern end of the B.C.-Alberta border and flows north to Great Slave Lake. The town of Hay River is on an island at the river's mouth, 500 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The spokesman said the Hay River, broke up earlier than usual this year and carried a huge volume of ice into the still-frozen mouth of the river, causing a jam and flooding the community.

The Mackenzie River, second in size in North America to the Mississippi, flows out of the lake west of Hay River and bends northward in its confluence with the Liard.

The Liard rises in northern British Columbia and flows northeastward to join the Mackenzie near Fort Simpson, 200 miles northwest of Edmonton. Fort Simpson is on an island at the junction.

The spokesman said that during the spring thaw ice jams occur nearly every year around Fort Simpson but evidently the movement of ice down the Liard River was greater than the latter-melting Mackenzie could handle.

New Approach to Mental Health Services Needed Says Brief to Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—A bold new approach is needed towards mental health services to overcome the restrictive ideas of the past, says a new Canadian Mental Health Association publication.

"Mental illness should be dealt with in precisely the same organizational, administrative and professional framework as physical illness," says the report of a study of psychiatric services in Canada.

The 214-page report, prepared as a special committee project of the association, is entitled More for the Mind. The result of seven years work, it was presented Thursday to Health Minister Judy La Marsh.

In a brief speech, she said that "as far as it is possible for me, I am deeply sympathetic with the work you (the association) do."

The problems of the mentally ill and mentally deficient engage not only medical people but persons in her own profession of law, she said.

The presentation was made by Dr. C. A. Roberts, chairman of the association's national scientific planning council. He is superintendent of the Verdun, Que., Protestant Hospital.

"The patient suffering from mental illness should receive the same excellence of medical and ancillary health services as quickly, easily and efficiently as the patient suffering from physical illness," the study says.

It suggests that any plan—national, provincial or local—designed to afford financial protection for the patient, should apply without distinction to deficit as to physical illness.

Principal recommendations included:

1. Integration of psychiatric services with the physical and personnel resources of the rest of medicine.

2. Establishment of psychiatric treatment services on a regional basis with a wide range of services available in larger communities.

3. Decentralization of management and administration of psychiatric services, plus co-ordination of local psychiatric services in hospitals, clinics and other centres.

4 An increase and improvement in recruitment, training and career programs for professional personnel in the mental health field

Galbraith Back In Goverment

LONDON (Reuters)—Thomas Galbraith, who resigned from Prime Minister Macmillan's government during the Vassall spy scandal today rejoined the government.

Galbraith, 45, who had been civil lord (chief civilian minister) of the admiralty, returned to the government as joint parliamentary secretary to the transport minister.

A special tribunal cleared Galbraith last month of rumors that there had been some kind of improper relationship between him and John Cassalt, the homosexual spy convicted last fall of selling naval secrets to the Russians.

The tribunal vindicated Galbraith's role in the affair as civil lord, rejecting any suggestion that he had been responsible for security slip-ups that allowed Vassall, a clerk in his office, to operate.

100 Promotions For Provincial Police in Month

TORONTO (CP)—An organizational shakeup of the provincial police has resulted in more than 100 promotions in the last month, Commissioner Eric Silk told a press conference Thursday.

He said the reorganization, which started with Mr. Silk's appointment April 3-4 few days before Mr. Justice W. D. Roach's report on his one-man royal commission into organized crime in Ontario was tabled in the legislature—includes a completely new system of promotion.

The program also includes reshaping of training programs and the appointment of a personnel director to head a new personnel branch.

Mr. Silk—first commissioner to receive the rank of deputy minister, aimed at making the OPP directly responsible to the legislature and improving liaison with the attorney-general's department — said 62 officers have been appointed to posts ranging from chief inspector to corporal.

Ten sergeants and 46 corporals have also been appointed, he said.

TO INCREASE FORCE

Mr. Silk said a trial recruitment campaign in the Kitchener-Owen Sound area produced 50 new officers. The campaign is aimed at increasing the 2,500-member force by 500 men this year and 1,500 in the next few years.

Earlier, Attorney - General Cass told the conference that in order to perpetuate the high quality of the OPP, closer attention must be paid to the selection of command staff there must be improved knowledge of the force's activities in the field, fine co-ordination and diffusion of duties.

Mr. Silk said he had discussed recruitment, a shorter work week, traffic problems and special courses during visits to 27 of the OPP's 230 detachments.

"I learn and understand their problems and they learn something of mine," he said.

Mr. Silk said a series of courses in basic police training and work will begin soon at the OPP College here.

Among major appointments was the promotion of Inspector Jack Whitty, recently district inspector at Chatham and Perth to chief inspector of the traffic division.

Writer Tells of Arsenals Stashed Away by Cuban Exiles in Miami Homes

Reporter John Raymond of the Boston Traveler visited Cuban exiles as they made preparations for last week's abortive bombing of a Cuban refinery near Havana. In this story made available to The Associated Press, Raymond tells of the buildup and of making flight and motor launch trip to deliver munitions.

By JOHN RAYMOND
(Copyright, 1963, The Boston Traveler)

BOSTON (AP)—On a quiet Miami street lined with palm trees, a modern apartments stand side by side like a mouthful of teeth trying to smile. The walls are green and neatly manicured.

Inside one of the apartments, on the second floor, you find a young man and his wife. In one corner of the living room is a television set. The entire room contains an assortment of book club titles and a dozen paperbacks.

The furniture isn't paid for yet; neither is the new car in the driveway.

A typical family? They could be. Except for one thing.

If you look under one of their twin beds, you'll find a small arsenal that would have made Al Capone jealous.

Hand grenades and 20-millimetre cannon shells are nestled cheek by jowl with bazookas and automatic rifles.

BACKYARD BOMBS

A few blocks away, one of their friends has a large round, high-explosive bomb hidden in a shed in his backyard. Several such bombs are scattered around Miami; others are stashed away on one of the many deserted Biscayne Keys.

They are all part of the restless and reckless war waged against Premier Fidel Castro by Cuban exiles and members of a group called U.S. Freedom Fighters.

One of the 100-pound bombs, four feet long and 10 inches in diameter, was dropped by a Freedom Fighters' twin - engined plane on an oil refinery in a Havana suburb a week ago today. It failed to explode.

The plane also carried five bome-made napalm fire bombs on the refinery. These, too, failed.

But Alexander I. Rorke, Jr., head of the Freedom Fighters and one of the men on last week's abortive raid, is undismayed.

"We've got more bombs and we plan more attacks," he told me.

SIX JETS HIDDEN

Rorke also disclosed that anti-Castro groups now have six jet fighter planes based in Guatemala at a secret air strip.

Guatemala's new military strongman, Col. Enrique Peralta Azurdia, has strong anti-Communist feelings and is openly sympathetic to rebels trying to oust the Red dictator.

There are 160,000 Cuban refugees in Miami, which normally has a population of 1,000,000. These have split into nearly 65 small groups, all dedicated to overthrowing the Castro regime. Some 15 of these appear to have strong financial backing, are highly organized and now are supplying arms to Cuban guerrillas or conducting hit - run raids.

The U.S. Freedom Fighters—known as "Rorke's Raiders"—are the only group of Americans.

To help curb commando raids on Cuba, the U.S. has beefed up its ship and plane patrols in the Florida Straits. The Atlanta Straits. These now include 18 patrol boats, four larger ships, 20 aircraft and 1,000 men.

Rorke, Jan Dorfman and I went to meet Sid Hershman and take off for Rorke's base. Rorke said he wanted to check some guns hidden on one of the small, deserted keys about 25 miles southeast of Nassau in the vicinity of Treasure Island.

TOO MANY BRITISH

"I think we'd better move the stuff before someone discovers it," Rorke said. "Too many British patrol boats are nosing around here lately."

Our first stop was Bimini, a half-hour's flying time from West Palm Beach. Then we landed at a postage stamp air strip on tiny Norman's Cay. Where Nassau police arrested.17 Cuban raiders on Rorke's boat, Yiolynn III.

Our pilot landed the twin-engine Beechcraft on another midget strip, and we took a motor launch—Rorke's for the purpose—to a nearby key.

Wrapped in canvas and buried just under sandy surface were two more 100-pound bombs.

"We'll leave those," Rorke said.

Rifles and ammunition were piled in the boat and transferred by plane and boat to another key.

Castro's Elevation in Red World Points to New Moves

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fidel Castro has been accorded the full Soviet star-system treatment in Moscow, including a public place beside Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in the May Day parade, a sure sign of his ascendency in the Communist world.

Many thoughtful Americans tend to dismiss the importance of this public acclaim, suggesting it is merely another Soviet gesture to placate the bearded Cuban leader, whose nuclear missiles had been taken away, and to make sure he doesn't fall into the embrace of China's Mao Tse-tung.

There even are suggestions in U.S. quarters that when the warm reception for Castro in the Cuban premier will return to Cuba with little in the way of increased Soviet aid. argument is that maintenance of a Soviet base in Cuba is costing the Kremlin about $1,000,000 a day and the Russians probably are anxious to see this cost reduced rather than increased.

The view, however, overlooks the fact that Soviet actions in Berlin and Cuba have created a sharp rise in U.S. defence costs. One U.S. military authority recently informed Congress the budget rise because of Berlin and Cuba could be estimated at about $10,000,000,000 a year.

It is unlikely, therefore, that Soviet pressure in the Caribbean will be reduced.

It is more likely that Castro has been brought to Moscow not so much to placate him as to confer with him in planning new moves in the Caribbean and Latin America. Despite the much - publicized U.S. - supported Alliance for Progress, the Latin region still is loaded with poverty and ignorance and with new revolutionary movements.

Thus the Kremlin appears to be publicizing Castro before the Communist world as an indication of his leadership stature—and possibly to impress on other Latin Americans the power this man holds in the Communist camp. It may be an example to others how they, too, might succeed in Castro's path.

Pay Raises For Nurses Said Too Small

OTTAWA (CP) — The Civil Service Association Thursday night criticized pay raises announced earlier in the day for government-employed nurses as too small and too narrow in scope.

The increases, ranging from $270 to $500 a year, were made retroactive to January 1, 1963, for about 2,000 nurses — 50 of them in Ottawa — employed by the departments of health and welfare and veterans affairs. The new top limits in two classes of nurses are $4,350 and $4,740 a year.

It was the first salary adjustment for the nurses since January 1, 1962, and Finance Minister Gordon said increases for other nurses would be announced later.

The association said the general level of nurses' salaries is too low and tends to depress the salaries of other hospital employees.

World champion Graham Hill of England has entered the "Player's 200" at Mosport, June 1.

Hill's appearance on the starting grid of Canada's premier sports car event will mark the first time that a current world champion has raced in Canada.

GRAHAM HILL

And he will probably be the race favorite since negotiations were completed to have Hill drive the same car that won the first two "Player's 200" races. Stirling Moss drove the Lotus 19 to victory in 1961 and Masten Gregory accepted the Player's Cup last year.

Murray Wallace, president of the Canadian Racing Drivers Association, personally flew to England in order to ensure the entry of the 34-year-old Englishman who will be racing in the Indianapolis 500 two days earlier.

Since Hill had previously agreed to remain in Indianapolis for the banquet Friday night, the eve of the Mosport race, the C.R.D.A. will arrange a special practise for him, probably on Tuesday of race week. He will stop over in Toronto on his way to Indianapolis from the Grand Prix de Monaco.

"I have heard a lot about the Mosport race from Stirling Moss," Hill told Wallace in England. "Last fall, I flew over the circuit so I'm anxious to try it out, especially in Stirling's old car."

Hill, who sports a large moustache, never drove a car before he was 23 and appeared in his first race in 1954. He joined Lotus as a racing mechanic in 1956 and is noted for his knowledge of cars.

Last year, he and B.R.M. came to the top together, Hill won four of the nine world championship events, one more than runner-up Jim Clark in a Lotus. The 1961 champion, Phil Hill of the United States, was fifth, failing to win a race.

Graham Hill is considered one of motor racing's most versatile drivers. He is equally at home in a Formula One, sports racing, grand touring or production car.

During the big race week, he will arrive in Canada after driving his Formula One B.R.M. at Monaco, practise in a sports car, fly to Indianapolis to drive a Mickey Thompson special in the 500, then fly back to Toronto for the race in a sports car.

"I like variety in racing" Hill maintains. "But I drive to win every race and that's why I insist on lots of practice time before this one. I don't intend to show up for the fun of it.

On another racing front a famous driver has decided to call it "exile." Stirling Moss, a big name in the sport and one of its most daring driving exponents says he is losing "my dexterity and to continue racing would be dangerous for myself and others."

There spoke a man of courage and wisdom. To a man of Moss' ability it must have meant a lot to make such a decision. Yet he knew himself far better than others knew him.

Moss has all the requisites of a true champion of a sport that carries more hazards than any other on the athletic calendar. He knows that the gruelling demands of racing demands the best mentality and physically of its drivers. He knows that the slightest slip will mean perhaps death to himself and others.

Moss' decision was not a sign of physical weakening. It bespoke the courage and common sense of a man whose high status in the sport will not be lessened by his withdrawal from it.

Wins Two Gold, Three Silver, Bronze In 6 Events ★★★★★

Weiler Stages Brilliant Medal Show

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) — A German-born Canadian soldier from the army's Camp Borden at Alliston, Ont., has become the golden boy of Canada's team at the fourth Pan-American Games.

Wilhelm (Willie) Weiler won his second and third gold medals in men's gymnastics Thursday with a spectacular performance that also brought him three silver medals and a third-place bronze in six events.

And Willie's powerful performance pushed Canada's gold medal total to eight—the highest ever since the games started in 1951. The best previous showing was seven golds in the 1959 games at Chicago. Weiler also was the first Canadian competitor ever to win a gold medal in the men's gymnastics competition.

His performance paced the Canadian gymnastics team to a 10-medal harvest for the day and a 14-medal output for the games.

Canada also won a bronze medal in synchronized swimming Thursday and began a committee-room battle to have a silver in yachting turned to gold.

TWO CHANCES LEFT

With nothing scheduled in the track and field program, where Canada has won three gold synchronized swimming competitors were the only Canadians with a chance to boost their country's medals totals.

Weiler, a 27-year-old physical-training instructor, made the most of it as he pushed his personal medal bag to eight—three gold, four silver and one bronze.

The five-foot, 9-inch 150-pound native of Rastatt, Germany, won the floor exercises and long-horse vault champion-ships to go with his gold-medal victory two days earlier in the men's all - around individual competition.

He finished second in side horse, parallel bars and horizontal bar to add three silvers to the one he shared with the Canadian relay team in its second-place finish Tuesday.

And he wound up third in rings to grab a bronze.

Richard Monpetit of Verdun, Que., finished third in side horse for another bronze for Canada.

WIN TWO SILVERS

And the women's team picked up two silvers and a bronze when Susan McDonnell, 16, of Scarborough, Ont., finished second in floor exercises; Dorothy Howarth, 18, of Saskatoon, was second in balanced beam; and Gail Daley, 16, of Saskatoon finished third in balanced beam.

Sandra Marks, 19, of Quebec City got the other Canadian medal Thursday with a third-place finish in synchronized swimming.

By the end of the day, Canada had a total of 23 silver medals and 25 bronzes in addition to the golds for the games so far, with the track and field program to be completed today and Saturday.

The U.S. totals mounted during the day to 80 golds, 46 silvers and 31 bronzes, with Canada second in each case.

U.S. competitors picked off all six gold medals in the women's gymnastics and took seven of the 10 golds in the men's competition.

Doris Fuchs, 24-year-old brunette from Seattle, topped the individual winners with four gold medals in the women's events—winning the all-around title, the balanced beam and uneven parallel bars and sharing in the U.S. team's championship. And she did it in spite of a sprained foot that caused her considerable pain during Thursday's events.

U.S. TAKES TOP TWO

Roberta Armstrong and Barbara Burke of the U.S. finished one-two in the women's individual synchronized swim, with Miss Marks third and 14-year-old Marilyn Malenfant, also of Quebec City, fourth. The competition concludes today with the duet event.

Elsewhere Thursday, the United States won the gold medal in individual and team divisions of the modern pentathlon, comprising riding, fencing, pistol shooting, swimming, and cross - country running. Robert L. Beck of Boston led the U.S. entries in a 1-3-5 sweep of the event, amassing 4,934 points to win.

The Commercial Softball League set next Wednesday, May 8, as its entry deadline date, at another league meeting last night.

Richardson Greaves Saturday

HALIFAX (CP)—Blair Richardson, Canadian middleweight boxing champion who looks like a choir boy but hits like a stevedore, defends his title Saturday night against rough Willie Greaves.

Richardson, 22-year-old blonde Cape Breloner who captured the crown by beating Greaves on an eighth-round technical knockout last September, is making no prediction but he awaits his third meeting with the Edmonton native. Greaves, 27, now fights out of Detroit.

Saturday's scrap is scheduled for 12 rounds. In their previous fights both men were in trouble —but in the first Greaves came back and in the second Richardson showed late power.

Dave Keon Wins Byng Trophy

Second In Row

MONTREAL (CP) — Little Dave Keon of Toronto Maple Leafs has been picked the National Hockey League's most sportsmanlike player again this year, the NHL announced today.

Keon, a 23-year-old centre, won the Lady Byng Trophy for his second straight year and polled more than twice as many votes as runner-up Camille Henry of New York Rangers.

The trophy, for the player "adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability," seems to be the exclusive property of centres these last few years.

Third and fourth in the six-city voting were centres Alex Delvecchio of Detroit and Red Kelly of Toronto.

Kelly, converted to centre from a defence position, won it for the 1960-61 season.

Keon's lead was solid and consistent. He balloting after the first half of the season, he earned 69 points. After the second half, he earned 69 points again. A perfect score would be 180 total points. Last year, Keon won the trophy with a total of only 71 points.

LEAGUE GIVES $1,000

Along with the trophy goes $1,000 from the NHL for winning it, plus $500 for each half-season total.

Keon is the second Toronto player to win one of the NHL's individual awards. Defenceman Bert Douglas won the Calder Trophy as best-rookie award earlier this week.

Henry had a total of 62 points, 50 of them in the second half. He was a winner of the Lady Byng in the 1957-58 season. Delvecchio, winner in 1958-59, had 25 points this season.

This was only Keon's third year in the NHL and his third remarkable year.

In 1960-61, he won the Calder Rookie award. In 1961-62, he won the Lady Byng and was named to the league all-star team at centre.

He had six minutes in penalties in his first year, but only one minor penalty in each of the next two seasons.

That means that in three NHL seasons, he has not spent more than 10 minutes in the penalty box. There are players in the league who have done worse than that in a single period.

IS CONSISTENT

Keon has also been a consistent 20-goal man. In his first year he had 20 goals and 25 assists; in his second 26 goals and 35 assists, and last season 28 goals and 28 assists.

Keon' record is all the more remarkable considering his size. He is only five feet, nine inches tall and weighs 160 pounds—a midget in comparison to the majority of the NHL's players.

In an era of big, rough players, he is a small, smart exception.

Other players who earned points in the balloting were: Andy Bathgate, New York, 16; Bobby Hull, Chicago, 13; Don McKenney, Boston and New York, 12; Ken Wharram, Chicago, 12; John Bucyk, Boston, 7; Tommy Williams, Boston, 6; Jean Beliveau, Montreal, Boston, 4; Henri Richard, Montreal, 3; Bob McDonald, Chicago, 2; and, with one point each, Andy Bathgate, New York; Norm Ullman, Detroit; Jean Beliveau, Montreal; Gordie Howe, Detroit; Don Marshall, Montreal, and Murray Oliver, Boston.

Three-Run Double Equals Ruth Record

Musial's Bat Wins For Cards

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

For endurance it's pretty hard to match the pace set by Stan Musial, who has spent 22 years chasing records.

Musial Thursday night lashed a three-run double that gave St. Louis Cardinals, leaders of the National League race, a 4-3 victory over Chicago Cubs.

It was the 1,356th extra-base hit of Musial's career, tying the major league record held by Babe Ruth. The 42-year-old Cardinal great has legged out 3,353 hits and set or tied 42 national league records and 15 major league marks.

Musial's lifetime chart shows 2,199 singles, 717 doubles, 175 triples and 465 homers.

The victory, the Cardinals' ninth in 11 games, kept them two games ahead of Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants. The third-place Giants edged the second-place Pirates 2-1 on Juan Marichal's five-hit pitching and Felipe Alou's two-run homer.

METS BEAT COLTS

Ron Fairly's two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning gave Los Angeles Dodgers a 3-2 decision over Philadelphia Phillies. Jerry Lumpe hit his eighth homer and Bob Hendley allowed only three hits as Milwaukee Braves blanked Cincinnati Reds 5-0 and New York Mets belted Houston Colts 10-3.

Cardinal starter Ray Washburn had a no-hitter for six innings and a two-hitter for eight, but ran into trouble in the ninth when Ken Hubbs doubled, Billy Williams beat out a hit and Ron Santo followed with a homer that brought the Cubs to within a run.

It also ended Washburn's string of 24 consecutive scoreless innings and brought on reliever Ed Bauta. Bauta walked Ernie Banks before preserving Washburn's fifth triumph against no defeats by getting Andre Rodgers to ground out.

Fairly got a chance to bat for the Dodgers when, with out, Frank Howard's pop fly eluded three Phillie fielders and fell for a single. Fairly then hit his fourth homer and tagged Art Mahaffey with the defeat.

Hendley, bringing his record to 3-1, gave up al three Reds' hits to Leo Cardenas, who collected two singles and a double.

Charley Neal stroked four straight singles as the Mets scored in double figures for the first time this season. Larry Burright drove in three runs for New York with a triple and a double.

Batting—Stan Musial, Cardinals, tied Babe Ruth's major league record for extra-base hits at 1,356 with a three-run double in seventh inning that provided 4-3 victory over Chicago Cubs.

Pitching—Whitey Ford, Yankees, allowed only four hits and struck out 10 in his first complete game of season, a 7-0 triumph over Los Angeles Angels.

Eleven of the 25 penalties called by referee Frank Dalgnault came in the final 20 minutes, including a major to Mestinsek for knocking Avrey senseless and a 10-minute misconduct to the final seconds to Gregg Pilling of the Oil Kings for giving a chokeup signal—placing his hand at his throat—to the referee.

Fifty of the starters finished with par or better over the soggy, 7,080-yard par 72 course.

At the top were Ted Ball, Jim King, Bert Weaver, Bob Goetz, Bob Pratt and Jerry Edwards.

Near-Donnybrooks Feature Game

Flyers Blank Kings In Opener

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP)—Niagara Falls Flyers shut out Edmonton Oil Kings 4-0 on the scoreboard, but Edmonton handed out the physical punishment in the opening of the 1963 Memorial Cup junior hockey championship here Thursday night before 6,785 fans.

It was a gruelling but spotty game which finished with a series of near-donnybrooks as both clubs forgot about scoring and concentrated on bodychecking.

Second game of the best-of-seven series will be played Saturday with the third and fourth Monday and Tuesday.

Ted Snell and Wayne Maxner each scored twice for the eastern champions from Ontario and singles went to Gary Dornhoefer, Bill Goldsworthy, Gary Jarmer and Ron Hergott.

Netminder George Gardner, 20-year-old native of Lachine, Que., turned aside 29 shots in getting his shutout but only six—all in the second period when the Oil Kings dominated play—were dangerous.

Hap Emms, owner-coach of Flyers, who entered a blanket protest on the series because of the placing of the goal lines 15 feet from the end boards instead of 10 as allowed by Canadian Amateur Hockey Association rules, said the "Oil Kings just had a bad game."

CREEP IS HURT

He said Flyer team captain Terry Crist, the club's top scorer in the regular season, suffered a severe charleyhorse in the second period but it was too early to say whether he would miss a game.

Defenceman Don Awrey was checked into the Niagara Falls nets by Edmonton's Max Mestinsek in the third period and left the game. He is expected to play Saturday.

Neither coach allowed reporters into the dressing room after the game, giving their charges a chance to cool off after the rough, penalty-studded final period.

Tom Homers, Two Grandslammers

Ford Blanks Angels; Indians Scalp A's

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Never fear—Whitey's here."

This cocky little fellow which Whitey Ford is accustomed to tossing at his New York Yankee teammates in jest took on new tone of comforting reality today.

For the Yankees, it meant their old meal ticket in the American League was in all punched up, after all.

Now 34, playing his 12th season with the Yankees and so sore-armed in the spring that he was relegated to the B team, Ford showed Thursday that he is far from being a candidate for the old pitchers' home.

SHUTS 'EM OUT

He shut out the Angels at Los Angeles 7-0, giving up only four singles, striking out 10 men and walking one. Counting the seven innings he worked against Cleveland Indians last Sunday, he extended his streak of scoreless innings to 16.

The victory was helped by Joe Pepitone's first grand-slam home run in the majors.

Kansas City also shut loose their No. 1 position to Boston with a 6-2 win over the Indians mainly on a grand-slam homer by Woody Held, his fifth circuit clout of the season. The Red Sox were rained out at Minnesota.

Washington Senators hammered out a 9-4 victory over Detroit Tigers. Larry Osborne leading the attack with two home runs and Dick Stuart edged Chicago White Sox 8-7 on a bases-loaded single, in the ninth inning by Brooks Robinson that scored two runs.

Whitey's shutout was his 32nd in a career that has seen him win 177 games and lose 72, counting this year's 2-3 record.

HIT 10 HOMERS

Ford's fine pitching performance was the exception rather than the rule in the league. There were 10 home runs hit in the four games.

At Kansas City, besides Held's grand-slammer, homers were hit by the rookie catcher Bill Bryan of the Athletics and Cleveland's Vic Davalillo.

Barry Latman, who entered the game in the third inning and gave up only two hits the rest of the way, was the winner.

Jim King added a home run to the two Osborne hits for Washington at Detroit. The Senators collected 13 hits in winning two games in a row for the first time this season.

Robinson's game - deciding blow at Chicago came with two out. Chicago's Jim Landis hit his third homer of the season and Jim Gentile and Bob Johnson both hit for the circuit for New York in the fourth of the year, Johnson's first.

Tournament Of Champions

Nicklaus Fires 8-Under-Par 64

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — National Open golf champion Jack Nicklaus shot a sensational record eight-under-par 64 Thursday to lead the field by two strokes in the first round of the $60,000 tournament of champions.

The 23-year-old belter set a tournament record in this 11th annual desert event as he uncorked seven birdies and an eagle with a 33-31—64 over the par 36-36 course in Desert Inn Country Club course.

Nicklaus' eagle three on the 438-yard 13th broke up what had been a long-range par-wrecking duel with Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, who had a record of 34-33—67 for second place.

The tournament record of 65 for one round was set by Arnold Palmer, Don January, Bill Casper and Tom Nieporte.

A field of 72, each of whom qualified for this spring fixture by finishing one or more major tournaments during the last year, played in sunny, 90-degree weather.

In third place was Bill Collins with 34-33—67. Four were tied at 68—Casper, Johnny Pott, Bo Winniger and Doug Sanders.

Al Johnston of Montreal, the only Canadian in the field, shot 40-38—78.

A Beard And Blonde Do's Charms

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bo Belinsky has a new good luck charm—and it isn't Mamie Van Doren.

The left-hander credits his fourth 1-3 victory over New York Yankees Wednesday night to Gypsy Boots — a bearded regular on the Slave Allen show.

Boots called the pitcher Wednesday and said: "Honey I've never seen a baseball game, but I shall go tonight with Mamie because I feel very spiritual. I shall ask the angels above to help you."

Belinsky presented Boots with the game ball at a champagne party after the game.

"That guy Gypsy is my luck. I'm going to take him everywhere with me. In fact, I'd like to take the both of them everywhere," commented Belinsky.

The bearded one exercised his powers while seated beside Mamie behind home plate.

Mamie was happy over Bo's new charm.

"Just think," she said, "he went nine innings."

Reporter reminded the blonde actress pitchers are supposed to go nine innings.

Mamie replied: "Bo never did before."

She's just learning the game.

Trust Company To Carry On Harness Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Guaranty Trust Company of Canada has been authorized to carry on a proposed racing meet starting May 8 at Rideau Carleton Raceway in Ottawa.

Mr. Justice Walter F. Schroeder appointed the trust company Thursday as receiver and manager of all the assets of Rideau Carleton Raceway Investments Limited and Rideau Carleton Holdings Limited, operators of the track which opened last year.

The company represents all holders of 6% per cent series of bonds in the race track's financing.

MAY TRY COMEBACK

SEATTLE (AP)—Miro Silovak, injured in a spectacular spin three years ago, may stage a comeback this year as a race driver of unlimited hydroplanes. The dashing Czech, now a commercial air line pilot living in Denver, has applied for the spot in a boat now under construction here, to be named Miss Exide. The new craft will replace Milo Stoen's Miss Seattle Too, which disintegrated in last year's Gold Cup race on Lake Washington, injuring driver Dallas Sartz.

'Candy Spots' Derby Favorite

By KELSO STURGEON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Saturday's Kentucky Derby, which attracted eight bluebloods of racing and a colt who will really have to move just to keep the field in sight, is made for a Silky Sullivan who can run.

For those who don't remember, Silky Sullivan was a California colt who gained fame for come-from-behind victories. In 1958, Silky mistook the Derby for his afternoon stroll and finished 12th in a 14-horse field.

Most trainers in this year's derby concede that Greentree Stable's unbeaten No Robbery has so much early speed that any colt trying to run with him may find the pace killing. This would leave the come-from-behind horses in the best shape for the long stretch run.

Those who figure to stay close to the pace, and possibly No Robbery, in the early going, are Darby Dan Farm's Chateaugay, Walnut Hill Farm's Gray Pet and Cain Hoy Stable's Never Bend.

HE CAN RUN

Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, the 6-to-5 favorite to win the $125,000-added, 1¼-mile classic, can either run or stay off the pace. He'll probably stay well off if until they hit the stretch.

This leaves three come-from-behind horses: Ambush Stable's On My Honor, who came from 24 lengths off the pace to win the California Derby, B. J. Ridder's Royal Tower and Patrice Jacobs' Bonjour.

The field of nine for this year's run for the roses is the smallest since 1957, when the same number started.

The weather is expected to be cloudy but pleasant, with temperatures ranging in the 70s or 80s.

The race will be televised by CBS from 5-6 p.m. EDT and will be carried in Canada by CBC-TV.

Western Hockey

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—San Francisco Seals, winner of eight of nine titles in the Western Hockey League final series Thursday night, defeated Seattle Totems 5-0 in a game that saw 10 major penalties called for fighting.

Brief altercations in the first and second periods were just a preliminary for a melee that halted play for 15 minutes with 31 seconds left in the game.

The shutout cut Seattle's lead in the best-of-seven set to 3-2. The sixth game is scheduled for Sunday night.

Len Haley was the sparkplug, scoring three goals and two assists. Moe Mantha and Larry McNabb each scored twice and Al Nicholson added a single.

The shutout for goaltender Jim McLeod tied the WHL playoff record of three set in 1951 by Harry Colcolr. McLeod had pitched two shutouts in South ern Division playoffs.

Three Johnson compacts prove a little money can go a long way

Johnson compacts are amazing motors. Their initial cost is low yet their staying power is high. The compacts go a long way between gas stops (on 5 gallons of gas a 5½ can cruise for 11 hours). They're only need servicing once a year and practically never see the inside of a repair shop. They start with the first pull and run religiously season after season. In the long run, a Johnson gives you more dogged dependability for your dollars than any outboard at any price.

The compacts are light and trim. Bulk and weight is pared to a minimum. Underwater exhaust and beveled gears mean the compacts run quiet. They are long on features other small outboards skimp on, such as full gearshift, complete corrosion proofing, fuel pump, thermostat-controlled cooling.

Find out how far your money will go. See the Johnson Compact 18, 10 and 5½ at your Johnson Dealers. With almost a thousand dealers across Canada service is never a problem when you own a Johnson.

Swedish Actor Plays Role Of Jesus With Evident Ease

By BOB THOMAS

PYRAMID LAKE, Nev. (AP) — The tall, robed figure walked among the crowd of actors huddling inside a temple of early Christian times.

A brief Nevada storm had halted filming on The Greatest Story Ever Told, and members of the company had sought shelter inside the movie sets. Several offered chairs to the lean man who towered above all the others. He declined with a smile.

This was Max Von Sydow, whose long, thin face appeared in many films of Sweden's Ingmar Bergman and who is near completion of his portrayal of Jesus in George Stevens' Christian epic.

He plays the role with apparent ease. His blue eyes are intense and unblinking. His blond crewcut is covered by a hairpiece of straight brown hair and he wears a light beard and mustache.

He seems more contemporary than a figure from a Sunday school poster. That is the effect Stevens is seeking.

ACTOR IMPRESSES

In the daily rushes, which I had seen in the location camp the night before, Von Sydow's impact on the screen was impressive. He played the same scene over and over again, always with the same inflection, the same quiet intensity.

"He is the only actor, living or dead, who can play this role," proclaims Victor Buono, who portrays Pontius Pilate in the film.

With his fellow actors, Von Sydow seems reserved but not aloof. He pauses for polite conversation, but he seldom unbends. The exception was on Arizona location New Year's Eve, when he concocted for the company a native drink he called Glug, a witch's brew of high potency.

His reticence may result in part from the strangeness of his surroundings. This is his first acting job outside Sweden.

Before the weather cleared, Von Sydow chatted a bit. His present experience is much different from film-making with Bergman.

"We make films in Sweden in eight or 10 weeks," he said. "Much of it is indoors, so we have few delays. We have been shooting on this picture six months. It is much bigger, of course, and we have run into bad weather. The kind of weather we have in Sweden."

"You Have to Grow" Godfrey Success Secret; He Follows Own Advice

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey will be 60 on his next birthday, Aug. 31.

He made his broadcasting debut at almost the precise moment the stock market broke to start the Great Depression in 1929—and has been gainfully employed in front of microphones and-or cameras ever since.

He is so well known that when, in the midst of the last U.S. presidential campaign, a polling organization showed some pictures to a sample of the public, he was identified by 91 per cent—compared with 85 per cent for vice - president Richard Nixon and 71 per cent for John F. Kennedy.

He has accumulated a fortune —large enough to permit him to fly two airplanes, drive automobiles in a chain, four-piloted Bentley, maintain a handsome estate in the hunting-shooting country of Virginia and live in an east side Manhattan apartment. He breeds quarter horses as a hobby and trains Palomino horses for dressage exhibitions — neither activities within the financial reach of the average well-heeled executive.

WANTS TV SHOW

He has a popular network radio program — which keeps him busy four days a week but leaves him free for long weekends and even globetrotting when he feels like tacking up a batch of shows in advance.

Sounds like an idyllic existence.

But Arthur Godfrey has one burning ambition: A weekly television show.

"I love this business," explained the star. "I'd love to do a show. I'd like to perform a bit—I've always been the introducer, the smiling Ed Sullivan."

Godfrey looks much younger than the mournful evidence of the calendar. His thick hair is a burnished shade of auburn, his walk is lithe and vigorous despite a slight hesitation caused by a surgically repaired hip. He is fanatic. His zest for life is undiguised.

HAD SURGERY

He looks in the prime of life—a man who obviously has methowed in the last 10 years, which have not been kind.

He has had a hip operation and almost four years ago underwent surgery for removal of a cancer in the lung.

"Maybe I'm too fond of platitudes," Godfrey says today. "But I feel that you only get as much out of life as you put into it. You had nothing to do with your birth, and you can't control the circumstances of your death. But you can do something about living. And the only way you can make the most of that precious time is to grow."

The secret of longevity as a performer, Godfrey feels, is the same. "If you want to last, you have to grow. That little screen is merciless and if you aren't constantly more interesting and intriguing, they—the public—will drop you, ruthlessly."

At the Belle

Hitchcock's "The Birds" is A Stunning New Kind of Suspense

Alfred Hitchcock understated it when he said of his latest thriller "The Birds" that opened yesterday at the Belle Theatre, "It could be the most terrifying film I've ever made."

It is. Opening day audiences, even those who expect shock and excitement from a Hitchcock movie were stunned by never before seen passages showing tens of thousands of birds in massed attacks on people.

"The Birds" is revolutionary in techniques. There is no musical score as such. Introduced for the first time is a new electronic sound effects system, invented and composed by Remi Gassman and Oskar Sala of Berlin to produce both "musical" and shock effects. There are no Hollywood "props" used in the close-up shots of birds on people. The birds were actually trained for their parts! Hitchcock and his technician developed a special way to make real birds "divebomb" in masses. How this was done is not revealed. Paradoxically the film is more mystery than horror. One sells asking "How" and Why?" Hitchcock outdoes Hitchcock in his greatest mystery of all!

Starring Rod Taylor, Jessica Tandy and Suzanne Pleshette, and introducing 'Tippi' Hedren, the new Hitchcock production also develops a strongest and more emotional personal story than any of his previous films. This aspect of the screenplay, written by Evan Hunter and based on a Daphne du Maurier story, makes the audience a participant of the unprecented bird violence all the greater.

In typical Hitchcock counterpoint, the Technicolor film starts in a high comedy mood with a romantic encounter between Taylor and Miss Hedren in San Francisco. The story moves to a peaceful California seaside community, where the principals become involved in a mounting atmosphere of terror resulting from the unexplained bird assaults.

To relate much more of the story would be to violate the edict of the Master of Suspense himself, that audiences, must see "The Birds" from the beginning.

WRITES FOR FILM

Lionel Bart, creator of the English musical "Oliver," will write the title theme for the movie "From Russia With Love."

Colleen Dewhurst Using TV To Get Out of Casting Rut

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The television woods are full of famous, rich performers and personalities who go around moaning about their professional lot.

They are, they cry, woefully typecast, stuck forever with playing cowboys or suffering wives or lawyers or whatever the role that is supporting their swimming pools and sports cars.

Now comes Colleen Dewhurst, a talented, busy and highly respected actress, deliberately using television to get out of a casting rut.

"I've been playing nothing but nasty woman heavies," she explained. "Whenever you would see me on a stage or on a movie screen—you'd see a home wrecker, a neurotic wife or an unpleasant or sick person. And always very unattractively dressed."

Miss Dewhurst decided it was about time she had a chance to play a wife, healthy woman. And that is one reason Miss Dewhurst, in smart, high-style clothes, will be visible Sunday night in NBC's Something to Hide, a suspense thriller.

She will play a wealthy publisher married to a second-rate author. And everybody knows that lady publishers have been chic, healthy and sophisticated since the first Rosalind Russell movie.

Actually, appearing in a television whodunit is something of a vacation for Miss Dewhurst. She has been playing—and receiving high acclaim—in an off-Broadway production Eugene O'Neill's Desire Under the Elms, and soon goes into a summer season of Shakespeare on an outdoor stage in Manhattan's Central Park.

"I love to play in mysteries," she reflected. "I read them all the time."

Recommended weekend viewing: Saturday — Kentucky Derby, CBS, 5-6 p.m. EDT. Sunday — Something to Hide, NBC, 10-11 p.m.—Colleen Dewhurst and Henry Jones in a murder mystery.

Bisons On Rampage, Leafs Win

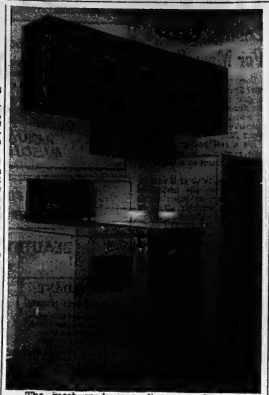
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo's unruly Bisons, gorging on their Southern brethren, are threatening to turn the Northern Division of the International League into a one-team race.

That's the way it has worked out so far. The Bisons, riding a seven-game winning streak, led Syracuse and Rochester by five games today after compiling a 7-1 record against teams from the Southern Division and a 4-2 mark against the northerners.

Buffalo swept Jacksonville 3-2 and 5-2 Thursday night, enjoying strong pitching by Babe Birrer, Dick Ricketts and Marty Kutyna.

TIE FOR CELLAR



The losses dropped defending champion Jacksonville into a tie with Columbus for the Southern cellar.

Columbus shaded Atlanta 2-1, knocking the Crackers out of the Southern Division lead. Arkansas regained the top spot via a 6-3 victory over Indianapolis. Richmond trimmed the Rochester Red Wings 5-4 in 10 innings. Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Syracuse Chiefs 3-1.

Birrer restricted Jacksonville to five hits in the first game at Buffalo and drove in the winning run with a double in the fourth inning. Rookie Phil Barth drove in the first four Bison runs in the nightcap and ran his season RBI total to 13. Ricketts tired in the eighth, and Kutyna doused a Jacksonville rally.

An errant pickoff peg by Atlanta left-hander Leroy Gregory at third base permitted Tony Asaro to score the winning run for Columbus in the bottom of the ninth.

Toronto's Carl Greene surrendered only one hit after the first inning, a seventh-inning homer by Ray Oyler. Outfielder Lou Johnson, making his 1963 Toronto debut, drove in two runs and scored twice, hitting a homer and a double, to lead the Leafs' nine-hit attack.

The most modern appliances and up-to-date kitchen, another feature in Bridgeview Apartments.

SWAP PITCHERS

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota Twins Thursday traded left - hander Jack Kralick to Cleveland for right-hander Jim Perry in a straight swap of pitchers. Kralick, who had a no-hitter against Kansas City last year, is 1-4 this season. His record last year was 12-11 with an earned run average of 3.83. Perry was 12-12 last year with an earned run average of 4.13.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Young Ron Turcotte from Grand Falls, N.B. just doesn't know how to lose races.

The 22-year-old, who won his first race ever on April 9, 1962, and his 181st Nov. 23 of last year to become Canada's leading rider, won another three races Thursday and now has 29 victories to his credit for the first 26 days of the 72-day Fort Erie spring meeting.

His winning percentage is better than 30 per cent, having ridden 96 horses since the meeting opened last April 6. He now has 16 more than his nearest rivals, Jim Fitzsimmons and Gordon Lanoway.

Turcotte won on Tarpon Run in the first, Flying Countess in the third and Miss Flinstone in the seventh.

Larkin Maloney's $25,000 yearling purchase, Brockton Boy, became the easiest winner at this spring meeting, when he outdistanced five other two-year-olds by more than nine lengths.

YONKERS, N.Y. (CP)—Henry T. Adios won the $50,000 International Pace at Yonkers Raceway by a length Thursday night before a crowd of 28,238.

The time for the 1¼-mile event was 3:06.4.

Stanley Dancer drove the five-year-old son of Adios - Greer Hanover perfectly in the event which was his leadoff last in Yonkers' $165,000 three - race pace series. The next event is May 2 when the Good Time Pace will be contested for an estimated $85,000. The final number is the $50,000 National Championship May 16 at two miles.

Henry T. the third leading money winning pacer of all-time with winnings of $439,310, picked up $25,000 for his owners, Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas Derrico, Pelham Manor, N.Y. with the victory.

The second favorite in the betting, Henry T. returned across the board mutuels of $7.20, $4.10 and $2.60. Mighty Tide was second and paid $7.40 and $4.00. Irvin Paul, the 8-5 favorite, was $2.40 for show.

SPRING: HOME, GARDEN IMPROVEMENT TIME

Controlling Crab Grass

An undeserved reputation to the contrary, crab grass - or wire grass - is fairly easy to get rid of.

What should be remembered is that this plant is an annual. It grows from seed during June. Each fall, its roots are killed by frost, and the end of that particular plant cycle. It will not grow even in the partial shade. It is seldom seen where the shadow of a tree or building passes.

After sprouting, it grows quickly, the shoots spreading out like fingers of a hand. Roots grow at every joint and each root repeats the process of sending out additional shoots. But this method crab grass is able to smother other grasses, leaving bare spots when it is killed by frost.

Control the spread of crab grass during the summer by pulling it upright with a rake, and cutting it short with a mower. Take care to burn all the seeding stalks. The smallest stalk, if allowed to lie, will root flower and produce seed. In September, dig it out completely to a depth of two inches. Fill these spots with new soil, and seed with grass.

In spring, until early June, grass should be cut short to develop a strong root system and encourage it to spread sideways. From early June until early September, it should be kept cut three inches high. Crab grass will not grow in this shade, and the shade will keep the grass from burning during hot weather.

Perhaps the quickest and most effective way to kill crab grass is to cover it with tar paper, tightly pegged down. The days in hot weather will kill it. The blue grass of your lawn will be browned, and perhaps killed, but will grow again from the roots.

In either case (weeding or covering) start on the plants early in July while they are small and easy to kill, and it won't be necessary to discolor the lawn by causing large bare spots. Be sure to cover enough ground to get the entire patch of crab grass.

Hot Water Heaters Now Feature Greater Capacities

Heat, humidity and a more active life make frequent bathing and showering a must in the months ahead — this in turn means an increased use of hot water.

This, of course adds to the strain placed on the water heating equipment during warm weather. Also added are larger family washing resulting from more outdoor activity and the fact that most summer apparel can be worn only once.

As a result the inadequacy of much of the existing water heating equipment becomes evident during the summer.

Not too many years ago a 20-gallon water heater was considered big enough for the average family. More recently, 30-gallon water heaters have become the minimum size.

Today, with the increasing demand for hot water in the typical Canadian home; with larger families and more bathrooms, the 30-gallon heater is generally not big enough for the job in many homes.

Now 40 and 50-gallon heaters are more common, especially in those homes using automatic washers.

SLAB ON GROUND — Basementless houses require a dry site. To keep the slab free of moisture a vapour barrier is placed between the ground and the concrete which is reinforced by a wire mesh at mid-depth in slab. Heating ducts may be built into the slab. (CMHC Photo)

Dry Site Needed for Basementless House

Houses without basements are more prevalent in areas where the winter climate is moderate, but with today's improved heating methods, such homes are practicable even in colder regions. Basementless houses are of two main types, those built on concrete slabs, in which the concrete floor rests directly on the ground, and those with a "crawl space" between the main floor and the ground.

Other types require special consideration by CMHC if financing under the National Housing Act is being considered by the owner.

Houses built on concrete slabs are suitable for high ground or well drained sites where there is no likelihood of water collecting at the base of the structure. The bed on which the concrete is placed should be carefully prepared so that there is no danger of the concrete floor absorbing ground moisture.

Vegetable matter such as leaves, top soil, humus and roots should be removed to provide a firm bearing surface. The earth should be built up to a level slightly higher than the surrounding ground and then covered with six inches of broken stone or coarse gravel. Finally, an effective vapour barrier should be spread over the entire surface before the concrete is poured. The vapour barrier may be polyethylene film over a layer of building paper, heavy roll roofing or equally suitable material. All joints should be lapped at least six inches.

If the material selected is not rigid enough to withstand the weight of the concrete without tearing, it should be backed with some other, more resistant material. There are a number of good vapour barriers on the market and many of them have been accepted for use in NHA-financed homes.

The edges of the slab should also be insulated to prevent rapid loss of heat at this point and to avoid condensation along the base of the walls inside the house. A special type of insulating material is required, one that is sufficiently tough to resist tearing or scuffing, impervious to moisture, and not susceptible to rot or deterioration. If the house is being financed under the National Housing Act the insulating material must be accepted for this purpose by CMHC.

With concrete slab construction, some form of footing or support for the exterior walls and bearing partitions is required. This can be provided either by making the slab thicker at the edges or alternatively resting the edges of the slab on an independent support. It may be only a surface footing, or it may be a foundation wall extending down to a point below the line of frost penetration.

There are various methods of insulating the floor to prevent heat loss, depending on the type of slab construction. If a conventional foundation with footing is built independently of the slab floor, the insulation should be placed between the foundation and the floor. If the footing is a thickening of the floor itself the insulation should be placed along the outside edge of the slab and should extend at least six inches below ground level. Where there is a footing, the insulation will be inserted between the foundation and the slab and extend some distance under the edges of the slab to provide an effective heat retainer.

The heating ducts, as well as plumbing pipes and electrical conduits are buried in the concrete slab. Reinforcing rods are imbedded in the slab to strengthen and prevent cracking of the concrete. In some cases, insulation is provided under the entire floor surface.

Dividers Can Make Rooms More Attractive, Livable

Taking the place of a wall, a room divider sets off one area from another without actually separating the two. They are increasing in popularity with home owners because they are less costly than walls, easy to put up and increase the spaciousness of living areas. With modern emphasis on multi-purpose living areas, room dividers also help define the function of an area without limiting its usefulness to one purpose.

Most important in designing a room divider is to determine how much separation you want. For example, if your front entrance door opens in to a small living room, you would want the barest suggestion of a wall to divide the entrance area from the rest of the room. A heavy divider would stop space off the room almost as much as a solid wall. A divider made up of lightweight, open wood poles would serve this purpose.

Depending upon the degree of separation desired, you could add to this divider by positioning the poles in a planter. Vines give the divider a little more weight. You could also use more horizontal pieces or add a diamond shaped panel to increase the amount of separation between the two areas.

To go to the other extreme, a divider used to separate kitchen from dining area or a basement laundry room from a recreation room you would want as much separation as possible without cutting off light, circulation, or easy access between the two areas. A divider open at the top to admit light and air but almost totally enclosed at the bottom to cut off the view of one area from the other would do this. It would also cut down noise between the two areas.

Room dividers are also used for functional purposes in themselves. They may hold bookcases, storage cabinets and they are frequently used as a serving table between kitchen and dining area. For a family that likes television with its meals, a TV set can be mounted on a turntable in the divider between dining and living rooms so that it may be turned either way. In fact, almost any piece of furniture can be built to serve as an effective room divider.

A desk, for example, could serve as a room divider between a workshop and a recreation room and serve as a desk for both areas.

A room divider between kitchen and dining area with cabinets that open on both sides makes serving and table setting easy. A snack bar between the two areas can also serve very attractively as a dual-purpose divider.

A divider can be designed to separate any two areas, even outdoors. The same principle applies as indoors: what you're walling in or walling out determines the design.

Outdoor privacy and blocking views of unsightly areas are the usual purposes of dividers and a great deal can be done with simple designs.

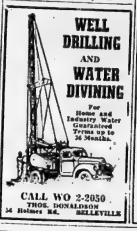
Canadian Garden Service

Where space is limited as in the average city and suburban garden, the wise gardener will not try to grow too many big things. There may be room for a tree or a few tall shrubs or hollyhocks, but these should be limited to a few specimens only and mostly for contrast. But just because the garden is small does not mean that variety is limited, far from it. There are all sorts of different small annual flowers. Actually in almost every popular flower there are special dwarf varieties like the new Thornelina zinnia, and tiny asters and so on. And of course in what used to be known as edging flowers, things like alyssum, forget-me-not, lobelia, etc., there is a very wide range.

In vegetables, too, the city gardener is advised to stick to those which are small in growth and which give a heavy yield for the space occupied. Carrots and beets are in this category and so are cress, cucumbers, tomatoes, lettuce, onions and spinach. It is really amazing how many fine meals one can get out of a vegetable plot ten feet by twenty by keeping the rows close together and alternating one vegetable with another and making a succession of the quick growing kinds, one can thrive fine eating from June until October.

CARE FOR MARBLE

Prevent stains and abrasions on marble furniture tops by washing frequently with a mild neutral detergent and keeping waxed with a thin coat of paste wax.



Enlarge Garage For More Space

Does your car fit your garage? That's not an idle question. A good many of us are making the discovery that today's longer models are too much for our over-laxed garages. They simply won't fit.

It's a real problem, and the only answer — to enlarge the garage — looms as a major undertaking.

But if you think of it as a remodelling job the adding of needed space as important to you as the finishing off of an attic or the addition of an extra bedroom, it becomes a worthwhile undertaking. It isn't too difficult to visualize the garage extension project as a means of improving your home and property. The more attractive you make it, the more valuable become your home.

In most cases you will be able to extend either toward the front or toward the rear, which ever is the most convenient. But if you extend the front, remember you will need to rehang the garage doors. On the other hand, by extending the rear you can provide access to a sheltered porch or a backyard patio.

Cues for Inside Painting

Painting is easy if you plan ahead. Everything goes quicker if you have all your supplies at hand and follow your plan step by step.

Whether you're a novice or an old hand, a talk with your paint dealer is sure to be helpful. He can advise you as to the best product for the surface, how much paint to buy, the supplies you'll need and how to make the job easier.

TEN TIPS FOR INDOOR PAINTING

1. Select the paint product best-suited for the job.
2. Follow directions on the can.
3. Use good quality brushes or rollers.
4. Protect floors and furniture.
5. Prepare the surface properly.
6. Paint at comfortable temperatures in a dry, well-ventilated room.
7. Wipe up spatters and spills immediately before they harden.
8. Clean brushes, rollers and other tools as soon as you finish using them.
9. Wear rubber gloves while painting and cleaning brushes or rollers to protect your hands and hasten clean-up time.
10. Consult your dealer if you have any questions.

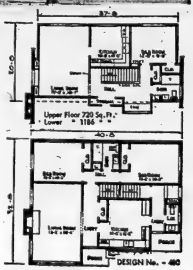
Mowing Lawn The Right Way

Proper mowing can greatly enhance the appearance and the health of any lawn. For instance, grass allowed to go to seed does not spread. Instead, it grows in clumps and the result is a spotty lawn. The little seed gained by this process is more than offset by the lack of root increase and the unsightly appearance.

Grass should be cut short until the end of May or middle of June. During this initial period, keep the lawn well fertilized and try to get a complete ground cover. When this is completed, start cutting the grass at a height of three inches.

There are several good reasons for keeping the grass cut long during the hot summer months. The leaf growth will shade the grass roots in hot summer weather and, most important, provides a simple way of preventing weeds and crab grass from seeding. Weeds will not grow in a thick, shady stand of grass. Crab grass will not germinate even in semi-shade.

Long grass and leaves should always be removed. Compost should never be added in hot weather, because grass smothers easily during this period.



The last cutting of the fall should leave the grass not less than one inch long.

HOME OF THE WEEK

Here's a home that has the appearance of a charming storey and a half home that's actually a two family unit which will help pay for itself. First storey is a two bedroom plan. It has two front entrances — one serving both units, the other completely private. Service entrance serves both units. There's an extra lavatory on the 1st floor. The upper unit provides excellent accommodations and should be easy to rent. Allowance has been made for ample storage space in the upper unit. Construction is Brick Veneer with vertical board accents. House can be built on a 50' lot.

Standard Builders Blueprints for this design No. 480 cost $15.00 for the first set and $3.00 for additional sets. They are available in Canada by return mail. (Ontario residents must remit 3% sales tax). Now available at this newspaper office is the New 1962 Design Book entitled "Canadian Guide to Home Planning and Design," price $1.00 and is tax free. This new edition includes information on Financing in Canada, Building Construction Details, Landscaping, Color Selection, Interior Decorating, Furniture Arrangement, Custom Designing, etc., plus over 100 popular and new designs to choose from. Also included in this book are full details on how to order blueprints. Apply Ontario Intelligencer Ltd., Box 190, Belleville, Ontario, giving design number and enclosing $1.00.

'Old' Space Can Accommodate New Refrigerator

There's a right place and plenty of space for every kind of food in a modern electric refrigerator-freezer. A 1963 model can provide far more food storage space than an older unit without occupying any more floor space.

Thinner, more efficient insulation and better engineering are responsible for adding cubic footage inside the new electric refrigerator-freezers without gobbling up valuable kitchen floor space. Thinner walls, squared-off corners, and doors that open within the width of the new units all contribute to their "space-age" qualities.

Freezer sections in which frost never forms mean more food storage space, too.

Today's electric refrigerator-freezers all have a sleek, built-in look with a decided contemporary flavor. Kits are also available with some models for an actual built-in installation.

As economical way to reroof is with asphalt shingles, which usually can be put on without removing old roofing. The asphalt shingles are put on top of the worn material, saving the expense of removing the old roof.

Use Aluminum for Home Remodeling

Homes remodeled with aluminum are easier to live in, easier to rent and sell, easier to insure and mortgage.

They cost less to heat and cool. And, perhaps the biggest plus of all, they're safer. For aluminum is non-sparking and, of course, fireproof.

In homes going up today, dozens of aluminum products are used.

Siding, roofing and reflective insulation, duct-work, doors, windows and customized built-ins . . . these products need little painting and practically no maintenance.

If you can lift a finger you can start the new Lawn-Boy
Exclusive Finger-Tip Start Reduces Starting Effort 94%
The 1963 Lawn-Boy is as easy to start as drawing a window blind. Lawn-Boy engineers have designed a new ignition system and geared starter that reduces starting effort an incredible 94%. Finger-Tip start is just one of many ways the new Lawn-Boy gives you your money's worth—here are some others:
Lightweight. Lawn-Boy is easier to push than conventional steel power mowers because Lawn-Boy is made of magnesium, a metal lighter than steel. It is unusually tough and is rust-proof.
Unique Grasscatcher. Lawn-Boy's Chute & Bag Grasscatcher vacuum cleans your lawn as you cut, eliminates raking. It's clog-proof; holds a bushel; detaches and empties in seconds.
2-speed Mowing. Lawn-Boy has 2-speed throttle control. High speed for tough cutting, low speed for quieter, more economical normal cutting.
New "D" Engine. Lawn-Boy's new engine has 3 horsepower (working horsepower, not bench-rated horsepower). It will even cut through wet grass without stalling.
2-Year Warranty. 24 months against defective parts and workmanship.
Let your Lawn-Boy Dealer show you the new Lawn-Boy soon, see for yourself why it's Canada's best-selling power mower. 5 models to choose from.

TOO GOOD TO LAST

241 VICTORIA is just too good to last. Opportunities to buy a modern ranch style bungalow in the central east are almost non-existent. Yet here is one that can be addressed from your realtor friends who know from facts and figures that the asking price is several thousand less than the cost of duplication. Custom built for a single owner with materials and extras seldom found. Four bedrooms, recreation room, two baths, 2,100 square feet of living area, 1,000 square feet of basement area. Sunday Cyclists at One Time A Leading Traffic Hazard

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the best ways to measure a man's wealth in this world is by the treasure trove of his memories.

You're pretty well - to - do, nostalgically speaking if you can remember where—

You sat on a curbstone at dusk, waiting for the lamp lighter to come by. . . Hoping he'd say "hello" to you.

Speeding Sunday bicyclists were a leading traffic hazard, and were gravely denounced by newspaper editorial writers as "scorchers" and "road burners."

Nobody took a bath except on Saturday night unless he was going to the dance at Odd Fellows Hall.

Remember?

It was a big thrill to go with your mother to a department store and ride on an escalator.

There was small need for teenage baby sitters as most families had an elder member — grandma, grandpa, or both — who could stay home and take care of the small fry.

A sack of popcorn and a movie ticket were the same price—10 cents.

Only the town miser kept his front door locked at night.

If you tried to give the postman a tip at Christmas, he felt insulted.

The peak of male devilishness was to stand with a group of young fellows outside the corner drug store and call out "oh, you kid" whenever a pretty girl passed by.

6TH SIDNEY—Mr. and Mrs. George Clare and boys, Thurlow and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wright, Ricky and Susan, Stirling, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Merlyn Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe called on Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe, Front Rd., on Sunday evening.

Mr. K. Faul, Mrs. M. Sine and Mrs. R. Dafoe accompanied Mrs. B. Bush to River Valley, on Wednesday, where Mrs. Bush is Worthy Matron of the Tweedsmuir Rebekah Assembly at the meeting held at 10 a.m. and carried over to 2.45 p.m.

Keeping West Berlin Alive, Flourishing Is Matter of Concern for West Leaders

By JOHN FIEHN

BERLIN (AP)—Keeping West Berlin alive and flourishing is a matter of constant concern for Western leaders. They speak of maintaining the city's viability in the face of Communist threats. That's economic jargon for the ability to survive.

Viability is one of "three essentials" the United States, Britain and France are committed to defend — by war if necessary. The others are free access to the city and continued presence of Western allied troops.

West Berlin is an outpost 110 miles inside Communist territory so its ability to survive economically depends entirely on its links with West Germany.

In 1948-49, the Soviets attempted to force communism on the West Berliners by starving them through a blockade. Stalin's plan was defeated by the Western airlift. But the Communist threat to the free part of this big city has never faded away.

MUST BE PROTECTED

Prof. Karl Schiller, head of West Berlin's economics department, says the city's economic ties to the West, along with free access and its protection by garrisons, are the pillars on which West Berlin's viability rests.

"Shake any of these pillars of viability and West Berliners will lose confidence in the future of their city — the city would die," said Schiller.

Experts calculate that West Berlin needs an annual injection of $175,000,000 to keep workers to remain economically viable.

West Berlin has a population of 2,175,000 and a labor force of 850,000. It lost almost 60,000 skilled workers overnight when the Communists closed the border and started building their wall Aug. 13, 1961. About 21,000 young West Germans have since come to work here.

With these imported laborers and through increased automation the loss of workers caused by the wall has been made good, city officials say.

LURE WORKERS

Part of $500,000,000 the West German government shells out annually to subsidize West Berlin is used in elaborate programs to attract young workers from West Germany.

Among the benefits people enjoy in this island city are a 25-per-cent cut in income tax, vacation money to help bridge added expenses resulting from long journeys to vacation resorts in the West and a $750 per term credit granted to newlyweds.

Everything consumed here must be imported. Raw materials and fuel for the city's electrical, machine building and garment industries must also travel across the territory of Communist - ruled East Germany before they reach Berlin.

In turn, 86 per cent of West Berlin's industrial output—worth $2,850,000,000 last year—is exported to West Germany and Western countries. Only 12 per cent is consumed by the city. Two per cent goes to the East bloc.

On the whole, West Berlin's economy, yardstick for the city's viability, hasn't fared badly since the Communists erected the wall. Statistics of the economics department show that the overall and industrial turnover, the gross social product and the city's tax income have climbed steadily.

BLAST REPLACES BRAWN — Prof. J. H. Ivy at a ball, is packed with an explosive charge. Cooper of the agricultural department of Montreal's Macdonald College, lights the fuse on his gunpowder axe. The cylinder, secured to the log with tion can split 10 logs into slabs which can be handled by pulp mills. (CP Photo)

Gun Powder Will Supplant Muscle for Log Splitting.

MONTREAL (CP) — Gunpowder supplants muscle power in a device under development here for use in the manly art of log splitting.

Professor J. H. Cooper of the agricultural engineering department at suburban Macdonald College is experimenting with a tubular axe that uses exploding gases as its cutting edge. His splitting gun, a miniature cannon that fires a blank charge, performs in a split second a job that takes a husky man with axe or wedge and sledge many minutes and much sweat. It makes short work of logs up to four feet in diameter and 12 feet long.

The problem he set out to solve was reducing big logs to sizes acceptable to pulp and paper mills without too much costly and tiring manpower.

Paper mills limit the size of logs they will accept to a diameter of 20 to 22 inches.

Prof. Cooper's preliminary answer is the splitting gun, a stubby steel tube with a rectangular flange at the muzzle end.

The muzzle is placed flush against the end of a horizontal log and held there with a single metal driven through a hole in the flange. A chain links the gun to a weight to limit the recoil.

Half a cup of gunpowder is tamped down with tissue-paper wadding. The charge is set off by a fuse.

The discharge pushes hot gases against the end of the log at pressures of 5,000 pounds per square inch. Something has to give as the gases jam into the end grain so the log splits into lengthwise sections.

The gun takes about four minutes to set up, load and fire in its present version. Prof. Cooper is continuing experiments in an effort to improve its efficiency and make modern Paul Bunyans obsolete.

APPOINTMENTS ALWAYS GIVEN TO PARTY MEMBERS

Political Favoritism Charge Is Heard

OTTAWA (CP) — The public recriminations between a Liberal cabinet minister and a former Conservative minister this week were another stage in a long-standing dispute over appointments to government boards and commissions.

Each new administration finds from time to time that jobs, many of them carrying five-figure salaries, become vacant through expiration of the term of appointment of a man placed there by a previous administration.

Generally the jobs are on the tariff board, the national energy board, the war veterans allowance board or the Canadian pension commission, to mention only a few of the bodies where the cabinet makes appointments without holding public competition open to all.

When a government replaces a man appointed by a previous administration the result often is an outcry implying that the outgoing appointee was sacrificed to political favoritism.

This week's case of Ken Macrae, Liberal member on the pension commission, which involved Veterans Minister Roger Teillet and former defence minister Churchill in a public dispute, was just one instance.

CAME UNDER FIRE

The Conservatives came under similar fire last fall over two Liberal appointees to the retroactive trade practices commission—C. Rhodes Smith and A. S. Whitelaw.

A number of Liberals have made no secret of their intention to try to have the appointment of a tariff board member revoked. The man involved is A. Dell McPhillips, Conservative MP from 1957 until 1962.

Surging Throngs Repulsed By Police Dogs, Water

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — New massive racial demonstrations were promised by Negro integration leaders today — a vow made in the wake of a day in which surging throngs were repulsed by police dogs and streams of water from fire hoses.

Yesterday (Thursday) was D-day in Birmingham, said Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., leader of the integration drive in this Deep South industrial centre. "Tomorrow (Saturday) will be Double D-day."

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, made the statement Friday night at a mass meeting of more than 1,000 persons at a Negro church.

The massed marchers Friday included hundreds of praying, chanting teen-agers. Five Negroes said they either were bitten by the leashed police dogs or were injured by the high-pressure streams of water from fire hoses.

Officers said two policemen were admitted to a hospital after being struck by rocks hurled by Negroes.

More than 250 Negroes were arrested Friday. Officers said 152 teen-agers were placed in the juvenile detention home, and more than 100 Negro adults were lodged in the city jail. More than 700 others were arrested Thursday in the resumption of the massive demonstrations.

The number of demonstrators taken into custody in the monthlong drive to desegregate public facilities now is nearly 1,400.

"Don't worry about your children who are in jail," the Negro leader said at Friday night's gathering. "They are being treated right because they are political prisoners . . . The eyes of the world are on Birmingham.

"We're going on in spite of dogs and fire hoses . . . we've gone too far to turn back now."

U.S. Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy said in Washington that he had been in contact with Negro and white leaders of Birmingham throughout Friday.

"I believe that everyone understands that their just grievances must be resolved," the attorney-general said.

"However, the timing of the present demonstrations is open to question. School children participating in street demonstrations is a dangerous business. An injured, maimed or dead child is a price that none of us can afford to pay."

Haiti's Ruler Imposes Curfew And Martial Law

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Neighboring Haiti teetered on the brink of a new explosion today as President Francois Duvalier declared martial law and imposed an 8 a.m. to 5 a.m. curfew.

No reason was given for the measures announced Friday night. Haitians feared swift new reprisals from Duvalier tightening his hold on the impoverished Negro republic to head off a threatened revolt May 15.

Impressive Demonstration Given Of New Westland Hovercraft

MONTREAL (CP)—The Westland Hovercraft, a flying machine that barely gets off the ground, gave an impressive showing of its ability Friday in its first public demonstration outside Europe.

The Hovercraft, so-called because it hovers on a cushion of air it pushes beneath it while airplane propellors drive it forward, skimmed over the surface of Lake St. Louis near Montreal at 75 miles an hour to demonstrate its uses as a high-speed ferry.

The machine, a development of Westland Aircraft Limited of Yeoville, Somerset, England, is also intended to be a practical transport for large flat areas like deserts and Canada's north.

Sir Eric Mensforth, Westland chairman, here to spearhead a concentrated 11-day sales drive, said production of the whole machine or some components might be arranged for Canada if the volume of sales on this continent are sufficient.

"We could arrange a licensing agreement if the volume merits it," he said. "Or we could produce the components that need extensive tooling in England, with the body structure and other parts needing less tooling made in Canada."

Seven RCAF Planes Ordered to Hay River But 850 Remaining May Sit Out Floods

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — Seven RCAF planes were ordered to Hay River, N.W.T., for another series of evacuations today but conflicting reports left doubt whether residents would leave the flood-battered community.

Grant Wagner, assistant northern affairs administrator for the Mackenzie District, said Friday night all residents still in the island town would be encouraged to leave.

However, at Hay River, 300 miles north of Edmonton, Mayor W. R. McBryan said the remaining 850 residents do not intend to vacate the settlement.

Hay River, a town of 1,800, was one of two centres flooded by water and ice this week when ice jams backed up water from spring thaws. The level of the Hay River climbed 20 feet above normal at its peak.

Friday the level dropped three feet, but pollution of water supplies and floating debris created a major health hazard.

Fort Simpson, 625 miles north of Edmonton and situated on an island at the confluence of the Mackenzie and Liard Rivers, was inundated Thursday.

More than 700 persons were evacuated from the town by helicopter and carried to a mainland airport a short distance away. About 80 per cent of the town was under water and ice was piled 20 feet above the main street.

Mr. Wagner said Arthur Laing, northern affairs minister, decided to ask residents to leave Hay River, 117 miles southeast of here, after an eight hour tour of the community.

He added the minister made the decision after talking to three medical officers who said the entire island was under threat to health hazards created by the flood.

About 400 persons are in the town, Mr. Wagner said.

Mayor McBryan said 850 persons are in Hay River and added that Mr. Laing at no time discussed complete evacuation of the town.

He said:

"A meeting was held on enlist the support of the minister to assist us in getting our town moved on to the mainland south of Vale Island, a distance of three miles from the present site.

"A strong representation was made that this move should be made as soon as possible and not to spend large sums of money restoring the damaged buildings on Vale Island as they are subject to flood conditions that could happen at the next breakup season or any season thereafter."

MOVE DEBATED

Movement of the town from the island has been the subject of debate among town residents since December.

Mr. McBryan agreed that recent investigations revealed water in ditches in Hay River "carried live virus from our sewage system."

He added: "We do not intend to vacate the island. We have requested the support of the government in moving the town for protection of people who invest their money in it."

Mr. Wagner said all those remaining on the island who have no direct business interest there will be evacuated to Edmonton. Those with business interests who wish to remain in the area will be quartered in a trailer camp at Enterprise, a federal government camp on the Mackenzie Highway, 28 miles south of Hay River.

Mr. Laing said in an interview here after his return from Hay River: "Our chief concern is for safety and health conditions and that the citizens be made sure time, as comfortable as possible."

He said he had made no decision about declaring the island towns a disaster area.

"I would not recommend any action until I have seen Fort Simpson."

Mr. Laing was to fly to Fort Simpson today.

He returns to his Vancouver home Sunday and reports to the cabinet. He plans to leave for Ottawa Monday.

Fort Simpson was flooded when ice on the Mackenzie broke the flood-swollen Liard.

As in Hay River, numerous homes and buildings were swept from their foundations. A $2,500,000 federal school and hostel Friday was reported safe and above water.

Temperatures at both centres held at about 20 degrees above zero and skies were clear. No casualties have been reported.

Dismantle Bomb Minutes Before Explosion Due

MONTREAL (CP) — After receiving a series of silence, Quebec's bombing terrorists, Le Front de Liberation Quebecoise, appears to have renewed its campaign of violence.

Friday a bomb was dismantled in a post office building in the heart of Montreal's financial district two minutes before it was to go off. A note left by letters FLQ were pasted to the wall nearby.

The bomb scare in Montreal Friday was in the Aldred Building, headquarters of Aircan, a historic square just off St. James Street.

SEARCH TWO FLOORS

Police received an anonymous call that a bomb was planted on the 14th storey of the building. Office workers were evacuated from the 13th and 14th floors, but a search showed nothing and the workers were allowed to return.

Some employees police entered a washroom and noted the letters FLQ splashed on the wall.

A shoebox containing three sticks of dynamite and a timing mechanism was found in a locker.

After several tense minutes, Mr. Montpetit police force's bomb expert, Sgt. Leo Plouffe, dismantled the bomb at 3.28 p.m., two minutes before it was timed to explode.

FILES DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Jacques Bergerac has filed for divorce from actress Dorothy Malone, a day after she sued him for divorce. Bergerac charged in his suit Friday that Miss Malone moved out of their Beverly Hills home Thursday with their children, Mimi, 3, and Diane, 14 months.

Convicts Confined to Cells, Search Prison for Knives

MONTREAL (CP)—All convicts at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary were confined to their cells Friday as prison officers began an all-out search for weapons following Thursday's stabbing death of a guard.

Two convicts held Guard Raymond Pellier hostage at knife point in an attempt to bargain for a transfer to Manitoba's Stony Mountain Penitentiary. One convict was killed and the other wounded when police rushed the pair. Pellier died minutes later from loss of blood.

Warden Michel LeCorre said the unusual step of keeping convicts in their cells will continue until the prison has been secured ligh-by-lich for weapons.

"If they have knives we'll find them," he said.

"If we don't find all the knives, we'll at least force them to get rid of them by flushing them down toilets or something."

Killed was Marcel Marcoux, 36. His cousin Claude Marcoux, 21, was wounded.

But, the warden said, the big question was why the convicts had slashed and stabbed Pellier if they wanted a transfer.

"We don't understand that. It doesn't seem to be revenge—they had no special reason to deal with that guard. He just came by at the time.

"I don't mind discussing a transfer with inmates. But only if they don't touch the guard. Yesterday they had stabbed him before I even arrived."

GREATER EXPORT SALES EXPECTED BY EXERCISE

Full Extent Will Never Be Known

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's annual "operation world markets" ended Friday amid expectations that it has generated a strong new push for greater export sales.

"It has been a good exercise, and we're very pleased," said Leslie Brown, assistant deputy trade minister in charge of export development.

The full extent of new exports generated by the promotion drive can never be known.

But the 130-man force of Canadian importers and trade commissioners, who spent the last three weeks here interviewing Canadian importers and foreign exporters, will be returning to their posts with a mountain of new work—new products to promote and fresh business leads to develop.

The overall operation cost an estimated $600,000, and trade officials say they are confident the money was well spent.

Much of it went towards flying foreign buyers to Canada in two waves in late March—some

Robert Killins Latest Victim In Friday's Carnage

Man Suffered Fatal Hammer Wound in Head

CASTLETON, Ont. (CP) — A former clergyman in hospital under armed police guard following the shotgun slaying of his wife, two daughters and sister died in Cobourg Hospital Friday night.

Robert Killins, 56, a diabetic was admitted to hospital in serious condition with a severe hammer wound to his head after police stopped his car a few minutes after the shootings in this hamlet 82 miles east of Toronto Thursday night.

His wife Florence, 50, an eight-month pregnant daughter Mrs. Pearl Campbell, 19; another daughter Patricia, 6, and his unmarried sister, Gladys, 60, of Parry Sound, were gunned down as the killer blasted his way through three houses discharging two automatic pistols and then a shotgun loaded with deer pellets.

Fred Campbell, 20, husband of Pearl, Thomas Major, 50, of Sudbury miner, and Peter Miller, 20, a Toronto school teacher, were wounded in the fray as they tried to disarm the man.

Killins' two other children, Margaret, 13, and Brian, 10 were in satisfactory condition in hospital suffering from shock.

Police today said an inquest will be held next week.

Police were called to the scene when Major, bleeding from bullet wounds in the head and neck, stumbled into the general store here.

Killins lapsed into a coma soon after police stopped his car and he did not regain consciousness. Doctors said he was also suffering from a gangerous leg and described his diabetic condition as "out of control."

Doctors were not immediately able to determine what caused his diabetic condition.

10 years, Killins refused to let doctors amputate his leg two years ago.

Neighbors said Killins, a United Church minister in British Columbia until 1944, moved here about 15 years ago, eventually building three houses for his family.

They said Killins moved out of the home several years ago and started to farm. A fourth house he built for himself. Major moved here a week ago.

KILLS WOMAN

Major said he and Mrs. Killins were sitting in a room in her house when the killer burst in and opened fire with two automatic pistols. He said he

31 ARE KILLED AS BRAZILIAN PLANE CRASHES

17 Snatched Alive From Blazing Wreck

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Officials counted 31 dead today in the crash of a Brazilian airliner which plowed into a heavily built up area but left only an unoccupied apartment building.

At least 20,000 persons rushed to the scene seriously hampering rescue efforts. Several were reported killed when a fire truck slammed into part of the surging crowd.

Despite the throng, 17 persons were snatched alive from the blazing wreckage and taken to hospitals. One person was missing from the 44 passengers and five crew members aboard the two-engined Convair.

The plane plunged to earth shortly after takeoff Friday night. Witnesses said the plane, belonging to Cruzeiro do Sul, caught fire, exploded in the air and plunged to earth.

It broke up in the air and part of it rammed an apartment building under construction. It sheared off a large section of the structure and reduced it to rubble.

One of those who died was James Goia Hughes, a Uruguayan citizen, who was director of General Electric in Brazil.

TV COMIC DIES

Other passengers were Brazilian Deputy Miguel Bahury and television comic Rena K. Conserva.

Of those in hospital, 13 were reported to be in critical condition.

The plane was in trouble from the time it took off for Belo Horizonte, 250 miles northeast.

"The right engine was burning," said a witness, Emilton Batista, an airline employee. He said, "God, it's going to explode. Then it did."

He said the plane went straight down.

It split up with sections spread over an area of more than 5,000 square feet.

It was the sixth major Brazilian plane crash since Nov. 1. In the previous six accidents, 184 persons were killed.

Italian Voters Explain Why, Though Catholics, They Vote Red

ROME (AP)—A student at the University of Rome looked up from his book and said:

"Sure, I voted Communist. The Socialists have been playing footsie with Fanfani and I don't go for that.

"I think this country needs a real move to the left, not these phony half measures. that's why."

A housewife in Florence explained:

"My husband is a Communist. I used to vote for the Socialists because I was afraid I would be excommunicated if I voted Communist. But Pope John said the Communists aren't so terrible, so I voted for them this time just like my husband."

There is no easy answer why, in a Roman Catholic country enjoying its biggest economic boom, 7,700,000 people—25 per cent of the electorate—voted Communist.

Many beneficiaries of the boom, including technicians and articulate white collar workers, don't turn away from communism because of prosperity.

They consider that the Communist party, with strength in the labor unions and pressure on management, has in fact been responsible for helping workers.

Communist ranks have also been filled by migrants who left the south who left their poor villages for jobs in the industrial north. They left behind their contacts with village priests who work to keep parishioners behind the Christian Democrats.

In the big cities of the north migrant workers found well-organized Communist unions eager to help.

Said a southerner: "I was starving in Sicily. The Christian Democrats never got me a job. I came up here and the Communists found work for me.

"They helped me, I helped them. Don't get me wrong, though. I'm still Catholic."

Beverly Davies 18, Belleville Student, Wins Trip to U.K. For Entry in Science Fair

Toronto (CP) — A Belleville girl, and a Winnipeg youth Friday won all expenses paid two-week trip to England for their prize-winning entries in the second annual Canada-wide science fair.

Beverly Davies, 18, and Andrew Hardtman, 17, will fly to London to attend the annual International Youth Science Fortnight late in July-Aug. 3.

Their exhibits were outstanding among 83 entries.

Beverly, a Grade 12 student with hopes of becoming a commercial artist, exhibited a home-made furnace capable of burning at 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit and a wide-variety of glazes she produced in experiments in the last 12 months.

Beverly, daughter of an auto mechanic, at first seemed overawed by her fortune, but soon was breathlessly explaining her experiments to many of the estimated 300 persons who attended the exhibition.

The entries covered astronomy, botany, chemistry, applied engineering, geology, mathematics, medicine and health, physics and zoology.

An ingenious entry which failed to win an award was a demonstration by Peter Steiner, 14, of Toronto, of three new methods of removing salt from sea and brackish inland water.

The winners in the science fair included Willen Wassenaar of Sarnia, who took third in biological sciences.

Mary Allison of Morrisburg was third in the biological sciences class for girls.

In physical sciences, Layne Montgomery, Sault Ste. Marie was third in the class for boys.

In the special awards class, Mary Allison, Morrisburg, won an award by the Canadian Dental Association.

General proficiency awards went to Gary Rathwell, Kingston and Barry J. Davidson, Niagara Falls.

Miss Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Davies, is a grade 12 student at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School and this term is studying chemistry.

She entered her exhibit on ceramic glazes in the Science Fair at the Collegiate in February and as the first prize winner was entitled to enter in the all-Canada science fair competition.

Her chemistry teacher, Glen Shaver, was instrumental in starting the BCI science fair a few years ago.

"It is very good indeed," stated Collegiate Principal E. Arnold Orr this morning. "Beverly had a very good exhibit and we are happy that she has won the all-Canada championship."

Theatre Guild Escapes Blackout Of First Night at Its New Home

The show will go on tonight at the Belleville Theatre Guild's new third-floor theatre at 224 Front St., above Lattimer's Drug Store. But for a while it looked as though it wouldn't. Guild members preparing for tonight's presentation, "An Evening With The Arts", an invitation - only affair planned to launch the new theatre, were told yesterday they couldn't have any special lights. Ontario Hydro Inspector Al Clowes first gave only temporary approval to only part of the wiring, and city fire inspector Albert Powell had ruled that only those lights previously installed in the building could be used. The show could go on under those conditions, but the two one-act plays and the poetry reading planned for the evening depend on special lighting effects.

A complete series of near-midnight phone calls finally solved the problem. It all began when Theatre Guild president Mrs. Marion Wilson telephoned Alderman Jack Ellis, with a plea for city council interest. Alderman Ellis couldn't promise help, but did phone Fire Department Inspector Bob Darvell, and asked Mr. Darvell to phone Ontario Hydro Inspector Glover. Then Alderman Ellis phoned the hydro inspector, the hydro inspector phoned the fire inspector, the fire inspector phoned Alderman Ellis and Alderman Ellis phoned Mrs. Wilson.

The end result was that everybody was pleased, it was all a mistake. The fire department inspector had checked the hydro inspector's temporary approval of part of the lighting, but he had seen a lot more lighting in the theatre than had been approved.

Definite Swing To Apartment Living Is Seen

A definite swing to apartment living is in the offing for Belleville if the guesses of construction promoters are correct.

In the past two or three years there has been an increasing percentage of apartments constructed, both of the six plex" variety and more elaborate structures with up to 20 or more units.

And if rumor is correct there is no lessening of the trend.

Reports are that plans are underway for the construction of an elaborate apartment structure on the former Lister property on Victoria Ave., immediately east of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Sale of the property recently completed by Whalen Real Estate.

And there is rumor of still another apartment structure being planned for further along Victoria Ave., although details of the proposed sale are said not yet to be completed.

25 PERMITS ISSUED

The month of April was a fairly good month for residential construction in the city.

There were permits for 25 dwelling units including one multi-family structure, taken out at city hall with a construction value of $196,300.

All told the month's building list amounted to 46 permits with a total value of $326,087. Major commercial construction is a permit for $25,000 for an addition to the Belleville Lumber in the east end of the city and the major institutional permit was for a new church structure at Farley and Bridge costing $88,900.

This luncheon was given under the auspices of the Quinte belles Chapter of Sweet Adelines, at the request of the SPEBSQSA and was convened by Muriel Johnson with her committee of Joan Hale, Katherine Mills, June Brown, Phyllis Chambers, Elspeth Read and Mildred Weymark.

The ladies enjoyed much to add to the enjoyment of the Barbershoppers.

Geo. N. Gorman Dies in Hospital, Ill Long Time

Resident of this city for the past 23 years and well known in newspaper and real estate circles, George Nelson Gorman, 163 William Street, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Friday. He was in his 87th year, and had been seriously ill for the past three weeks.

Born in Warkworth, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen R. Gorman and was educated in Belleville schools.

As a young man he went to the Canadian West and lived in both Winnipeg and Calgary, working as salesman for the Canada Cement Company for a number of years.

He returned to Belleville in 1931 and the editorial department of The Ontario Intelligencer where for many years he wrote the "Looking Backwards" column.

He also became active as a real estate broker and operated the Belleville Location real estate firm. For the past few years he had lived retired. He was highly respected in this community.

A member of St. Thomas Anglican Church. He took an active interest in the work of the church, serving for several terms as church warden. He also attended as a lay delegate the Synod for the Diocese of Ontario.

His wife, the former Maude Kennedy Arnold, predeceased him in 1950.

He is survived only by one niece, Mrs. Edward (Lola) Hughes, of this city.

City Restaurant Chef Arrested After Fire Probe

A three-month probe by Belleville police and provincial fire investigators that reached across the Quebec border has resulted in the arrest of a city restaurant chef.

And police say more arrests are pending.

Charged with attempted fraud is 58-year-old Spiros (Kristos) Chistodoulatos, a cook at the Cozy Grill on the city's Front Street.

He was taken in custody Friday by city detectives in connection with a fire at 18 Victoria Avenue February 4th, where Chistodoulatos and his family were second-floor tenants.

The fire, discovered close to midnight, seriously damaged Chistodoulatos' apartment. A ground-floor apartment, rented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and a barbershop in the same building received smoke and water damage as firefighters fought to contain the blaze to the upper storey.

Immediately after, Fire Chief Gerald Vance sealed off the building and called in the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office. Since then, investigators, working with city detectives, have been probing the incident.

Yesterday, city police inspector J. B. Malcolm said investigations had moved as far afield as Shawinigan, Quebec. Earlier this week search warrants were executed in Shawinigan and "certain items" recovered, said the inspector.

"Our investigations are still going on and more arrests are pending," he added.

Four Children Burned to Death At Sudbury

SUDBURY (CP)—Four children ranging in age from five years to nine days died early today when fire struck their frame home.

Two other children were rescued by passersby who snatched them from a porch roof of the two-storey house as flames shot through a bedroom window.

The dead, children of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Neville: Claudia, 9; Willy, 5; Brenda, 2, and Sandra, nine days.

Claudia might have been saved along with Garnett Gilbert, 8, and his six-year-old brother Bobby, but the girl wouldn't leave the roof because she was wearing only her panties.

The Gilbert boys are children of Mrs. Helen Gilbert, believed to be Mrs. Neville's sister. The women escaped the flames, but Mrs. Gilbert suffered burns to her face and arms.

The victims' father was working at the international Nickel Company mine in adjacent Copper Cliff when the blaze broke out at 4 a.m.

All the children were on the second floor. The Gilbert boys crawled through a window on the porch roof and were rescued by Maurice Menard and William Kusyk, who had heard the women cry for help.

HEARD BABY CRY

Garnett said he woke up when he heard the baby cry.

"I saw smoke and then flames. My brother and I crawled out a window on to the roof.

"Then I saw Claudie and called to her to come out. She told me she wouldn't because she only had her panties on. Then, she when she tried to get out, she couldn't, the fire caught her."

Cause of the fire was not known. Fire Chief Bob Jones said it began in the kitchen.

Menard said that when he and Kusyk ran to the house Mrs. Neville was screaming "my babies are inside."

"I pulled the women to the street. Then I found a ladder and climbed up to the roof and threw the two kids down to Kusyk.

"Flames shot out the window seconds later as if they'd come from a blowtorch."

The Gilbert boys' father was killed in a highway accident last winter. Their brother was drowned in a nearby lake last summer.

The Yellow Peril Brings Power Reality to India

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

NEW DELHI (AP) — Dusty men in turbans chipped away at a brick wall and it tumbled into the narrow bazaar street of old Delhi. A symbol of the Chinese danger was gone.

The wall had been built six months earlier at the peak of the fear that Communist China might send planes over the capital of India. Delhi municipal corporation spent 150,000 rupees on the sidewalks with walls to protect pedestrians from bomb splinters.

Some were made of substandard cement and crumbled by themselves. Now the rest are coming down.

Slit trenches dug in grassy parks are filling up with refuse.

Fear of a Chinese attack has lessened since the Chinese began April 10 to return Indians taken prisoner in the Chinese invasion last autumn.

The formal state of emergency remains on the government books but on the surface little difference is visible between India before Oct. 20 and today, two months after the Chinese attack.

NOT A MAJOR THREAT

But there is a major change in the image that India holds of itself and that others have of this ancient nation. The image reflects the internal change of mood.

FEAR: IMAGE

The image had been that of a frail man, Mohandas Gandhi, who preached a non-violent approach to a hostile world, and of his lieutenant, Jawaharlal Nehru, who told the world to be less hostile.

India was a nation that tried to solve others' problems. It specialized in telling the west that Communists were not really so bad if treated decently.

It urged others to settle disputes by peaceful means.

But although India seized Goa from Portugal in December, 1961, Prime Minister Nehru still talked as if the world could be place of peaceful international cooperation.

Nehru could not believe the dispute with China over 51,000 square miles of rugged Himalayan borderlands would destroy the friendship of the two most populous nations on earth. But the Chinese attacked.

We were living in an artificial atmosphere of our own creation and we have been shocked out of it," Nehru admitted.

The new reality for India became power. Walking the tightrope of non-alignment was revealed to require not only a delicate sense of balance but also steely muscles. India lacked muscles.

NEEDED SPIRIT

Acquiring them meant developing a patriotic spirit. It came when Nehru told India's 481,000,000 people that the nation was threatened by the invasion, despite some officials' thinking all along that the Chinese had only limited objectives.

"People rallied together in the name of the motherland that they had previously ignored in preference for regional linguistic and caste loyalties which cut India into dozens of pieces. "We finally got the kind of nationalism that flowered in 19th century Europe," an Indian historian commented.

Acquiring muscles also meant turning to anyone abroad who would provide weapons. The only significant help has come from the United States, Britain, Canada and Australia.

Nehru says India still remains non-aligned. One reason is a desire to keep the Soviet Union friendly in the hope it will not help China much even if it does not help India any more than the token shipment of four MIG - 21 jet fighters promised before the Chinese attack.

The Indian people rallied to the war effort at the beginning with a spirit that amazed many. Widows gave their tiny savings, laborers earning two rupees (about 42 cents) a day gave a bit and students sought jobs to earn money to contribute to the national defense fund.

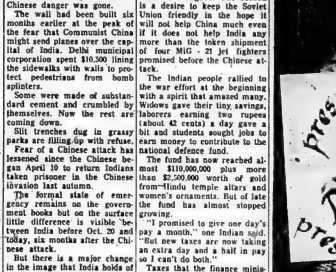
The fund has now reached almost $110,000,000 plus more than $2,500,000 worth of gold from Hindu temple altars and women's ornaments. But of late the fund has almost stopped growing.

"I promised to give one day's pay a month," one Indian said. "But new taxes are now taking an extra day and a half in pay so I can't do both."

Taxes that finance mining rly long wanted to impose to raise money for economic development but hesitated to act because of political repercussions which have been imposed. The emergency has made them acceptable with relatively little grumbling.

Nehru emphasizes the money will indirectly go into development which was lagging behind plans even before the Chinese attacked. Nehru says defence means building up many of the same industries that are needed for the economy as a whole.

Expect Sailors Will Back Banks In Lakes 'War'



WASHINGTON (CP) — Hal Bank's battle against the Canadian Labor Congress and the Upper Lakes Shipping Company of Toronto comes up for scrutiny before the biennial convention of the 75,000-member Seafarers International Union of North America next week and a SIU officer said Banks likely will get a ringing endorsement from the rank and file delegates.

The five-day convention opens Monday with SIU President Paul Hall of New York, Executive Vice-President Banks of Montreal and other executive members up for re-election for another two - year term. All signs indicated the executive will be ushered back in without much of a struggle.

Herb Brand, SIU information officer, said Hall fully endorses Banks and the picketing and boycotting of the Upper Lakes ships which he anticipates will continue. Banks has drawn strong support from the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department in demanding that the Toronto shipp nirbmilgarekoff Toronto shipping firm break off relations with the CLC — supported Canadian Maritime Union and sign an agreement with the SIU.

A WHISTLE BLOWING, SLOGAN SHOUTING, TUB THUMPING RALLY surged through the halls of B.C.I.V.S. yesterday in the climax of a week-long campaign to elect the executive of next year's Student Council.

A MODEST CONTRIBUTION TO CHAOS during the crescendo of the B.C.I.V.S. Student Council Executive elections yesterday was made by 16-year-old Jill Lafferty, a grade 10 student. She was campaigning for Don Brearley, the winning presidential candidate.

Donald Brearley to Head Student Council at BCI

Donald Brearley, of 236 McDonald Ave., Belleville, was elected president of the 1963-1964 Student Council at the BCIVS yesterday. Also elected to the executive of next year's Student Council during the noon-hour voting were: Mary Beth Folwell, vice-president; Connie Stovell, second vice-president; Francis Potter, recording secretary; Jane Swan, corresponding secretary and George Hogan, treasurer.

Class representatives to next year's Student Council will be chosen by each class at the beginning of the school year in September.

Yesterday's vote climaxed a week-long campaign by two candidates for president, three for the two vice-presidencies, and two candidates for each of the recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer offices. Unlike the "Student Parliament" system, under which candidates affiliate themselves into parties, the BCIVS candidates campaign as individuals. All the campaigns wound up together, just before the vote yesterday, in a slogan shouting, whistle blowing, tub thumping rally that surged through the halls of the school.

Canadian Club in New York Located in Waldorf Astoria

By CARMAN CUMMING

NEW YORK (CP)—Eighteen floors up in the Waldorf-Astoria, a small extension of Canada seems to exist in a world of its own.

The Canadian Club of New York, with 1,933 members and one billiard table, this year marks its 60th anniversary as a social club for Canadian expatriates and Americans who have close ties with Canada.

It's probably the largest Canadian social club of its kind, says Hugh A. Anderson, a long-time member and officer who edits the club's quarterly journal, The Maple Leaf.

"Fortunately, all the members are never here at one time."

This isn't surprising since less than half actually live in the New York area and the remainder are widely scattered. There are 142 in Toronto, for example; 134 in Montreal; 14 in California.

They're made up of Canadians who frequently visit New York; Americans who frequently visit Canada — professional men, politicians, businessmen with interests on both sides of the border.

STAY AT CLUB

At the club they can meet friends and associates, relax in the quiet luxury of Canadian newspapers and magazines in a small library. They can entertain in the large and richly furnished dining room or even hold private dinners. They can put up—for a maximum of six nights—in one of the club's 34 bedrooms and two suites that become at rates slightly reduced from the Waldorf's stiff schedules.

In all there are 366 members from Canada, and the club is frankly eager to attract more.

"We'd like to get more Canadian members—that's what the club is really for," says Anderson, a retired theatrical writer and producer.

"You have to have a little money to do it, to be candid," he adds.

Fees for visiting members are $100 for initiation and $75 annually in direct membership living within 50 miles of the club pay exactly twice as much.

In general, ownership membership is restricted to Canadians, sons of Canadians or persons from other parts of the Commonwealth. Americans and others are classed as associate members, and their number is not allowed to exceed 50 per cent of the total membership.

A MIXTURE

The club rooms are an interesting mixture of things Canadian and things American, of conservative luxury and relaxed comfort.

The waiters are American and the menu is in French. But the table conversation swings on Ottawa politics and the price of newsprint in Quebec.

In the main lounge, a high-ceilinged room with deep carpeting and comfortable wing chairs, the atmosphere is opulent but casual. Around all the walls are paintings by Canadians of Canadian scenes including one from each province.

—Mount Riesbenver in Alberta, a view of the Parliament buildings from across the Ottawa River, King Square in Saint John, N.B.

The small reading room next to the lounge is dominated by a portrait of Sir John A. Macdonald, along with smaller pictures of the other Canadian prime ministers. In the games room, with the lone billiard table and a scattering of card tables, not a member is in sight. The tap room along the corridor is more popular.

LESS TIPPLING

But the members are not the tipplers they once were, Anderson says, with no noticeable regret.

He recalls one particularly hilarious night in the '20s that ended with an attempt to telephone and kick off Adolf Hitler. It didn't succeed until Anderson, steeping it off in the small hours of the morning, was awakened by an operator who connected the line for an impolite and expensive conversation with Martin Bormann, Hitler's aide.

The club's complexion has altered in other ways over the years. At one time, with members living near or actually in the club, dinner and an evening at the club were the regular thing.

Now many members live well out in the suburbs and come to the club for lunch.

While the club counts itself 60 years old, its roots actually go back to 1885, when a Canadian Club founded by Ernest Wiman, a native of Churchill, Ont., was granted a charter by New York State.

It lapsed late in the century but was revived in 1903 by William T. Robson of Lindsay, Ont., and a group of Canadian friends in New York.

It met in various places—including one club with a rental of $2 a night—before obtaining regular quarters in 1917. The present quarters at the Waldorf were obtained in 1931.

Old-Fashioned Gospel

Mrs. Commissioner Wycliffe Booth was a voice crying in the wilderness of easy payments when she addressed the Salvation Army's Women's Home League rally here last week.

"If you want a mind free from worry do not go into debt," urged the wife of the national head of the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Booth preached an old fashioned gospel, contentment. Raised against her is all the skill of New York's Madison Avenue and its side-streets and alleys to be found in every centre of any size throughout the civilized world.

Mrs. Booth had another argument besides the worrisome nature of debts. "Buying in installments eats up the living," she declared.

Strangely enough, Mrs. Booth would appear to be on sounder ground in the realm of economics than in that of human nature. Debt is a worrying thing, but people can worry about what they have not got, just as much as about what they have got. If one possesses the self-control to learn contentment with little goods, one could probably even achieve contentment amidst many debts.

But when she points out that installment buying is expensive buying, Mrs. Booth is on unassailable ground. She is bulwarked by all the mechanics of compound interest.

Even here, though, human nature makes a minor breach in the argument. The trouble with saving money by avoiding installment payments is that one is continually tempted to fritter away its gains. The argument which life insurance salesmen invoke so frequently, that the necessity of meeting a premium payment forces one to save, applies too to installment payments.

Perhaps, however, we should remember the nature of the audience which Mrs. Booth was addressing. Members of the Salvation Army seem to be immune to that temptation to go "out on the town" whenever one spare dollar rubs against another in the family wallet. For them, avoiding installment buying should bring a monetary rewards. For the rest of us, even if the monetary reward fail to materialise, there are other fringe benefits—when our pockets do jingle we can afford to mingle.

University a "Burden?"

The Toronto Telegram says that Toronto's taxpayers are paying more than their fair share of the costs of education in Ontario.

It arrives at this conclusion from the fact that University of Toronto property assessed at $57,100,000 is exempt from municipal taxes. The Telegram argues that at a rate of 65 mills this assessment would yield $3,711,500 in taxes.

The Toronto paper admits that this presence of the university in the city offsets these losses to a certain extent." It argues, however, that the benefits are intangibles which are incalculable "and it would be foolish to attempt to strike a balance sheet."

Instead, it wants the Provincial Government to award the city a reasonable grant in lieu of taxes.

This whole business of exemptions from municipal taxation is very involved. Yet, if a case can be made out for any exemptions at all, surely it is strongest in the case of such an institution as the University of Toronto.

It may be argued that the benefits which the Telegram calls "intangibles", (the money which staff and students spend for accommodation, food, books, clothes and entertainment and the money the university spends on salaries, equipment and maintenance), are precisely the same benefits which any municipality would receive from an industry or store located within its borders. These benefits do not entitle the industry or store to tax exemption; why, it may be asked, should the same benefits be considered adequate reason for tax exemption for a university?

There is, however, one very big difference. Insofar as the students come from outside Toronto, the money they are spending there has been earned outside the city. It is being diverted from the local economies of urban centres and rural districts throughout the province. The very least which Toronto could do in return for this bonanza would be to accept cheerfully the "burden" of being a university city.

Works Both Ways

Dr. S. E. Jensen, psychiatrist-director of the York County Mental Clinic, says that pregnancy is not an adequate reason for marriage.

Most people will agree with this view. But the world in which it is advanced make it sound as if marriage is a form of punishment, too severe to be inflicted because of a mere pregnancy.

To balance the scales, let us add that marriage is not always an adequate reason for pregnancy.

Ottawa Offbeat

Dief Confusing Pros in New Role of Quiet Reservation

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — What is it that so suddenly happens to a Prime Minister when he becomes Opposition Leader as to almost make him invisible?

It is as if the bottom of the world opened up and he dropped out, to orbit in lonely space, unseen and unheard.

In those first few frantic action-packed days of Prime Minister Pearson's new Liberal administration, former Conservative Prime Minister Diefenbaker disappeared — not only from the nation's front pages where for six interesting and often exciting years he had taken so much headline space — but also, it seemed, from Parliament Hill itself.

For Dief, so long the political showman, used to the glare and stare of the public spotlight and loving every moment of it — this was an astonishing vanishing act.

He was holed up, hermit-like, in the Opposition Leader's Centre Block office, arriving early, along about seven in the morning before Parliament Hill was astir with staff, and leaving late, long after the Civil Service goes for the day.

WRITTEN WORD

And what was keeping him so quietly busy and so unusually out of sight?

Writing thousands — and I mean just that, thousands — of "thank you" notes," confided a bored aide, who used to the frenzied pace of a Prime Minister's office and not yet allowed down to the dull, routine pace of an Opposition Leader's way of official life.

"Seems almost like he's determined to personally thank every last person he thinks voted for him and also, I must note, even to it means wearing his arm down to the elbow."

For the curious Diefenbaker signature scrawl, an assembly line of three secretaries has been making sure of sending the "thank you's."

That Dief, the old political pro, should be at quiet loss for this is not particularly strange — for personal and party loyalty is made of such stuff as recognition and appreciation of kind attentions.

But that Dief, for a lifetime the flamboyant extrovert — even, some said, exhibitionist — the political medicine man — should go into what was almost a public eclipse, was odd indeed.

Here was the extravagantly dramatic Dief, silent, at least, as the Sphinx.

And there's the quiet, modest, almost shy introvert — Lester, some said — suddenly the political medicine man — should go into what was almost a public eclipse, was odd indeed.

Here was the extravagantly dramatic Dief, silent, at least, as the Sphinx.

And there's the quiet, modest, almost shy introvert — Lester, some said — suddenly finding news all over the front page.

The usually blase Capital, now pop-eyed over it all, has never seen such an amazing double transformation.

BIG CHANCES

Much more seems involved than the changing of jobs and offices by the two leaders.

And that is drastic enough.

The world really stands to be apparent change in the men themselves.

John Diefenbaker has been in Opposition before, in fact, after spending all of his public life in Parliament, the wilderness, even became its leader.

And he was a tiger then.

On his "second days," when he was hot, he could "top" any Prime Minister, including the formidable old foeman MacKenzie King, in making the news.

What is the matter with Dief?

Let "Uncle Louis" make a public pronouncement of importance, deliver a speech in the Commons or otherwise appear — with dignity — in the public eye, and somehow Dief would not, Dief would steal the spotlight with something dramatic, expertly pulled out of the pocket at last just before afternoon newspaper "final" edition time across Ontario and Quebec time.

Dief knew the news headlines in every province from between Atlantic and Pacific, and if he had something to say with that invaluable regional set, he let it still, "local angle," he knew just how and when to let go.

And now so uncharacteristically silent, gone, as if it all had been in invisible printers' ink from the news columns.

AN AMBUSH?!

Just scant months ago, Mike Pearson used to be afraid — some said terrified — of John Diefenbaker. For Dief had cut him up with such cruelty in the Commons that Conservatives, the old Nanaimo CCFer, accused him of turning the House into a political "abbatoir."

It seemed to leave a scar on Mike Pearson made this gentle and retiring man almost timid.

But now the scar seemed to be on the other psyche, and here was Prime Minister Pearson talking confidently, even boasting, of what he called "Sixty blazing days of dynamic decision" — and in the opening weeks, going like mad to make it all come true.

Men who have known them both for years looked at the dashing, daring, dramatic "new" Pearson and the tired, troubled, timid "new" Diefenbaker and wondered how long it could last.

Was it still really the "old" Dief, cunningly preparing an ambush?

When the Commons opened now in only 13 more days — would the fire be dynamic, the words "Sixty blazing days of dynamic decision" for how long can dynamism throw such dazzling sparks?

You hear tales — going undenied — that Dief, still the old fighting Dief, is not 10 feet each day in the Commons, hand on hip, eyes flaming, lip curled, finger stabbing across accusingly at the frozen Prime Minister, and dramatically intoning:

"It's Day Twenty Six—Sixty Minus Twenty Six — what have they done today?"

And so it might go until the Prime Minister's "Action Clock" runs out and it's "Day Sixty."

"Sixty Minus Sixty — what have they done today?" Time's up June 18. It could be quite a day.

TV Ratings Inaccurate

Financial Post

The American TV industry and its clients, the advertisers, have been jolted into a time by a current Congressional inquiry. It has turned up evidence that some TV ratings, audience estimates on which advertising rates are based, can be wildly inaccurate.

Rating is a multi-million dollar business with more than a dozen big firms involved. They use the pollsters' sampling technique that has proved fairly reliable in election. It is perhaps just possible to believe a rating company's assertion that a sample of only 1,200 homes can provide a true picture of the viewing habits of 180 million Americans.

But faith in this statistical legerdemain was rudely shaken by witnesses at the inquiry. One businessman testified that, for the same program at the same hour, two of the big firms, Hooper, Pulse and Nielsen, gave him ratings (respectively) of 43 per cent, 29 per cent and 5 per cent of the audience.

As advertisers often choose a station or program on the strength of a fractional difference in rating, it is clear that they can be led far astray. Some comments on ratings at the Washington hearings: "A con game," "very close to over-the-counter," "to be taken with a barrel of salt," "hit or miss," "a colossal and meaningless fraudulence."

The TV people — and no wonder — are shaken as they have not been shaken since the scandal of the rigged quiz shows broke in 1959.

Years ago the figures on newspaper circulation were as hazy and sometimes as phony, as TV ratings appear to be now. Today all papers and magazines of repute are members of the Audit Bureau of Circulations. Operating independently, ABC furnishes circulation figures that can be taken as authentic to the last digit.

Sellers of time on TV will have to find some such way of having their audience claims equally trustworthy. In this electronic age such a rating agency should be capable of development.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

A smash-and-grab jewelry robber looted McFee's Front Street store window of over $600 worth of watches and rings early Tuesday morning. The same method of breaking the store window and reaching inside to snatch what jewelry was within reach, was employed, as happened on two other occasions to Belleville jewelry stores. Seven valuable wrist watches and 9 rings, including a $100 diamond ring were included in the loot. Police are thoroughly satisfied that the robber had previously visited the scene of the robbery and after observing the position of the more valuable jewelry, broke the window nearest to his subsequent loot.

Apparently aware that whiterlike weather may still be encountered in their customary summer haunts while in the northern part of Canada, numbers of wild geese are delaying their spring flight to the northern feeding grounds. That geese are still flying north was revealed this morning by Mr. Everett Hubbs of Sidney township who reports that three unusually large flocks were seen on Monday as they winged their way northward.

With approximately 150 students having made application to leave classes in order that they may assist in agriculture for the summer months, only one third of this number remained away from school following Easter. With the spring season up to three weeks behind the normal year, there is still little work that students could do on farms.

Year of Peace Is Overdue

New York Times

Since 3000 B.C. there have been 14,531 wars, great and small, and in all the centuries of recorded history the world has known only 292 years of peace.

Such were the findings of a Norwegian scientist who applied an electronic computer to the study of conflicts throughout history. . . .

Throughout recorded history, each year has, on the average, seen the birth of 2.61 new wars. We can also calculate that we might expect one year of peace for each 10 years of conflict.

Since the end of the Second World War our planet has experienced not less than 21 fairsized wars.

To these may be added some 30 or more minor wars, civil wars, and other relatively local conflicts, for a total of more than 50. . . .

In spite of man's vaunted advancing "civilization," and repeated solemn multitude of efforts to negotiate peace for himself, he has not been able to curb his destructive and sanguinary tendencies.

He has apparently not improved his techniques of bellifferent ancestors.

In fact, he has retrogressed: The total of 50 or more conflicts in the 17 "enlightened" years of this century as with a statistical average of 2.94 wars per year, compared with the historical average of 2.61.

Thus in the past two decades not only has man managed to upgrade his ability to make war on an ever more massive scale; he has succeeded in increasing the density of conflicts per annum.

The conclusion is inescapable. Peace in our time is a fable.

Lest we despair, however, let us remember that a year of peace is due for every 10 years of conflict.

Since there has been no year without war in this century, we are obviously long overdue, and peace may be expected statistically — to break out at any moment.

Hard-Core Jobless

Milwaukee Journal

Economists call them the hard core unemployed. Chances are they never finished high school. Many can't read. Some can barely write their names.

Last month 1,133,000 Americans were in this demoralizing category — out of work for at least 15 weeks. Half had been worked in 27 weeks.

The number keeps increasing. Six years ago, 19 out of 100 workers had been out of work 15 weeks or longer. Last year the ratio was 28 out of 100.

Mothers Should Not Stay At Home All the Time

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've always heard that a person who is emotionally or mentally ill is the last to realize it. Yet I feel deeply that there is something wrong in my own make-up. I find myself being childishly malicious at times in my dealings with my children.

One son in particular sets off these reactions constantly. While I realize I'm wrong at the time, I can't seem to help myself. I don't want my children to be made into emotional wrecks by their mother. — Mrs. D. R.

You are from from being the only mother with such feelings, and I strongly doubt that you are verging on a mental collapse of any kind.

Mental illness, after all, can be fairly well summed up as a means of escaping from some situation with which the patient just cannot cope.

For various reasons (on occasion, physical and others perhaps purely psychic) you have detest strength or weakness, attitude toward life, and upbringing some people are subjected to much more pressure than others. And I'm sure my nearly all of us can withstand more than we thought, if we have faith in our ability to keep trying.

You didn't tell me anything about the youngster who touches off your irritations. Maybe he's an imp with too much energy and a bigger-than-average share of mischief in him.

Try to analyze exactly what it is that annoys you. If his behavior isn't too obnoxious, undoubtedly it will change as time passes. Perhaps you should keep that youngster busier, or if possible, of course, so he won't feel that he is being picked on. Perhaps you can make a point of asking him to "help" you with things — things he'll find more to his liking, like licking a spoon or some small chore that emphasizes his responsibility, and hence his importance.

And another thought which may be very important, of course, is getting some recreation outside the home? Even an occasional short dinner in a restaurant, or a visit with friends can be a wonderful and necessary tension-breaker.

With a family of youngsters to bring up, any mother can fall into the habit of getting too close to home all the time. Understandably, responsibility can make it into a prison and you can emotionally rebel.

Try for some if occasionally, even for just a few hours, and see if the experience doesn't give you a new perspective.

Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old son has not gained weight for six months and has a poor appetite. Sometimes I think his hair. Can that be harming his health? — E. R.

I doubt if the tinting hurts him physically, but I'd stop doing it. Why would you tint a three-year-old boy's hair? It raises in my mind a suspicion that in this and perhaps other ways you may be trying to bring up this kid as if he were a girl. That's bad for him emotionally and may upset his appetite among other things. He's a boy. Treat him like one.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a way to eliminate a post-nasal drip altogether, or must I put up with it the rest of my life? I stopped smoking two years ago. Ten years ago I was told nothing could be done, but thought perhaps now something new is available. — M. B.

It's possible. The main causes of post-nasal drip are (1) some chronic infection; (2) some physiological cause, e.g., polyps, deviated septum. Both may well be involved.

Some of the newer antibiotics may well help. So might surgery. You probably cannot expect to get rid of it entirely by letting it either, but I would, most decidedly have a new examination made of it 10 years since your last one.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful booklet, How To Heat Peptic Ulcers And Keep Them Healed. For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of this paper, Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., enclosing self-addressed envelope (long) and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

May 4, 1963 . . .

Following his disastrous Russian campaign, Napoleon was exiled once more, on the island of Elba 149 years ago today — in 1814 — and was given the sovereignty of the island. But in February, 1815, with France in a restless state, Napoleon escaped. He was enthusiastically received in France and again assumed power. But his armies were defeated at Waterloo and he again was exiled — this time to the island of St. Helena, where he died of cancer of the stomach in 1821.

1910 — The Royal Canadian Navy was organized.

1915 — The 1st Canadian Division was relieved at Ypres in the First World War after suffering 3,700 battle casualties.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In Britain they have the greatest red-tape and rigamarole. I asked a noted British architect what was the purpose of such rigid enclosures.

"Simply the belated recognition that the first object in the creation of plant and animal life is right to co-exist with us for no sake."

Rather quietly, the Nature Conservancy of Britain has been founded. It will be its interesting to watch what fortune it has against the massive new world forces, tourism, mineral, forest and water exploitation, and the ever-living right to make a buck. So far, on this continent, nature has no rights before the granite face of man.

Toronto Woman Fractures Ribs And Pelvis

A 47-year-old Toronto woman, driving on a temporary licence, was seriously injured yesterday when her automobile rolled over on Highway 401 cloverleaf at Belleville.

Mrs. Evelyn Moffatt was taken to Belleville General Hospital with a fractured pelvis and ribs and numerous face cuts.

Her husband, Herbert Moffatt, 47, suffered a neck whip lash injury and another passenger, Mrs. Celia Cruse, 46, was treated for minor head injuries.

The car left the cloverleaf as Mrs. Moffatt turned onto Highway 14.

200 of them to tour the factories of Canadian machinery and heavy equipment producers, and another 600 to attend a national samples show at Toronto of consumer goods.

The main part of the campaign took place here in the last three weeks with the export trade promotion conference—a counterpart of the first such conference in 1960—when businessmen peppered trade commissioners with questions about how to get their products into new or larger export markets.

It was billed as "a round the-world sales tour on foot," and nearly 1,500 businessmen turned up for some 12,800 individual half-hour interviews with trade commissioners.

Mr. Brown said that every trade commissioner he spoke to was delighted that a high proportion of business men knew what they should know about export trade, asked the right questions, and were prepared with the right information.

Convicts

He said the convicts, both serving sentences for armed robbery, were armed with two crudely-fashioned blades and a sharpened kitchen knife.

"There are always a problem here. They're easy to get smuggled in or they can be lifted from the meal table.

"Then they are sharpened in the machine shop or on the stone floors."

Allen J. MacLeod, federal commissioner of penitentiaries, came to Montreal Friday to confer with prison authorities. He said a formal board of inquiry will be convened at St.-Vincent de Paul "not later than next Wednesday."

Jim McKenzie was the top man early today among 27 of 70 contestants in the 12th annual "Mr. Bowling" tournament, being held at the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome yesterday and today.

McKenzie turned in a ten-game total of 2700 Friday night and must watch today while many of the district's top bowlers attempt to better his mark. The tournament winds up tonight.

McKenzie had games of 333, 313 and 310, last night among his leading ten-string. In second place was Bill Lott, with 2691, followed by Cec Hardwick with 2520, Joe Allen with 2315 and Wally Lavergne with 2414.

Allen was the leader after the first five games but faded later to fourth among the 27 who rolled last night.

Lavergne had the high single of 378, among 18 games of over 300, while Lott was close behind with a 374.

Included among those bowling today are Leo Labelle, who averaged 254.4 and 254 in the city's top leagues during the regular season, and Trenton's Fire-bomber Donahue, current "King of the Hill". Both were given good chances to take all the honors prior to the start of the tournament.

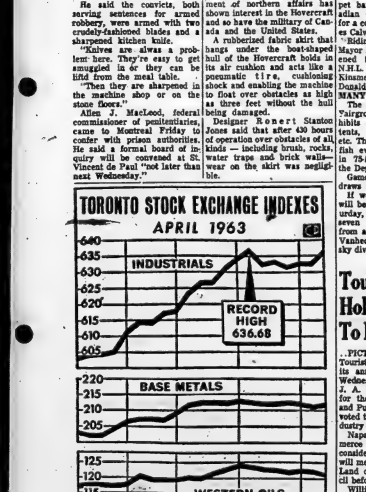
The Hovercraft model shown here is the SRN-2, a 27-ton type with a passenger capacity of 70. In its runs on the lake it gave a remarkably smooth ride and handled and turned easily in both high and low speeds.

Sir Eric looks on it as the ideal transport for areas where road and rail building is prohibitively expensive, or for hops of water where ice is a problem.

The Hovercraft ignores ice cakes by floating over them.



The price of the SRN-2 is $1,-113,000 in Canadian currency, presuming no duty and an 11-per-cent sales tax.

Other models offered include the smaller SRN-5, a seven-ton machine at $286,000, and the SRN-3 mark II which can carry 150 passengers and sells for $1,-534,000.

Sir Eric said Canada's department of northern affairs has shown interest in the Hovercraft and so have the military of Canada and the United States.

A rubberized fabric shirt that hangs under the boat-shaped hull of the Hovercraft holds in the cushion and acts like a pneumatic tire, cushioning shock and enabling the machine to float over obstacles as high as three feet without the hull being damaged.

Designer Robert Stanton Jones said that after 430 hours of operation over obstacles of all kinds — including brush, trees, water traps and brick walls—wear on the skirt was negligible.

RITS RECORD HIGH — The industrial index on the Toronto Stock Exchange hit an all time record high of 636.68 April 22. It closed at 635.83 at the end of the month. Previous high was 629.06 in March, 1962.

Base metals hit a 1963 high April 16 at 213.88 and western oils climbed to 124.39 April 19 to hit a 1963 high.

One of the most pleased fishermen was Clarence Vlzina of Ferndale, Michigan. He got a five-pounder in East Lake. He is one of eight members of the Rotary Club at Ferndale who are staying at Parr Island in East Lake.

Fishermen who wish to enter can do so with Clare Campbell, Wellington; Bruce Martin at the Outlet; Al Orser at Big Island, and at Hepburn's Marina, Picton.

Final weighing of the fish is at the Marina at one o'clock Sunday, after which prizes will be presented. First prize is a boat, motor and trailer complete. Derby is sponsored by P. E. Chamber of Commerce and Quinte Isle Tourist Association.

PASS THE BINOCULARS — A view into the back garden of Buckingham Palace is one of the prize attractions of a new hotel in London's West End. But security officials say guests at the 30-storey Hilton hotel won't be able to look into the Queen's apartments even with powerful binoculars. (CP Photo)

London Hilton Hotel Just Opened in Park Lane Is Biggest One in Europe

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP)—A room with a view—right into the Queen's back garden—is a prize attraction of the skyscraper London Hilton hotel just opened in Park Lane.

The 30-storey, 326-foot hotel, biggest in Europe, is the 49th in the Hilton chain. It cost $22,-000,000 and has 312 rooms and suites at prices from $15 a night upwards—breakfast and service extra.

From the balcony of the royal blue and crimson rooftop restaurant, London unrolls far below like an animated scale model, cars scurrying round Hyde Park like disturbed ants. On a fine day you can see the spire of Guildford Cathedral, 30 miles away in Surrey, and even on a hazy day the view into Buckingham Palace grounds is impressive.

While the sleeker V-shaped tower was shooting up beside Hyde Park, controversy raged over whether the queen's privacy would be invaded by hotel guests with powerful binoculars. But security officials proved that it is impossible to penetrate the royal family's apartments at the back of the palace.

COSTLY VIEW

As for the bird's-eye view of the grounds, someone commented that much of the privacy of Buckingham Palace gardens departed the day the first double-decker bus went down to Victoria station.

Since the 27th-floor suite best placed for a peer into the palace costs more than $152 a night, it seems unlikely that the average Londoner will be able to indulge themselves in the way several members of Parliament once feared.

Perhaps the most intriguing view of all was a strictly temporary one enjoyed by workmen on the tower during the great "smog" in December. Working in bright sunlight they looked down on a black blanket of smoke and fog stretching miles over the city.

Like others in Conrad Hilton's international chain, the London hotel has been designed primarily as a home-away-from-home for Americans, or as the Evening Standard comments, for Hilton Americans.

ICE WATER ON TAP

The Standard reporter, John Moynihan, says there are still plenty of transatlantic tourists who enjoy the Edwardian charm and cut-glass opulence of a distinctly English hotel like the Connaught or Claridge's, where one may run into Princess Grace of Monaco or a couple of exiled kings.

Equally, there are thousands who must have ice water on tap, New York papers on the lobby bookstall and waffles with maple syrup for breakfast whether they are in Cairo, Istanbul or Hong Kong. These are the Hilton Americans and they now are catered for around the globe.

In Greece, the Athens Hilton, perched on a hill overlooking the Parthenon, opened April 22. Other Hiltons scheduled to open this year include Tokyo, Rosedam, Rome, Hong Kong, New York and Montreal airport.

24-Day Meet Opens at Greenwood

Greenwood, in Toronto, will open its first 24-day spring meeting on Monday afternoon with the ninth running of the $9,525 Star Shoot Stakes, a seven-furlong allowance event for three-year-old fillies, which has attracted a bumper field of 15 starters.

Topping the field at 119 pounds are Mike Long's Balkhair and Mrs. W. Hinphy's Charlene B. Balakair has won two races in three starts at this meeting, while Charlene B has been shipped up from New England for the Star Shoot.

Charlene B, trained by Venezian Bill Hinphy, has won three races this season including the $5,000 Patricia Day Handicap at Lincoln Downs. The filly visited Canada once before, last July 14, when Hinphy brought her up for the Fleur de Lys Stakes at Blue Bonnets in Montreal, which she won.

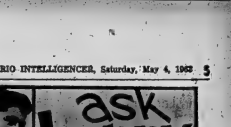
Jockey Jimmy Davern, currently riding in New England, will be here to ride Charlene B.

Windfields Farm will run a two-horse entry, Allegro and Breezy Answer. Allegro was Canada's top race for two-year-old fillies last year, the $10,000 Princess Elizabeth Stakes. The Windfields' pair will have Mrs. H. Luro's Etimota running as an entry with Breezy Answer, although the filly is trained by Frank Merrill, Breezy Answer is trained by Canada's Mr. Luro, Horatio.

Victor Bovine, who last rode in Canada in 1958, will ride Knox and Mann's Plaistr in Monday's Star Shoot. Bovine was one of the hottest riders in Ontario in 1956, when the 49-year-old veteran (then 42) won eight added-money events.

Mrs. Wolfgang Von Richthofen's Thule, an easy winner at Fort Erie last week, will receive a fair amount of support and may well head postward as one of the public choices. She defeated the highly-rated Raban, owned by the Addison Hall Stable which is also included in the 15-horse card. Rabban will be ridden by leading rider, Ron Turcotte.

Mrs. Mead, owned by Hugh Grant of Philadelphia, Pa., which caused one of the biggest upsets of the Fort Erie meeting when she defeated the 2-5 favorite Queen Holiday last Wednesday, will have Paul Rinebeko in the saddle.



Others starters in the Star Shoot are: Kis Ora Farms' Reckless Lady, Larkin Malonye's My Bunty, Olivier Ranch ing Enterprises' Lady B Fast, Ed Seeyboose's Free Trial, Sam Shapiro's Ready About and S. and E. Starr's Quiet Nancy.

Girl Dreads Making Choice Between Separated Parents

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Shortly after I left home to join my husband who is in the armed services, I received a telephone call from my dad telling me that he and mother had separated.

This was over two years ago. My mother has yet to mention it, although she writes to me often and we have spoken on the telephone many times. She is obviously so bitter and unhappy about the separation that she cannot bring herself to speak of it.

My brother who is 17 told me mother made him choose between her and dad. He chose her. She will not permit him to mention dad's name in the house—much less see him.

When I get home I'm sure I will be faced with the same choice. I am dreading this because I love them both. My mother has a will of iron and she's impossible to reason with. Please tell me what to do.—RIGHT SQUARE IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR MIDDLE—The unhappy relationship between your parents is not of your making and you shouldn't be punished for it. The parent who imposes such a choice on a child deserves to be the one who is left out. If your mother insists that you choose between her and your father—choose your father.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I'm not the prettiest girl in the world—or the smartest. I'm 28 years old, have a responsible position and have supported myself since I was 18.

Life has been uncomplicated (and also unexciting) until I met Warren. Warren is a college graduate and he sells insurance. I haven't gone with anyone else for six months so you might say he is my steady. He has hinted strongly about marriage but has never proposed. Now I'm not sure I'd accept. This is why I'm writing.

Twice in the last three months Warren has lost his temper and slapped my face. Both times he insisted the slaps were "nothing personal"—that this is the way he behaves when he gets angry. He said "any psychologist will tell you it is a healthy outlet for the emotions."

I've never studied psychology so I'm in no position to dispute his word. Can you advise me?—LITTLE EVA.

• • •

DEAR EVA—The "outlet" may be good for his health but I can't see that it does much for yours.

If a fling in the chops is Warren's way of "expressing himself" during courtship, you can guess what kind of expression you'll get after marriage.

Flee this man as you would the plague. Civilized people don't slap faces.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—My husband and I will celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary next month. Many of our friends and relatives have offered to help us out but my husband and I would prefer to entertain them rather than have them entertain us.

It has been avaricious—just practical—when I tell you I know we will receive many lovely gifts. Since this will be the silver anniversary I can see it now—silver platters, silver dishes, silver ash trays, candlestick holders, candy dishes, cigarette boxes. The list is endless. All silver means to me is hours of polishing and I dread the thought of it.

Would it be proper if I wrote on the invitations "No Silver Wanted." Thank you.—THE BIG 25.

• • •

DEAR BIG—It would be in poor taste to write such a message on the invitation. No reference to a gift should be made on any invitation.

You may pass the word quietly among your close friends that you don't want silver, but don't make a mass production type of announcement, please.

• • •

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I arrived late at a PTA meeting the other night. One of the officers was speaking but he stopped for a few moments and took a seat that was being held for me by a friend in the audience. I felt very uncomfortable about this. May a late arrival walk to a seat during a speech, or must the latecomer wait until the speaker is through before sitting? — Mrs. L. C., Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: A late arrival can be very distracting to someone who is making a speech. It's more courteous to stand in the rear until the speaker is through, to avoid throwing him off balance and disturbing the rest of the audience.

Question: When a man and woman are dining in a restaurant and tea is placed on the table in a container, who does the pouring? Also who pours the refills?

If the food is placed in the centre of the table, which one does the serving?

And now for the big question (this one on behalf of my son): When a young man enjoys dating a girl but just can't stand the strong perfume she wears, how does he go about telling her in a tactful way without hurting her feelings? — Mrs. E., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: While a woman naturally would do the pouring and serving in her own home, in a restaurant the tables are reversed and the man, as host, would help his companion.

As far as the perfume is concerned, one way to get a girl to toss down her fragrance would be to give her a bottle of a lighter scent. Here's a case where action speaks louder than words — and is diplomatic as well as direct.

Question: Would you please tell me the correct way to sign a letter to a friend who writes to a young girl. She is 18 and I am 50. She is my son's girl friend and we are the best of friends. Also, what is the proper way to address mail to a divorcee and to a widow. — Mrs. H.J.K., Cicero, Ill.

Answer: If the younger woman has been asked to call you by your first name, then that would be all the signature one would need on a letter. If she calls you "Mrs. Smith" in person, o more formal signature — "Mary Smith" — would be more appropriate.

A widow is addressed by the name of her late husband and continues to be called "Mrs. John Jones," for instance, until she remarries. A divorcee drops the first name of her former husband and uses only his last name, prefaced by her maiden surname. To illustrate: The former Mrs. Horace Haddon, whose maiden name was Randall, becomes Mrs. Randall Haddon upon her divorce.

Question: My sister and I are planning a large, informal, open - house party in celebration of our parents'' 35th wedding anniversary. We expect 50 or 60 guests, and will serve simple refreshments like cake and sandwiches, and coffee. We'd prefer using paper plates, cups and napkins, but wonder if this would be appropriate. Would you please advise us if paperware would be correct for such an informal party? — Mrs. H.N., Syracuse, N.Y.

Answer: Good - quality paperware is a great convenience for large parties and may correctly be used for the type of service you plan.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Here is a lovely hymn of gratitude, written to thank God for creating a beautiful and wonderful world.

Written in 1858 by Miss Adelaide Anne Procter, it contains some thoughts which remind one of Matthew Bridges' hymn, "This Is My Father's World." The hymn-tune, known as "Wentworth," was composed by Frederick C. Maker in 1876. He was a distinguished English musician and organist.

God's world, says the hymnist, is a world "full of splendor and joy, beauty and light." In a bright world in whose "darkest spot" some love is found. But with all its glories and all its blessings it is a world which makes earth-dwellers eager for a deeper peace, the peace of the world to come . . . a perfect rest which they will find only when they meet Jesus.

Miss Procter was born in Longton and did most of her writing there. She used the pen name, "Mary Berwick," in her literary work and sent her first poems to the famous English writer, Charles Dickens, while he was serving as editor of a publication entitled "Household Words." He published her verses for two years before he learned that she was the daughter of two of his very good friends.

Several of Miss Procter's hymns are still being sung. A century after their writing, in many churches. She will always be remembered happily, too, for her familiar lyric — "The Lost Chord."

A Lift for Living

Gardens of Beauty Symbolic Of 'Challenge of Change'

By Dr. Ralph W. Sockman

At this season we are giving thought to our gardens. On the sidewalks of our large cities we have to do our gardening in our dreams, but nevertheless we do it. And on this May day three weeks after Easter, my mind is drawn to a statement which stands in the Fourth Gospel and reads thus: "In the place where He was crucified there was a garden."

Although that is just a simple prose statement of description, there is something deeply symbolic about it. The pairing of gardens in the places of painful crucifixion, the replacing of the cross by the flower crossed with the good things which make gardens—this is the challenge of change.

Consider the contrast between the cross and the garden. In the place where He was crucified there was ugliness. The cross was a cruel and ugly object. We have decorated it with gold and set it with jewels; but in Jesus' day the cross was viewed as the scaffold is at one time, an ugly sinister object. Then there were the angry tempers of the accusers, the cruel countenances of the curious onlookers who had come out to see a man die. The whole scene was ugly.

But after the cross were the angry tempers of the accusers, the cruel countenances of the curious onlookers who had come out to see a man die. The whole scene was ugly.

JUST THE OPPOSITE

But a garden is just the opposite of Mother Earth. Its fresh petals glistening with the jewels of dew in the morning, its colors rivalling those of the painter's canvas, a garden is one of God's most beautiful objects.

And one challenge of change is the replacing of crucifying ugliness by garden-like beauty. Are we doing that as the years pass? How is it with us in our personal lives? We speak of our gardens of memory but are our memories really gardens of growing beauty or places of ugly thoughts? Do we keep torturing ourselves with the old regrets? Do our minds dwell on the unloving and painful experiences of the past?

That is the way our memories sometimes serve us. They keep so much that should have been discarded. This is no doubt what caused Bergson, the French philosopher, to say: "it is the function of the brain to enable us not to remember, but to forget." That is, our minds lay hold on a definite object by inhibiting other thoughts, and while we often complain about or inability to remember it is almost as worse mental state when we cannot forget, when fixed ideas become obsessions until they unbalance our minds.

One of the secrets of mental peace and progress is to dig from our memories the weeds of regrets which infest them. And we should plant good ideas to grow in the place of envy, anger and fear. When Dr. F. B. Meyer first came from England to the religious conferences at Northfield, Massachusetts, he attracted great crowds. For one of years he was the most popular and welcome visiting speaker. But after a time another Englishman, Dr. G. Campbell-Morgan came also to Northfield. And the crowds left Meyer to hear the brilliant expositions of Morgan. At first, Dr. Meyer confessed that he felt pangs of jealousy. But he said, "The only way I can conquer my feeling is to pray for him daily, which I do."

Also consider the vast possibilities of beautifying the world around us. The increasing Garden Clubs of America are among our most promising forms of progress. We have beautified our ships from Fulton's ungainly little steamboat to our graceful and gigantic ocean liners. We have developed the awkward-looking flying kite of the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk into the beautiful jets of today. Think how the atom's ludicrous motor boggles of sixty years ago have evolved into the present sleek models.

Many are getting worried about the displacement of manpower by automation. True, few "hands" can make more things. But if we set out to beautify our landscapes, our factories, our homes, our Main Streets, almost endless opportunities for work begin to open. One hope of solving the unemployment problem lies in the channels of cultivating the ultimate values of beauty, truth and goodness.

Then again is that garden near Calvary's cross. Out of the crucifying pain of the cross have come the noblest words in our language: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do."

With that Christ-like spirit we can replace the graves of war into the gardens of brotherhood.

Sidney South W.I. Presents Institute Pin

The May meeting of Sidney South Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Sutherland with Mrs. N. Nobes presiding.

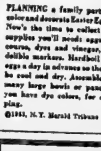
During the business period considerable planning was done for delegates to attend the district annual on May 20, the ACWW meeting in Guelph, on June 20, and a luncheon meeting with Mrs. Van Beskrft, president of ACWW in Peterborough, on June 21. As a token of appreciation of her year's work, Mrs. H. Regenaberg presented Mrs. F. Meens, the secretary-treasurer, with a institute pin on behalf of the members.

Mrs. G. Willman, convener for agriculture, opened the program with a contest on animals, implements, vegetation, pertaining to farming.

Mrs. D. McComb assisted Mrs. Willman in a skit on the Master Breeder's Shield. This shield was won by Allan McComb and Son for their fine herd of Holsteins. The ladies discussed the beginning of a herd with a tiny pure-bred calf which must be named and registered. Then to the building of a herd under R.O.P. standards until the farmer has at least one milking cow of high calibre before he can compete for the Master Breeder Shield.

This competition was started in 1930 and only nine owners have had the honor of being "Master Breeder."

Mrs. K. Bush gave a reading entitled "The Touchy Heifer," and Mrs. Willman closed the program with a reply given by a father to his son when asked if he should become a farmer.



Mrs. Hollomby played the accompaniment for "The Queen."

Lunch was served and an exchange of roots, bulbs and plantlets took place amid much interesting meeting to a close.

LETTER:

Instead of adding hot milk to boiled potatoes, why not pour off some of the water (if too much) and sprinkle skim milk powder over potatoes, then beat or mash thoroughly — Eileen.

ANSWER:

Thank you Eileen for this improvement on my suggestion, for serving mashed potatoes with liquid skim milk to reduce.

QUESTION:

. . . . I don't know how we housewives could get along without your column. I would like to have the recipe for Potatoes au Gratin and Nesselrode Pie, if you could help me — Mrs. J. D. A.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you a recipe for Nesselrode Pie which appeared here in July /59. Also Gratin Potatoes a la Creme (January 22/63) which is a fancy version of Potatoes au Gratin called for precooked potatoes. Here is the standard recipe for

POTATOES AU GRATIN
Serves 4 to 6:

4 large potatoes coarsely shredded, 1½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 egg, 2 cups whole milk, 1 cup grated cheese (preferably Swiss), 1 clove garlic (optional), 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Sprinkle the shredded raw potatoes with salt and pepper. Add the slightly beaten egg and milk. Mix ¾ of the cheese with the potatoes. If used, rub the inside of a casserole with the cut garlic, then grease generously. Turn potato mixture into the casserole and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Dot with butter and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1½ to 1¾ hours.

QUESTION:

I am sending recipe for orange bread which I have tried four times and it always turns out soggy. I have had the oven at 350 deg. Fahr. and left the bread in for the required time and the last time I extended it to one hour but it turned out the same. I would appreciate it if you could tell me what's wrong. I read your column religiously — Mrs. D. G. F.

ANSWER:

I am familiar with the recipe you send. It is always wetish. If you do not know that texture even though the flavor is good try this

ORANGE NUT BREAD:

2 tablespoons margarine or butter, 1 cup liquid honey, 1 large egg, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 2½ cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, ¾ cup orange juice (may be fresh orange), ¾ cup chopped walnuts or pecans.

Cream the margarine or butter and honey well together. Add the egg and grated orange rind. Sift the sifted flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda together. Add alternately to the honey mixture with the orange juice. Stir in the nuts. Turn into a greased standard loaf pan and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours. Cool, wrap and store. Better for slicing 24 hours later.

PLACE VILLE MARIE

"Good things forget good things." — William Zeckendorf.

Though my husband and I had lived here in Montreal over a period of time (including World War II years) and held with pride we'd seen this city from most of its celebrated nooks and crannies — well: we were in the habit of being prepared for this view.

From a downtown 41st storey window!

By now, you'll know we were whisked by here (without the slightest sensation of motion or height) via a Place Ville Marie elevator. Each party follows a high-fashioned hair styled young girl, slim and regal in modish uniform, as she walks with grace in long, pointed toe, high heeled black oxfords to guide us about the wings of the Cruciform Building, that rises in La Place like a tall cross-shaped castle from a nearby squat candle-stick. Not only does it dominate the heart of downtown Montreal; it is the newest office building in the Commonwealth.

"Ever since Montreal moved from its birthplace, ancient Ville Marie, on the St. Lawrence River, the citizens have wanted a city focus point — that civic meeting and greeting place of spectations," was enthusiastically accepted and became in five years an official opening was July 1963) a reality.

From the dizzying height the city spreads about us like a toy model. Yonder is Mount Royal (a mere 50 feet higher) and southward, like a piece, those war years spring to life. The very Mount Royal where the "Fort" of Ville Marie drawn cab is proudly telling how his son, afflicted with heart trouble joined the army (in spite of his 50 years), and has just won a war medal for bravery in action. From the Lookout we view Montreal's first war black-out, when on signal the lights go out and all is in black curtain. Such an awesome sight!

There, see the Montreal Forum? Where women like Lily Pons, Eleanor Roosevelt and Dorothy Thompson appear at "at benefits." Or how aghast Miss X looks, a Mechanics Institute (Montreal's large library, over there) librarian, as a young aviator tells her he reads the library books he takes out while on his missions over Iceland, Greenland and France. Our eyes turn in distance towards LaSalle (the explorer's house still exists) where volunteers collected for Red Cross parcels for our prisoners of war.

Right down there once stood Bonaventure Station from which many Canadian soldiers depart never to return again; where a tall, young blue-eyed blonde WAC who could ride horses like the wind at home in Alberta, but not Montreal's street cars which make her car sick. Just there, once stood the wonderful Windsor Hotel (now halfed) where such personages as Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, a young general named De Gaulle, the handsome Duke of Kent appear on its balcony to wave to the crowds below. Look down east, see that tiny inky silhouette against the river's blue? 'Tis the 300 year old Bonsecours (Sailor's) Church hung with tiny lamps shaped like ships, and on the Old Port under the great statue of Mary blessing the ships that enter and leave the harbor.

The reminder of standing here on a dream-come-true midst realities now dreams is gently dispelled by swift descent to ground level, where the Cruciform building stunningly is impeded in a solid block honey-combed with enticing shops, tiles elegant with wall-to-wall carpeting, crystal chandeliers, and wrought iron screens for doors, and, by night, all put pictures queely named Les Galleries des Boutiques. While beneath lies the great concourse to hotel and station that in turn leads to lower levels of parking areas for 700 cars.

But this city within a city, where one may step from train to bus, bus to hotel room, dine, shop, and attend a theatre, all under one roof, must be explored another day, when we shall, as today, arise at 4 a.m. in Belleville, arrive in Montreal at 8 a.m., spend 8 hours in the city (before returning at 4 p.m. to arrive back in Belleville at 8 p.m.). For the present, we eagerly race away to familiar places: stores and restaurants that were once our world, dear to our hearts, when we lived here — and Place Ville Marie was still a dream-to-come-true.

Female Patients Said Much More Critical Than Males

TORONTO (CP) — Hospital patients generally think doctors and nurses are over-ruled and overworked, Dr. Daisy Tagliacozzo, a sociologist from Chicago, told the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario Friday.

Dr. Tagliacozzo said that patients expect nurses to have a kind, friendly and cheerful personality, interest in their patients and efficiency in carrying out their services.

During a question period following her address to the annual meeting of the RNAO, Dr. Tagliacozzo said that generally patients received personal care from auxiliary staff members who were under less pressure and had more time than the nurses.

The stereotype of the nurse, "hard-hearted and tough" is the result of constant exposure to suffering and demands of the sick, was mentioned often by patients interviewed by the sociologist.

Dr. Tagliacozzo said she found evidence that patients from higher social classes make more demanding and critical than lower class patients.

Female patients were much more critical of nurses than male patients," she added.

One-Time Olympic Games Runner Sells Painting

HALIFAX (CP) — The Dalhousie University art gallery has purchased a prize-winning painting by Alleyn Meagher, one - time Olympic Games runner.

Director M. Usmiani said Miss Meagher's work was acquired—with an anonymous donation—in an effort to build up the gallery's collection of local paintings.

The picture, Iceberg Finale, last year won first prize in the Maritime art exhibition at the Beaverbrook Art Gallery in Fredericton.

Professor Usmiani said the gallery was "very pleased" to get Miss Meagher's painting because she had "established a reputation and a style which is distinctive."

It is being shown formally this month along with some other gallery acquisitions.

IDEA EN ROUTE

Although this is the first of Miss Meagher's paintings to be acquired by Dalhousie, several other Halifax collections include one or more of her works.

The iceberg painting originated in her mind while the artist was returning to Canada from Ireland. Near Labrador an iceberg just about to capsize attracted her attention and gave her the idea for Iceberg Finale.

Miss Meagher says she is delighted that the painting now will hang in the Dalhousie gallery.

She now is teaching at St. Mary's Boys' School where several of her classes have won national art competitions, with works that have been shown at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

TRACK STAR

Miss Meagher was a student at Dalhousie University when she first made headline news as a track star. She was selected in the fifties as medallist at the 1932 olympics at Los Angeles, but was unable to compete because of an injury.

She competed however in the British Berlin Olympic Games and at subsequent British Empire Games in England and Australia.

She says she paints just whatever interests her. She enjoys doing scenes and subjects are not confined to Nova Scotia. Over the years she has travelled a great deal, and this summer she hopes to visit Ireland again.

AGAINST COMPULSION

OTTAWA (CP)—W. L. Hood, national president of the 10,000-member Canadian Postal Employees Association, has written Prime Minister Pearson to say the group does not favor compulsory arbitration in any proposed collective bargaining agreement with the government. In the letter, made public Thursday, Mr. Hood notes that other civil service staff associations wish collective bargaining with binding arbitration but says "our position is different."

Ancient Ruins May Hold Key To Mystery of Lost Mayans

Places

By Shirley and Bob Sloane

CHICHEN ITZA, Mexico — On the wall of the bar for the Mayaland Hotel here, deep in the heart of the Yucatan brush, is a map depicting one of mankind's greatest mysteries.

It shows the known archaeological sites of this area, the heart of the vast Mayan civilization that disappeared hundreds of years ago with scarcely a trace. In one corner of the chart are models of the handful of massive structures that have been uncovered. But there are hundreds of other blank spots on the map, like pictures of men without faces, showing where other buildings are known to be buried under the brush and rocks and rubble of the centuries.

All or any of these may be more elaborate and impressive than those that have been painstakingly uncovered already. And one may hold the key to who the Mayans were, what they may have left behind and how that modern civilization still does not know, and — most challenging of all — what became of them.

STAGGERS IMAGINATIONS

It staggers the imagination to be told that the Mayans were only one city in a vast connected Mayan complex covering more than 30,000 square miles of Honduras, Guatemala, southern Mexico and the Yucatan, the peninsula that sticks up like a thumb in the Gulf of Mexico between Cuba and Central America.

These cities were not Indian wigwams or thatched huts. Their buildings were by no means elaborate and painted stone palaces and towering terraced pyramids joined by paved plazas and fine roads.

There were perhaps more than 200 cities with 10,000 buildings, and there may have been as many as 13,000,000 of the Mayan people. Their priests and rulers wore exquisite robes and headdresses encrusted with jewels and plumes of flowing with feathers. They indulged in dazzling pagan rites, and apparently knew more of science than primitive people were supposed to know.

ACCURATE CALENDAR

They devised a calendar more accurate than the one we use today, the year called El Castillo — for lack of its real name, has 91 steps on each of its four sides. Add the fourth; total 365, for days of the year. On each side are nine terraces for the 9 lunar months of the Mayan year. And each terrace has three landings, and the top a temple, which has two. Total 52, for the years in the Mayan cycle, or "century."

On the day of the spring equinox, the shadow of the terrace ridges falls across the steps, joining with the serpent's head at the base and forming the body and image of a snake, the key figure in their religion.

The ruins of what was obviously an astronomical observatory, appearing little different from a modern observatory, still stands. Its dome has probably the four points of the compass, and there was a chimney through which the stars could be observed by day. The building may be 4,000 years old.

Skulls uncovered indicate the Mayans performed — successfully — brain and plastic surgery, inserting jade into teeth and nose bridges. Yet there is no jade within thousands of miles of here, and one type has never been found nearer than the Orient.

The Mayans' knew acoustics well. There is a stadium here in which a form of soccer was played. At one end is what seems to be a priest's chamber. From it, a normal tone of voice or a coin dropped can be heard distinctly 500 feet away. An echo can be heard to resound on the opposite side, 500 feet.

The probable wealth of the Mayans would have stunned the Conquistadors from Europe. From a huge sacred well into which vestal virgins were thrown as periodic sacrifices, more than $3,000,000 worth of gold and jewels have been recovered by archaeologists. The unplumbed depths may hold another $20,000,000.

The Mayans' knowledge of engineering and architecture was profound, but not nearly as great as the mystery of how they managed to erect their great stone monuments. As far as is known, they never discovered the principle of the wheel. No metal tools, leveling equipment or other construction devices have ever been unearthed. They had no beasts of burden (their modern descendants still eschew burros in favor of shank's mare).

Yet they built these mammoth stone structures over half the map of Mexico. Central America for a period of perhaps 1,000 years. They were the first known people to conceive of the zero in mathematics, and they developed a drug — still taken by their descendants — almost identical to penicillin.

Today there are only a few thousand Mayans, squat handsome Indians with clear complexions and intelligent eyes. But they still remember the days 200 years before the Conquistadors, their proud cities in ruins, their people enslaved and without even a graveyard to show for their bones.

What happened to them? Archaeologists who have studied them for a lifetime, a mere drop in the bucket of the ocean, merely shrug and say with the rest of us:

Quien sabe? Who knows?

CROP HIT HARD

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The mid-winter freeze killed 14,000,000 citrus trees and it will take at least six years to replace them, says Florida Citrus Mutual. In Texas, the co-operative said Wednesday, Florida's citrus crop next year will be about one-third smaller than this year's harvest.

Volunteer Work Essential Part of the Social Fabric

OTTAWA (CP)—The work of the volunteer has become an essential part of the social fabric, Mrs. Maurice Boyce, director of the women's bureau of the labor department told delegates Friday at the annual meeting of the National Council of Hospital Auxiliaries of Canada.

"It is a curious commentary on the economic point of view in our society that the same work is not applied to any activity unless it is aimed at making money," Miss Boyce said.

"Even the inauguration of hospital insurance and the rapid development of hospital services throughout Canada, the need for volunteer work was multiplied and the auxiliaries' contribution became proportionately greater.

"Its importance for women is immediately apparent in that it draws them into the world of affairs outside the home but related to the home and provides a channel for participation in community life."

Canadian Fashion & Fad

— BY pegg rogers

WHERE TO LOOK FOR WHAT

Time was, when a customer who wanted to buy a suit, shopped for it in the suit department. A suit is usually a two or three - piece costume, fashioned of wool or cotton linen. In some stores if you shop for a suit these days, you could end up by making your purchase in the dress department, the Junior Shoppe, or perhaps the Town and Country Shop. This takes time. It is inconvenient to have to use three or four different sets of fitting rooms in order to try on three or four different selections. It makes good sense to have several stands for jewelry, hosiery and accessories, at different locations in the same store. But it is frustrating for a customer to find three different departments selling three different selections of the same type of merchandise at similar prices.

DANGEROUS PRACTICE

This open competition between fashion departments for the same customer's dollars may be stimulating for the managers of these competing departments, but it is a dangerous practice. The store may lose the customer, who does not find what she wants in one department and concludes that the store does not stock what she needs. She cannot be blamed for not looking in the dress department, where she is shopping for a suit!

Many Canadian stores lose sight of the fact that women still shop regularly in stores that make it easy for her to find what she wants. A fashion floor resembling a jungle, with loaded racks of dresses, is not an attractive sight. Neither is it inspiring for a customer to see a dress she likes and then see 35 others in exactly the same style, hanging right behind it. Under these circumstances, the average woman should spend a fortune in presenting its merchandise to hopelessly confuse the customer who, for example, expects to find suits in the suit department.

If you have a question on fashion, just write to Pegg Rogers, care of this Paper.

Retired Man Tells You How To Find Good Life in South

By THOMAS COLLINS

He was a happy man — you could tell by just looking. He was sunburned, had a better tan of grey hair than most and walked briskly. He said he was 67 and had retired two years ago from a supervisory job in New England.

His name: George R. Manning.

He and Mrs. Manning had sold their New England home, got the $14,000 proceeds in a savings and loan association at 4 per cent, and moved to the Southland to live in peace and comfort.

"I should have my head examined instead," he said, "for because of moving south — it's wonderful and I love it. But because I let us move on hearsay information. I simply didn't prepare myself with the essential, hard facts on what I was going into . . ."

The Mannings chose their site, Sarasota, because a friend had a good job in the area and was settled down nearby with his family, because there were other men in the New England company had settled in this area with their wives.

Their total retirement income was $3265 a month, and the pension and lucky dividends added another $47, for a total of $312. Any fool and his wife can live on that, they thought.

"And any fool and his wife can," said Mr. Manning. "But not very comfortably when your son and everybody else around you are living on a good bit more."

For about three months after moving things went fine. Then the embarrassment of the $312 standard of living began moving in. And fishing all day every day wasn't that much fun. And sitting in the sun all the time sapped your energy. And talking all the time to other retired folks wasn't very stimulating.

LOOKED FOR JOB

"I went looking for a job," Mr. Manning said. "I wanted to earn a space per 10 months of the year. No more. I didn't particularly care what hours I worked, or what I did. I just wanted some more money, and something to do.

"And you know what? A retired man can find a job that way. Even in an area filled with retired men looking for jobs. But he's got to act like he's still breathing, and he's got to have the gumption to look interested, and he's got to keep applying at place after place until he connects.

"You can't do this back home where everybody knows that you once did better. In a faraway town who cares? Nobody."

Mr. Manning got his job, working from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. in a small men's clothing store catering to the vacation trade — swim suits, slacks, sun hats, beach togs, etc. Vacationers like to buy up to 9 or so at night, and the store owner wanted to go home to his wife at 5.

"I had never worked in a retail store before, but with this sort of merchandise you don't need experience. Just be nice to the people and know how to count the change. That's all . . ."

Mr. Manning, about a year and a half on the job now, sometimes thinks he should have been in the retail business all the time. He likes people, like supplying packages, likes meeting the air ways changing face of a vacation country. Not once has anybody he knew in New England ever come in the store.

TIME CHANGES THINGS

"But time changes things. It wouldn't matter any more."

It is the conviction of Mr. Manning that people make their mistake in retirement not by making wrong decisions, but by becoming too inflatable to do the things that will correct matters. "Too many retired people bemoan their fate, and cry," he said, "when they ought to bend, change their viewpoint, and adjust.

He thinks everybody should move away from their old homes when they retire because it is easier to do "demeaning" jobs and make drastic adjustment when people don't know you. He thinks most retired people are stuck with a set income — and when they get a pension that will get them by, and won't exercise the character needed to get them up out of a chair and hunt a good life.

"After my experience here — which I think you could call making a good thing out of a bad guess — I am convinced that a retired man can fashion just about what he wants with his retirement — if only he will be flexible, and will get up and go!"

Garden Notes

Distinctive Giant Asphodels

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Do you have a garden space that needs something really distinctive, tall and spectacular for accent? Eremerus or Fox-tail lilies also known as Giant Asphodels will be the answer for you. Their stature and dignity commands respect. They tower above all members of the herbaceous border and even moderate sized shrubs. Nearly an hundred fold is present on every flower stock. They often reach eight to nine feet tall with countless blooms on each spike. The white, pink, apricot, or chamois colored blooms begin to open at the bottom of the spike and continue on up giving several weeks of bloom. Early and late varieties extend the show from May until late September.

These giants need good drainage and rich but porous soil. Prepare the site by digging deeply and mixing in some well rotted manure, peat, leaf mold, or compost with fine gravel or stone chips and coarse sand.

They are completely hardy but should have a light covering in late fall after a few light frosts to keep them from sprouting too early. Use oak leaves or excelsior and hold in place with chicken wire, or evergreen branches. The English gardener uses a mound of coarse sand.

SOME WIND PROTECTION

Being very tall they need some wind protection. Since our prevailing winds are from the west plant them on the leeside of shrubs or a wall. They need at least half a day sun but will tolerate high light shade. This adds to the length of the life of the blooms.

September is the best time for planting but they can be planted in early spring before much growth has started.

These plants increase readily and if you plant one or two of each you will soon have a good size clump in several places. They can be divided every four years and are very long lived.

In the prepared ground dig a hole one foot wide and eight inches deep. Place half a shovel of well rotted manure on the bottom, or other humus with a cupful of sheep or cow manure. (You can buy these at garden centres. You could use a granular chemical fertilizer and some bone meal. Make a low mound of loam and coarse sand and place the tuber on this. It has several fleshy tubers somewhat like dahlias. The crown should be about one inch below the general soil surface. Fill in with soil and sand mixture and mound up a little above soil level.

Where snails and slugs are present make a circle of sand around the spot.

FROM SEED OR TUBERS

You can grow the Giant Himalaias from seed, or buy tubers.

The tubers are hardy as far west as Winnipeg. E. Bungei is golden yellow first late fall and blooms in July. E. Elwesianus is light pink, seven feet tall and blooms in May. E. Himalaicus, white, eight feet and blooms in May or June. E. Robustus, a true species, is light to dark pink, 10 to 12 feet tall and blooms in June. E. Shelfora is white, pink, yellow or orange. This is a late variety good for cutting.

You can save the seeds from fresh stock and store in spaghetti jars in a jar in the refrigerator at 40 degrees over winter. It may take 10 months to two years for germination. Examine the jar from time to time during autumn and wear the glass for observation. When any sign of germination shows put up in sand and peat, or plant in cold frame.

PENGUIN BORN

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new penguin named Mike has been hatched at Stanley Park zoo.

Robert Killins

disarmed the man and struck him with a hammer before he fled.

Police believe the man re armed himself with the shotgun, returned to the house, killing Patricia. He then rushed to the Campbell's house, killing Mrs. Campbell and wounding her husband. He wounded Miller who tried to disarm him as he came out. He then walked 200 feet to another house and shot Mrs. Gladys Killins.

A neighbor, who talked to Brian—one of the two children in hospital with shock—after the shooting, said the 10-year-old boy's hair had been clipped by a shotgun blast.

"I was talking to the hysterical child and he ran his hand through his hair," said John Day. "Locks of it fell to the floor. It had been cut by the blast."

IN ARMS, CHEST

Miller, who boards across the street from the Killins house, was reported shot in both arms and chest. His job in Castleton was his first position after graduating from Teachers' College in Toronto last year.

The United Church of Canada said in Toronto Friday that Robert Killins was an ordained minister of the church from 1922 to 1946, when he resigned from the field posts in White River, Cartier and Dodd Harbor, all in Ontario, and Clanwilliam, Man. Although he moved to Haney, B.C. in 1946, United Church records for 1945 list him as still living in Clanwilliam with the notation: "Not in pastoral work — without appointment." Last entry of his name was in the United Church Yearbook for 1946.

Appointments

who was named to the board by the Conservative cabinet in March after failing to win the Conservative nomination in Victoria (B.C.) constituency for the April 8 general election.

The Liberal argument is that the Conservatives, having lost votes of confidence in the Commons, had no right during an election campaign to appoint a new CBC board, one of the most powerful government bodies.

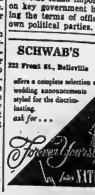
Appointment of former MPs and political candidates to such bodies is not new. The deputy chairman of the pension commission is Leslie Mutch, Liberal MP for Winnipeg South from 1935 until named to the commission in 1953 by the Liberal government.

Mr. Mackay had been a Conservative candidate in 1957 for Jasper-Edson in Alberta. Mr. Smith, chairman of the restrictive trade practices commission until last fall, had been a former Liberal cabinet minister in Manitoba.

WAS CANDIDATE

W. W. Buchanan, a brilliant member of the tariff board for many years whose expiring term was not renewed by the Conservatives, had been a Liberal candidate for Parliament.

On the restrictive trade practices commission, Mr. Smith succeeds Mr. Justice Dunlop, who was replaced by Robert S. McLellan, Conservative MP for Inverness-Richmond in Nova Scotia from 1958 until his defeat in 1962, and Dr. W. D. R. Eldon, a former research director of the Progressive Conservative party and headquarters here.



Mr. Dunlop's energy board secretary is Grey Hamilton, for several years special assistant to former Conservative finance minister Fleming.

Mr. T. Nixon, a member of the pension commission, is a former Conservative candidate in the Ontario constituency of Russell.

Another member is Gage W. Montgomery, Conservative MP from 1952 until last year for Victoria-Carleton in New Brunswick.

John Fraser, special assistant to John Diefenbaker when he was prime minister, was appointed early this year to head the commission charged with preparing for Canada's centennial.

These are only a few of the men who found important posts on key government bodies during the terms of office of their own political parties.

Your Car

Time Now For Seasonal Changeover

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Opinions differ regarding the seasonal demands made on the average car. Some consider winter weather worse , when frigid temperatures make parts brittle and put a greater strain on the entire car—while cold engine temperatures also invite sludge and increase wear on vital parts.

But many cars face a tougher task during warm weather months. They are regularly subjected to many miles of driving over secondary roads and hills, in extreme heat and heavy traffic, and with full loads etc. Thus, the car should be prepared to cope with new burdens.

That's why changeovers are important. The oil cooling system and all lubricants must be changed to suit seasonal temperatures. Carburetor, choke and ignition operation should be inspected because summer hot fires must be ready for rough service—lights and windshield wipers will see heavy duty and must be in top condition. Even the finish should be given a good waxing coating to protect it against rain, dew, scorching sun rays and salt air.

From N. W.:—"We just bought a new car ten days ago and last night something went wrong with the gas feed. The car won't begin moving unless I press the accelerator to the floor. What's wrong?"

Probably the pedal linkage. Get it back to your dealer, immediately.

H. B. asks:—"My engine misses, but only when I travel at fast highway speeds. The points haven't been checked out for the past several months—could this be the source of trouble?"

Dirty points can be at fault—but this may be wishful thinking. There are a dozen other more serious possibilities to consider, but a good mechanic can pinpoint the trouble quickly.

S. F. writes: How does one tell when brake linings are worn to the point where an adjustment is needed?"

When it becomes necessary to push the pedal extra stick shift / is standard equipment. With automatic transmission you pay an additional $200.

SEEK BRENS

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—RCMP here said Thursday they are trying to locate a number of Bren guns purchased by a scrap metal dealer here through Crown Assets Disposal Corporation and sold to the general public at $2.50 each. An RCMP spokesman said the guns can be restored to working order with little difficulty and as a result are subject to registration under the Criminal Code of Canada.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Club Seeks a Project

DEAR DORIS—Please suggest a project for our Afternoon Club. We are all married women and love to tackle something which will help children. Any ideas?—HAPPY HOMES.

• • •

DEAR HAPPY—Like to make Christmas stockings for tots in far off spots like Korea, Greece, Hong Kong? These are very special stockings: hold a toy, a knitted article, soap, crayons and other gifts; heat a maple leaf on their bright outside and carry a message of love to tragically deprived little ones.

DORIS CLARK

The Canadian Save the Children Fund was instrumental in providing 8,500 children with these treasures last year. I am sending you the instructions for making the stockings and filling them. There's room for some free wheeling about contents.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—We have a lovely brown-eyed little girl. She is getting the worst of this life and it's not fair at all.

My husband only keeps a job a short time; he drinks up all the money then comes home and beats me up. Hollers and yells; until our daughter wakes up screaming.

I ask the welfare for help but they can't make it up when he uses unemployment money for beer. Is my little girl supposed to suffer for this? Have you any ideas on how to solve this mess.—IN TROUBLE.

DEAR IN TROUBLE—Several ideas. Fight back. Call the police. See the child care agency. Seek treatment for the alcoholism. In this day and age you don't have to live like that. Put up a fight for the sake of Little Brown-Eyes.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO WANTS HIM—That "funny feeling which goes all the way through me" means you are a normal Canadian girl. If you did not react with some excitement to members of the other sex, there'd be something wrong. Practise saying "Hi" in front of a mirror and putting a nice big smile on your face. Then write to me about how to follow through with it. Little intelligent conversation. This time enclose a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope, and your right name, of course.

DEAR DORIS—Is it natural for a girl's mother and sister to tell her she is fat when she is not in the least bit so? My family is always telling me my backside is fat. Sometimes it is teasing, but the majority of the time it is in earnest.

I am 13 and I don't believe it should be expected of me to have a beautiful figure. I used to be very thin, but now I weigh 5 stone 4 and 3-4ths. My legs are considered the best in Grade 8. Why do they try to make me almost cry by criticizing my figure.—PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED—They just don't know how it hurts. Perhaps they think you are a bit vain about those nice legs. Go them one better by taking it in good part. Your figure is coming along nicely.

• • •

DEAR DORIS—I have six boys and no girls and my problem is that the boys make such a fuss about seeing someone partially dressed, even each other. If they see a bare bottom they can't seem to take their eyes off it.

Maybe I'm making something of nothing, for this might be nature's way of children's modesty. Be candid in answer, for I should let them see me undressed.—UNSURE.

DEAR UNSURE—Treat it like the normal curiosity it is. Let your boys bathe together; answer questions as they pop. Don't make a point of any self-conscious exposure, which often causes embarrassment and serve to rivet attention on sex.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO WONDERING, AGE 13—The street is no place for a very young lady at night. Have fun with your girl friends in your home or theirs — and be glad your mother cares about what you do.

DEAR DORIS—I would like to know what training or what type of job I could get with grade 11? Also, what training would I need for a store clerk? Would a better job be obtained with grade 12?

If you have any ideas, please help me as I do not intend to go back to school next year. I will be getting married in two years so there is no sense in grade 12 education to be a housewife.—DROPPING OUT.

• • •

DEAR DROPPING OUT—You and several thousand other misguided gals. Haven't you heard that it takes brains to run a house? And how about raising children? Understanding and sharing your husband's problems?

Take my advice and learn all you can, little as you see the connection now. By the time you miss is—and you will—the opportunity will be gone.

P.S.—Saleslades do better with Grade 12. I am sending you my pamphlet about this career.

• • •

(If Doris doesn't know the answer she'll find out—from one of her many consultants: doctor, minister, priest, lawyer, psychologist, or other. Ask her about what's troubling you.)

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

THE GUILTY ONE

In Birdland, as in Man's realm, many innocent suffer for the few guilty. How often beneficial birds are shot! When woodpeckers hammer on tree trunks people imagine that the tree is being damaged. How wrong they are! Hammering generally indicates that the tree is being relieved of injurious insects that have been boring holes in the inner bark. The sapsucker alone is guilty of doing any damage — and not very many trees are actually killed by its tapping.

The common yellow-bellied sapsucker, a trifle smaller than a hairy woodpecker, has a number of distinguishing characteristics. As far as looks are concerned, the long white patch on the wing differentiates it from its relatives. The most important, however, is just what the bird's name indicates — its love of sap. The sapsucker's tongue is unique. Unlike other woodpeckers', it cannot be pushed out very far and ends like a brush.

Have you ever seen a tree trunk girdled by evenly spaced rows of holes that make a pattern with the appearance of punch-work embroidery? The sapsucker is responsible for this. How a mere bird, without a ruler or tape measure, is able to work around the trunk in a perfectly straight line and space the holes absolutely evenly is one of Nature's secrets. Sap flows from these pores, insects collect to enjoy the sweetness and, finally, the sapsucker returns to feed on both sap and insects.

NOISY FELLOW

Around mid-April the male sapsucker arrives from the south and is soon making such a noise that we know he has come. The female follows shortly. Loud, "quirk" and "quirk" mewings and squeakings resound through the forest. The pair take turns gouging out a nesting hole 20 or 30 feet up in some old tree or tall stump. Bracing themselves with feet and tail they hammer away with their chisel-like beaks, their necks working so fast that their heads are hardly visible. Uneven thumps are characteristic of the sapsucker. The opening we see is only 1¼ inches, but the excavation is actually more than a foot deep. Sawdust litters the ground. By the end of May the home is ready for the first egg.

The four or five young are fed insects which their parents are very clever in catching in the air. These are stuck together with sap before being carried to the nest. Later, some fruit is taken. It is sometimes July before the noisy babies emerge.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Oh, to be in Louisville now that Derby Day is here. The Battle for the Roses is like Christmas and income tax. It's expensive and it only comes once a year.

The Derby is not only a horse race it is a state of mind like politics, marriage and beatniks. It will be run for the 89th time this afternoon and you can see it on the family private eye starting 5.30.

Over 100,000 people from all parts of the United States, Canada and other countries, except Cuba, will view the classic—or rather be in Louisville. Attendance figures are always 100,000. There are no official turnstiles at Churchill Downs and to "Downers" 100,000 is a standard figure like 1776.

Prancing thoroughbreds will go to the post in one of the most colorful settings in racedom. The gentleman horses carry the classic weight of 126 pounds. This afternoon's post time is strictly for the males. No racing queens are entered.

And the equine aristocrat who pokes a velvety muzzle over the finish line first will get all the royal accolades of a King for the Day and deposit in its owner's saddle-bags loot to the amount of $100,000, American.

Nine bluebloods will await the starter's gun, two of them undefeated, while the hand played plays "My Old Kentucky Home" and tens will moisten the cheeks of julep-mellow one-day Kentuckians from Dixie to Mexico.

The favorite is "Candy Spots," a proud beauty with a chestnut coat dappled with spots like a harlequin costume. He has starred six times, won six times and will be ridden today by one of racedom's greatest jockeys, Willie Shoemaker.

"No Robbery" is the other undefeated colt. He is a son of the famous "Swaps," who won the 1953 Derby for the owner of "Candy Spots." But "No Robbery," like an opera diva is temperamental. If he wants to run, he'll run. If he wants to investigate the infield over a fence, he will investigate.

But it will be the same gay colorful show that always marks the famous Blue Grass Classic. The rambling old Downs with its spire like a church will be packed with sportsmen, sportswomen and gatecrashers. The flowers will be in bloom and the Kentucky and other southern belles will be in pretty party dresses.

There will be long queues at the pari-mutuel windows. There will be Derby breakfasts and mint juleps in frosted cut-glass bowls. There will be a vice-president, governors, mayors and thousands of taxpayers. There will be fried chicken and old hickory ham in baskets on the brakestreich.

Colored stableboys will be walking their "darlings", crooning softly as they lead them around and around. Little darky gals will dart through the tan-deep crowd along the track saying, "Wherrell dem hawses. I done been here fo' hawrs and I ain't seen a hawse yit." Flags will be flying and there will be music.

There will be side attractions. There will be a steamboat race on the Ohio River. Louisville's beloved Mayor Cohen Wright Charles Farnely will be there in his braided cuffed suit, broad-brimmed hat and cane.

Louisvillians who drink Scotch and soda and martinis like ordinary citizens most of the year, will switch to mint juleps. The bar-room juleps will be weak and prices high.

Visitors live in hotel rooms that have been raised in price from $9 and $10 a day to $20 and $25 a day single, and you can't rent them less than three days.

Wildcat taxi-drivers charge as high as $20 per head for the short ride to the Downs from downtown hotels when post time nears.

Approximately one-tenth of those in the rambling stands will have a good view of the race, one-fourth of the crowd will see a bobbing jockey's cap, the others will see the backs of those in front of them, but they all will brag they've seen a Derby and never count the cost.

Canada's Greatest Showing ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Nancy McCredie Wins Second Gold

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) — When Nancy McCredie was left off the Canadian team that went to the British Empire Games in Australia last year, she concealed her emotions, flexed her young muscles and tore into a stepped-up training program.

Today the strapping 18-year-old Brampton, Ont., high school girl is enjoying the fruits of her labor, basking in the limelight as the only person with two gold medals in track and field at the fourth Pan-American Games.

Tears of happiness streamed down her cheeks Friday after she'd won the women's discus with a record-breaking throw to become the first Canadian athlete since 1928 to turn a double in track and field in major international games.

Last Sunday the brawny youngster put the shot for a games record and a gold medal.

Her discus victory followed by a few hours another Canadian gold - medal triumph, which boosted the Canadian team's total here to 19 golds—the greatest showing ever by Canada in international games.

EASY FOR OAKLEY

Alex Oakley, of John's, Nfld., born heel-and-toe specialist who now lives in Oshawa, Ont., easily outdistanced a field of 12 to win the initial games run-ning of the 20,000-metre walk.

Nick Mammone of Montreal crossed the finish line second to give Canada its first gold and silver medals in the event.

Meanwhile, Diane Gerace, a 19-year-old stenographer from Trail, B.C., was adding to Canada's impressive medal list in track and field by finishing second to Eleanor Montgomery of the U.S. in the women's high jump.

She shed tears of joy, too, when the medals were presented.

Sandra Marks, 19, and Marilyn Manstead, both of Quebec City, picked up a bronze medal Friday night by finishing third to two United States pairs in the synchronized swimming duet competition.

The day's results—in which the United States added four track and field golds, won the men's basketball title — boosted Canada's total to 19 golds, with five in track and field, 25 silvers, with four in track and field, and 29 bronze, with one in track and field.

DIDN'T WIN ONE

Canada won no gold medals in track and field in the first three Pan-American Games and won only two silvers and six bronzes in that area in Chicago in 1955. When the 175-member team—41 larger than the team here—got seven golds, 21 silvers and 29 bronze.

Canadians may add to their totals in today's windup to the games. Saturday and April 27 will chances in the relays, the 1,500 metre run and the women's long jump the final.

Miss McCredie, a five-foot, 9½-inch 175-pounder who has been described as a girl who might be taken for a tall-girl fashion model, won her second gold medal with a discus toss of 164 feet, 7½ inches, cracking by nearly three feet the previous games record of 161 feet, 9½ inches set by Mrs. Earlene Brown of the U.S. in 1959.

It was the best toss ever for the talented youngster, who has shown well in hurdles and javelin in addition to the discus and shot put and who also is a talented singer and budding artist.

TOPS BEST

The Belleville-born Miss McCredie, who conditioned herself with a combination of mental and physical exercises in which she visualizes herself making a final competition while lifting weights to increase her strength, had a previous best throw in discus of 151 feet, three inches—the Canadian record.

She finished far ahead of second-place Esmeralda Pfalzer of Argentina, who tossed a 154 feet, 11 inches.

Oakley, lanky 133-pounder who at 34 is a veteran of two Olympics, won the walk—equivalent to about 12½ miles—in one hour, 42 minutes, 42.2 seconds to finish half a mile ahead of Mamm.

The Montrealer, a 38-year-old native of Rossacesia, Italy, was timed in 1:46:16. Ronald A. Zinn of the U.S. was third.

Miss Manstead, a member of the Canadian indoor track and field championships in 1962 and holder of a provincial women's high jump record of five feet, six inches, cleared five feet, 4¾ inches Friday to place second to the U.S. winner who cleared five.

WINS HURDLES

In other track events Friday Blaine Lindgren of the U.S. won the men's 110-metre hurdles in 13.8 seconds, breaking the previous games record of 14.0; Edward Caruthers of the Olympic champion from the U.S., the broad jump with a record leap of 26 feet, 7½ inches (more inches better than the previous mark; and Al Hall of the U.S. took the 1,500-metre run with a record 265 feet, 10 inches, 10 feet, one inch better than his own 1959 mark.

The U.S. won its third successive men's basketball crown by defeating Brazil 77-66 before 30,000 screaming fans Friday night in the concluding games of the games. Each had 5-0 records going into the final.

Topsy-Turvy American

Kansas City Regains Top Spot

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

In the topsy-turvy American League, it seems reasonable that one of the hottest pitchers is Ed Rakow, a relieving pitcher who found the back door to major league baseball in a weekend chapel.

Rakow, a 26-year-old right-hander, put Kansas City Athletics back into first place by blanking Boston Red Sox to four hits Friday. Wayne Causey provided the key single that gave the Athletics a 3-1 victory over the Red Sox in their battle for top spot in the American League race.

The triumph was Rakow's third against one defeat this season.

Not bad for a guy who was told "forget it son, you can't throw hard enough" when he went into the league try-out, then bumped into a scout at a friend's wedding who got him a look-see in the big leagues.

The loss dropped the Red Sox into a tie with Minnesota Twins, New York Yankees, who used Clete Boyer's 10th-inning home run for a 4-3 decision over Minnesota Twins.

TIGERS ARE LAST

Baltimore Orioles got consecutive ninth-inning homers from Jesus Aparicio and Joe Gaines and dropped Detroit Tigers into last place with an 8-5 triumph. Cleveland Indians edged Los Angeles Angels 3-1 and Washington Senators beat Chicago White Sox 5-2.

Causey, hitting at a .397 clip, rapped a three-run uprising in the seventh inning against Bill Monbouquette with a two-run single.

Boyer's blow broke up a pitching duel between Minnesota starter and loser Dick Stigman and Jim Bouton, Yankee reliever who hurled no-hit ball over the final four innings after taking over from Bill Stafford.

Only two pitchers' separated the homers by Aparicio and Gaines off Fred Talbot and sent the Tigers down to their third straight defeat and 11th in 12 games.

The Indians scored two unearned runs off Los Angeles starter Don Lee in the fifth on a sacrifice flies by Woody Held and Fred Whitfield, then held on behind Gary Bell's relief pitching.

The Senators lashed 13 hits, including Larry Osborne's fifth homer, and beat the White Sox behind Don Rudolph's five-hit pitching.

Ycaza Rides 'Sally Ship' To Oaks Win

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cain Hoy Stable's Sally Ship parlayed a brilliant ride by Manuel Ycaza and a powerful finish into victory Friday in the 89th running of the $465,100 Kentucky Oaks at Churchill Downs. Ycaza used the same formula that he used recently at Keeneland when he rode Sally Ship right off the pasture with Bonnie's Girl and bided his time until the latter came back to him.

Bonnie's Girl, owned by J. H. Kleinfort, finished second and Hillcrest Farm's Power Drive third. The Oaks, billed as the Kentucky Derby for three-year old fillies, set the stage for the 89th running of the Derby Saturday.

Sally Ship covered the 1 1-16 miles in one minute, 44 and 4-5 seconds and returned $5.80 and $2.60. Bonnie's Girl returned $2.80 to place. There was no show betting.

Record Gate Forecast For Fight

HALIFAX (CP) — A record 7,000-seat boxing gate was forecast Friday for tonight's 12-round championship fight here between Canadian middleweight champion Bobby Richardson and ex-champ Willie Greaves.

With tickets priced higher than for any other fight held here, the gate was expected to top $20,000. Tickets range from $2 to $5.

Richardson, 22-year-old divinity student from South Bay, N.S., has been guaranteed $5,000. Greaves 27, and the more experienced of the two, has been guaranteed $4,500.

Richardson won the championship from Greaves, an Edmonton native who fights out of Detroit, at Glace Bay, N.S., last Sept. 29 after losing to Greaves in the first bout at Glace Bay last June.

Liston-Patterson Postponed Again

Floyd's Hand Infected

NEW YORK (AP)—The world heavyweight title rematch between champion Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson has been postponed again—this time to July 22 in Las Vegas, Nev., because of Patterson's ailing right hand.

The original date had been April 4 in Miami Beach, Fla. It was postponed until April 10 in Miami Beach, then switched to Las Vegas for June 27.

The latest postponement was announced here early today by Al Bolan, vice-president of the promoting Championship Sports Incorporated, who said Patterson will not be able to resume sparring for at least three weeks and perhaps a month.

"It took six stitches to close the incision necessary to remove an infected callous from Floyd's little finger," Bolan said. "Patterson had it done last week but didn't tell us anything about it until Wednesday. He still didn't think it was serious until a doctor told him he would be jeopardizing his hand if he resumed sparring right now."

Patterson apparently suffered the injury while working out at his camp in Highland Mills, N.Y., although he hinted earlier in the week he had been bothered by the callous since he was in Florida in March. It became infected last week.

News of the ailment spread last Wednesday night when Floyd turned up at a boxing show in Union City, N.J., at which his brother Ray was making his second professional fight.

Patterson's hand was heavily bandaged but he scoffed at any chance of a postponement, saying: "I don't think my hand's any worse than Liston's knee."

Bolan said the last thing Floyd wanted was a postponement.

"In three weeks or so the hand will be 100 per cent and we want both fighters to be 100 per cent for the rematch."

Liston, if not Floyd, was that for the first fight, last Sept. 25 in Chicago. He disposed of Patterson by a knockout in the first round.

Jim Norris says that watching National Hockey League games in Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens reminds him of a tennis match. Elliott Trumbull, public relations director of Detroit Red Wings, says the place is like a cathedral.

The observations were made at the tail-end of the Stanley Cup playoffs when the Leafs wrapped up the best-of-seven final in a six-game set over the Red Wings.

"You know," said Norris with a twinkle in his eye, "I've watched the crowds at the Gardens and they wig-wag their heads to follow the play just as spectators do at a tennis match."

Norris, co-owner with Arthur Wirtz of Chicago Black Hawks, was kidding. It was his way of pointing out the difference in behavior of crowds at the Gardens and at Chicago Stadium, home of the Hawks, where just about everything goes. Leaf fans hoot and holler but desist from throwing garbage onto the ice as their counterparts in Chicago and Detroit usually do.

"I remember watching a guy in the Gardens one night who sneaked up to the boards and actually dropped a rubber onto the ice," Norris chuckled.

STAID CUSTOMERS

Trumbull says Toronto hockey writers a good-natured ribbing with his reference to the Gardens as a cathedral.

Compared with the rowdy, boisterous crowds at Chicago Stadium and Detroit Olympia, fans at Maple Leaf Gardens occasionally toss nothing more offensive than programs and hats on the ice. In the American circuit arena red-ink, firecrackers, live hamsters, tissue paper, hats, shoes and lead pellets have hit the ice.

Johnny Gottselig, public relations director of the Hawks, remembers a time when even a chair was thrown.

Now, an Illinois lawmaker has come up with a motion seeking a ban on mechanical noise makers at athletic events. He got a motion passed in the House judiciary committee that says any person using a mechanized noisemaker is liable to a fine of up to $25.

SIRENS, COWBELLS

Specifically, Republican Claude Walker took dead aim at the nuts who inhabit Chicago Stadium.

"I'm not a fuddy-duddy," he told the committee. "I believe you should have the right to shout, hiss, boo, scream or yell 'kill the umpire,' but to have some jerk in back of you with a siren or cowbell—that spoils the game."

He said he was caught between two fans at a hockey game who were blasting air horns. "It's getting out of hand. Pretty soon someone will show up with a calliope, or a mortar or a steam whistle."

Hockey writers around the NHL circuit know exactly what he means.

Chicago Stadium fans are the rowdiest and noisiest of any possibly in North America.

In comparison, Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens does resemble the center court at Wimbledon as Jim Norris implies.

Memorial Cup Play

Coaches Agree, 'Tough Series'

EDMONTON (CP)—The rival coaches in the Memorial Cup junior hockey championship series have shrugged off an eight-goal victory margin in the first game and are predicting the remainder of the best-of-seven competition will be a tough affair.

"They had an off night—it's going to be a tough series yet," said coach Hap Emms after his Niagara Falls Flyers walloped Edmonton Oil Kings 8 - 0 on Thursday night's first game.

"They certainly aren't eight goals better than us," said Oil King coach Buster Brayshaw.

Brayshaw says he expects to make a few changes for the second game tonight. He declined to reveal what these will be but said they will depend on how forward Harold Fleming's injured knee shapes up.

Neither club suffered serious injuries Thursday night, although Niagara Falls may be without the services of captain Terry Crisp. The hard-hitting centre picked up a painful charleyhorse midway through the second period of the opening contest.

SERIES IS UNDER PROTEST

Emms reiterated that he is playing every game the series—win or lose—under protest. He filed the protest with Art Potter of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, after learning the goal line at Edmonton Gardens was 15 feet from the backboards while CAHA rules call for a distance of just 10 feet. Potter has made no comment on the protest.

The third and fourth games of the series are set for Monday and Tuesday.

LAUDS SPORTS

Both clubs attended the eighth annual Memorial Cup banquet Friday night and were told by Rev. David Bauer, coach of Canada's 1964 winter Olympic hockey team:

"Sports does something for young boys and girls that is highly essential to their make-up. It gives them confidence and psychological security and this will help them face the problems of adulthood."

Father Bauer said it is time "to study ways and means of upgrading amateur hockey in Canada."

A clear line was needed between the professionals and amateurs, "but all groups should join together to look around for an answer to the problem."

Hockey is sweeping Europe but dying in Canada, he said. "All of us might be well advised to take a look at what we have done to our game in Canada."

He said all leagues should be expanded, from the National League to the juniors.

Pirates, Giants Gain

Nuxhall Blanks High-Flying Cardinals

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Nuxhall broke into major league baseball so long ago that when Cincinnati Reds brought him back last year, some folks thought he was his son.

Actually, it was a different Nuxhall. Gone was the wild lefty who pitched one inning for Reds in 1944 at the age of 15, the youngest player ever to appear in the big time. Nuxhall came back as a control pitcher.

He demonstrated that again Friday night as he set down the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals 6-0 on five hits and didn't walk a man.

Pittsburgh Pirates closed to within a game of the Cards, as they bombed Los Angeles Dodgers 13-3.

San Francisco Giants also moved to within a game of the leaders with a 5-3 decision over New York Mets.

Chicago Cubs topped Milwaukee Braves 10-7 and Philadelphia Phils downed Houston Colts 4-3.

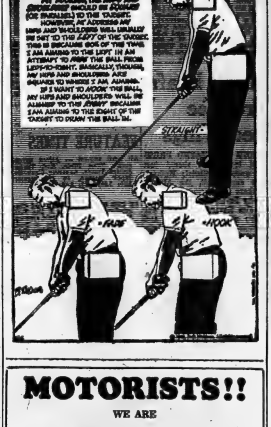
Nuxhall, who had a 5-0 record last season after the Reds rescued him from San Diego, posted his first victory of the year. Leo Cardenas and rookie Pete Rose backed him with homers.

Bonus baby Bob Bailey banged a pair of homers and drove in five runs as the Pirates abused five Dodger pitchers.

A crowd of 49,631, largest in the majors this year and the biggest the Mets have drawn for a single game, turned out for Mays night at the Polo Grounds. Willie, who tried hard to hit a homer for the fans in the park where he burst to greatness with the old New Giants, had to settle for a run-scoring double in four trips to the plate.

Roy Sievers delivered a pinch-hit double with the bases loaded in the sixth inning to spark the Phillies. Howie Goss homered for the Colts.

The Cubs smashed three homers, by Ron Santo, Billy Williams and Ernie Banks.



Hank Aaron hit his ninth homer for the Braves. Warren Spahn started but was shelled in the third, although Raymond (3-3) took the loss.

Nicklaus Continues Wreck Job

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Masters' Champion Jack Nicklaus continued his wrecking job in the $60,000 Tournament of Champions Friday, clubbing a four-under-par 68 that stretched his lead after 36 holes to five strokes over Arnold Palmer.

Once again playing the par 36-36—72 Desert Inn Country Club course as if he owned it, 23-year-old Jack toured the premises in 34-34. His round was not as sensational as his tournament record 64 Thursday but it gave him a fat cushion going into the final two rounds today and Sunday. His total score was 132.

Palmer had a 35-36—71 for a 137 total and two strokes back was Dr. Cooper Jr., with a 33-36—69 for 139.

Classy Field Set For Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—One of the classiest fields since 1957 — when Iron Liege, Gallant Man, Round Table and Bold Ruler went to the post—was entered in the 89th running of the Kentucky Derby today.

Candy Spots, Never Bend and No Robbery in this year's running seemed the class of the lot.

Candy Spots and No Robbery, two colts with unblemished records this season, headed the field today.

Rex C. Ellsworth's Candy Spots, 6-to-5 favorite for the run at Churchill Downs, won the six races in which he started and could be the second straight California colt to capture the blue-ribbon classic. Decidedly won in record time a year ago.

The other unbeaten colt was No Robbery, a speedy late-comer who won five straight for the Greentree stable of John Hay Whitney and his sister, Mrs. Charles S. Payson.

Never Bend, last year's champion two-year-old in the United States from Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim's Cain Hoy Stable and John W. Galbreath's Chateaugay were both three-for-three this season. Never Bend was second choice at 5 to 2, with No Robbery next at 3 to 1 and Chateaugay 15 to 1.

FIELD IS SMALL

A field of nine, smallest in six years, was scheduled to go to the post before about 100,000 fans at 5:30 p.m. EDT for the $125,000-added event. If all go, the pot will gross $125,400, with $106,900 for the winner.

The derby will be televised by CBS and carried in Canada by CBC-TV starting at 5 p.m. EDT.

The weatherman promised partly cloudy skies with the temperature around 78 degrees.

Networks Already Girding For Rating War Next Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Television rating services may be under attack in Washington and elsewhere, but the networks are already girding for the rating war of 1963-64.

What would the television trade do without ratings? TV people wouldn't be able to gossip about who has been born in the overnight rating, what show was in trouble with a puny-share-of-audience and which one was saved by a 1.5 per cent rating rise.

Why, nobody would have known that Beverly Hillbillies was the biggest thing in television, if the ratings hadn't said so!

It's safe to say that television will still rely on ratings, improved or no, to determine the hits from the flops. No sense in relying on such ordinary methods as human, aesthetic and entertainment values.

SHUFFLE SHOWS

Next season shapes up as one of the most interesting rating wars in years. All three networks are going all-out for victory, shuffling schedules like a pinochle deck.

ABC is the most active shuffler, having disposed of nearly all of its 1962-63 programming. NBC is offering a host of new shows.

Even CBS, by far the winner of this season's rating derby, has decided to rest on its laurels. It has disposed of such reliables as Dobie Gillis and The Real McCoys to make way for fresh offerings.

Sunday night is always a prime battleground, and million dollars are being poured into next season's fight. CBS is sticking with Ed Sullivan in his traditional spot, preceding him with an out - of - this - world comedy, My Favorite Martian. Judy Garland's song-fest will follow Sullivan in an attempt to win over the Bonanza fanciers.

COCA BACK

NBC continues with Walt Disney and Bonanza, slipping Imogene Coca's Grindl between.

ABC has scheduled a whole new slate for Sunday night, including the western Jesse McPhetters, and the 90-minute Arena Dilly with Chuck Connors and Ben Gazzara.

ABC is hoping for a look-in on the Saturday night race with three shows: The folk music Hootenany, Lawrence Welk and Jerry Lewis' two-hour romp. NBC is offering a new show, The Lieutenant, to precede Bonanza Friday and the movies.

CBS is not remaining smug with its Saturday powerhouse of Jackie Gleason, The Defenders and Gunsmoke. The network is adding the new Phil Silvers Show for instance.

Opening Two-Ball Sunday

Plans have been drafted to make the opening mixed two-ball at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club, slated for tomorrow, afternoon, a gala and fun-filled affair.

Play will get under way at 2.30 and all members are urged to turn out for a real afternoon's enjoyment.

Members are also reminded that they can bring a novice player, or even a friend or neighbor, for this affair and there will be no green fees. The competition will be a nine-hole affair.

To make it that much tougher, and more fun, "monkey golf" rules will be used for this mixed two-ball. In other words players will be allowed to use only one iron and a putter.

With a long summer of serious golf ahead for many, Sunday's play will prove a

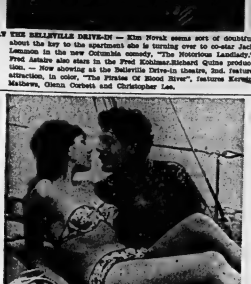
At the Park
"Divorce Italian Style"
What's In a Name?
Mastroianni's Magnetism
Prompts Boxoffice Magic

The name Mastroianni has suddenly become an international gold mine. The talented actor, Marcello Mastroianni, who until recently was relatively unknown on these shores, is now the subject and screen image being talked about, publicized and viewed by millions of movie-goers here and abroad.

Mastroianni's latest effort, which earned him the coveted Italian Silver Ribbon as Best Actor, "Divorce Italian Style," is being presented by Joseph E. Levine. The prize-winning comedy-satire of morals, recipient of the Cannes Film Festival "Best Comedy" award, opens Monday at the Park Theatre and co-stars Daniela Rocca, Stefania Sandrelli, Leopoldo Trieste, Odoardo Spadaro and Rita Girelli.



With the critical acclaim showered upon Mastroianni for his performance in "La Dolce Vita," Italy's handsome leading face and dame suddenly blossomed as an American scene, with producers seeking his service and distributors buying up all his recent and old films. Currently in addition to "Divorce Italian Style," he is represented by "Adua and Her Pals-Night," "Bell' Antonio," "Big Deal on Madonna Street" and "The Law" (formerly released here in English as "Where The Hot Wind Blows"). Hollywood has already set him to appear in a film with Brigitte Bardot and Federico Fellini plans to star Marcello in a new film similar to "La Dolce Vita." The actor, who early aspired to become famous, "just a good actor," has been rather astonished at the influx of old films boasting him as the lead player when he merely had a small part.

An Embassy Pictures release, "Divorce-Italian Style," stars Mastroianni as a middle-aged married man who desires to replace his wife with a younger more passionate love; unfortunately, his country does not approve of Divorce, except for extra-marital affairs. The film, written and directed by Pietro Germi, earned the Italian Silver Ribbon for Best Plot and Screenplay and recently winner of two Academy Awards, Best Original Story and Screenplay.

On the same program another hilarious comedy from the producers of (The Mouse That Roared) "A Matter of Who" starring Terry Thomas. Complete shows at 7.00 and 8.50 p.m.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Kim Novak seems sort of doubtful about the key to the apartment she is turning over to co-star Jack Lemmon in the new Columbia comedy, "The Notorious Landlady," Fred Astaire also stars in the Fred Kohlmar-Richard Quine production. — Now showing at the Belleville Drive-in theatre, 2nd. Feature attraction, in color, "The Pirates Of Blood River", features Kerwin Mathews, Glenn Corbett and Christopher Lee.

AT THE PARK — TO Love, Honor And Oh Boy! Marcello Mastroianni, a frustrated married man, achieves his ultimate goal of "replacing" his wife with lovely nymph-like Stefania Sandrelli in Joseph E. Levine's prize-winning comedy, "Divorce-Italian Style," arriving Monday at the Park Theatre, Daniela Rocca co-stars in this Pietro Germi satire of morals which received the Cannes Festival "Best Comedy" award. — Also winner of two academy awards best original story and screen play. On the same program another quality comedy, "A Matter of Who", starring Terry-Thomas and Alec Nicol. Complete shows, 7.00 and 8.55 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Terry-Thomas and his friend Tony Curtis, chimney sweeps to face the climax of "A Matter of Who" opening Monday at the Park Theatre and tells of the hilarious antics of a health official in pursuit of an unknown element. — On the same program, "Divorce Italian Style."

AT THE BELLE — Rod Taylor and Tippi Hedren provide the love interest against the background of "The Birds" — but terror is Alfred Hitchcock's color shocker. Also starring are Jessica Tandy, Suzanne Pleshette, Veronica Cartwright, a bird over today through Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre.

Maple Leafs Trounce Red Wings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Old teammates should just fade away like Christy Mathewson's curve ball, the Atlanta Crackers agreed today.

Lefty Taylor Phillips and slugger Jim Koranda appeared out of the past Friday night and combined their talents to help Indianapolis win an 11-6 International League baseball game. The victory enabled the Indians to move into a virtual tie with Atlanta for second place in the League's Southern Division.

Arkansas followed the superb pitching of big John Hoozer to a 2-1 11 inning victory over Buffalo and padded its Southern Division lead to 1½ games over Atlanta and Indianapolis. Columbus shaded Jacksonville 4-3 with a ninth - inning scoring.

Syracuse slugged Richmond Virginians 13 - 1 and Toronto bounded into third place in the Northern Division by trouncing Rochester Red Wings 8-4.

BLANKS CRACKERS

Phillips, who hurled brilliantly for Atlanta in the Southern Association 10 years ago, blanked the Crackers in 6 1-3 innings of sharp relief. Husky Koranda, leading slugger when the Crackers won their 7th Southern pennant three years ago, proved a single that triggered a five-run Indianapolis blast in the first inning.

Hoozer blanked Buffalo for Arkansas after yielding a home run to Grimm Mason, the first Bison batter.

Lefty Willie Smith restricted Richmond to seven hits for Syracuse and rapped three of the Chiefs' 10 hits.

Toronto pinned Rochester with its seventh loss in the past eight games. The Maple Leafs massed eight of their 11 hits for eight runs in the first four innings to present veteran righthander Steve Ridzik with his third victory in four decisions.

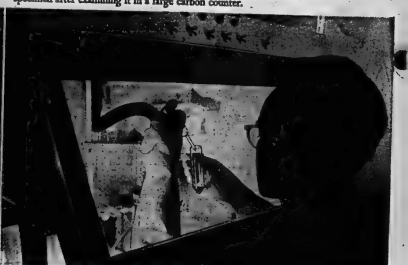
Studying Four Million Square Miles and Half of Eternity

Radioactive Rocks Tell Canada's Secrets

Fragments of radioactive rocks from across Canada are telling the country's geologists that parts of Canada are nearly 1,000,000,000 years old. In the laboratories of the Geological Survey of Canada specimens of rock are analysed to find the amount of radioactive residue that has gradually formed in them over many millions of years. From these delicate measurements scientists pin down the actual ages of various rocks and learn more about Canada's geological history than ever before. Their new-found knowledge will add greatly to the future of the nation's vital mineral industry by helping prospectors look more successfully for rich mineral deposits. Other radioactive studies find what types of plants absorb such metals as gold and zinc when growing over mineral bodies. This study may bring a new type of prospector into the exploration field—a mineral seeker who collects plants instead of rock samples in his hunt for mineral wealth. Canada, with almost 4,000,000 square miles of land and an economy heavily dependent on mineral wealth, has ever been a geologist's country. Twenty-five years before the nation was born through Confederation, the parliament of Upper and Lower Canada (in 1842) resolved that money be granted for a geological survey. Since then many famous geologists have come and gone, many new techniques have been evolved to carry out their monumental task. Helicopters, balloon-tired aircraft, air-photography, geochemistry, have all helped quicken Canadian geology to a pace that would astound an old-time geologist. Yet, as every mineral deposit found by conventional methods makes future prospecting that much harder, geology must expand into ever wider fields of knowledge. Taking full advantage of the space-age's technological and scientific advances, Canada's geologists are gaining a deeper insight into the mystery of the earth's beginnings, are using it to accumulate information for tomorrow's search for mineral wealth.

Geologist Hal Seacey, of Ottawa, checks the radioactivity of a rock sample with a scintillation counter before it is used for age determination.



Chemical engineer Willie Dyck, of Saskatoon, freezes down carbon dioxide from a specimen after examining it in a large carbon counter.

Bill Smith, from Rouyn, Que., fuses mica to separate a sample's argon content during research in high-vacuum separation laboratory.

Geologists Alice Payne, of Edmonton, and Kathie Muirhead, Saskatoon, examine 1934-model geiger counter.

By JOHN OUGH

Astronomical distances, incomprehensible in earthly miles, are measured by scientists in "light years" (each worth 6 trillion miles) and "parsecs" (worth about 20 trillion miles). Geologists, who study the earth's crust, also use figures that cannot easily be visualized: billions of years of elapsed time. Human minds, tending to become confused when thinking back more than a few thousand years, are likely to become more so when considering the tens, hundreds and thousands of millions of years that have elapsed since the earth began about four and a half billion years ago. This mental restriction is not surprising — man is a relative newcomer on this planet. In fact, if the Parliament Buildings' Peace Tower in Ottawa, which stands 290 feet high, were to represent the "Rock of Ages" the total length of time that man has been upon this earth could be indicated by a piece a half-inch plywood placed on the top, and the two thousand years that have elapsed since the birth of Christ would make but a fine layer of dust on the plywood.

Geologists, through careful study of the remains of small marine creatures and algae from bygone seas, imbedded in rocks, have been able to find out the sequence of events and relative ages of many rocks. Where such fossils are found, some layers of rock have been dated back as far as a billion years (or just about down to the clock face on the Peace Tower scale). Now, geologists have found an elaborate modern tool which enables them to know the absolute age of rocks, not just their relative ages.

Most rocks contain small amounts of radioactive elements. Physicists' studies have provided accurate figures of the half-life-decay phenomena of these various elements from which can be calculated the amount of spent matter that is produced by so much radioactive substance in a given period. Today, Canada's Geological Survey has developed laboratory techniques and equipment with which they are dating hundreds of rock samples each year with fine accuracy, finding the ages of some of the oldest rocks in the world — 2,800,000,000 years old (getting nearly two-thirds of the way down the Peace Tower), by examination of their Potassium/Argon and Rubidium/Strontium ratios.

Radioactive age determination has suddenly thrown new light on the geological history of the earth. Fossils themselves are being dated through their carbon content so that now the painstaking building up of knowledge of the sequence of events during the last 50,000 years can be rigidly pegged down to a true scale of time. Even the date of the last Canadian ice age has been halved from 25,000 years ago to 12,000 years by radio-active studies.

Exciting as such knowledge is to geologists and other scientists for its value in pure research, the absolute determination of rock ages is also packed with latent practical information. As theories give way to facts the true history of rocks, formations and regions will provide a solid framework on which to build up the pieces of knowledge stemming from other aspects of geological science. For the mineral prospector there will be additional clues to use in the search for economic deposits as the geologist makes use of his new-found knowledge. Already, rock formations in varying regions of the country have been related to each other (and with formations in other countries) by common ages so that what has previously been discovered about one, by geologists and prospectors, through detailed field examination, can be adapted to another. This is especially important as the search for additional rich deposits of Canadian minerals becomes more pressing. Also, through finding the absolute ages of formations on a regional scale, the boundaries of the geological provinces — clearly defined across vast areas of Canada. As these boundaries are considered to be exceptionally good hunting grounds for mineral wealth, their exact positioning is a prime example of the value of age determination in the finding of orebodies.

Other fascinating uses of radioactivity in the laboratory have even more direct and practical applications for mineral discovery. In a greenhouse atop the Geological Survey of Canada building in Ottawa, various small trees are being grown in soils containing radioactive nutrients and trace elements of such metals as gold and zinc. Examination by sensitive geiger counters will show where such trace metals are concentrated in the plant structure and what types of vegetation a prospector-naturalist should study in the field. This method might enable discovery of mineral deposits underlying soils that are diffused with minute quantities of large metal deposits contained in the rocks below. Even infinitesimal amounts of gold and platinum contained by plants are being detected by new, delicate laboratory studies. These developments are expected to enable a scientist to carefully sift clues to rich deposits by routine examination of plants brought to his laboratory from remote areas. Also, diffusion studies, which track the direction and rate of movement by mineral particles within the earth, are being carried out with radioactive tracers. In this way the scientist-geologist will get inside information on the likely spots of concentration to which minerals have slowly moved over the millions of years.

Since the first official report of a radioactive substance by the Geological Survey of Canada 100 years ago and the making of one of the world's first portable geiger counters in a cigar box by Canadian geologist H. V. Ellsworth in 1934, the use of radioactivity has become an exact science in Canadian geology. From the simple form of prospecting with a geiger counter by surface examination (it takes only two feet of solid rock to blanket the richest uranium deposit) a dozen years ago, federal geologists have taken the phenomena and evolved an intricate time-determination machine, stretching back to the date of origin of the earth's oldest rocks; have dated shells, wood, peat, charcoal, dinosaur bones and other organic materials formed in the last 50,000 years of recent time; and are developing techniques of research and prospecting in keeping with today's space-age sophistication. Radioactivity today is the latest tool of Canadian geologists, helping them solve both present and future problems by a long, accurate look back through the misty eons of the past.

SHOOTING THE CHUTE below Lazier's Dam on the Moira River in Belleville, Rolph Gut of Toronto, a member of the Ontario Voyageurs Club, rides his 15-foot, 35-pound fibreglas kayak through the rocks and white water below the dam. Of five club boats which went over the dam during a weekend excursion on the Moira, only one was wrecked, and nobody was hurt.

Ontario Voyageurs' Club, Using Kayaks, Runs Moira R. Including Dams Near City

Five boats were swept over the ruins of Lazier's Dam, on the Moira River in Belleville yesterday. It was no accident though — the boats were kayaks, and the occupants were members of the Ontario Voyageurs' Club, who deliberately paddled into the current at the top of the falls. Of the five paddlers, some of whom went over the falls several times, there was only 1 casualty, Menfred Bauer, of Toronto, who was sucked into the wrong channel and his folding kayak was wrecked. Mr. Bauer himself suffered only minor scratches. Another paddler, Eckhart Rapin of Peterborough spun around in the whirlpool just below the falls and shot the rapids below backwards — and successfully.

The paddlers, about thirty strong, assembled Saturday on the river about three miles south of Tweed. With camping gear divided between kayaks, canoes and some cars, they cruised the "easy" part of the river, to an overnight camping near Latta.

PART OF RUN TAME

From Latta, Sunday morning, the white-water-lovers considered the initial part of the run a bit tame. So they loaded their boats on cars, and put them in the river again at the dam in Corbyville. Eckhart Rapin, of Peterborough, paddled over the Corbyville dam, but the rest put their canoes in the river below the dam, for white-water thrills in the rapids below, and en-route to Cannifton. They all portaged the Cannifton dam, and all put them—Eckhart Rapin and Rolph Gut, of Toronto, portaged Lazier's dam the first time through. The run from Lazier's dam to Victoria Park, where the paddlers pulled their boats out for lunch, was interrupted only by the rapids above the upper bridge, in Belleville, where some paddlers insisted on paddling back up, after they had gone down.

Back at Lazier's dam for further runs, some of the paddlers put their boat in below the dam, and spelwt about a half hour fighting the rapids and eddies. Some, more daring, carried their canoes up to the head of the chute—below the dam on the east side of the river, and put them in there. A few of the more experienced paddlers put their kayaks in above the dam, and shot the works.

Shooting rapids in kayaks is a sport which arose in Europe, after the Second World War. It probably originated with the British Marine Commandos, who used light folding boats to infiltrate enemy ports, to attach limpet bombs on ships. After the war, the Europeans found the folding boats were perfect for vacations by train and bus, and they soon discovered the boats were rugged enough to take dangerous Alpine rivers in stride.

When the immigration rush arrived in Canada, it included some of these Europeans, and their boats. The sport has grown in Canada and abroad since then, and the folding boats are now made by several firms in Europe. Fibreglass kayaks are made both in Europe and in Canada.

Husband of Victim Tells Story of Events Leading Up to Castleton Shootings

CASTLETON, Ont. (CP) — Frederick Campbell, 30, has told the story of events leading up to the shooting deaths in this hamlet Thursday night of his 19-year-old, eight - month pregnant wife, her mother, sister and sister-in-law.

The women were blasted to death with two revolvers and a shotgun loaded with deer pellets.

Former clergyman Robert Killins, 56, father of Frederick's wife Pearl, died Friday night from severe head wounds he suffered during the shooting spree. Police said that although many witnesses were still to be questioned, evidence indicates that Killins was responsible for the deaths.

No charges were laid while Killins lay in a coma under armed police guard in Cobourg Hospital.

From his hospital bed at Cobourg, 15 miles southwest of here, Fred Campbell said he had been called to the home of Mrs. Killins (Robert Killins' wife, killed first), where he watched Killins struggle with Thomas Major, 43, (a wounded) who boarded with Mrs. Killins.

He said: "I was starting to take my boots off to go to bed when Peggy (Mrs. Killins' 16-year-old daughter) burst into the house, sobbing and shaking. I thought she was having convulsions.

"She cried 'I saw mummy. They're fighting awful over there.'

The Campbell home is alongside Mrs. Killins' two - storey home.

"As soon as I got my boots back on I hurried over to my mother-in-law's house. When I got upstairs I saw her sitting in a chair. She didn't move or speak.

"There was a red spot the size of the end of your little finger in the corner of her left eye.

"Behind her on the two men were scuffling on the floor. My father-in-law had a revolver in his hand. The gun kept waving in front of me as they struggled.

"My father-in-law called out to me to help him.

"He's trying to kill me he said."

Campbell said he became afraid and decided to return home with his wife next door.

"When I got back my wife and her sister Peggy were in the house. We stood watching from out the window."

Moments later he saw Brian

DOMINICANS ARE POISED ON HAITI'S BORDER

Peace Group Seeks Much Wider Powers

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—More than 1,000 Dominican troops supported by tanks and rocket-firing planes massed near the Haitian border today awaiting orders to strike.

In Washington a peace mission of the Organization of American States was reported seeking wider powers to head off the threatened clash between the Dominican Republic and Haiti.

Describing the situation as "highly tense," Gonzale Facio of Costa Rica, president of the OAS council, called an executive session of the council today to study the four-nation mission's report on its survey last week of the situation.

The Dominican troops were rushed to the border town of Jimani Sunday night amid unconfirmed rumors that President Juan Bosch would order

Flood Victims at Hay River, Fort Simpson to Be Aided

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP) The federal cabinet will decide this week what assistance it will give two northern communities over-run by flood waters and massive ice floes.

Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing said the work of restoring Hay River, N.W.T., and Fort Simpson, N.W.T., 500 and 625 miles north of Edmonton, respectively, will begin as soon as flood waters recede.

About 150 persons, mostly women, evacuated the ministers here during the weekend when he told them claims for damage in the flood areas of Hay River will be paid by the federal government where approved by a team of assessors to be flown to the scene.

He added about 30 homes destroyed or damaged in Fort Simpson will be repaired or rebuilt on the same sites.

The minister estimated damage at Hay River at $1,000,000, twice a third that amount the value of property in the town of 1,800. S. W. Hancock, Fort Simpson administrator, estimated damage in his centre at more than $750,000.

A trailer camp will be established near Hay River and 50 trailers moved in by the federal government this week. Flood victims evacuated from the settlement will begin to return by Wednesday.

Tents will be set up at Fort Simpson to enable residents evacuated by air last week to return to the region by the end of May.

About 1,600 residents have been evacuated from the towns. Ice on Great Slave Lake held back the spring thaw on the northward - flowing Hay River and tons of ice and billions of gallons of water swept across delta-shaped island at the mouth of the river upon which the town was built.

At its worst, the water rose 20 feet above normal. It now has receded but in its wake floating wreckage from cesspools has created a health hazard.

More than 1,100 doses of typhoid vaccine were given in Hay River and an area five miles around the town was placed under quarantine.

No person will be permitted to enter or leave the quarantined area without permission.

The federal government said Monday it would move out all but essential people from the flooded section of Hay River.

Mr. Laing said a study would be made to determine whether relocation of Hay River, a key

PRIME MINISTER HAPPY OVER LONDON VISIT

Will Brief Cabinet On Conversations

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson has returned to Ottawa almost bubbling with enthusiasm over what he regards as the signal success of his trip to London last week.

Mr. Pearson was expected to brief his cabinet colleagues and senior advisers today on the substance of his conversations with Prime Minister Macmillan and other British and NATO leaders.

The prime minister, sporting a new pair of bright yellow pigskin gloves, and Mrs. Pearson, in a new flowery spring hat, arrived at Uplands RCAF station late Sunday afternoon and were met by Justice Minister Cherrier, acting prime minister while he was away, External Affairs Minister Martin, and Viscount Amory, British high commissioner to Canada. There were about 100 others, including other cabinet ministers.

SMUGGLING HOME HOAX

Mr. Pearson shrugged off a report, which proved to be a false alarm, that a bomb had been placed on board the RCAF Yukon in London by the Federation de Liberation Quebecois. After a smooth landing, the big turbo-prop aircraft was parked at the end of a runway between the air force hangars and the waiting crowd, and the prime minister's party disembarked there.

"It was just a hoax of course, but it is a nuisance, when people who perpetrate this kind of hoax are to be condemned," Mr. Pearson said. "It could be dangerous because of the nervousness it might cause in the minds of those with weak hearts. I'm not one of them."

Of his talks in London, he said they were "most pleasant, and very successful from my point of view."

He did what I had hoped I would be able to do, to re-establish contact with the prime minister Macmillan, with some of his colleagues, and others of my friends in London. We had a very good exchange of views on a lot of things, and I think it was mutually helpful.

"I think the new government has established its relations with the government of the United Kingdom on a very friendly basis and that's what I hoped to do."

HOPES WILL BE INFORMAL

On specific subjects, Mr. Pearson said:

1. We hope to make the same kind of informal visit with President Kennedy when he goes Hyannis Port in June.

2. There has been no planning for a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference as yet. It wasn't discussed in London, but Commonwealth trade ministers are meeting there in advance of the forthcoming General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade meeting in Geneva.

3. General Burns, Canadian disarmament negotiator in Geneva, is doing remarkably good work—he's an idealist and also a strong realist, and he's a good man to have there."

4. George Drew, former national Conservative party leader, now is Canadian high commissioner in London, accompanied

Great Success Says Press of Pearson's Visit

LONDON (CP)—The Sunday Times says Prime Minister Pearson's visit to London is regarded in official British quarters as having been a "great success."

Its diplomatic correspondent, Nicholas Carroll, says Pearson has "at a stroke restored the sense of intimate and understanding partnership that Britons used to associate with Canada."

"All trace of the quarrels and tensions that often unhappily characterized Canada's relations with Britain during the six years of Mr. Diefenbaker's Conservative rule seems to have been swept away by Mr. Pearson's visit."

3 Dead, 11 Hurt In Quinte Area Traffic Mishaps

Two Brothers Die Near Consecon, Five Injured

Three dead; 11 injured.

That's the toll in 24 hours of traffic accidents in the Quinte district this weekend.

Near Consecon two brothers died and five people were rushed to hospital after their car crashed into the rear of a stalled truck late Saturday night.

Five hours earlier, a Toronto man was killed in a traffic mishap near Sharbot Lake.

Late Sunday evening six people, five of them Ottawa teenagers, were taken to hospital after a grinding two-car crash on Highway 2, west of Desoronto.

While the number of accidents was small, the grim harvest in life and personal injuries made it one of the worst weekends in provincial police traffic logs this year.

About 5.00 p.m. Saturday, Rolf Kossack, 21, of Toronto, died in a two-car collision near Sharbot Lake, 30 miles south west of Perth.

FIERCE STORM RAGING

The worst incident of the weekend occurred about 10.30 p.m. Saturday in the wake of a fierce thunder-and-rain storm.

Instantly killed when their car smashed into the rear of a truck stalled off Highway 33 between Consecon and Carry on Place were Rose Newman, 35, Smiths Falls, and his 26-year-old brother, Donald, of Demorestville.

Injured were Madeline Campbell, Frankford, head injuries; Wilfred Leech, 44, R.R. 5, Trenton, internal injuries; his 16-year-old son, Paul, with head cuts; Richard Terry and Marilyn Bush, both 16, of Consecon, various body and face cuts.

The smash came minutes after Mr. Leech, returning from a roofing job at a nearby home, pulled off the highway to fix a motor fault in his stake truck. Richard Terry pulled his car in front of the truck to light the area as Mr. Leech worked.

The truck owner was stand-

Monty Woolley Dead

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran stage and screen actor Monty Woolley died early today at Albany Medical Centre at the age of 81. He had been in declining health in recent years.

Woolley, whose trade mark was a neatly trimmed white beard and mustache, had lived for many years in nearby Saratoga Springs. He had spent much of his boyhood in the resort city and considered it his home town.

PROTECTIONISM IS NO ANSWER TO PROBLEMS

— Sharp

Trade Minister Outlines Program

TORONTO (CP)—Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said today the "way ahead for Canada" is to develop efficient manufacturing industries.

Coupled with this domestic diversification of its economy will be a need to adjust to new world trading conditions in which trade barriers are being lowered and competition heightened, he said.

In his first major speech as the new Liberal trade minister, Mr. Sharp told the national industrial production show here that Canada must move deliberately and imaginatively into "the new kind of trading world that is emerging before our eyes."

"Protectionism is no answer to our problems of unemployment and underutilization of Canadian abilities and resources or to our balance of payments problem," he declared.

"We shall be seeking an improved pattern of export opportunity and competition such as would provide a stimulus to Canadian growth and employment on a sustainable and competitive basis."

FORECASTS ATTITUDE

He said Canada's attitude at the forthcoming GATT talks on expanding trade on a multilateral basis will be dynamic and expansionist, not static and restrictive.

"We shall be tough, but not protect bargainers."

Set against Canadian trade objectives, he said, will be the need for fuller and greater industrialization of Canada's economy.

This does not mean less emphasis upon primary industries which will always remain at the foundation of Canada's economic structure. It does mean that if we are to provide jobs for our growing labor force we must also become a more diversified industrial economy, an efficient and major exporter of secondary as well as primary products."

Mr. Sharp listed the five key

New York's Governor, Bride In Venezuela for Honeymoon

CARACAS (AP) — Beaming happily, New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller and his bride arrived in Caracas today to begin a South American honeymoon far from the American political scene still buzzing over their marriage. A light rain and a shower of rice greeted them.

The state governor and his bride, the former Margaretta Fitler Murphy, were met briefly at Caracas' Maiquetia international airport after their flight from New York on a commercial airliner. They boarded a private plane and flew to their honeymoon retreat, Rockefeller's Monte Sacro (Sacred Mountain) ranch about 110 miles southwest of Caracas.

Rockefeller, considered a leading candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, turned aside questions about his political future as he posed with Spanish-style reporters at the airport. He predicted bliss for his second marriage and said he and his bride will remain in Venezuela about two weeks.

Rockefeller gave reporters in New York no time to question him as he left idlewild airport. He told them, with a smile:

"I know you would like to discuss politics with me but I don't think this is the time or the place."

Thus Rockefeller's public debut with his dark-blonde bride of less than a hours failed to yield any personal assessment of his political future in the wake of dual divorces that made the marriage possible.

Rockefeller was divorced March 16, 1963, after 31 years of marriage, by Mrs. Mary Todhunter Clark Rockefeller, 55, who is now married to a descendant of top-drawer Philadelphia society.

The new Mrs. Rockefeller, a trim woman of 36 with the nickname of "Happy," obtained an Idaho divorce April 1 from Dr. James S. Murphy, 41, a medical researcher for the Rockefeller Institute.

The long anticipated wedding of the pair took place quietly Saturday at the Rockefeller Pocantico Hills estate in Westchester County, north of New York. The date had been kept a close secret.

Rockefeller, a Baptist, and Mrs. Murphy, an Episcopalian, (Anglican), were married by a Presbyterian, Rev. Marshall A. Smith of the Union Church of Pocantico Hills.

Montreal Prison Guard Killed By Bullets Fired by Rescuers

MONTREAL (CP) — An autopsy has shown that prison guard Raymond Tellier was fatally killed by bullets fired by his would-be rescuers and not by knife wounds during a melee at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary last week.

Tellier was grabbed by two prisoners held while they demanded that they be transferred to another prison. He was slashed and stabbed while he was being held.

Prison guards charged the cell where he was being held, opening fire with pistols as they moved in.

One of the prisoners, Marcel Marcoux, 34, was killed and his cousin Claude, 21, was wounded.

It was announced Thursday that Tellier, 35-year-old father of three, had died from the slashes and stab wounds.

A morgue official said today the autopsy showed that he had been hit four times by bullets—twice in the heart, once in the head and once in the shoulder.

The autopsy report said he might have died in any event from a stab wound that pierced his lung.

Negro Leaders To Continue Demonstrations

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Negro integration leaders say there will be no letup in massive racial demonstrations in the wake of a Sunday marching of more than 1,000 Negroes who sang and prayed in a park as policemen stood by with fire hoses and dogs.

Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor reversed his tactics and permitted the peaceful march from a church to a nearby park and back to the church. It was one of the largest planned demonstrations of the southern desegregation movement.

More than 1,400 arrests have been made in the last four days for disregarding racial activity.

Still in jails or detention quarters are about 1,000 Negroes, including more than 500 school children under 16.

"Our plans for continued demonstrations have not been changed and we will move right on Monday," said Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, top strategist in the movement.

Plans would be changed if biracial talks start, he said.

Efforts to ease the brewing threat of major trouble continued as Burke Marshall, head of the U.S. justice department's civil rights division, worked in secret to settle the issues. He conferred with white and Negro leaders.

Scheduled to join the desegregation forces today was Negro comedian Dick Gregory, who participated in voter registration efforts at Greenwood, Miss.

In the demonstration, Miss., the huge throng of Negroes walked from the New Pilgrim Baptist Church, about a mile south of the spot where such marches were broken up by fire hoses and police dogs Friday and Saturday.

CONQUER COLD

Agriculture is gradually conquering the cold lands and Russia, Alaska and Canada now grow wheat in the far north.

United Appeal Distribution Is Authorized

The United Appeal Board of Directors has ordered a further payment in all participating agencies equal to 7 per cent of their annual allotment. With this amount, the total distributed so far this year from the results of last year's campaign will total $40,273.05 or 97 per cent.

A report by this year's campaign chairman, Mr. N. A. Keith, revealed excellent progress made with this year's organization. Top positions in all divisions have now been filled with the recent appointments of Mr. Milton G. Sweeney, manager of the Bell Telephone Company as chairman, payroll giving division and Mr. T. N. Davidson, manager of the Northern Electric Company Limited as chairman national corporations division.

The appointment of the public relations and publicity committee presented by Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, chairman, proved of great interest in view of the new ideas being developed in connection with this year's fall event. Arrangement for regular news items in the press, a 'Miss United Appeal,' a "fashion picture" art contest, a "kick-off" rally and a parade showed the committee working hard on an effort to make this year's campaign an outstanding success.

A number of agencies have already submitted their estimated budgets for 1964 preliminary to the budget committee, according to chairman Carl Hutchison, and the remainder expected shortly.

It was with deep regret that the resignation of Mr. A. O. Drysdale, due to his forthcoming move away from Belleville, was accepted. Mr. Drysdale, who has been chairman of the national corporation division for the past three years, has given freely of his time in the interests of United Appeal. He leaves with the distinction of having been the first division chairman to reach his campaign objective, as was done last year.

The appointment to the Board of Directors of Dr. H. E. Welch of the C.N.I.B. Advisory Board for the County of Hastings was approved.

The withdrawal from United Appeal of the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E., a participating agency for the past few years, was accepted since it was understood that it intends to be supporting in the future. The members of this organization were highly commended by the Board for their move.

Park Dale Will Hold Display Of Fireworks

The Park Dale Ratepayers' Association of Belleville will again sponsor a Victoria Day fireworks display, to be held this year at the Park Dale Community Centre on May 20. The members of the Army-Navy-Air Force Club Pipe Band will attend and provide the stirring musical background suitable to the occasion.

Ratepayers' President, John W. Ellis, 9 Park Dale Drive, announced that virtually all arrangements have been completed, in his report to the Ratepayers' General Meeting held on May 1. He noted that Mr. Alex Glover is serving as Chairman of the Special Victoria Day Committee, while Mr. Cecil Priest will manage the display and Mr. Leo Weagant will be in charge of grounds arrangements.

TWICE AS BIG

"The display this year will be about twice the size of the one last year," stated Mr. Ellis, "although a small portion of this year's is a ground display." "To underwrite the cost," he continued, "we will hold our annual canvass of the Park Dale area, and also invite a silver collection from non-contributors."

Begun nearly ten years ago by the Ratepayers' Association to provide a means of safely enjoying a good display of fireworks, the annual affair has continued to draw crowds of visitors to the Park Dale Community Centre at Sidney Street and Maple Drive. It is common to see all streets in the area lined with cars, as dusk arrives and the display begins.

Mr. Ellis also noted that the Ladies' Auxiliary of the 18th Belleville (Park Dale) Cub Pack will operate a refreshment booth, as in the past.

Fear Neutralist Premier of Laos May Quit Post

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—A Pathet Lao attack on two peace mission helicopters raised fears today that neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma might quit, leaving the Communists and right wing to fight it out for power.

There also was fear that the deepening crisis might force the International Control Commission—made up of Canada, India and Poland—to give up trying to restore peace among the three feuding factions.

Souvanna angrily blamed the pro-Communist Pathet Lao led by his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, for Friday's attack on the commission helicopters while talks were in progress on means to end fighting between Pathet Lao and neutralist forces.

The attack, launched after the Pathet Lao had given the helicopters clearance, wounded three Frenchmen and an Indian major.

Pathet Lao machine-guns and mortars opened fire on the helicopters as they were picking up the wounded. One was hit twice by a mine explosion the previous day. One aircraft was destroyed.

216 Drowned As Ferry Upsets On Upper Nile

ALGIERS (AP)—The death of Algeria's foreign minister and the worst Nile River tragedy in modern history cast gloom today over the triumphal visit to Algeria of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Festivities Nasser's honor were called off as the Algerian government proclaimed a day of national mourning for Mohamed Khemisti, the foreign minister. Khemisti, 33, died Sunday, May 5, after a fanatic assassin fired a bullet into his head.

Egyptian villagers mourned 216 people who were drowned Saturday when an overloaded ferry capsized near Maghagha, on the upper Nile.

A political split in Syria also clouded Nasser's mission to drum up Algerian support for Arab unity.

A. Williams, 53, Drowns While Swimming Trent

TRENTON — Arthur Williams, 53, father of five children, became the first drowning victim in the area this year Saturday afternoon, when two sons and a friend were unable to save him from the Trent River, above the Bata Shoe Factory.

Trenton police, who recovered the body about 3.50 p.m., said Mr. Williams had just swum across the 60-foot width of the river and was attempting to swim back when he got into difficulty. Two of his sons, Robert, 18, and Arthur, 16, and a family friend, Bud Anger of Frankford, went into the river in an attempt to save him. Robert grabbed his father by the hair, but was unable to maintain his hold, and the man drowned.

Police, using fire department dragging apparatus, recovered the body about 45 minutes after they were called to the scene by Robert Williams.

Mr. Williams is survived by his wife, Theresa, and three other children, Brian, 13, Gary, 6, and William.

STONE — In loving memory of my dear husband, Fred H. Stone, who passed away May 6, 1957.

Into our world of strife and woe,
Into our every day,
A life linked with my own,
But I'll be with you to stay.
Just a little while I must mourn,
Then through life alone,
Then I'll meet you dear,
And be with you for a loving wife Catherine M. Stone.

SEMI-SUBMERGED kayak, manned by an unidentified member of the Ontario Voyageurs' Club, bursts through a standing wave at the bottom of Lazier's Dam, on the Moira River in Belleville, with only the paddler and his double-ended paddle showing above the surface. Five of the boats went over the dam and through this wave Sunday, with only one casualty.

Seven Persons Perish in Two Separate Fires

SUDBURY (CP)—Seven persons—six of them children—died in two separate weekend fires in this Northern Ontario mining city.

A woman and two of her six children died only a few feet from safety early Sunday when fire destroyed their two-storey frame home on the city outskirts.

About 24 hours earlier, all four children of another Sudbury family died in a fire in their two-storey frame home.

In Sunday's fire, Mrs. Freda McNeil and her children—Betty, 10, and Billy, 8—were trapped in the flaming house after the two children ran back upstairs, apparently to find their mother.

George McNeil, 37, rescued the four other children but was restrained by firemen from going back into the house. He and his wife had thrown Deborah, 9, Ronald, 6, Francis, 4 and Jean, 3, from a second-storey window.

COULDN'T FIND CHILDREN

Firemen said McNeil raced downstairs to find the two other children but could not because of smoke and flames.

The body of Mrs. McNeil was found with one child in her arms and the other a few feet further inside the door.

The dead in Saturday's fire were the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Neville: Claudia, 5, Willy, 3, Brenda, 2, and Sandria, nine days.

Two other children were rescued by passersby from the porch roof of the burning house as flames shot through a bedroom window.

Firemen said Claudia might have been saved along with Garnett Gilbert, 8, and his brother Bobby, 6, if the girl had been willing to crawl onto the porch roof. She wouldn't because she was dressed only in panties.

The Gilbert children are the sons of a relative of Mrs. Neville.

WOMAN BURNED

Mrs. Neville suffered burns to her face and arms. Her husband was working at his mine job in adjacent Copper Cliff at the time of the fire.

Garnett said he woke up when he heard the nine-day-old baby cry.

"I saw smoke and then flames. My brother and I crawled out a window to a roof. Then I saw Claudia and called to her to come out. She told me she couldn't because she only had her panties on. Then, when she tried to get out, she couldn't. The fire caught her."

The Gilbert boys were rescued by Maurice Menard and William Kuzyk, who had heard cries for help.

After they had pulled the two boys from the porch, Menard said, "flames shot out the window seconds later as if they'd come from a blowtorch."

SIU President Has Ideas to Settle Dispute

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, says he has some ideas for settling the Great Lakes shipping dispute but wants to talk these over with the Canadian SIU before he makes them public.

"But I want to make clear we are 100 per cent behind Hal Banks and the Canadian SIU in this fight," Hall added in a brief interview on the eve of the SIU's five - day biennial meeting where Hall, Banks and other union executive members come up for re-election.

"I have a number of ideas to propose to this convention on this issue but I don't want to discuss them before I talk to the Canadian delegation. There is going to be a report on the Great Lakes problem at this convention, which also will consider what further action we should take."

While Hall conferred with his executive to prepare for the convention opening today, Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, arrived to address the International Association of Machinists (AFL - CIO). Jodoin said he plans to fly to Vancouver today and would not confer with Hall.

Asked what solution he might suggest for the shipping fight between the CLC's Canadian Maritime Union and the SIU, which was booted out of the CLC for membership raiding, Jodoin said the "most important" event would be the completion of the Norris commission report on the issue.

WILL WAIT

"I think we have to have the decency to wait for this report to come out before we have any comment," Jodoin said in an interview.

He expects the report might become available in a few weeks.

The SIU, with the co-operation of other unions affiliated with the AFL - CIO maritime trades department, has been picketing and boycotting the handling in American ports of ships belonging to Upper Lakes Shipping Company of Toronto which has a contract with the CMU.

Hall observed that while the CMU is a member of the CLC, it is not affiliated with the AFL-CIO "and the SIU in Canada is."

The SIU president added he is convinced AFL - CIO President George Meany fully supports the SIU in the Great Lakes issue.

Meany will make a statement before the SIU convention today but the public relations officer said he is unlikely to make any public reference to the SIU-CMU battle.

Elections Will Test Parties In Britain

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters) — British municipal elections this week will have unusual importance as a prestige test for the Labor and Liberal opposition parties and the Conservative government.

For the government, the annual contests throughout England, Wales and Scotland will provide the first country-wide indication this year of whether its electoral stock is beginning to show a slight recovery from a long slump.

For Labor it will be the first chance to assess national reaction to the socialist movement's "new look" under the leadership of Harold Wilson, who succeeded the late Hugh Gaitskell in January.

For the Liberals — fielding more than 2,200 candidates compared with 941 when the same local government seats were voted on three years ago —it should show whether the momentum of their recent electoral revival is being maintained.

HOPE FOR WINS

Labor morale is high, boosted by the party's scores against the Conservative government in a succession of parliamentary byelections.

Socialists hope to recoup the 600-seat loss they suffered in 1960 when the seats now vacant were last contested. They will be deeply disappointed if they do not top this with a gain of at least 500 more seats.

A total of 8,400 seats will be decided but about 3,000 candidates are unopposed.

More than 1,100 municipalities will be balloting during the week. Main interest focuses on next Thursday, when the borough (town) councils of England and Wales, totaling 400, hold their contests.

Escapee Held, Officer Hurt In Wild Chase

REGINA (CP)—An escaped convict was captured and a Regina policeman seriously wounded Sunday as gunfire and a wild car chase shattered the early-morning quiet.

Thomas William McCauley, 25, of Calgary, described by police as an escapee from the British Columbia Penitentiary at New Westminster, was charged after his capture with two counts of attempted capital murder and two of breaking and entering.

Mary Ann Connelly, 19, of Vancouver, captured with McCauley after their car hit a light standard, was charged with attempted capital murder, and breaking and entering.

City Police Const. Donald W. Coulthard, 25, was in hospital in serious condition with two bullet wounds in the left side suffered when he surprised a man and woman in a drug store.

When detectives later chased a speeding car, shots were fired at them and police retaliated with two shots "tire-high" and then three more shots that blasted the back window out of the fleeing vehicle. The car veered off the street and crashed into a boulevard sign.

Police arrested a woman in the car and Det. Sgt. Robert Connell chased a man who leaped from the car and cornered him. The man fired pointblank at the officer and missed.

The cornered man eventually was persuaded to surrender and police seized firearms and a quantity of merchandise.

McCauley, serving a six-year term for armed robbery, attempted escape, robbery with breaking, entering and theft, escaped from New Westminster Penitentiary Saturday March 2. Beaver was captured in Vancouver April 10.

Prisoners Riot In Regina Jail To Get Transfers

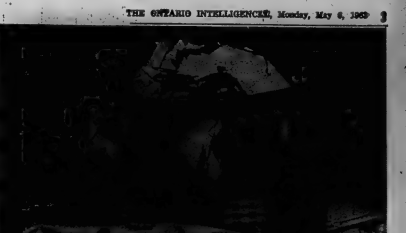
REGINA (CP)—Six prisoners held a guard hostage, tore toilets from walls, destroyed windows and spread corn paper about in a new wing of Regina Jail Saturday night in an apparent attempt to gain transfers to Prince Albert Penitentiary.

Prison officials said another 22 prisoners in the corridor of the new wing where the riot took place apparently did not take an active part in the rioting.

The guard — Sulo Salminen, 34, of Regina—said he was detailed to watch the 28 prisoners as they watched television in the corridor.

He said the prisoners turned off the television set about 9 p.m. and he started locking them in their cells.

Several had been locked in when one pulled a knife and threatened him into the next cell. Other prisoners stood by with razor blades, Salminen said.



SIX STARTED IT

Six prisoners then began rioting and shouting "transfer." Mr. Salminen said that in the course of the rioting he managed to close the cell door and lock himself inside where prisoners could not get at him.

The rioting went on for about three hours, Mr. Salminen said.

RCMP officers went up a narrow staircase to the end of the corridor and lobbed tear-gas canisters into the cell the riot broke up and quiet was restored.

Jail Superintendent Morgan E. Rubin said that when the riot was over he received a note from the six prisoners saying that they be transferred to Prince Albert.

Above is shown the wreck of the car in which Ross Newsom, 35, of Smiths Falls and his brother, Donald Newsom, 26, of Demorestville, were instantly killed late Saturday night. The car crashed into the rear of a stalled truck on Highway 33, between Consecon and Carrying Place.

48 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Accidents claimed at least 48 lives in Canada during the weekend, 32 of them in traffic mishaps. Five were drowned.

Fire claimed seven lives, all in Sudbury, where four children, all under six years old, died in one fire and a mother and her two children perished in another.

Four persons were asphyxiated in Inverness County, Nova Scotia, when they breathed the fumes of their car after it became mired in mud on a side road.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday local times showed Ontario had the largest accident toll with 21. Twelve of these were on the highways, two by drowning and seven by fire.

The survey does not include natural deaths, industrial accidents, slayings or known suicides.

Couldn't Make Front Pages So Came Home

OTTAWA (CP) — Mayor Charlotte Whitton says Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and Ottawa have two common problems—snow removal and potholes.

She told reporters on her return to the capital Saturday from a three-week overseas holiday that included 13 days in Russia that none of the three Soviet cities has found a way to beat the high cost of snow removal.

Potholes were prevalent in the three Russian communities but were not as serious a problem as in Ottawa. Moscow, a city of 6,500,000, had only 60,000 automobile drivers, about half the number in the Canadian capital.

Miss Whitton described her visit to Russia as a "terrific experience."

"I was doing well in making the front pages of Moscow newspapers until Castro arrived," she said. "When I got to London I found Mike (Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson) had the front pages so I came home."

INVESTIGATE SABOTAGE

CHATHAM, England (AP)—Admiralty security men are investigating suspected sabotage aboard one of Britain's latest guided missile ships. Part of the engine gearing of the 2,800-ton destroyer Diamond was wrecked by pieces of metal thrust through an inspection cover.

U.S. Officer Is Executed By Guerrillas

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON (AP) — A United States Army lieutenant was executed by Communist guerrillas 30 miles north of Saigon in broad daylight today, a military spokesman said.

He added that two Vietnamese military men travelling in a jeep with the American were also executed by the guerrillas, who had blown the jeep off the road with a grenade.

The guerrillas forced all three men out of the vehicle, then executed them with small arms, the spokesman said.

The bodies were found later by a military patrol.

Military authorities here speculated that all three persons on the jeep may have been injured in the initial explosion. Communist guerrillas have a record of killing all wounded they find, but taking unwounded prisoners.

Forego Nuclear Arms

Mexico, Bolivia, Brasil, Chile and Ecuador have pledged not to make, receive, test or store atomic weapons.

Any degree easing of international tension followed the announcement last week. Neither of the great power blocs in today's world has lived in dread of any of these countries acquiring nuclear weapons.

Nor do we suppose that any residents of these countries were stirred to greater uneasiness by the knowledge that their homeland would forego acquiring the means to retaliate against a nuclear attack.

These lands, even the large and potentially wealthy Brasil, are small potatoes in the current game of power politics. In this they are no different from dozens of other countries, scattered across all five continents. What distinguishes them from many amongst these other small lands is that they possess a clarity of vision and an ability to face the facts. They are mean enough to recognize their impotence wise enough to make logical deductions from this recognition and to act on these deductions.

At the very least, this will save them a lot of money which they can spend in better ways than joining the arms race. At the most, it may mean their survival.

In this world, where possession of nuclear weapons can make a nation a target, it becomes easier to believe an old promise, uttered almost two thousand years ago. Perhaps the meek will inherit the earth.

The Deadly Conflict

Twenty-two persons were injured and about 80 families were forced to flee their homes recently near Mechanicsburg, Pa., when three propane tank cars, part of a derailed train, exploded. Another tank car in the same train was leaking deadly chlorine gas.

The deaths and the exodus were caused by the accident, which itself was blamed on a broken wheel on one car in the train. The broken wheel might conceivably be traced back to any one of several of an almost infinite selection of possible causes. But the whole incident, in a deeper analysis, was part of man's struggle against nature, the fight for survival.

The propane gas was intended to heat homes, to cook meals, and to generate power. Instead, it killed 22 people. The chlorine gas might have been intended for an industrial process, or for water purification. Like atoms and automobiles, both gases were weapons of man in the struggle with nature, and like all weapons, they can backfire.

Every development of the modern world has also a hidden "kicker." Medicine preserves the individual, leading to overpopulation and eventual famine. Mechanization causes famine, and poisons the air men breathe and the water they drink. It can't be called a vicious circle, because the elements of the struggle change. It must be considered a spiral, with an end somewhere. The end must be the end of mankind, unless man can conceive man surviving the end of nature.

Only a fool would suggest that man abandon the fruits of science, and return to a primitive technology. Man, the demigod, is too big now to survive as man, the mortal. The billions of the world must eat, and only science can feed them.

But men should remember that so far there has been no such thing as a victory for man — nature is too big. The best that science can do is temporarily preserve men from nature, for the eventual sacrifice to science.

Old Fortifications Remain

It makes strange reading to learn, in the spring of 1963, that the Maginot Line is still essentially intact.

French military authorities are said to see no future need for the Line, but it could be put back into operating shape with little effort.

Unlike its German counterpart, the Siegfried Line, it apparently was not subjected to any attempts at demolition.

A thousand bunkers in the Siegfried Line were razed after the victorious allies swept past it and occupied all of Germany. This work, though, cost five million dollars. To complete the project would require another forty million dollars.

So the lines still stand, monuments to the inability of the military mind to keep pace with science.

It would be ironic if, in another war with nuclear weapons, the remnants of these old fortifications, built as a substitute for the muddy trenches of the First World War, should provide sufficient shelter for battle groups to enable them to survive the initial shower of tactical nuclear weapons.

Strictly Personal

Parents Must Liberate but Not Enslave

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The best things work for their own reduction and elimination. If we understand this curious process, we can then judge the value and the direction of our efforts.

"Medicine," said Lord Bryce, "is the only profession that labors incessantly to destroy the reason for its existence." The aim of the art of medicine—and it is not perverted by greed—is to put itself out of business.

The aim of parenthood, likewise, ought to be to make the child on its own feet and make the parents more and more superfluous. The aim of true education is to make the student less and less dependent upon the teacher and the textbook.

In these three essential realms—the physical, the intellectual and the emotional—the proper aim of discipline, education and parenthood is the freedom of the object. Whatever binds the object more tightly violates this end and damages the object.

This is the only test we can apply to discover whether our dedication and love are real or counterfeit—as the counterfeit always discloses itself by the need to possess the object rather than liberate it.

Parental love, for instance, should be a ladder, leading the child upward and outward; too often, however, it is a chain or a corset of unyielding suffocation. Its aim is not the child's liberation, but the parent's gratification.

We can see how this perverted process works most clearly in education. The most badly miseducated person is the one who must continually use references, appeal to authorities, and substitute what has already been said by others for his own thinking. His education has crippled him, and he is all too thought and made him totally dependent on "the books".

The readiness (however painful in part) to give up their children is the most profound characteristic of genuine parental love. Just as the doctor aims at liberating the patient from his psychiatrist, and the teacher aims at liberating the pupil from his intellectual confinements, so the parent aims at freeing the child from its emotional dependencies.

And the end of this paradox is that only when the child is thus free can he have the proper relationship to his parents; only when we allow his dependence can he then freely offer us his love—a respect, without conflict and without ambivalence. It is the hardest lesson to learn that the goal of parenthood is not to reign forever but to abdicate gracefully at the right time.

He Complains Wife Silent

Hamilton Spectator

Some Philosopher, preferably a Scotsman, must have said ages ago that speech was made the world go round. Otherwise we would seem so unusual about James Gordon, television's Marshall Dillon, being given a month after testifying that his wife wouldn't talk to him?

The television image depicts the marshall as the strong, silent law enforcement officer and wonder of few words, particularly on Kitty, the pretty proprietor of The Long Branch saloon. And he follows the western tradition of winning a wife that few words he does utter dragged from his larynx by lasso.

So it is that one thinks of a chap like Marshall Dillon wanting a wife who would chatter like a magpie to counterpoint his own silence. Which only compounds the paradox, since we know men far from Dodge who might consider marriage if they could be assured of strong, silent wives.

Family Tradition

Montreal Star

It must have been a great source of pride and satisfaction to Robert Taschereau when he was appointed to the bench of the Supreme Court of Canada in 1940. A Taschereau was on that bench when it was first formed. Another of that name became chief justice. How much greater then must Robert Taschereau's pride and satisfaction be now that he has succeeded to that high office.

Blank Cheque Saves Money

Christian Science Monitor

To save money, write a blank cheque. This disconcerting advice is being given by Duncan Gregg, purchasing director of the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Company in New York.

And in the situations for which he prescribes it, it works. These situations include orders under $1,000 from established suppliers, which constitute 62 per cent of the purchasing department's operations.

Ordinarily a business sends a purchase order, waits for a statement showing the exact price, and then rushes to pay before a net discount period. Now the Kaiser firm sends a blank cheque with the order and asks the seller to fill in the correct amount. No criss-crossing correspondence if one item is out of stock or can't be given a price change on another.

Mr. Gregg says this saves paperwork both for the firm and its suppliers. It works on the assumption, borne out so far, that the company's suppliers are honest and want to continue doing business with Kaiser.

The plan has not yet progressed far enough to be recommended in such cases as an emergency order for a hose stating sometimes open his mail, a son or daughter at college just before the Junior Prom, or the family purchasing agent who is going out to bedeck herself and the small fry in spring finery.

West German Mood Changes

Hamilton Spectator

When West Germany was rebuilding the ravages of war, the rest of the world spoke with awe and admiration of the self-reliance and drive of the German worker. His hours were long, his demands for pay increases were few. By contrast, workers in other Western countries, with their pay demands, contract disputes and strikes, seemed selfish and unpatriotic.

The picture has changed, as it was bound to do. The mood of the immediate postwar years faded away with prosperity. The biggest West German union, which is the pace-setter for the rest, is demanding an eight per cent increase — this on top of a 91 per cent rise in the 1953-62 period.

Parlor Now Thing of Past

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Perhaps a part of the sentimentality evidenced in spreading around the Kennedy top sport stories from the fact the parlors are a thing of the past.

There was a time when every home had a parlor, sometimes that is — had a parlor. It was a room which there was no use sweeping for funerals, weddings, a parson's call, or Sunday afternoon visiting.

The economics of building homes today has rendered the parlor obsolete. Besides, tastes have changed to the point where a few housewives would tolerate the clutter of an old time parlor.

For the most part, parlors were similar wherever one went. Lavished on the furniture of the family lined the walls. As a rule, these were in oval frames and professional or somewhat shaped glass. A large motto such as "There's no place like home" often hung above the door.

A parlor table, graced by a lamp of fringed shade and some ornate decoration, held such things as the family Bible and the album of remembrances. After the custom of the time, the furniture was over-stuffed. And the heavy pile on the floor bespoke the industry of the women of the household.

The organ, pride and the corner of the room and was the centre not only of many an evening of entertainment but also served as a place of repose for the dozens of pictures of children, which inevitably accumulated with the passing years.

On Sundays, more than at any other time, the parlor was put to use. There, the family gathered to enjoy the following which is too often lacking in the homes of today. Sometimes, for a lively youngster, the hours were long, especially on the warm days of summer when sunlight streamed through the windows and caught the moving dust in rays.

Even so, the parlor was a pleasant place. For one thing, it was a treasure house of scenes of memories. The picture served to evoke the recollections of other days with their joys and sorrows. Here, one could sit and think. For that was an age when a man did not need the devices of today to protect him from his thoughts.

The old parlor has largely passed from our midst and with it has gone something of what made a house a home, a refreshing, indeed, of life itself. It was a place of happiness and gladness; of births and marriage and parting.

Contemporary practise has no use for a parlor. But he is a lavored person who has in his remembrance the experience of such a room, once the heart of the homes of our land.

Efficiency's Price High

Ottawa Citizen

"Are we men or are we mice?" was evidently the governing thought of the 300 employees of a Hamilton firm who walked out in a wildcat strike last week over their protest that was generated by the results of a survey of the plant by a firm of efficiency experts.

". . . told us when to go to the bathroom and how often . . . told us when to have a drink of water and how much . . . how many times we can wipe our nose and when. They've told us everything except how often we should have our children. They probably coming next."

Everybody is for efficiency, and even the union leaders refused to authorize a walkout. The consequence was a wildcat strike. Even so, while applauding progress and efficiency, everybody must sympathize with the strikers.

A great many of us are, by nature, slow starters and we become dawdling reinforces our feeling of independence. Our frequent trips to the water cooler are not inspired by thirst so much as by the desire for fourteen legs back and forth from our desk give us a sense of freedom. We can understand why the efficiency experts propose to put up with a survey that would allow men to feel both efficient and free, an important step forward would be taken in the development of our technological society. About the best the experts have been able to give us so far is to substitute automated, non-thirsty machines for men. And that leaves men a little less free.

To Your Good Health

Ascorbic Acid Another Name for Vitamin "C"

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Vitamins don't prevent colds, although they all do contribute vitality to our general health.

If we've had a lot of colds, we have built up some immunities. If we then "take something," vitamins or whatnot, and have fewer colds, we give all the credit to whatever we took.

We forget to give any credit to the colds we have recently had.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I are expecting our first baby. We both have blue eyes but are hoping for a brown-eyed baby. Is this possible? — C. D.

Possible! Yes. Likely! No. What about the baby's grandparents and great grandparents? Any few brown-eyed ones would indicate a chance. Complete look among the ancestors means virtually no chance of a brown-eyed baby. (Or, when all Caucasian babies' eyes are blue or violet; their colors appear later, if at all.)

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

May 6, 1963 . . .

A British fleet relieved Quebec from a siege by American revolutionaries 167 years ago today—in 1776 —during the American War of Independence. The revolutionary force had attempted to bring the Canadians to its cause and had invaded Canada in 1775. The siege began in early December and continued through the bitter winter until the arrival of the British fleet, whereupon the Americans retreated back across the border.

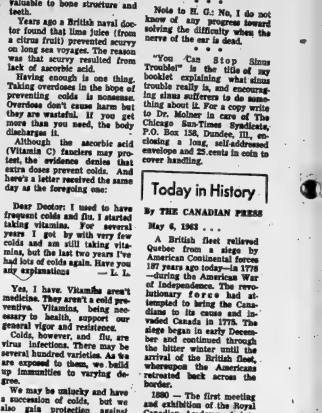
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A department store manager was getting things off his chest to me.

"All these household appliance," he said, "and these frozen foods and ready-frozen TV dinners and things like that have turned more and more women loose with time on their hands. So they come down-town just to look around. They don't want to buy anything. Just looking around. For example, we have two clerks at the dimond counter. Here's one middle aged lady having a lovely time looking at all the diamonds and telling the clerk about the diamonds her grandma owned, back in the 90's. The other clerk is tied up with a young woman who is intently studying all the diamond solitaires in order to try to figure out how much the diamond is worth that one of the girls at the office has just received from her boy friend. And standing waiting are a shy young couple who obviously are waiting to be served. It is dismond."

"W'ell," I asked, "why doesn't one of the clerks just stall off the time-spender and wait on the others?"



"That's another trouble," said the manager. "We spend a lot of time telling our staff to be gentlemanly and lady-like. And one of the characteristics of being gentlemanly or lady-like is to enjoy social conversation."

However, admits the manager, some business is done.

legislative elements in the Liberals' "90 days of decision" to bolster the economy and restore confidence in Canada.

CAN'T PRODUCE MIRACLES

"We are under no illusions that government can produce economic miracles or that Parliament can enact prosperity," he said. "The economic problems facing Canada are tough and obstinate."

The five steps in setting up the "machinery to enable the government to make a more effective contribution to the rapid and steady growth of our economy," as outlined by Mr. Sharp:

1. The Canadian Economic Council—a body bringing government, management, labor, farmers, small businessmen and the public together to think collectively about the long-run potential, problems and prospects of the economy. It will gather facts, then develop recommendations to meet problems. "I hope that this council will be established and in operation by summer."

2. The department of industry—a new agency of government to help ensure rapid and continued expansion of Canadian industry.

PLAN NEW AGENCY

3. The development corporation—a new agency to enable Canadian private capital to participate more effectively in the development of the Canadian economy, a move to reverse the trend toward foreign ownership in Canadian industry.

4. The municipal development fund — a special kitty which would provide capital for sound municipal improvements.

5. The budget—promised early in the session of Parliament opening May 16, the budget will display the general economic policy of the government, giving Canadians and foreigners a "renewed sense of confidence in our financial integrity and stability." It would contain proposals "to stimulate business activity and thus to increase government revenues."

Text of Mr. Sharp's address was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Naval Staff Chief Comments On Role of Canadian Navy Today

Sunday was Battle of the Atlantic Sunday. It also marked the beginning of Navy Week in Canada. During this week attention is focused on the Navy—its past achievements, present responsibilities and future role in the nation's defence.

It has been said that it was in the Battle of the Atlantic that the Royal Canadian Navy came of age. Certain it is that the RCN, from a small beginning, came to play a prominent part in that long and bitter struggle at sea.

In those days the main adversary at sea was the submarine. Today the principal threat is still the submarine which, both in numbers and in destructive power, far exceeds anything which has hitherto confronted the Navy.

In the face of this threat the Navy has specialized in anti-submarine operations, says Vice-Admiral H. S. Rayner, chief of the naval staff. The design and armament of ships and aircraft and the composition of the Fleet as a whole have been planned to deal primarily with submarines. "We also require ships for other purposes; for example, for the protection of shipping against air and surface attack, for minesweeping, for the support of land forces and for rescue operations," he says.

"The fleet we possess today is a Canadian achievement made possible by the efforts and skills of many people. This fleet is essential to the security of our coasts, and through it Canada is making a significant contribution to NATO and to the potential sea power of the western world."

24 Hasty Pees Pass NCO Test

A total of 24 members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment passed NCO qualifying examinations at the Belleville Armories yesterday. All eight men writing the Senior NCO examinations passed, and only two of the18 writing the Junior NCO exams failed. The candidates were drawn from the whole of the regimental area.

Promotions will not be immediate though, as the examinations cover only the theoretical knowledge required of an NCO. The candidates must further qualify by proving their abilities during one week of summer camp, and they must be qualified in at least one trade.

The men who wrote the examinations yesterday had all completed a course, with classes on alternate Sundays, begun during January. Maj. Charles Bristol, supervised the Senior NCO's course and Capt. Ken Charleston supervised the Junior NCO's course. RSM L. V. A. Simpson, of Trenton was the NCO in charge of the course.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Haslip First Pepsi-Cola Winners

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Haslip of 231 Lingham St., are Belleville's first big winners in the Pepsi Cola National Consumer Contest. William Spinelli, manager of the Belleville Pepsi Cola Bottling plant on Coleman St. presented them with a cheque for $50 Saturday morning. Cheques for small amounts are sent out from the Pepsi Cola head office, and there is no means of estimating the total number of small winners in Belleville, but cheques of $50 and more, up to the contest maximum of $1,000 are always presented by the man-in-charge of the local Pepsi Cola representatives.

Mr. Haslip got his chance to win the prize after he found the "Token" under the cork of a Pepsi Cola bottle cap. He won the prize for correctly answering a puzzle question prepared by the Pepsi Cola company.

Mr. Spinelli said Saturday that Mr. and Mrs. Haslip are both eligible for every other weekly prize they can qualify for, and they may still win a French sports car and a return trip to Paris for two via TCA, and $1,000 for expenses as Europe.

an invasion unless Haitian President Francois Duvalier's regime made good on its promise to give safe conduct out of the country to 15 political opponents who took refuge in the Dominican embassy in Port au Prince.

HAVNTS EXCUSE

One highly placed source said Bosch was ready to "use any excuse" to set off an armed clash with Duvalier's forces.

The Dominican charge d'affaires in Port au Prince, Frank Bobadilla, returned to Santo Domingo with a letter the Haitian political refugees had sent to all foreign diplomatic missions in Port au Prince.

The letter quoted U.S. Ambassador Raymond Thurston as saying he had information Duvalier had ordered his civilian militia, the Tontos Macoute, to invade the embassies harboring opponents of his regime appeared threatened.

The letter added that Duvalier would kill the refugees if Haiti is invaded.

GOES BESERK

A former Haitian army officer just out of the country said "Duvalier has gone berserk." The ex-officer, Jean Molise, hid in the Venezuelan Embassy in Port au Prince and arrived in Kingston, Jamaica, Sunday. He said there is a torture chamber in every police station.

Four Haitians who had been hiding in the Chilean Embassy in Port au Prince since 1961 were brought to 34 the number who had sought asylum in foreign embassies were allowed to leave. Eighty are still inside the embassies.

Duvalier broke diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic last week, and the Dominican embassy staff has returned home. Colombia has taken over the Haitian refugees in the Dominican Embassy.

Duvalier has declared martial law and imposed a night curfew. Apparently his chief target now is Clement Bardot, organizer of the Tontos Macoute and an underground leader.

CITY UNEASY

No unusual activity was reported in Port au Prince.

Immigration officials halted two passengers, Nathan Miller of the Baltimore Sun at the Port au Prince airport as he was buying a ticket for the United States. He was told to report today to the ministry of interior. No reason was given.

Two other American correspondents—Paul Good of the American Broadcasting Company and Al Burt of the Miami Herald—were deported Saturday.

'Deep Patrols' Will Feature Militia Camp

Summer camp will not be easy for the officers and men of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment this summer. The camp, to be conducted at Barriefield, July 7 to 13, will feature a combat leadership competition among three of the militia regiments in the area.

The competition will take about 30 men from each regiment on a six to eight hour night and day "deep patrol" through an obstacle course. Purpose of the competition is to harden the militia and to accustom units to operating far from their bases. The planned patrols will be so rough that men entering the competition will be required to pass a battle fitness medical examination first.

The competition will be conducted during the first three days of camp. Also planned for the six-day period is a two-day survival exercise, within Kingston, and one day of competitions—in rescue work, driving and signals.

The militia program for the summer was laid out at conference of the Thirteenth Militia Group in Peterborough yesterday. Lt.-Col. J. B. Black and Major Ken Wilcox represented the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at the conference.

45 Years' Service Marked By Money Tree

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Short, East Moira Street, were surprised on Saturday evening when 25 friends gathered at their home on the occasion of Mr. Short's retirement from the Canadian Pacific Railway where he had served for 45 years.

A delightful luncheon of turkey, salads, pie and, roll, was provided and served by the guests.

During the evening cards were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Short were presented with a money tree adorned with crisp new dollar bills as leaves, and also with dimes, nickels, pennies, fifty and twenty-five cent pieces as fruit which hung from golden branches.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Short expressed their appreciative thanks to the donors for their kindness to them.

TICKET DRAWN — Mrs. F. B. Sheffield, general convener of Spring Fair for University Women's Club receiving the winning ticket from Manly Macdonald, who donated the painting for the draw. Painting was won by Robert Jefferey of Picton.

(Photo by Riley)

University Women's Club Holds Gay Spring Fair And Exhibit of Paintings

The eighteenth annual exhibit of Manly Macdonald paintings was enjoyed by a record crowd on Saturday, May 4th, at the University Women's Club Spring Fair, held at the Kiwanis Centre. Each year this event becomes more widely known and anticipated throughout the district.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. F. B. Sheffield, general convener of the Spring Fair; Mrs. J. E. Pugh, club president, and Mrs. R. E. Barrett, vice-president.

In the room, Mrs. J. H. Bateman, assisted by Mrs. J. L. Acton, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon and Mrs. F. H. Bellsteadt, had arranged for the effective display of the paintings. Here were found a great many of the restful landscapes which hold such wide appeal. Winter scenes predominated in this year's exhibit and the viewers absorbed the tranquility of a quiet village street, snow covered, or of a stream breaking through winter's ice near Napanee.

An unusual painting, done from a hilltop, showed a stream at early spring break through the ice at Kingsford and push under a bridge leading through the village. Two autumn scenes vividly portrayed the beauty surrounding the artist's home at the Reach near Hay Bay. Vigor and strength were found in "The Woodcutters" and color at its most brilliant was used to portray a farm scene near Shannonville. Charming to all were the summer paintings of the artist's grandsons fishing at the Reach. Particularly pleasing to the guests was the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald were present during the afternoon to discuss the paintings.

Admissions to the Fair were looked after by Mrs. J. Boyd, assisted by Miss K. Daly, Mrs. H. Burns, Mrs. R. H. Martin, Miss E. Grout and Mrs. K. Grant.

PAINTING DISPLAYED

The painting donated by Mr. Macdonald in aid of the scholarship fund was displayed at the entrance to the art room. The distribution and sale of draw tickets was enlivened by Mrs. R. Walsh and Miss Mary Doyle, assisted during the afternoon by Mesdames D. Burr, R. Cunningham, J. McKibbon, H. Weese, M. Gibson and E. Dempsey.

After enjoying the exhibit, the visitors were guests of the University Women's Club for tea, and were invited to the tea room by Mrs. A. Lewis and Mrs. D. Burr. Here they felt themselves transported to a sidewalk cafe in Paris, due to the ingenuity and artistry of the decorating conveners, Mrs. Morton and Mrs. J. Nelles, and their committee, Mesdames R. A. Pringle, R. N. McNicol, H. U. Graham, E. Panter, W. C. Pryor and J. Birchard. Checkered table cloths, flowers or candles in quaint wicker baskets and a mural portraying the Tour Eiffel and Paris streets, made for a gay French Cafe atmosphere.

Here a delicious tea had been arranged by Mrs. F. T. Seiberl, Mrs. J. Musgrove and Mrs. R. Jeffrey. Those who poured tea during the afternoon were Mrs. J. Haig, Mrs. A. May, Miss M. Gibson, Miss N. Merry, Mrs. W. L. Langlois, Miss E. Panter, Dr. R. Shaffner, Miss E. Grout and Miss H. Farley. Servers were Mesdames G. E. Hamilton, Mary Acton, J. Marks, Elizabeth Stuart, Nora Gracelia, Lemoine West, Grace Ramsay, The N. O'Riordan, Ada Adams, J. Cox, J. Jenkins, Doris Smith, W. L. Simmons, Jean Fowler, Elizabeth Klein, Anne White, Joan Seeley, Margaret Perry, Kay Mercer, Mary Jo Alton and F. Credicott.

HOME BAKING SALE

The tea table was replenished by Mesdames R. Collins, R. Finlayson, A. Locke and D. Hall. The tempting food was arranged by Mrs. Ross Burtt and Mrs. R. G. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Ben Hurley, Mrs. F. Harris, Mrs. E. M. Parker, Mrs. E. Downing, Miss F. Dewey, Mrs. W. S. Babbitt, Miss E. Moffat, Mrs. R. Graham, Mrs. J. Beach and Mrs. J. Sherrard.

A popular spot during the afternoon was the "home baking" table, convened by Mrs. R. Cass and Mrs. R. Edwards. It provided the guests with ample opportunity to take home delicious homemade desserts — muffins, pieces, cakes, cookies and roast chicken. Those who helped here were: Miss J. Tickell, Miss A. Hearman, Mrs. D. MacKinnon, Mrs. G. Bailey, Miss G. Seneca). Mrs. R. W. Cass, Mrs. G. Lyons, Mrs. B. Foxton, Mrs. M. McFarlane and Dr. E. Dempsey.

The climax of the afternoon came when the name of the winner of this year's Manly Macdonald painting was drawn and Robert Jefferey of Picton, learned that he was the lucky owner of a beautiful winter scene set in the Don Valley.

This the 1963 Spring Fair, ably convened by Mrs. F. B. Sheffield, came to a close. Great credit goes to all the members for their co-operative effort in its production. The Club is also grateful to many friends for their support—to Mr. Ritchie and his art students at Belleville Collegiate Institute, to the Hotel Quinte, to the merchants who displayed posters, and to radio station CJBQ and The Ontario Intelligencer for their help in publicizing the Spring Fair. This successful event enables the University Women's Club to offer to girls graduating from Belleville and district high schools this spring, three scholarships valued at three hundred dollars each. Two of these, the Manly Macdonald Scholarship and the Beverley Macdonald Scholarship, are named in gratitude to the artist who, each year, gives so generously of his time and talent, to make the Spring Fair an outstanding success.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

The majority of foods are eaten with a fork, but there are some that are more properly eaten with the fingers. What would you use on the following fingers or fork?

1. An artichoke.
2. Bacon.
3. French fries.
4. Fried chicken.
5. Pound cake.
6. Corn-on-the-cob.
7. Celery.
8. Asparagus.
9. Sandwiches.
10. Canapes.

ANSWERS:

1. Mostly fingers. Leaves are pealed away one at a time and the edible part dipped in sauce, and eaten with the fingers. The choke is scraped away with the knife and the heart eaten with the fork.
2. Fork — unless it's so crisp that pieces will scatter if broken with a fork. Fingers may then be used instead.
3. Fork, in bite-size pieces. Fingers may be used at a cookout or picnic.
4. Fork, at the dinner table, but in the fingers when dining al fresco.
5. Fingers. It is both broken and eaten by hand.
6. Fingers usually handle it best at table and on picnics.
7. Fingers are appropriate at all times.
8. Fork. Rarely is this vegetable eaten correctly with the fingers. When it is, the occasion is most formal.
9. Fingers are used 99% of the time, unless the sandwich is extremely thick or moist and the dripping side. A knife and fork should then be used.
10. Fingers, when they're served before dinner with drinks; fork when, they're served as a first course at the dinner table.

Basic Nursing Course May Be Established

TORONTO (CP)—The Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario will employ a qualified nurse for a three-month study of the possibility of developing a two-year basic nursing course at the Ryerson Institute of Technology.

The decision was made at the final session of the association's three-day annual meeting here Saturday.

If, after the study, the association approves a two-year experimental course, Ryerson will be able to accommodate 30 students in September, 1964, Executive Secretary Laura Barr said.

Other studies which the record 2,204 delegates to the three-day meeting voted to initiate included a province-wide study through conferences to define the "beliefs and responsibilities" of nursing.

The results of this study would be presented to the 1964 annual meeting for approval and would be interpreted to allied health groups and the community in 1964-65, the resolution stated.

WORK SIMPLIFIED

Helen McArthur, president of the provincial council of the College of Nurses, said the work of the college's elected council would be simplified by the research.

A resolution requesting the association's board of directors to consider the possibility of undertaking a study of the responsibilities of the organization was also passed.

Granting of an annual $3,000 post-graduate fellowship, such as that approved by the delegates last Thursday for this year, was passed and the board was also authorized to investigate the establishment of bursary assistance for members completing their baccalaureate degrees.

Miss McArthur proposed Sept. 16 as the election date for the first provincial council of the College of Nurses.

Triple-F Chiffon Pie

by Mary Moore

It may be an old story to some of you who have been in the people's work for years, but a "Slave Auction" was a new experience to me.

One of our young men is a natural as an auctioneer and the idea is to auction off willing members to give time and do work for the bidders. For instance, I bid $2.00 on Rose who did 3 hours work on my flower beds one Saturday morning. Proceeds are for the African Student Fund.

The enlargement to this Slave Auction was dessert and coffee at 7 p.m. and admission was 35c.

The dessert table was filled with donations from the Hi-C members' mothers and Mary McCallum's chiffon pie was all taken by the first 8 people in the queue — one of whom was me.

I know Mary is a wonderful cook and this pie was a beauty. I asked for her recipe. I knew there was something mysterious about "Triple-F" and she told me it was made with three citrus fruit juices. It is an easy pie to make.

pan mix well together the gelatine, sugar (first amount) and salt. Stir in the egg yolks, 3 fruit juices, water and rind. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat until it just comes to boiling point. Remove from heat. Cool and chill, stirring often, until mixture begins to thicken. Have ready the egg whites beaten until stiff with 1-3 cup sugar. As soon as filling shows signs of thickening, fold in meringue until smoothly blended. Pour into cool 9 or 10" pastry shell. Chill. If desired cover with unsweetened whipped cream. When I made this pie I put ½ pint of 22 per cent cream, whipped, on top. But half, that amount is sufficient to give an adequate topping.

A highly recommended Chiffon Pie which may be made in advance.

APPROVE DAYLIGHT TIME

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature Saturday gave final approval to a bill providing for uniform daylight time in the province. The bill provides for daylight time from the last Sunday in April to the first Sunday after Labor Day. It becomes effective May 12 this year.

Top Winner at Science Fair Can Hardly Wait for Trip

ON CLOUD NINE is Beverly Davies, 18-year-old Belleville Collegiate student whose science exhibit at the all-Canada science fair in Toronto won her a two weeks' trip to England. Already studying travel folders, Beverly says she hopes to get to see Paris.

"I'm so thrilled, I can hardly wait until July."

This was the reaction of Beverly Davies, Grade 12 student at Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, as this beaming she accepted the congratulations of schoolmates on winning a two weeks' trip to England with her science exhibit on ceramic glazing.

Miss Davies' exhibit was the winner at the Belleville Science Fair last February and Friday was adjudged the best all-Canada entry for girls at the national science fair held in Toronto.

"I didn't have even the slightest hope of winning in Toronto," said Miss Davies. "I was 46 surprised."

But she is living in expectation of her two weeks' trip overseas in July.

She leaves by jet from Montreal on July 18th, for a two weeks' all-expense trip to England.

With approximately 400 other top science students from all over the world she will stay in London and will attend science lectures at various London district universities. The science seminars in England were originally sponsored by Prince Philip who is again expected to appear at one of the lectures.

Beverly's science teacher, Glen Shaver, describes his prize-winning student as "very keen" and possibly one of the most aggressive in his class.

"She's the type of student who is not afraid to ask questions," he said.

Mr. Shaver expressed his appreciation to the Belleville Rotary Club for its interest in the Quinte District Science Fair which in the past three or four years has given students in this district an opportunity to show their exhibits.

The local service club not only provides cash prizes for the Belleville and District Science Fair, but has also paid the way for the prize-winning local student to enter in the all-Canadian science fair, this year held in Toronto.

Picasso's Art To Be Shown In Toronto

The largest retrospective exhibition of Picasso's work ever held in Canada will open at the Art Gallery of Toronto, January 3rd, 1964, and will be on view for four weeks, it will then go to the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts in February.

Paintings will be assembled from all over the world and will cover the entire range of Picasso's art. His most famous painting, "Les Demoiselles D' Avignon" will be loaned by the Museum of Modern Art, New York, for the occasion.

This exhibition will be the most important Picasso showing ever to be shown in Canada and a major event in the history of the Art Gallery of Toronto. Dr. Jean Sutherland Boggs is visiting American cities for possible inclusion of Picasso paintings in the exhibition. She has also visited Picasso's dealer and friend in Paris.

SINNERS SHOW UP

CHICOPEE, Mass. (AP)—A church announced in advance as "for sinners only" brought a better than average turnout Sunday morning at the Federated (Protestant) Church. Some 135 persons attended the service which Rev. C. W. Kirkpatrick, the pastor, said last week would be "for sinners only and all saintly persons are requested to stay home."

HAS LITTLE SUCCESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The program for taking Cuban refugee volunteers into the U.S. armed forces is something short of resounding success. Figures which became available Saturday show that of the first 638 enlisted men who completed training, only 22 have chosen to remain in service.

ANAF Ladies Visit Toronto

Members of the Army, Navy, Air Force Ladies' Auxiliary No. 69, here, took part in a provincial sports competition over the weekend.

The competition was held at Lambton No. 31 Branch, and included a number of auxiliaries from the command.

The Belleville ladies made a creditable showing in the various sports which consisted of bowling, darts and cribbage.

distribution centre in the region would be desirable and, if so, what cost would be involved.

Mayor W. R. McBryan of Hay River said he was satisfied with the federal government's planned assistance program.

At Fort Simpson, officials said they felt the worst was over. But some uncertainty remained because of meagre and conflicting reports from sparsely-settled regions.

Further flooding threatened the community Saturday night but did not materialize. Early Sunday a skeleton task force was taken to the island and found the water level unchanged. More than a third of the town still was under water.

The community was hit when ice on the mighty Mackenzie, more than 1,000 miles long and key to the Mackenzie River system, barked up the run off from the Liard, one of its main tributaries.

First tents to be established at Fort Simpson were taken in by RCAF aircraft Sunday. Mr. Laing said the emergency would be over sooner at Fort Simpson than at Hay River and the tents would not be needed for more than a week or two.

Temperatures in the regions ranged between 40 and 50 degrees Sunday, but there was no indication when the Mackenzie would break up. The sky was clear and there was little wind.

Mr. Laing had high praise for the emergency flood operation. "It is almost incredible that such an operation would be carried out without injury."

School was to begin for evacuated youngsters at Fort Smith today. B. C. Gillie, superintendent of schools for the Mackenzie District, said Hay River children will register today. Grades 9 to 12 were to start immediately. Grades one to eight will begin Tuesday.

While the threat at Fort Simpson and Hay River diminished, a new three appeared at Aklavik, a predominantly-native settlement at the mouth of the Mackenzie.

Frank Cunningham, assistant deputy minister of northern affairs, said the government will stockpile food and order helicopters to the area ahead of time.

Prime Minister

him on many of his talks and the subject of Mr. Drew's return to Canada was not discussed.

5. Canada's policy on extending offshore fishing limits is "not very far removed from" Britain's newly-announced decision to push the three-mile limit farther out to sea, and the Canadian government is discussing how it can be done without disturbing its foreign friends.

TALK TRADE, DEFENCE

He indicated by his response to reporters' questions that closer Anglo-Canadian ties in trade and defence were the principal topics of his discussions.

If the forthcoming GAT meeting is successful and leads to action, increased trade between Britain and Canada is "indeed" possible.

"It's going to take some time for the action, but then trade among all countries of the free world should increase—not only between the United Kingdom and Canada. We had a good deal of talk about that. . .

"We made no pledge; we are aware of the imbalance. We are anxious to do anything we can to reduce the imbalance. It can be done only by increasing British exports to Canada, and also by maintaining our exports to Britain."

Mr. Pearson said he also had "a lot of talk in the light of the forthcoming NATO meeting in Ottawa" about Canada's role in an inter-Allied nuclear force.

"We are considering that now in the cabinet, the position we should adopt if it comes up at the NATO council—as I think it will. I've been very interested to get from the prime minister of the United Kingdom his view on the value of this proposal, and that will help in making the decision which we have to make before the council meeting."

There were also "some very good talks" with British ministers about U.K.-Canadian defence production sharing.

"We are anxious, as every Canadian government would be, to get the British interested in Canada as a source of supply for military equipment. That means, of course, that we will have to take the same interest in the U.K. as a source of supply of our defence equipment.

"This is one way in which we can increase trade between our two countries."

Casual Encounter on Special Train Brings to Minneapolis Novel Experiment in Drama

By GEORGE MOGES

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A casual encounter on a special train helped bring to Minneapolis a novel experiment in professional drama, the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre.

This is a community effort which will flower next Tuesday when the Guthrie Theatre, only permanent classic repertory theatre in the United States, opens in its own $2,000,000 building.

Sir Tyrone Guthrie, who helped create the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival, will lead off a four-play season of nearly five months with Hamlet. Stars of the stage have virtually stood in line for the chance to act under Guthrie in the revolutionary 1,437-seat theatre.

Back to the special train. It was en route from Iowa City to Des Moines after an Iowa-Minnesota football game in 1959. Aboard it were Oliver Rea and John Cowles Jr.

Rea, then 35, was already a Broadway producer. A few months earlier he had met with Guthrie and Peter Zeisler, an expert on stagecraft.

DISLIKES BROADWAY

They discovered they had something in common—a weariness of the Broadway "hit or flop" atmosphere, with Guthrie termed "oversupplied with theatres and actors and hampered by rootlessness".

They wanted a repertory theatre far from New York and from tryout towns. Repertory is the alternating of several plays on successive nights by basically the same cast.

The three decided to see whether it could be done.

Cowles, young Minneapolis newspaper executive and backer, met Rea on the football train. Rea told him of their plans and of their search, which had already taken them to several American cities.

"I hope you take a look at the Twin Cities," said Cowles.

Minneapolis is a midwestern city of 500,000 persons, frigid winters, flour mills, fishermen-filled lakes in summers and, with sister-city St. Paul, recently the home of major-league baseball and football teams.

It's also, as the theatre men noted, the home of a first-rate symphony orchestra, two outstanding art museums and Tate University of some 30,000 students with a flourishing theatre. Guthrie and Rea, especially wanted a university connection.

On Sept. 30, 1960, the announcement was made that the Guthrie theatre would locate in Minneapolis.

SITE DONATED

Cowles headed a fund-raising drive. The T. B. Walker Foundation, operator of the Walker art gallery next door to the theatre site, pledged the land for it and $400,000 in cash as well. Since then, the foundation has added another $100,000.

Another $1,500,000 plus came in 3,000 individual chunks — from contributions, concerts and special drives.

The all-professional company of 22 this first season will be headed by Hume Cronyn, a London, Ont., native, and Jessica Tandy, Rita Gam and George Grizzard.

They will present Hamlet, Moliere's The Miser, Chekhov's The Three Sisters, and Miller's Death of a Salesman in the season-ending Sept. 22.

ENCIRCLE STAGE

In their strikingly modern theatre, the audience will surround the players on three sides and no playgoer will be more than 50 feet from the centre of the stage.

The theatre will open onto the Walker art gallery for between-acts viewing. It was designed by Ralph Rapson, award-winning head of the University of Minnesota school of architecture.

In a striking similarity to the Shakespearean theatre in a park on the Avon River at Stratford, Ont., the white-fronted Minneapolis theatre has in its front yard a vast park and play ground area. The area includes spectacular flower gardens. Within easy walking distance is Loring Park, a pretty tree-and-lawn-surrounded lagoon where swans and ducks paddle in summer.

The theatre and land will technically remain the property of the Walker foundation, which leases it to the Guthrie Foundation. This foundation, under Cowles as president, raised the money. The foundation, in turn, rents to Guthrie's playing company, the Minnesota Theatre Company Foundation. In off seasons the theatre will be used for concerts and lectures.

The playing company is aided by a $337,000 Ford Foundation grant. The annual operating budget is set at slightly under $600,000.

$2M ADVANCE SALE

Advance ticket sales hit 20,000 long before the opening. Rea said this was far above his expectations.

Single tickets range from $5 to $1.50, season tickets (one for each play) from $18 to $5.40.

Guthrie came to Canada from Ireland in 1953 to help launch the Stratford festival. His name was suggested to festival founder Dr. Patterson by Mayor Moore of Toronto.

That first year Guthrie directed Ali's Well That Ends Well and Richard III. In 1954 he directed Oedipus Rex and The Taming of the Shrew and in 1955 The Merchant of Venice and Oedipus Rex again. In 1957 he was made an honorary citizen of Stratford.

Guthrie, who continued to stage and produce plays in New York, Edinburgh and Israel, was named director of the Minneapolis theatre in 1960—the year he was knighted. That same year he directed The Pirates of Penzance at Stratford.

Woman Tires of Waiting Sets Out to Ruin Friend

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Go it's the woman who pays, is it? Not always.

In 1962 my salary was $25,000 plus a generous bonus. In 1963 I will make $13,000 after several months of unemployment in Chicago—and then only due to the loyalty of an old friend who is also a disgraced exile from New York.

The reason? A woman who accepted luxuries, love, and swore she'd wait forever for God to free him so they could marry and enjoy their love publicly. ANN LANDERS

After two years she changed her mind and insisted he get a divorce and marry her or she would ruin him. He refused. The woman then set about harassing him at home with telephone calls at all hours of the night. She gathered every scrap of evidence carefully collected over the two years—the cards, notes, letters and pictures. She handed it over to the president of the company. He lost his job.

The woman has been promoted in the firm and is doing better than ever. And the word is around that she is now the mistress of another executive.

The woman pays? Not always.—FOOL.

DEAR FOOL—You got yours, Bub—double in spades. But what makes you think she is home free?

The jury is still out on that doll. Check her in about five years—if she's still around, that is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I am the mother of three pre-teens who follow your column closely. You make a lot of sense most of the time, but your views on going steady need clarifying.

The phrase "going steady" does not mean the same thing to all people. When I was in high school (13 years ago) "going steady" meant virtually engaged. Today it can mean the boy-girl combination that works best that week.

The most nerve-shredding example I can give you occurred yesterday. Our 10-year-old daughter Dora, came home from school and announced that she and Freddie, the freckle-faced kid (also age 10) who lives next door are "going steady."

I was shocked at this statement, and asked, "What do you mean, going steady?—Where do you go?"

Dora replied, "Oh we don't really go any place, mother. He just talks and comes over."

I hope I've made my point.—DAVENPORT MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER—"From the mouths of babes . . ." Some married people behave the same way.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I fell desperately in love with a divorced man. Two weeks before we were to be married his former wife telephoned and asked me to have lunch with her. She had heard I was a young woman and wanted to "do me a favor." I agreed out of sheer curiosity.

How surprised I was at her refined and soft-spoken manner. She was extremely intelligent and didn't fit his description of her.

I listened for three hours as she outlined her 14 years of marriage, described his excessive drinking, violent outbursts of temper and women on the side—including a 17-year-old baby sitter.

I told myself she was lying and I discounted everything she had said. Now, after two years of marriage everything that happened to her has happened to me.

A woman who wants to learn all about a divorced man should talk to his ex-wife. Who knows better than she?—ALSO AN AUTHORITY.

DEAR ALSO—The woman who has been there is bound to know something that a future wife can never know. Such information might be useful, but who listens?

* * *

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin, and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

That eccentric old baiter the Weather Man, who had the woodchucks wishing one another "Merry Christmas" with a May 1st snowfall, dangled his brightest lure under the noses of the weekend Walleye Williams and Pickerel Petes.

He used a golden sun against a blue background that brought hundreds of determined Dave Dans from all parts of the province and some of the United States, to the Bay of Quinte's popular pickerel-proking grounds.

They boat-flecked the open waters of Hay Bay, East and West Lakes, and the bay proper to the mouth of the Trent. They probed the river basins of the Trent, Salmon and Moira Rivers to the first dams in what is stated to be a record-breaking opening weekend as far as angler population is concerned.

But angler-fish percentagewise, it was one of the worst opening season hauls in a quite a while. For why Pete Pickerel, perhaps aware he was the object of the biggest wall-eye quest in years refused to co-operate to any appreciable extent.

The Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Fish Derby reported some 5377 registered anglers. The Belleville Fish and Game Club said, through an official, that some 150 of its members foamed the confines of the Moira from mouth to the Corbyville dam under the regulations of the Annual Fish Derby.

One of the largest schools of anglers on record were noted at Shannonville, the Salmon River and in the Napanee area. The mouth of the Trent to the first dam had a better-than-usual quota of walleye hunters.

Bob Bland, of Bob's Sports and Repair Shop, told me that some 600 anglers in all sorts of boats prowled the bay and the mouth of the Moira south of the CPR bridge over the weekend.

"Boats and anglers-wise," said Bob, it was one of the biggest pickerel opening weekends I have seen in many years. All my boats were away early—and I could have used a dozen more. Other boat-proprietors had the same experience."

Quinte waters lived up to the reputation of being one of the best pickerel grounds this side of the French River. Bob said the lion's share of out-of-town anglers was the biggest in years. "They were here from Toronto, Hamilton, Oshawa, Kingston, Peterborough and Ottawa."

The Picton Derby officials claimed entries from Ottawa to Fort Erie and a half-dozen states and the Union. City, town and district anglers were out in force.

But the mass invasion failed to elicit any great sacrificial response on the part of the wily walleye. Veteran survivors of the annual spear slaughter, and legal limits failed to be harvested. They failed to be attracted by colorful lures and other man-made bait. They turned up disdainful snouts at the opportunity to become a blue-ribboner in any fish derby but perhaps netted a second that at the most popular hall of the derbies' weekend, the humble worm.

"The average pickerel caught in the bay and river waters in these parts," said Bland, "weighed in the vicinity of three pounds and practically all were caught with worms or worm-baited.

The biggest pickerel landed here on Opening Day (April 27th) was a six-pound twelve-ounce beauty caught in the river mouth by Leonard Vigodda. The winner of the Fish and Game Club Derby was Bob Lacy of Belleville with a 4-13 ounce fish.

However, the Prince Edward Derby winner weighed 10 pounds five ounces caught in Hay Bay by Frank Sutherland of Kingston.

The second-place winner caught by a Toronto angler weighed nine pounds twelve ounces. Of the top fifteen fish caught only one weighed less than seven pounds. The winner fell for a lure, the place fish took a worm.

As one veteran angler who has pickerel-fished bay and inland waters for forty years told me, "With some 1,200 anglers prodding and probing waters all over the district, some were bound to come up with good fish, but on the whole I'd say it was a poor weekend as far as pickerel dinners are concerned. But with warmer weather I would say that within a week or ten days a fellow shouldn't have too much trouble bringing home a good creel."

Canadians Fly Home With 63 Medals

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) — The Canadian team flys home today from the fourth Pan-American Games, carrying with it 63 medals—the biggest bag for Canada's athletes since Chicago began in 1951.

The 16 - day sports festival, which brought 1,500 competitors here from 30 countries in North and South America and the Caribbean, ended Sunday before 30,000 persons in Pacaembu Stadium where the symbolic Games flame was extinguished in closing ceremonies.

It will be rekindled in 1967 in Winnipeg, which made a successful bid here to stage the fifth Pan-American Games.

The fourth Games were dominated by the huge United States team, as expected. But Canadian and Latin-American competitors made definite inroads on the U.S. monopoly.

The U.S. won 169 gold medals —but this was 13 fewer than in the 1959 games in Chicago and among the missing were those for the men's sprints and the 800 metres which the U.S. has dominated for years.

WIN SPRINTS

The sprints were taken by a Cuban and a Colombian—an indication of the improving calibre of competition—and the 800 metres by Canada's Tom Jennings who finished one-two in the final to help boost Canada's medal totals to Pan-American-record highs.

Canada got 10 gold medals, including its first five Pan-American track and field championships, and added 26 second-place silvers and 27 third-place bronzes—a creditable showing for the 134-member team that did not include such outstanding runners as Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers of Toronto and Harry Jerome of Vancouver.

Canada's previous best came in 1959 when a 175-member team won seven golds, 21 silvers and 29 bronzes—many of them in shooting and gymnastics.

In the last major international meet—the tougher British Empire Games at Perth, Australia, last year—Canada won four golds, 12 silvers and 15 bronzes.

Included in the Canadian golds here were a silver and a bronze won Saturday by Jennifer Wingerson, 20, of Toronto and Don Bertola, 23, of Rossland, B.C., respectively.

MISSED BY INCHES

Miss Wingerson missed by inches giving Canada its sixth gold medal in track when she finished second to Jo Ann Terry of the U.S. in the 80-metre hurdles. Miss Terry was timed in 11.3 seconds, Miss Wingerson in 11.4.

Bertola, the 5'6-metre champion, finished third in the 1,500-metre run—his only medal—in which U.S. favorite Jim Beatty was upset at the finish by his teammate Max Truex.

Their medals boosted Canada's track and field totals to five golds, five silvers and two bronze—the best Canada has done in track and field in international games since it won eight golds in the British Empire Games of 1938.

Nancy McCredie, 18-year-old school girl from Brampton, Ont. was the big track and field winner for Canada, taking gold medals in women's shot put and discus and setting Games records in both.

Abby Hoffman of Toronto won the women's 800 metres, Alex Oakley of Oshawa, Ont., took the 20,000-metre walk and Bertola the men's 800 metres.

SOLDIER WAS BIG WINNER

Biggest winner of all the Canadians, however, was Wilhelm (Willie) Weiler, a German-born Canadian soldier from the army's Camp Borden in Ontario, who won three golds in men's gymnastics—the first in this sport for Canada. In addition, he won three silvers and a bronze.

Tom Disney of Vancouver, the three - metre springboard champion, and the University of B.C. crew from Vancouver which won the premier eight-oared rowing event, were the other Canadian gold medallists.

Canadians won 15 medals in swimming, two in diving and two in synchronized swimming in the chilly Pan - American Games pool; nine, 14 in gymnastics; 12 in track and field; eight in shooting; four in wrestling; four in weightlifting; two in yachting and one in rowing for the total of 63.

They failed to make the medal circle in men's and women's basketball, men's fencing, boxing, cycling, tennis, volleyball and water polo—and had no entries in baseball, equestrian, judo, modern pentathlon and soccer.

Many Pan-American Games records fell in spite of the fact the big stadium and the unheated pools were considered slower than facilities in Chicago in 1959, but only one world record was broken—that in centre-fire pistol shooting where Lt.-Col. Thomas Smith of the U.S. Air Force scored 597 points to beat the previous mark of 594 set by Czechoslovakian A. Kurtins.

TOPS MEDAL COUNT

In the over-all medal count, the U.S. was tops with 108 golds, 55 silvers and 37 bronzes. Host Brazil won 14 golds, 10 silvers and 18 bronzes—four more golds than Canada, but 11 fewer than Canada in total.

In the 1,500 metres, premier event of Saturday's track winding, Grelle was clocked in three minutes, 43.5 seconds, well under the games mark of 3:46.1, but slower than Beatty's U.S. record of 3:39.4. Beatty, forced by the 14-man field to jump in front at the start to avoid the possibility of being boxed in, finished in 3:43.6. Bertola was a distant third in 3:53.0.

The U.S. also won the men's 400-metre and 1,600-metre relays, hurdle and long step and jump and took the women's 400-metre relay in which Canada's team finished third and the U.S. disqualified for passing the baton out of the box.

The disqualification was a heart-breaker for the Canadian quartet of Maureen Bardoe of Hamilton, Yvonne Breeden and Heather Campbell of Vancouver and Jo-Anne Rootsaert of Winnipeg who were shut out of medals in earlier individual competition.

Nicklaus Strokes Win In Canter

By BOB MYERS

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who owns virtually all the prized possessions of the golfing game as well as the most dollars for the year has unpleasant news for his fellow players:

He isn't even at his peak yet.

Nicklaus, richer by $13,000 after his almost casual victory in the Tournament of Champions Sunday, was asked if he thinks he is at the top of his game.

Eyebrows raised in surprise, he exclaimed:

"I certainly hope not. I feel and hope I can improve.

"A man wants to improve at anything he does. That's how I feel about my future in golf."

Nicklaus capped his brilliant rounds of 64-68—72 with a three-under par 69 Sunday and won by five strokes with a 72-hole score of 273.

Bill Casper Jr. was forced to withdraw because of a swollen, aching left hand after eight holes on the last round.

So Nicklaus' closest competitors were Arnold Palmer, the former king of the pros, and Tony Lema who surged into the picture with a 68 and a tie with Palmer at 278.

Palmer finished with 68.

FEUD FINISHES

The golfers, their feud with sponsors of the Colonial national invitation tournament at Fort Worth this week settled, headed toward Texas today, Nicklaus, the 1962 Colonial winner, and most of the other star pros will compete there.

Included will be Don January, a Texan who was a key figure in a row which almost led to a player boycott of the tournament. Sponsors and PGA tournament committeemen met here Saturday.

The result:

January was invited—his non-invitation started the fracas after he criticized aspects of the Colonial; the tourney was restored as an official PGA tournament, and from now on the top 40 money winners of the previous year will be automatically invited to the Colonial.

Chateaugay Upsets Derby Big Three

K's Beaten But Retain Lead

"No Effort"

By KELSO STURGEON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (CP) — Kentucky Derby winner Chateaugay, sold by his trainer to be months away from his peak as a 3-year-old, may make the public forget the no-caddy big three of the triple crown set.

The son of Swaps carried the darby Dan colors into the winner's circle at Churchill Downs Saturday after he bowled over the big three as if they were not even in the $151,400 race.

The derby was the easiest race he's won since his first victory as a two-year-old," trainer Jimmy Conway said. "I wasn't surprised that he won it—in fact, I thought he had a real good chance to get home first."

Conway said Chateaugay improves with every race and is far from his peak. "He runs better everytime he goes to the post. We think he will hit his peak next fall sometime, barring mishap."

Chateaugay, taken well off the pace by jockey Braulio Baeza, had so much left for the stretch run the 1¼ mile classic that he passed Never Bend and Candy Spots with no effort.

NEVER BEND SECOND

Cain Hoy Stable's Never Bend, making all the pace and running an excellent race, finished second, 1½ lengths back of Chateaugay.

Rex Ellsworth's Candy Spots, the 3-2 favorite and unbeaten going into the Derby, was third, a neck back of Never Bend.

Ambush Stable's On My Honor finished fourth and Greentree Stable's No Robbery, the other member of the big three with Candy Spots and Never Bend.

The first four finishers now head for Baltimore and the second leg of the triple crown, the Preakness at Pimlico. No Robbery, who bucked his shins, may sit this one out.

TAKES THE LEAD

Never Bend, last year's champion juvenile colt, took the lead right out of the gate and maintained a length margin over No Robbery when they came by the stands the first time. Candy Spots was third at this point.

Down the back side they still ran in this order with Bold Hour fourth, Gray Fat fifth and Chateaugay sixth.

When they hit the stretch, Baeza had Chateaugay flying on the outside. About 100 yds. into the stretch the 1¼ mile classic that he passed Never Bend and Candy Spots with no effort.

Chateaugay returned $20.80, $7, $3.60 as the fifth choice.

Never Bend returned $5 and $3.40. Candy Spots paid $3.80 to show.

Baeza also rode Bold Hour to a third place finish in the Derby.

Moira Breaks Relay Marks

A Belleville team from Moira Secondary School broke two meet records while competing in the Ontario High School Relay Carnival, at Hamilton's Civic Stadium Saturday.

Seven Moira boys attended the meet, where the school's team of Ian Glen, Robert Leckie, Rod Glen and Ron Faulkner, winning two events and setting records in both.

The team took the 880 yard relay in the time of 1:38.3, lowering the old mark of 1:37.3. The team received the Robert H. Saunders Memorial Trophy for this victory.

Entered in the Medley Relay, the same crew won in the time of 1:51.2, breaking the old record of 1:56.6, to capture the Bobby Kerr Challenge Trophy. This relay consists of one leg of 220 yards, two of 110 and a final of 440.

Other Moira students attending the meet were Stan Woodcock, Robert Bailey and Bud McMahon.

The local team batted .500, entering four events, and winning half of them.

The Moira Track and Field team will enter the Bay of Quinte Track and Field Festival meet scheduled for Trenton High School next Saturday.

Over 300 competitors are expected to take part.

Further details of the meet will be published later.

Soccer Fans Stage Riot Aboard Ship

GLASGOW (AP)—A Belfast-bound liner returned to Glasgow for police protection when fighting among rival soccer fans broke out on board Saturday night.

The Royal Ulsterman had gone about one-quarter mile when fighting started among 600 supporters of the Rangers and Celtic soccer teams.

The captain headed back and waiting police arrested four men on charges of disorderly behavior. Twenty-four policemen agreed to provide police protection during the passage to Belfast.

Twins' Senor Pascual Beats Yankees 4-1

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minnesota Twins may not send Camilo Pascual a contract until the day before the season opens next year. The star right-hander apparently does not thrive on spring training.

A stubborn holdout in 1962, Pascual didn't sign until late March, but threw a shutout in his first regular season start and was 15-6 by July 27, when he hurt his arm. He finished 20-11.

This season Twins signed him right after New Year's Day. Pascual got plenty of spring work, but he lost his first three regular season starts. He won his next two, but was not at his best.

Not until Sunday did he round into his normal eye - popping form, as he set New York Yankees down with six hits and beat them 4-1. Roger Maris' homer in the seventh inning ruined his chance for his seventh career shutout over the Yanks. He already tops the mark in blanking the perennial champions.

The loss kept Yankees 1½ games back of the American League leaders, Kansas City Athletics, who were also bounced, 3-2 by Boston Red Sox. The Sox jumped into a second place tie with New York. Dave Morehead, $75,000 bonus right-hander got his second victory for Boston.

END SLUMP

In other games, Detroit Tigers snapped out of a slump with a 15-4 victory over Baltimore Orioles, with $100,000-plus bonus catcher Bill Freehan clubbing two homers and a double, Cleveland Indians won their fourth straight, 4-3 over Los Angeles Angels, and Chicago White Sox split with Washington Senators, winning 8-0 and losing 8-7.

In Saturday games, New York defeated Minnesota 3-2, Chicago clubbed Washington 8-1, Baltimore defeated Detroit 5-4, Kansas City defeated Boston 14-3 and Cleveland shut out Los Angeles 6-0.

Cuban-born Pascual, now a Miami resident, was at his sharpest against Yankees in the fourth inning, when Tom Tresh tripled with one out. He then struck out Mickey Mantle and Maris.

Lenny Green hit a homer off loser Ralph Terry in the first and Vic Power doubled home a run in the third. Terry had beaten Twins five straight times before Sunday.

Morehead, a 19-year-old whose other victory was a shutout over Washington, held hard-hitting Kansas City to one run and two hits over the first seven innings, but needed relief help from Dick Radatz in the eighth with one run across. Frank Malzone and Chuck Schilling homered for Boston.

REMAIN LAST

Tigers, still in the cellar, had lost four straight before they found their hitting eyes against Orioles. Freehan's double and an error put Detroit ahead in the fourth. Tom Sturdivant, picked up in a deal with Pittsburgh, was the winner in relief.

Angels lost their fourth straight as Bo Belinsky's record fell to 1-4. Dick Donovan had a 4-1 lead in the ninth, when Angels got two out, but Barry Latman stopped them in relief.

Hoyt Wilhelm's knuckleball apparently didn't knuckle at Chicago. The relief pitcher came in with two out and two on in the ninth inning of the second game and Chuck Hinton hit his first pitch for a three-run homer that sank Sox.

Ray Herbert pitched a three-hitter over Senators in the first game, and Dave Nicholson and Ron Hansen homered for Chicago.

Lakeshore Baseball League

Six Teams Form Circuit

Shades of the Grand Trunks, Nationals, "the Indian" and "Peeny".

The roster of the 1963 Lakeshore Baseball League looks like a resurrection of the famous old Central Ontario League with two clubs included for added attraction.

Entered at the league meeting yesterday are Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough, Port Hope, Oshawa and Ajax. All are definite entries and await the starting gun at month end.

It looks like a throwback but Belleville and Oshawa start the league ball rolling here on May 20th at the Pair Grounds starting 2.30 p.m.

Coach Sid Forster of the Belleville "Orfuns" (for want of a better name) said all the clubs were represented at the meeting and all showed enthusiasm over the prospects of the coming season.

The schedule will be drawn later probably before the week-end.

The six-team circuit will operate as an entity and not in sections as was the case last year. The classification of the loop was not decided on at Sunday's meeting but in all likelihood it will be senior.

The entry of the Kingston team came somewhat as a surprise since it was reported the Limestone City Lakeshore association had folded with the resignation of Frank Paige.

However Ken Matthews took over the helm and with a strong executive will operate the Kingston entry.

"It began a bit ironical" said Belleville coach Sid Forster. "Kingston was sponsored (Bad Boy Diemonds) this year at the end of organization, while we in Belleville are still looking — and hoping."

The clubs will play 30-game schedule each playing two home and two away games with other clubs.

Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough and Oshawa are expected to field strong teams and with Port Hope and Ajax strengthening the league appears to be well-balanced organization.

Coach Forster said that some 30 hopefuls are trying out for the Belleville club and prospects for a good club are bright.

Four Pounders Win Fish Game Derby

Well over 100 members of the Belleville Fish and Game Club sought the elusive pickerel in the association's Moira River Derby over the weekend.

But the big ones are still in that part of the river covered by the Derby from the mouth to the Corbyville dam.

Bob Lacy of Maple Drive entered his four pounds twelve ounce catch with the weight and a prayer — and the prayer won.

Lacy took top honors in the day's catch with Bob Ostofi of R.R. 3 Belleville taking the second prize with a four-pound right ounce beauty.

The catch was small and disappointing. Only seven pickerel of any account were submitted as entries.

Several Fish and Gamers took the fish but they were too small to be considered entries. The majority came home with their lures and tackle and nothing else.

One of the better hauls of the day was taken by Jack Wardaugh and party in West Lake. They came home with five nice ones averaging 4½ pounds.

Those like the Derby winner were taken with a Grant Lynch spinner.

Series Even, Play Tonight

Oil Kings Flyer 7-3

EDMONTON (CP)—Niagara Falls Flyers and Edmonton Oil Kings resume their best - of - seven Memorial Cup junior hockey series tonight the same way they started last Thursday — on equal footing.

Flyers trounced Oil Kings 8-0 in the opener, but Edmonton came back to humble Niagara Falls 7-3 in the second game Saturday.

Fourth game in the hard-hitting series will be played Tuesday with the fifth Thursday. Additional games if needed will be played Saturday May 11th and Monday, May 13.

Winger Bill Graham stepped up from his penalty-killing role to score twice for Flyers. Ron Shock got the other.

CROWD IS SELLOUT

Another sellout crowd of 6,846 was on hand for the game and as many were expected for the third tilt.

Said coach Buster Brayshaw of his club's Saturday performance:

"As corny as it may sound, I guess I'd have to say it was a team effort. Everyone had their moments."

It was lack of teamwork and sporadic play which resulted in the western champions, making a record fourth appearance in the Canadian final, taking their one-sided loss in the opener.

Brayshaw wasn't counting out Flyers.

"They've got a good club. It'll go the limit."

He added that desire and tremendous forechecking were the two things which brought his club victory Saturday. He also told them to go out there and forecheck . . . and to heck with the crowd. "If anything went wrong they could boo me."

Ray Emms, owner-coach of Flyers, said he was worried his players might "get the stuffing knocked out of them."

REALIZE NOW

"It's pretty hard to get a bunch of kids up for a game after just winning 8-0. I think they fully realize now that this isn't going to be any walk-away."

Emms said Oil Kings observed their 7-3 margin. "They certainly put on a good show." If they keep it up "they could win this thing in three more games."

Neither club ever has won the title, though Flyers won the Canadian title 10 years ago when they played out of Barrie, Ont. Edmonton Oilers have come up empty handed in six previous finals, dating back to 1934 when the RAFs lost to Toronto St. Mike's.

Both clubs will be at full strength for tonight's game, through captain Terry Crisp of Flyers still limped from a charley horse he suffered in the opener.

Welbanks Hold Hockey Party

Welbanks Motors, who wound up second in the City Hockey League playoffs, proved they were first - place finishers in the party department at least with a season - end and get-together at Bobby Green's Saturday night.

Members of the team and guests enjoyed food, cards and entertainment and left the impression that a championship year might call for at least a two - day celebration.

League president Clifford "Sonny" Welch was on hand to thank the club and all concerned for their co-operation.

He also presented Wayne "Weiner" Brown with the Bob Carter Trophy, an attractive plaque, as the league's Most Valuable Player.

Team Sponsor Doug Welbanks, host Green, and guests Nick Stefan and Armand Duffy also came in for special thanks.

Manager Pedro Gomez of the Richmond Virginians would appreciate it very much if pitcher Al Downing could get his first base became better acquainted.

Syracuse shaded the Vees 3-2 and 5-3 in an International League baseball game when the Chiefs plated three unearned runs in the first inning. Arcing inadvertently kicked open the scoring door for the Chiefs when he kicked a routine play at first base. He took a throw one step from the bag and never moved any others.

Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Indianapolis 4-2 and 11-1 and climbed into a tie with Arkansas for first place in the Southern Division. Arkansas defeated Buffalo, the Northern Division leader, 5-3. Columbus trounced Jacksonville 6-1 and Rochester swept Toronto 6-1 and 5-3.

A two-run homer in the ninth inning by Jeoff Long and Johnny Lewis' basis - empty homer gave Rochester the win in Indianapolis in the ninth inning.

Herb Score, making his second start for the Indians in the nightcap, drew his second loss after walking four batters in the first inning and yielding a three-run double to Jim Hermsen. Long homered again for Atlanta in the second game.

Arkansas scored four runs in the first inning to whip Buffalo. Six of the first seven Travelers hit safely off Bison starter Carl Mathias.

Frank Bertaina struck out nine Toronto batters and hurled a five-hitter in the first game for Rochester, and Billy Short restricted the Maple Leafs to four hits in the second game. Sam Jethroe homered in each game for Rochester, and Steve Hiko and Fred Valentine contributed two-run homers in the second game.

Noses Out Ron Saylor

J. McKenzie 'Mr. Bowling'

Jim McKenzie captured the "Mr. Bowling" championship by a slim eight-pin margin over last year's title holder in the 1213 Annual Tourney held at the Bowl-O-Drome Friday and Saturday.

McKenzie, who rolled 2700 for his ten games Friday night, had to watch Saturday as many of Eastern Ontario's top keglers took a run at his mark.

Ron Saylor, last year's champ, came the closest, finishing with a 2692 score, just eight pins behind McKenzie. Leo St. Louis came in third with 2656, followed by Earl MacDonald with 2629.

Trenton's Horace Ormshaw was fifth with 2620. Russ Jones, 2609, Bill Lott 2601, Cec Hardwick 2526 and Leo Labelle 2525, completed the top ten list.

Sixty-eight bowlers, from Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Kingston, Peterborough, Cobourg, and Batawa Batawa took in the tournament.

McKenzie, who also won the crown in 1955 with a 2299 average, and Saylor, will compete in the O'Connor Bowl champion ships in Toronto shortly. McKenzie will also receive many valuable prizes as the result of his 270 average this year. It was the third highest average in the history of the tournament.

Saylor and St. Louis turned in the only 400 games of the two-day affair. Saylor rolled 468 in one game but dropped to a 204 in his final game, well below his average, to wind up behind the leader.

St. Louis had a 403 line while other good singles went to Dick Young 383, Ormshaw 378, Bill Lott 374 and Horace Ormshaw 358. There were 43 three-hundred games rolled in the tourney, including three by winner McKenzie, 310, 313, and 333.

Plays, Poetry, Music, Paintings Feature 'Evening With the Arts'

A full house of about 100 people attended "An Evening With the Arts" — the Belleville Theatre Guild's by-invitation-only initiation of its new theatre —on the third floor above Latimer's Drug Store on Front St. Saturday. The theatre, prepared during a three-week rush after a move from previous quarters on Campbell St., received its finishing touches just as the first customers filed in.

Displayed for the evening were paintings by Mrs. Wilma Alexander, Tony Lassing, Bill Sinnett, Muriel Andrews and Peter Smets, out the main show was on the stage, with two one-act plays and one session each of poetry reading and violin music.

The music was provided by the Eastern Ontario String Quartet, composed of Stephen Choma, William Grant, Joachim Reimann and Marion Stratton. The quartet provided five selections during the evening. According to the program, the selections are intended to be accompanied by a piano, but there was no piano Saturday night. Nobody missed it.

Poetry readings from the works of D. H. Lawrence were by Trevor Dickinson, reading at Q.S.S.

TWO PLAYS PRESENTED

With off-beat lighting and passionate reading, the poems led up to the final presentation — a one-act play, based on the death of D. H. Lawrence, by Tennessee Williams. Titled "I Rise in Flame, Cried the Phoenix," the play starred Jim Alexander as Lawrence, Nicki Thomas as Frieda, his wife, and Beryl Slatter as Bertha, a friend of the family.

Margo Hall and Elizabeth Lemon starred, with Gene Blanks playing the part of a waitress, in the first presentation of the evening, a new translation by Elizabeth Sprigge of August Strindberg's play, "The Stronger."

Set and costumes designs for the evening were by Anne Hoyle, who worked with technical director Gordon Collins and his assistants, George Parkinson and Bill Sinnett. Lighting for the evening was handled by Bruce Jarvah, B. Williams and Norman Howard.

Sugar Ray Knocks Out Algerian

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— Sugar Ray Robinson, making good use of his 25 years of ring experience, took an easy third-round knockout over unknown Maurice Rolbuet of Algeria Saturday night.

The scheduled 10 - rounder drew 2,800 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a boxing match in this industrial city 85 miles east of Montreal.

Robinson, who turned 43 Friday, stayed on the defensive in the first round but staggered the stocky Algerian fighter with a right to the head in the second round.

The crafty veteran toyed with Rolbuet in the third round before flooring him at 1:55.

Robinson weighed 16114 pounds and seemed in good condition. Rolbuet weighed 165.

Burke Emery, Canadian light heavyweight champion, kayoed Billy Henderson of Patterson, N.J., at 1:32 of the third round. Emery is a native of Lennoxville, Que., two miles from Sherbrooke, who now lives in London, Ont.

Few Actors Can Match Record of Roddy McDowall

By BOB THOMAS

PYRAMID LAKE, Nev. (AP) Few actors can match Roddy McDowall's record: For more than 15 years he has been working on two movies.

-Nice work, but few can get it. It's especially nice for Roddy, who suffered a drought of film roles while trying to bridge the gap between bright British child performer and versatile adult actor.

On Sept. 17, 1961, Roddy started work in Rome as Octavian Caesar in Cleopatra. He was with the picture to the end, leading his troops to victory on the sands of Egypt.

On Oct. 29, 1962, the actor began his role as Matthew on the Colorado River locations of The Greatest Story Ever Told. The film now is shooting Sea of Galilee sequences at this mountain-rimmed lake.

Oh, yes, he also took time out from Cleopatra for a role in another epic, The Longest Day. But that required only 10 days about as long as it takes to line up a shot in the other two films.

PLAYED IN CAMELOT

Before the films, Roddy spent a year on Broadway in Camelot. But when you remind him of his luck with long runs, he still knocks on wood, says, "I've still got the actor's disease: I always think I'll never get another job."

He should worry. He could probably earn a good living with his ears. Those were his shots of Elizabeth Taylor in the altogether in Playboy magazine.

Roddy was taking advantage of a windstorm that ended shooting on Greatest Story for the day. Dressed in his biblical robes, he was photographing portraits of British actor Donald Pleasance. When he finished the work in his makeshift trailer-studio, he sat down to talk about the boom to his career after his youthful blight.

"I can't say that I was unhappy as a child actor in films because I wasn't. I had a perfectly wonderful time. The only trouble was that by the time I got to be 17 or 18, Hollywood was still thinking of me in terms of what I had achieved at the age of 11 (in How Green Was My Valley).

His life with the epics began when Cleopatra producer Walter Wanger saw him in Camelot. Learning Cleo finished in time for him to join Greatest Story, though he had to go to Spain in January for some final battle scenes.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Has Lost Her Sense of Decency

DEAR DORIS—Our 15-year-old daughter seems to have lost her sense of decency. She is on her way to serious trouble and I'm at my wit's end as to how to help her.

She is extremely popular with the boys and this has developed into necking whenever it could be sneaked into her rather full schedule. By committing the unpardonable sin of reading her mail I found she was bragging about putting things over on us. She tells of escapades with the boys which make me sick. Talks of marriage and running away. Swears (in her letter) and uses dirty words.

DORIS CLARK

She can look me in the eye and lie. I have told her of the trouble a girl can get into and pleaded with her to use her head. She shut up like a clam.

Where has our daughter lost her way, and what can we do?—DISTRACTED.

DEAR DISTRACTED—She sees you as old-fashioned and prim. Goes some of her frustrations down on paper in a smart aleck way that makes her feel sophisticated.

She is not nearly so sure of herself as she pretends to be. Your words are still ringing in her ears, you may be sure, and secretly she sometimes wishes she could tell you how she feels.

Start a new era by helping her put on a dance in your living room; teach her to be a hostess and serve dainties she has made herself. Get to know these so-called pals of hers. As she comes into more self-assurance, she won't feel the need to be so daring.

DEAR DORIS—I have a question that has been puzzling me. If you go to a cafe and a friend (boy) happens to sit down with you for a coke by chance, does he pay for yours, or do you you?—WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING—Assume nothing. No boy likes to be imposed on. If he picks up your check before you can, and insists on paying it, accept graciously. Thank him for a pleasant surprise.

DEAR DORIS—Tell me what chance a young mother of an illegitimate child has after she has signed her baby for adoption, then found her chances are narrowed because of birthmarks which she, the mother, wasn't told of or didn't see.

Can she regain the baby rather than face a heartsick, worrisome life fearing the little one is left unloved and unwanted in some foster home?—ANXIOUS.

DEAR ANXIOUS—A long list of childless couples awaits any healthy baby. Unless the birthmarks are serious and disfiguring there is little doubt this one will be received with open arms.

Since you gave so little detail, I'd say this is a question to ask your child care workers. Incidentally, no child finds itself unwanted when it is placed in a foster home. Such homes are carefully chosen with the needs of the individual child in mind.

FARES CAUSE TROUBLE

OTTAWA (CP)—Board of control called Thursday for an emergency meeting with the Ottawa Transportation Commission to avert a financial crisis and possible increase in bus fares. The action was taken after the board received report showing the transit system suffered a revenue drop of 6.3 per cent in the first quarter of this year, when it carried 300,000 fewer passengers than in the corresponding 1962 period.

ing on the bumper of his vehicle when the Newson automobile ground into its rear, plunging it against Terry's car in which Marilyn Bush was sitting. The truck caromed off into a ditch and struck a fence.

Ross Newson, believed to be the driver of the car, was killed instantly, while his younger brother died enroute to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Two ambulances, including LaSalle Ambulance from Belleville, were needed to take the injured to hospital.

VISIBILITY POOR

Madeline Campbell, a passenger in the Newson car, and Mr. Leech were both admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

The Newson brothers and Mrs. Campbell minutes before had left the Newson family home in Consecon to drive to Trenton. Ross Newson, employee of a Smiths Falls scrap metal dealer, was home for the weekend. Donald was the father of three children and his wife, the former Dorothy Brooks of Hallowray, is expecting another child.

Visibility was poor and the highway wet following the storm. Police say an inquest will be held.

Meantime, cause of the two-car accident near Desoronto still is being investigated by provincial police from Belleville today.

Police say the incident occurred after a small German car, driven by 18-year-old Brian O'Hara, of Ottawa, turned out to pass another automobile and collided with an oncoming vehicle driven by Robert Sarles of R.R. 3, Trenton.

Of the five persons in the O'Hara car, 16-year-old Denise Barnabe was the most seriously injured with a fractured skull, jaw and collarbone.

O'Hara suffered a possible leg fracture.

Others injured were: Ruth Morrison and Clair Hardy, both 14, with cuts; George Pelton, 18, cuts and a shoulder injury, and Walter Foley, 22, R.R. 1, Trenton, a passenger in the Sarles vehicle, who was treated for bruised ribs.

A double funeral for the two Newson brothers will be held Tuesday from the John R. Bush Funeral Home in Belleville. They will be buried in Wellington cemetery.

The two young men were sons of Mr. William Newson and the late Mrs. Annie Newson and were born in Prince Edward county. Ross lived at Consecon, while his younger brother Donald, lived at Demorestville. Until about three years ago Donald had lived at Picton where was maintenance man with the Lake Ontario Cement Company. Ross Newson worked for the Zyman Waste and Metal Company.

Both were members of the United Church.

Donald is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Brooks, and three daughters: Kathy, Noreen and Theresa, all at home.

The two men are also survived by their father; three brothers, Phillip of Consecon, Ralph of Demorestville, and Cecil of Smiths Falls, and three sisters, Mrs. Gerald (Gladys) Valleau of R.R. 2, Picton; Mrs. Earl (Mary) Taylor of Kingston, and Mrs. Dale (Dorothy) Vanelly of Calgary, Alta.

Killins, 10, race across the street to the house where Turnpike school teacher Peter Miller, 30, stayed. Miller received a shotgun blast in the arms and may lose his left hand.

TO CAMPBELL HOUSE

Fred Campbell continued: "They both rushed over to our place. Then I saw the shadow of my father-in-law flash by the window and I went to lock the door. But he was too fast he barged in shooting.

"I'm sure he hit me first. A big round ball of fire blurred my sight and a bullet grazed my shoulder.

"I spun around when I was hit and I reached out to catch my wife by the hand. But the bullet that grazed me must have hit her. I could see her face all mashed. The last thing I heard her say was, 'Help me, Fred, help me.'

"I think Miller was hit next. He was right in there trying to help. Then everything went fuzzy . . ."

Also killed was Miss Gladys Killins, 41, of Parry Sound, Mr. Killins' sister, Florence Killins, 50, his wife, and youngest daughter Patricia, 7.

Briton, Russian Plead Guilty To Spying Charges

Men Face Possible Death Penalties

MOSCOW (Reuters)—British businessman Greville Wynne and Russian scientific official Oleg Penkovsky today confessed to spying against Russia for the United States and Britain.

Both Wynne, 44, and Penkovsky, 43, pleaded guilty to all charges against them as their double trial—the first major spy trial in Russia since the Gary Powers case—opened in the Soviet Supreme Court.

Asked if he pleaded guilty, Wynne answered: "I do with certain reservations which I will make in my statement."

Penkovsky, who had acted as a liaison officer between Russian industry and Western businessmen, admitted that he had given Wynne information about Soviet rockets for the U.S. and British intelligence services.

Wynne's wife, Sheila, was sitting only 20 yards away as her husband, looking pale and nervous, pleaded guilty to the charge of espionage against Russia.

MAY FACE DEATH

Both men face possible death penalties for spying.

The trial of Penkovsky began spying in April, 1961, during official visits to London and Paris and that Wynne was a frequent visitor to Communist countries, helped establish his connection with the U.S. and British intelligence networks.

It said he delivered cameras, films and espionage instructions to Penkovsky during his trips to Moscow and that Penkovsky repeatedly met American and British agents at secret rendezvous to get "top-secret economic, political and military information."

Wynne was arrested last fall in Budapest during a business trip and turned over to the Russians by Hungary.

Penkovsky was picked up a few months later and linked by Russian papers to officials in the United States Embassy in Moscow.

Among the Western spies he met, the charge said, were Wynne and men named "Ogla holm" and "Carlson."

(Rodney W. Carlson, former assistant agricultural attache at the U.S. Embassy, left Russia voluntarily last Dec. 14 after charges that he was connected with Penkovsky were published in the Russian press and denied by U.S. officials).

PRIME MINISTER TELLS CABINET OF HIS TALKS

Many Top Problems Are on Agenda

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson presides today at a meeting of his full cabinet facing important domestic and international decisions.

Key among them, to be considered today and more likely to be decided in later cabinet sessions, is the role Canada should play in any multinational nuclear force.

The top domestic problem pressing at the moment is federal relief aid for the flood-stricken Northern communities of Hay River and Fort Simpson, N.W.T., where residents had to be evacuated during the emergency that rose while Mr. Pearson was in London last week.

On the international scene, Mr. Pearson is expected to report to his ministers on his conferences with Prime Minister Macmillan and to discuss his forthcoming visit to Hyannis Port, Mass., to talk with President Kennedy.

No firm decision on the nuclear club question is likely to be made until after the Hyannis Port talks. However, Mr. Pearson said Sunday on his return from London that the role Canada should play would have to be decided before the question comes up in the NATO ministerial council meeting opening here May 22.

BRIEFS MINISTERS

Mr. Pearson Monday briefed two sets of his ministers on his London conversations. He presided at cabinet committees on defence and on trade, economics and employment. No announcements were made, as is usual after cabinet committee meetings.

Detailed plans were being worked out, meanwhile, for Mr. Pearson's trip to Hyannis Port Friday, Saturday-Monday with United States Ambassador Walton Butterworth and C. S. A. Ritchie, Canadian ambassador to Washington, who came here to help.

Today's cabinet session was also expected to hear progress reports from ministers on the legislative program being drafted for the new parliamentary session which opens a week from this Thursday.

Waters Drop at Two Settlements Aklavik Prepares for Bad Flood

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—Cleanup operations proceeded today in two northern communities in the wake of major floods and a third settlement prepared for what was expected to be one of the worst inundations in its history.

Water and ice have retreated from the island settlement of Hay River at the mouth of the Hay on the south shore of Great Slave Lake, 500 miles north of Edmonton.

At Fort Simpson, N.W.T., built on an island at the confluence of the Mackenzie and Liard Rivers, 130 miles northwest of here and 625 from Edmonton, the threat of flooding eased, though about one-third of the settlement remained under water Monday night.

More than 400 miles downriver from Fort Simpson, patrols of the Northern affairs department kept watch on the level of the Mackenzie at Aklavik, a settlement of about 850 persons, mostly natives.

Meanwhile, a check was started of accommodations at Inuvik, N.W.T., a centre built

COUNCIL WANTS BREATH TESTS MANDATORY

One Way to Detect Impaired Drivers

HALIFAX (CP)—A resolution calling for mandatory breath tests to detect impaired drivers is expected to be drawn up today by the Canadian Highway Safety Council's laws and enforcement committee.

During a panel discussion Monday on alcohol and road traffic, a suggestion by Panel Chairman J. B. Humphrey, resident vice - president of the American Insurance Company, that such a resolution be considered by the committee, received warm applause.

The plea for legislation making chemical tests mandatory was put forth by G. Albert Cooper of St. John's, Nfld., director of education for the Newfoundland Council on Alcohol Problems. He also called for legislation setting a statutory blood level and making it an offence for any driver to have a higher alcohol content in his blood than the set limit.

The call for legislation was somewhat tempered by Alberta Highways Minister Gordon Taylor, who said it wouldn't help and charged that there was too much emphasis "on letting the public down to."

The breath test was advocated by Dr. Wallace Troup of Ottawa, chairman of the council's medical advisory committee and chairman of the Canadian Medical Association committee on medical aspects of traffic accidents.

Children Tell of Shootings In Homes at Castleton

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — A fragmented story of shootings and sobbing was presented Monday to a coroner's jury by two youngsters whose parents, two sisters and aunt died last week in a violent outbreak at nearby Castleton.

The children were Margaret Killins, 12, and her 10-year-old brother, Brian. Their testimony came at an inquest into the death of their father, Robert Killins, 56-year-old former minister.

Killins died in hospital of head wounds Friday night, although doctors said he was also seriously ill with diabetes and a gangrenous leg infection. A day earlier, his wife, his sister and two daughters were shot to death when a killer went from one to another of four houses and gunned them down. Three other people were wounded.

Margaret and Brian, who were present for portions of the incident, were called to testify before being taken to British Columbia to live with relatives. Coroner J. F. Leeson then adjourned the inquest indefinitely, until those wounded have had a chance to testify.

Margaret told the five-man jury that she heard two shots and went to a room of the house where she lived with her mother and two other children. She said her mother was dead in a chair and her father was wrestling with Thomas Major, 43-year-old friend of Mrs. Killins.

The girl said she saw something in her father's hand—she could not say whether it was a firearm—then ran to the adjacent home of her married sis-

Enquiry on Taxation Asked To Speed Judicial Wheels

TORONTO (CP)—So far as taxation is concerned, Ottawa's financial and judicial wheels are grinding around at too slow a pace, a big electrical manufacturing firm said today. The Carter report commission on taxation was asked to recommend a touch of lubrication.

Sunbeam Corporation (Canada) Limited presented the six-member commission with a report on its own experiences with tax appeals — one case stretching more than six years through various courts.

Specifically, the company suggests that the revenue department issue its final assessment to corporations within one year of the filing of returns. The present practice, said the company's brief, is for the department to issue an interim assessment within a year and a final auditing within four years.

Another brief presented to the commission today took exception to the fact that the federal government does not pay interest to a municipality on Crown lands even though it collects revenue through the sale of produce from the land.

The brief from the Sudbury and District Municipal Association said this was particularly unfair since the private land-

BANK OF CANADA CUTS INTEREST RATE TO 3½ PC

Move Heralds Easier Credit

OTTAWA (CP)—In a move heralding easier credit, the Bank of Canada Monday cut its lending rate to 3½ per cent from four.

It was the fourth reduction of the bank rate since it was pegged at six per cent last June as part of the former government's austerity program.

The rate, the country's leading indicator of the cost of credit generally, now is at its lowest point since May of last year.

Bank Governor Louis Rasminsky said in announcing the move Monday night that it was designed "to continue to encourage credit conditions that facilitate sound domestic economic expansion."

He also said that in the last six months there has been an improvement in Canada's current balance of international payments and that the foreign exchange reserves position had "developed in a satisfactory way."

RESERVES JUMP

Last week it was announced that the foreign exchange reserves reached a record $7,671,400,000 in April, a jump of $71,300,000 in the month.

A year ago these reserves were in a downward trend that became critical in June, touching off the austerity drive. The bank rate was raised to six per cent as part of an effort to encourage an increased inflow of foreign capital which had been drying up.

Prior to being pegged, the bank rate was a floating one which varied with the demands of the money market. It was set at 3% per cent above the

Two Kingston Men Charged After Holdup

TORONTO (CP)—Two Kingston men were charged with armed robbery following the holdup of a suburban North York sub post office Monday.

Archie A. Cameron, 36, and James Berkinshaw, 40, were arrested at gunpoint by Pickering Township provincial police at a road block near Ajax, 15 miles east of Toronto.

Police said two men held up the sub post office about 9:15 a.m. and got away with about $200.

Cameron and Berkinshaw were arrested about two hours later after a high-speed chase along Highway 401.

The chase began when a policeman in the eastern section of North York Township saw a car answering a description of the car used by the holdup men.

Passengers Lifted From Seats by Jolt

EDMONTON (CP) — An elderly man died and 25 other passengers were injured when a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane was rocked by violent air currents high above the Rocky Mountains on a flight from Vancouver to Ottawa Monday.

A TCA spokesman said Monday night four of the passengers remained in hospital, none of them seriously injured. Others were released after examination or treatment.

A passenger said the plane dropped sharply, perhaps about 800 feet, and another said he was lifted from his seat while trying to fasten his seat belt.

L. M. Schmidt, 77, of Cudworth, Sask., a retired storekeeper returning from a visit with his sister in Woodburn, Oregon, was dead on arrival at hospital in Edmonton.

A TCA spokesman said an autopsy was performed Monday night to determine cause of death and results would be known today.

INTERIOR A MESS

A TCA spokesman said the plane carried 69 paying passengers, three company employees and a crew of five. He added the interior of the 60-ton craft was a shambles. Some seats were knocked out of place and newspapers, blankets and other items were scattered.

The four-engine plane, with a capacity of 109 passengers, suffered no apparent structural damage but was to undergo inspection by company investigators today.

The aircraft ran into rough air at 21,000 feet about 50 miles

Its flaming exhaust was visible for more than nine minutes before vanishing high in the sky.

Consumer Price Index Climbs To New Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living costs rose sharply in March under the pressure of higher prices for clothing and medical care, hit a new peak April 1.

The bureau of statistics said today that the consumer price index rose two-tenths of a point in the month to 132.3 at April 1, compared with 132.1 at March 1.

The index—a prices yardstick based on 1949 levels equalling 100—was 1.5 per cent or two points above the April 1, 1962, index of 130.3.

Over the month, increases in the clothing and health and personal care indexes outweighed decreases in the transportation, recreation and reading and tobacco and alcohol indexes. The food and housing indexes were unchanged.

The index increase followed a rise in salaries and wages in February. The index of average industrial wages and salaries for March 1—latest date available—was 132.7, compared with 130.7 a month earlier and 126.7 a year earlier.

The wages index, also based on 1949 level equalling 100, is computed from a survey of firms employing more than 15 persons in a wide range of industries. It represents an average of total wages paid.

Princess Anne Drives Father's Car in Park

LONDON (CP) — Princess Anne, who won't be 13 until Aug. 15, drove her father's car several hundred yards Sunday—but it was strictly legal.

The princess turned up at Windsor Park in blue jeans, an sharp contrast to the pretty attire she wore two weeks ago as chief bridesmaid at the Westminster Abbey wedding of her cousin, Princess Alexandra.

Anne jumped from the little two-toned car of her father, Prince Philip, who was playing polo.

She started the car and drove about 40 yards. There was a great clashing of gears as she put the auto into reverse, but she managed to back ing it to a position near Philip, who had finished play.

Anne set the emergency brake and hopped out, to applause from the watching crowd.

Since Windsor Park belongs to the queen and thus is private property, the princess did not break any driving laws. She was free to drive ing on a public road is 17.

Port au Prince, Haitian Capital, Described as a City of Fear

Associated Press Correspondent Morris W. Rosenberg has been in Port au Prince, the Haitian capital, for the last two weeks. He flew to the Dominican Republic Monday night with this report, which Haitian censorship prevented transmitting from Port au Prince.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

PORT AU PRINCE (AP)—This is a city of fear.

Fear is in the shout of a crouching soldier aiming his rifle and calling "arrete" — halt—in the night.

Fear is in the whisper of a man who passes a foreign friend on a public square, seemingly not recognizing him, but muttering, "there are too many eyes around here."

Fear is in the voice of a smiling Haitian who turns aside an inquiry, saying: "I have five children to take care of. Therefore I don't know anything about anything."

Fear is in the bravado of dictator Francois Duvalier, proclaiming to a foreign newspaporters: "Bullets and machineguns capable of frightening Duvalier do not exist." But in the night Duvalier sends his dreaded Tonton Marcoute gestapo on a ruthless manhunt for Clement Barbot — his former bodyguard, the man he organized his brutal secret police force, broke with Duvalier and now has sworn to kill him.

In many ways Haiti seems unreal and incredible in today's Caribbean world.

A priest observes: "Haiti is 90 per cent Catholic, 70 per cent protestant and 100 per cent voodoo." The voodoo religion has a strong basis of fear of evil spirits. The 56-year-old country doctor who holds absolute power over his people skillfully plays upon their spiritual fears.

Illiteracy is appalling. About one person in 10 can read and

Comedian Dick Gregory Held

Birmingham Jails Filled To Bursting

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Birmingham's jails are jammed with Negroes almost to the bursting point today, and leaders of a massive desegregation drive pledged more demonstrations.

"We will definitely have more demonstrations starting about noon," said Martin Luther King Jr., president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

King's comment followed the arrest Monday of a police-estimated 1,000 marchers, including Negro comedian Dick Gregory. The vast majority of those arrested for parading without a permit were school children or other teen-agers. Many skipped classes to join in the campaign.

King said the goals of the desegregation drive are:

1. A fair policy for hiring Negroes for jobs.

2. Desegregation of all downtown public facilities, including lunch counters, restrooms and water fountains.

3. Establishment of a bi-racial committee to study broad steps toward desegregation, including the public schools.

4. Dropping of all charges against all Negroes arrested for picketing, parading and other demonstrations.

The Negro leaders have sought permits to parade. They were denied on grounds it would cause a disturbance.

More than 2,400 now have been arrested since demonstrations started Thursday.

An additional 200-plus, including King, were arrested in earlier phases of the integration drive which began April 3. Police officials said at least 2,000 declined to post bond and remained in the crowded jails and detention quarters.

"When the sun goes down today, there'll be so many Negroes in jail that the people of Birmingham will hate to see a Negro," said another Negro leader, Rev. James Bevel of Cleveland, Miss.

"We could have had 2,500 arrested yesterday, but we got tired."

Gregory arrived by plane to join the demonstrators and within three hours was arrested at the head of the first group of marchers.

The entertainer led the crowd of teen-agers almost a block from a Negro church before they were halted by police officers.

An official asked Gregory if he had a private permit.

He answered no and the officer told him to turn around.

"No, we'll stay here," Gregory said.

The officer said such action violated city law and also a state court injunction. The officer turned and said:

"Dick Gregory says they will not disperse. Call the wagon."

Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, one of King's top lieutenants, was asked whether there were any plans to post bond for Gregory.

"No, not at this time," Walker answered. "When I talked with him, he said he planned to remain in jail for the duration."

Rotarians Taken On Tour of Russia by Film

Belleville Rotarians and their guests were taken on a conducted tour of Moscow on Monday by Col. Kenneth L. Campbell of Napanee.

Col. Campbell showed his audience a film on the people and the living conditions in Russia and explained various phases of the film.

The pictures showed by Col. Campbell were taken five years ago, mainly in Moscow, showing the people, the land and the buildings which were of great interest.

The speaker stated that there were only certain areas which may be photographed. He said the main streets consisted of fairly new and modern buildings and these one could photograph readily, but, go one block off the main street and here it becomes very uncomfortable for you if you try to take pictures of the old dilapidated buildings. The Russians were very reluctant about having these parts photographed and if they saw you taking a picture of this run-down area they would ask why you were taking a picture of one of the nicer buildings.

SMILES WARMLY

The speaker also said that one is not allowed to take pictures of the factories or of the women who labor in the streets. He said the Russians were very proud of their country but they were afraid people might get the wrong idea if they saw pictures of the sweatshops.

The people dress very warmly in the winter time. However, he said living conditions are very much like in our own towns and cities. A family has to live in one or two rooms in a huge makeshift apartment building, sharing the cooking facilities and the bathroom facilities with the rest of the tenants. He said as soon as the nice weather arrived they were outdoors a lot because it was tiring to be crowded in the rooms after being in all winter. There are only three all winter.

Col. Campbell said that Russia being such a huge country, the only way to really see it is to travel, and there are only certain parts of the Russian country where you can travel freely.

BOBBY HULL GUEST

He said you are allowed to travel in an area of 48 kilometers and if you wanted to go beyond this boundary you had to give 24 hours' notice. He said while in Russia there is always tried to pick a spot on the weekend to get away from the city that would be in this area.

The Russians love to go fishing he said and they spend hours at it even though they never catch anything. Most of the homes were heated with coal.

In closing, Col. Campbell said the goal of most Russians was to get to Moscow university.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Freeman Burrows and was thanked by Past-President Harold Mott.

Chicago Black Hawk player, Bobby Hull, was the guest of honor at Monday's luncheon meeting as a guest of Rotarian J. Spragge. Bobby spoke to the club about his hockey team, and remarked that the Black Hawk theme for next year might be, "There'll By Some Changes Made." He expressed his feelings toward the coaching staff, club, and said had he had anything to do with it, there wouldn't have been quite as much practising done.

About 45 members attended the meeting.

owner, who pays tax on his land, also has to bear the burden of providing roads leading to these lands.

"Since a land owner should receive the same price for his land regardless of the use to which it is put, it does not seem fair that the Crown should obtain this revenue — municipal tax — free while the private land owner has to figure on paying municipal tax on this property as long as he owns it."

The only municipality which includes the townships of Salter, May and Harrow, 32 per cent of their land area is owned by the Crown, the brief said. The entire province—or perhaps the country—should be surveyed to determine the percentage in other municipalities.

Then, one of three things should be done. Crown lands should become taxable, or a grant be made to the municipality, or a fee be paid to the municipality for sales made from Crown lands.

Metal Workers Union Signs Acme Contract

Local 598 of the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association (CLC) has signed a contract with Acme Plumbing and Heating Ltd., of Belleville, giving about 90 workers wage increases of up to $4 cents an hour.

The one-year contract, covering work within the Belleville, Trenton and Picton area, provides for a wage rate of $3.90 per hour on commercial and industrial projects and at so a new rate on residential work retroactive to May 1st.

An official of Acme Plumbing and Heating said today that the new contract was signed last week but that the rate for residential work still requires some clarification, which is expected within a day or so.

Before the contract, workers were paid $3.86 an hour on both residential and commercial projects.

The demand for higher wages in residential work has put the metal workers at the new addition to the Quinte Secondary school a couple of weeks ago.

At that time Acme Plumbing and Heating officials were quoted as saying that they were prepared to sign the contract for commercial and industrial work but felt the requested new rate would jeopardize the company's position with respect to residential work.

RCMP Corporal Honored After Bank Holdup

VANCOUVER (CP) — More honor was paid Monday to Cpl. Garry G. Fraser, an RCMP officer who lost a leg while foiling a bank holdup.

To a George Medal the corporal has already received for courage of a high order" was added a cheque for $2,000—paid to a benefit fund—a cigaret case and a $500 purchase order for his wife.

In March of last year the wounded corporal — then constable—disarmed a robber in the Bank of Montreal branch at Terrace, B.C., 80 miles east of Prince Rupert.

He was so severely wounded that his left leg had to be amputated above the knee and he received blood transfusions before he was pronounced out of danger. His recovery has been described as miraculous.

A bank representative gave Cpl. Fraser the $500 payment on behalf of the Canadian Bankers' Association, payable to the RCMP benefit fund, because regulations do not permit a member of the force to accept a gift for doing work with the performance of duties.

In addition to the payment to the RCMP benefit fund, Fraser was an engraved cigaret case for Cpl. Fraser and purchase order for dining room furniture for his wife.

Charles Dilley, the man who wounded the corporal, now is serving 15 years for armed robbery.

Fraser was shortly raised to corporal and kept on as a member of the force. He now is taking a seven-year commerce and law degree course at the University of British Columbia.

Firemen Busy; House Damaged Barn Burned

City firemen were kept busy Monday evening and early this morning answering several calls to fires which caused damage estimated at $2,200.

The most extensively damaged home was that of Thomas Nicholson of 99 Octavia Street. Loss was estimated at approximately $2,000. Fire Chief Gerald Vance said it is believed that the blaze started in a bedroom clothes closet. There was very little water damage, but the furniture was badly damaged by the heavy smoke he said. A hole had to be chopped in the roof. The alarm was received at the department at 12.36 a.m. this morning.

BARN BURNS

A small barn, owned by A. C. McFaul at R.R. 2, Ameliasburg, was completely destroyed by a fire of unknown origin at 5.30 p.m. There was no estimate of damage.

At 6.09 p.m. a chimney fire was reported at the home Mrs. B. Hayman, 70 Bridge Street. No damage was reported here.

Damage estimated at between $200 and $250 was caused by a fire of unknown origin in the bedroom of a home occupied by Harold Weaver at 36 Valleyview Crescent. It is believed the blaze started in a corner of the bedroom. The alarm came at 7.17 p.m.

At 7.39 p.m. firemen answered an alarm at the home of Jack Denay, 124 George Street, caused by overheated stove pipes. No damage was reported.

Council Postpones Request Of PUC for $36,995 for Installation of Watermains

TRENTON — Councillor Claude Graham was acting mayor at last night's regular meeting of Trenton Council, replacing Mayor James MacDonald, who left with his wife Sunday for a month's tour of Europe. The meeting began at 8:15, after Councillor Ross Burtt's protection to personal and property committee had held a closed meeting with Fire Chief Cecil Ellis, to discuss the possible calling of tenders for a new fire truck.

Later, council took time out again while Clerk - Comptroller O. W. Larry read editorials from the Ontario Intelligencer of May 1 and the Trentonian of April 19, which followed announcements of new tax rates in the two communities. "I have been instructed to read these without comment," said Mr. Larry, and for the most part councillors also reserved comment. Councillor Gerald Weaver observed, however, that while both communities had comparable commercial-industrial rates — Trenton 104.8 mills and Belleville 103 mills — it was interesting to note the editorials drew different conclusions on their significance.

Council postponed a request from the Public Utilities Commission for $36,995.50 for installation of watermains under local improvement on Sidney St. The request will await Mr. Larry's ascertaining exactly how much the 12-inch main will cost to the town, the PUC and property owners. These costs will then be given to the ratepayers for a public meeting.

Councillor James Duncan, chairman of the public works committee, informed council that since his committee had only just met, Mr. Larry would need the report. This recommended that since M. Mlosvitch had served notice that he no longer wished to supply sewage for the sanitary land fill area, tenders be called again for the work; that no action be taken on the proposed extension of Catharine St., until further information; that D. Douglas Rusbnell be allowed to put a curb on Division St., near his funeral centre, subject to the town engineer's approval; that the question of a public parking lot above Riverside Drive be referred to council; that a wall be removed from the street allowance at the corner of Sidney and Dundas Sts., and that McGill St., from Flin Ave., to Westmount Gardens, be extended, subject to parks board approval. It was also suggested that the proposed widening of the corner of King and Elgin Sts., be delayed pending further information as to cost, although town engineer Eric Aldersey said he expects the work to cost $1,200 plus the cost of the land.

SEVEN DOGS DESTROYED

In his report, Councillor Burtt said seven dogs were destroyed, nine returned and one impounded during April. "No dog-catcher can catch all the dogs in town unless he gets the co-operation of the people," he said, noting that he had had several complaints of dogs running loose on private and school property. He stressed that the dog catcher cannot be authorized to impound a dog on private property unless the request comes from the owner of the property.

Mr. Larry said the planning board had turned down a request from R. E. Whitley for a re-severing of lots on Bridge Street and Sidney Streets, together with an alternative request for an alternative site on town property north of the CNR tracks. He said Mr. Whitley had turned down an offer of alternative land south of the railway tracks, near the Central Bridge Co., plant.

Mr. Larry also told council that Canadian General Electric Co., had submitted a bid of $2,373 for supply of radio equipment to the fire department. "The big problem," he said, "will be to locate the required antenna in such a place where there would be no interference from existing frequencies, such as that used by the police department and thereby qualify for a fire manual's grant." "An mountain," said G.E., but the mountain," said G.E., but the police department already has one there, on the water tower, and there would be no guarantee of no interference unless a filter system was used. This would increase the overall cost by some $730.

At Councillor Weaver's suggestion, a request from Joyce Realty of Belleville for almost two acres of land adjacent to Skit Tool, to be used for a storage warehouse, will be investigated. The real estate firm offered $3,000 for the land which is zoned for industrial purposes.

Peter Pomeroy of Dundas St., East, appeared before council for information on where he stood regarding a building he is erecting on the street. He was told he should have obtained an Ontario Land Surveyor's report before proceeding with the work, which is now above street level, to see if he was encroaching on town or highways property. Mr. Pomeroy will move the wall back, leaving the existing foundation as a step, and get advice in future from a qualified surveyor and the town works department.

The spokesman refused to confirm a British press report that Britain would contact Germany within a month to increase the strength of the Rhine army beyond 55,000.

Mr., Mrs. Henry Fulford Observe Golden Wedding

TRENTON — A golden wedding anniversary comes only once in fifty years, but Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fulford will be able to recall the event in future years when they look back on the shower of gifts, cards and telegrams they received Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Fulford, both born in Brighton, now live at 44A King St., Trenton, after spending most of their lives in the district.

Mr. Fulford is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Fulford and Mrs. Fulford is daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Ledgworth. They met and were married in Trenton by Rev. George Bonner, minister of Grace Methodist Church, (now Grace United) on May 4, 1912. The couple raised four children, Mrs." Graydon Young, (Melba) of Toronto; Mrs. Mindeball, (Muriel), who died in 1951; Melbourne Fulford of Rexdale and Murray of Etobicoke. They also have five grandchildren.

As a member of the Fourth Canadian Mounted Rifles, Mr. Fulford was wounded at Vimy and received the Military Medal for bravery in the field before he was sent home. He also saw brief service in the Second World War. Since Mr. Fulford retired, ten years ago, both he and his wife have devoted much of their time to the Salvation Army. Mr. Fulford is a former welfare sergeant in the Corps, and his wife is a retired secretary of the Home League.

Mrs. Fulford is also a keen copper tooler and enjoys flower arranging. Her husband divides his time between reading and driving the family car.

U.S. Captain And Sergeant Defect to Reds

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany says a U.S. Army Captain and a sergeant have appealed for political asylum. The army confirmed that the captain crossed into East Germany and the sergeant is missing from his unit.

The captain was a native of Communist-ruled Lithuania. His mother in the United States received the report of his defection with alarm and disbelief.

The East German news agency ADN identified the pair as Capt. Alfred Svenson, 30, of Scranton, Pa., a bachelor and Sgt. Benjamin Cain, 35, of Fredrica, Del.

There apparently was no connection between them. Svenson was stationed at Giessen, near the border with East Germany, and Cain in West Berlin.

Fireworks Ban Being Planned At Wellington

WELLINGTON — A move to regulate the sale of fireworks within the village of Wellington came too late this year to have any effect on the coming Victoria Day celebrations, May 20. The village council last night received a petition from villagers asking for a bylaw to prevent children from buying fireworks and village clerk James Cleminson has been instructed to prepare the legal groundwork for such a bylaw.

But the law cannot be passed until council meets again, and the next meeting is planned for June third, after Victoria Day. Next year, however, fireworks in Wellington may be for adults only.

Too Hard on the Poor

A Clarkson company, Diversey Corporation (Canada) Ltd., has presented the Carter royal commission on taxation with a vigorous attack on the federal sales tax. Most businessmen will sympathize with the Clarkson firm's objection to this tax. Informed consumers know they might very well benefit immensely if the tax were removed, since its elimination should make possible price reductions in excess of the actual tax levied.

The difficulty with all such proposals for tax cuts is that the government's expenditures are already exceeding revenues. If one tax is eliminated, it must be replaced with another. Unlike many of those who advocate tax cuts, Diversey Corp. recognized this fact. It proposed a surtax on gross personal income, which it suggested could be less than the 3½ per cent levy which would be necessary to yield an equivalent amount to that gained from the sales tax, since considerable collection expenses would be saved.

Such a tax would never be popular politically, but might be desirable economically, were it not for one fact. It would fall much more heavily on the poor than on the rich. True, the rich would pay more. But to levy a tax of three per cent on the pay envelopes which are already too slim to meet basic necessities would not only be politically inexpedient but morally unjustifiable. That there are some people in Canada whose pay envelopes are slim is easily proven—just last week canneries in the Hamilton district protested against Ontario's proposed new minimum wage law, because the minimums are well above the 65-cents-an-hour they have been accustomed to pay casual workers. At 65 cents, a fifty-hour week would provide a wage of $32.50. To deduct a dollar from that would be a much harder blow than to tax a $10,000-a-year man $6 a week.

Cuts Two Ways

"It is fortunate that modern weapons systems cost as much as they do," says U. S. physicist Ralph Lapp, "for otherwise it is entirely possible that no arms limitations would ever take place."

This is a comforting observation—perhaps too comforting.

For one thing, it contains the assumption that, thanks to the cost of modern weapons, some limitations on armament are certain to be imposed, at some time.

The unjustified complacency which such an assumption may breed would be bad enough if Mr. Lapp's basic argument were sound. Unfortunately, it is by no means certain that this is true.

The high cost of modern weapons systems has a double-edged effect. While this cost may provide governments with an additional spur to seek an agreement on arms limitations, it can also have a contrary effect. These weapons systems would not cost as much did their production not require such a large percentage of the most highly-trained portion of our labor force, and the utilization of such a mass of raw materials. It follows that any large reduction in arms will produce a correspondingly large reduction in demand for skilled manpower and for materials. The benefits which may accrue to a government from a drastic reduction in taxation made possible by arms limitations might, in the opinion, be more than offset by the criticism which would accompany a sharp rise in unemployment.

An Old Formula

Saudi Arabia has announced its intention of suspending all its press and radio campaigns against Egypt during the holy feast of Al-Adha. This is being done to "avoid harm to any Arab country."

Any person who, on first reading of this truce in propaganda hoped it might provide a key to an end of the Cold War, will find the reason for and duration of the truce particularly frustrating.

For universal application, all that is needed is a universal faith with a year-long feast.

Unfortunately for the world, there is nothing new about the idea that it is sinful to harm a chosen few people on a chosen few days—but there is no proposition which mankind has more vigorously resisted throughout the ages than the contention that this dispensation should be extended to all of the people all the time.

The United States could, in anger, in frustration, in disgust, pull out of Europe and return to an attempted isolation. But there is no isolation from intercontinental rockets. — U.S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel.

Liberals Acting as if They Have Come Home to Roost

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — You have to pinch yourself to remember these days that the Liberals still have only 129 seats in the Commons, four short of the majority, and a good deal further away than that of the kind of sure-voting strength that makes for confident, comfortable administration.

But minority or not, they are walking — perhaps strutting is the more accurate term — on the same kind of air as the Conservatives did five years ago when they won their government Hill from that astonishing 1958 election with that thundering 208-seat majority.

Strictly Personal
Tradition Can Hinder Flexibility

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some friends were discussing, in puzzled tones, the recent disturbances in Grand Bahama, in which thousands of the recently unemployed staged a demonstration that, for placid England, was nearly riotous.

"What is the unemployment about?" said one. "The unemployment rate in Great Britain is only half that of the United States, and we haven't had any thing like that here."

I suspect that what is frightening to the British workers is the sudden appearance of change in a land of stability and tradition. America, we have always had a mobile labor force; men changed occupations and locales almost as frequently as they changed automobile models.

In England, a job has been something a man expected to do all his life. He often inherited it from his father, who himself inherited it from the medieval guild system. Dozens of English names, in fact, came directly from these crafts—Taylor, Turner, Weber, Wheelwright, Baker, Miller, Skinner, Smith, Weaver, Chandler, Cutler, Mercer, and many others.

Moreover, a stratified social system, which has existed in England and most of Europe since the Middle Ages, made for men to change and adjust.

America's weakness has also turned out to be its strength. Because we have had so long a history, because we were a frontier country, and because the ideal of craftsmanship, not standardization of craftsmanship, was standards of quality, our workmanship have been inferior to most of the Europeans.

When we complain about this "inferior" (as we increasingly do), it must be remembered at the same time that this lack of a tradition has enabled us to be economically, socially and industrially flexible to make rapid shifts in demands and supplies of the labor force. A society that is flexible can make rapid shifts in demands and supplies of the labor force. A society that is flexible can make rapid shifts in demands and supplies of the labor force. A society that is flexible can TORONTO (AP)—The stock market weakened in indecision during light morning trading today. Price changes were mostly fractional all sections.

MUSIC MID THE MESS of the partially constructed Belleville Theatre Guild's new theatre was provided by the Eastern Ontario String Quartet, rehearsing for last Saturday's "An Evening With the Arts," while the theatre was being built. Mixing rehearsals and construction, both aimed at the same deadline, caused minor problems during the last few days of preparation for the show, but the end result was satisfactory.

Theatre Guild Players Move To Commodious Quarters

The actors got the applause Saturday night, at the Belleville Theatre Guild's presentation of "An Evening with the Arts," but the backstage crew was the real star of the show. The crew had converted an abandoned third-floor loft, above Lattimer's Drug Store on Front St., into an attractive theatre in three weeks flat. The last of the painting, a door frame beside the stage, was completed as the first members of the audience entered for the show.

The story of the new theatre, (it hasn't been named yet) began back in March, when the lease on the Theatre Guild's Campbell St. premises was nearly run out. The old warehouse had served well, but it was unheated and damp in winter and the Guild decided to look for new quarters. They found a suitable location, above Front St., and began to move in. So far, they had no definite plans for the new theatre.

NEW TECHNICAL DIRECTOR

Gordon Collins had his own idea of what should be done though. In Canada since September, Mr. Collins had joined the Theatre Guild in January, bringing with him experience with the Chorleywood Players and the Amanda Amateur Theatre Club, in England. With more than 15 years of experience behind him, Gordon Collins became the Belleville Theatre Guild's technical director.

He visualized a stage with a sliding presidium arch which could be moved to adapt to the needs of the different productions and a backstage formed by black curtains. With the lighting provided by spotlights out front, the action on stage is the only thing in the theatre to attract the eye.

20 BY 29 STAGE

With sets for the opening program — two one-act plays, a poetry reading session and a musical interlude — designed by Anne Boyle, Mr. Collins set to work on the theatre, with assistants recruited from the ranks of Guild members and interested outsiders. There were just three weeks to do the job.

The job was done, though. The stage itself, about 20 by 20 feet and raised 18 inches from the floor was completed during the first week-and-a-half and the three platforms making up the four-level seating area were completed a week before the deadline.

Meanwhile, along the walls, the girls of the Guild were painting everything dead black and stringing bright red curtains along the back of the theatre, covering the windows which overlook Front St. The girls gilded the chairs, too, and some of them partially gilded themselves in the process.

WIRED ON LAST DAY

The sliding presidium arch, in front of the stage and the rods holding the curtains behind the stage went up with the last two days before the performance and the lighting was wired up on the last day, but everything was ready in time. Just barely in time.

Of the people who helped build the theatre, Mr. Collins credits George Parkinson, of Bellevile, with the most work. Other regular helpers were Beryl Slatter, Anne Watkins, Nikki Thomas, Bill Sinnett and Jim Alexander. Norm Howard of Belleville handled most of the wiring and Bruce Jarvah operated the stage lights.

PARTIALLY PANICKED by the approaching opening date, Gordon Collins, technical director for the Belleville Theatre Guild, worked on a presidium arch during the last three days. The new theatre incorporates several ideas brought by Mr. Collins from England last year.

Ann Landers

Most Important to Select One's Friends With Care

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Your advice today was good, but you didn't go far enough. I'm talking about the unfortunate girl who was unable to get a date because her sister had had a child out of wedlock. The parents of the boys at school would not permit their sons to associate with "any member of such a family."

You said, and justly so, that the parents were outrageously unfair to discriminate against the girl because of her sister's mistake. You should have added, however, that the younger girl had better expect to carry the stigma for a good many years because most people relish scandal and do their best to keep it going.

We know about such things, Ann. Our son innocently accepted a ride with a friend, not knowing the car was stolen. His name was spread all over the papers. Several months have passed and even though our son has been cleared of all blame his name is still on everyone's lips.

All we can do now is conduct ourselves with dignity, try to hold our heads up and wait until the busybodies find something else to talk about.—BEEN THERE.

DEAR BEEN—Thank you for the letter. You son's bitter experience emphasizes again that it pays to select friends carefully.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS—The letter from the poor sap whose wife went crazy over mixed-league bowling rang a familiar bell. In our family it wasn't bowling, it was contract bridge.

My wife was always a hotshot at cards. First it was a friendly little game with the girls. Then she became involved in tournament bridge. This broadened the field to include both boys and girls.

She got to be such a whiz that the local talent was no challenge. She had to go out of town for tournaments to meet real competition. The trips usually lasted three days.

Stories floated back to me that the bridge players were playing bridge five and six days, and just playing the rest of the time. So after three years of eating out of the freezer I blew the whistle on her.

Today I am married to a woman who doesn't know one card from another and we have two children. My first wife was too busy to think about this. And I might add, we are very happy.—GRAND SLAMMED.

DEAR SLAMMED—Why blame bridge for your wife's itchy foot and loose morals? The game was only a gimmick to get out of town. She could have done the same and used Hadassah or the Eastern Star as her alibi.

If a woman is going to cheat, she'll dream up any excuse to cover.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I am 13 years old and am faced with a terrible problem. I will be confirmed in a few weeks. After church services I will have to stand in the receiving line and shake hands with a lot of people. My problem is that when I get nervous my hands get all sweaty. I am sure they will be this way after my confirmation.

I have already called our family doctor and he says nothing can help clammy hands. He told me not to worry about it. How can I not worry? It is so embarrassing.

Please tell me what to do.—SHOOK UP ALREADY.

DEAR SHOOK—You don't indicate whether you are a boy or a girl. This information would have helped with my answer. A girl can wear dainty white silk gloves. A boy can have an extra handkerchief in this pocket and wipe his hands when he gets a breather.

You'll worry less when you discover that many of the hands you will be shaking will be clammy too.

• • •

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

Make Good Use Of Pork

by Mary Moore

Because some of the big markets are advertising porks butts as low as 43c per pound, the following recipe can be made to rise and shine.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menus

Mixed Grill: Lamb Chop; Veal Kidney; Bacon or Sausage; Fluffy Mashed Potatoes; Creamed Cauliflower; Individual Dessert Fruit Salads; Cheese-Stuffed Pear Halves, Grapefruit Sections; Nut-Stuffed Prunes, Fruit Cream Dressing; Wafer Biscuits; Tea.

PORK ROSEMARY (serves 4):

1½ lbs. lean shoulder pork, 1¼ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 large onion chopped, 1 clove garlic chopped, 2 cups chopped peeled apple (do not omit), 2 tablespoons canned tomato paste, ½ teaspoon ~ (or more) rosemary.

Cut pork into 1" cubes and saute in hot pan without adding fat, until golden brown, stirring almost constantly. Sprinkle ½ teaspoon of the salt and all of the pepper over the meat. Turn into medium casserole, leaving some of the fat which rendered out of the meat in the pan. Saute onion and garlic in fat until wilted. Add apples, tomato paste, remaining salt, and rosemary, mixing well. Heat through. Pour over meat evenly. Bake covered, at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1¾ hours.

Serve with

RICE TAHITI:

Cook 1 cup raw long-grain rice in 2 cups boiling water with 1 teaspoon salt, covered, over extremely low heat for ½ hour. When cooked, carefully fold in ¾ cup flaked cocoanut which has been toasted until golden brown under medium hot broiler, stirring frequently and watching carefully to prevent burning.

The above two recipes have been tried and served by my daughter-in-law Margy 2 or 3 times to guests and Pete likes them so well he condones the repetition. Margy has served it at various times with these vegetables: Julienne green beans and almonds; crumbled eggplant; braised celery and mushrooms.

Margy say if any of the Pork Rosemary is leftover it reheats excellently. In fact she tells me she doubles the recipe so she will have some leftover to reheat 2 or 3 days hence. She lines a deep pieplate with fluffy, soft mashed potatoes, fills the centre with the Pork Rosemary and reheats it in a hot oven.

To serve five on Sunday I bought one of those twin boneless loins of fresh pork tied together. It weighed 3 lbs. I'd sprinkled it with salt and pepper and paprika and stood it on a trivet in the roaster and roasted it at 300 deg. Fahr. for 3¾ hours. I had an old-fashioned meal on my mind — pan roasted potatoes and creamed asparagus — so I pressure-cooked some halved potatoes until they were nearly tender: I put some butter in the roasting pan and added the potatoes and sprinkled them with salt and let these brown along with the roasting meat, turning them once. They were golden and crusty and succulent.

River Valley W.I. Hears Talk Based on Insecticides

STIRLING—Mrs. Jack Bush was hostess on May 2nd for River Valley Women's Institute meeting with 29 ladies in attendance. The new programs were distributed and nine more tea towels were paid.

The new president, Mrs. Vernon Harry was in charge of the meeting and the new secretary Mrs. Ernest Carr and the new treasurer Mrs. J. R. Donahoe, each gave a resume of their departments. The correspondence included a thank-you note for funeral flowers and a bill for installing a lock on the kitchen door. Mrs. Roy Bush voiced thanks for assistance given at the curators' meeting. The guests contributed $10 for the salad plate luncheon at noon.

The conveners' reports were as follows: Mrs. Roy Tucker read an article "Take Time"; Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis gave "The preservation of old pioneer covered bridges"; Mrs. Alex Bush on Cancer research; Mrs. Allen McDonell on "Citizenship", and Mrs. Charles Wilson on current events.

Mrs. George Heasman reported on the recent curators' meeting. Mrs. Harry MacMullin read an article from the leaflet of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Abbot's Leigh, England, re the institute's 24th birthday. This group plans to donate $150 to the "Freedom from Hunger" campaign. That is the special project for all English Institutes.

COIN OF FRIENDSHIP

Mrs. Margaret Barr of A.C.W.W. has requested that the voluntary pennies be a "Coin of Friendship". Mrs. Drage has said, "It will be little by little for such a wealth of friendship." Funds are necessary if the new three-year term is to function properly. A.C.W.W. is a power in every walk of life.

Mrs. MacMullin reminded the group of the district annual on May 30 and hoped several members would be able to attend. The delegates are the president; district director; also Mrs. George Heasman to bring the report to the June meeting, and Mrs. Roy Irvin, alternates, Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. Roy Bush.

FINE PROGRAM

Mrs. Glenn Bush presided over the program based on agriculture. Mrs. Ralph Utman read "Across the Farmlands". Mrs. Fred McDonnell gave a paper on the theme, "Nature never stops work by being in a hurry". She stressed various things that have their origin in the earth. Mrs. Bush gave a most informative talk based on "Insecticides". She said in part, "Damage to crops by insects is costly, thus chemical sprays are necessary. They could be far more effective if used properly and they should be stored in a safe place. Labels should be read carefully and the contents used according to directions. Various booklets were displayed.

The second part dealt with "Chemical Cohirol of the Adult Fly". "A spray calendar is a must for every gardener, fly bait is for cold-blooded creatures and all containers should be buried. Never throw them in the river". This topic was most interesting and brought out a number of points for agriculturists and gardeners.

Mrs. Ernest Carr read an interesting story which gave a contrast between the house beautiful and the home that has lived in look.

PLANT SALES

A half hour was spent in auctioneering off the various plants, bulbs, perennials and other varieties. Each lady sold her own donation. She gave full particulars and the judges awarded a small prize to Mrs. George Heasman, who in their opinion, had been the best auctioneer. The proceeds of these amounted to over $10.

Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a social half hour after which Mrs. E.C. Hay-Ellis voiced appreciative thanks to all.

Women Better Players on Stock Market

TORONTO (CP) — Women aren't gamblers and don't panic if their shares take a fall and this makes them better players on the stock market, says a Toronto broker.

Roy Nose of A. E. Osler Company, who lectures on the principles of wise stock buying, says: "Women do not take as many risks as men and tend to be very successful in the stock market. They do not tend to panic if the price drops and hold on to their shares far longer than men—being reluctant to take a loss in their capital investment."

Violet Cook, one of the few women brokers in Canada, says widows, housewives and businesswomen between the ages of 27 and 35 do most of the investing among women.

And their numbers are increasing steadily. Brokers agree that many more would play the market if they realized advice is readily available and that brokers, like bankers, are there to serve the public.

Mr. Nose recommends investment clubs for those who cannot afford to buy shares on their own.

The clubs are formed by groups of employees or neighborhood friends who hold monthly meetings to hear lectures on research on the market and decide co-operatively which stocks to buy.

For women who are interested in learning more about stocks, the brokers advise:

Follow the newspapers for news of business conditions that may affect securities. Read annual reports of corporations in which you invest.

MAIL CALL

Question: Friends of mine are planning a luncheon and shower in honor of my son's fiancee. We have read some discussion about whether or not he should send a gift and, if so, what would be proper. It is a miscellaneous shower. — Mrs. F.M., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: Only guests bring a present to a shower, or send one if they cannot attend. The groom-to-be does not send a shower present and is not invited to participate in any way, although he may show up at the very end of the party to call for his fiancee and help her home with her packages.

Question: My daughter has been assigned one of the leading roles in her school play. As proud parents, we've invited a few relatives — grandparents, to see the performance. Other relatives and friends who have heard about the play have since indicated they, too, would like to see it. I have to order tickets in advance, but wonder if I'm automatically expected to pay for all of them. Would it seem impolite and penny-pinching to ask those I have not specifically invited to pay for their own tickets when I get them? I don't want to offend anyone and would appreciate your advice.

Mrs. N. P., Troy, N.Y.

Answer: Before ordering the tickets, it would be wise — and proper to let those who have requested them know there is a charge and what it is. The hostess will correctly pay for those she has invited, but it's not necessary, and usually not expected, for her to assume expense for those who have invited themselves.

FUNNY, SUNNY HATS

Five years ago, the only lightweight straw hats, suitable for beach or garden wear, fell into the old Dobbin class — strictly utilitarian and dull. Usually these hats were made in natural-colored straw, unadorned with anything more interesting than a narrow, ribbon band. They were so unimpairing that most women risked sunburn rather than wear anything so banal.

But, with the increased use of hair coloring, through tints and — parish the thought — dyes, sun hats are now necessities. Everyone knows that the effect of direct sunlight on tinted hair can be alarming. Strong light and heat affect certain chemicals in the tints and dyes to produce a definite change in hair color. Using a kerchief is not entirely satisfactory, although it is better than no protection. The best insurance for dyed or tinted hair is a high-crowned, light-weight, straw hat. About three years ago, when hair coloring and tinting became as popular as the permanent wave, sun hats blossomed out in fashion.

VARIOUS TYPES

This year's selection varies from small, neat Tyrolian fedoras for golfing, equipped with toe holders on the band, to large, floppy brims, strictly for lazy sunning on the beach. Some of the "in-between" kinds can be worn on the street, with crisp, cotton dresses.

Various straws come in all colors of the spectrum, from classic natural through to vivid orange, purple and even deep black. The trims include large raffia garlic buds, golf balls cigarette packages, or fruits and vegetables of plastic. Some wide-brimmed hats come complete with their own chiffon snoods, handy in a breeze and very glamorous.

Two or three years ago, the most imaginative of these hats came from Italy. But now Canada produces some of the most fashionable sun hats in the world. An example is an enterprising family-owned business with Belleville, Ontario, as its headquarters that turns out an original line of funny, sunny hats.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers, care of this Paper.

Thanks were expressed to Mrs. Hamilton for the program and Mrs. Miller for opening her home for the meeting.

A social hour and lunch were enjoyed by all present.

Owing to Mrs. W. Alford not being at home, Mrs. G. Goodfellow, of Roslin, kindly offered her home for the May meeting.

"Deceived, deserted, friendless, my heart turned to bitterness, I wanted to die. But the Salvation Army found me. In their Home for Unmarried Mothers I was well cared for. And understanding hearts restored the will to live. It's a heart warming thing to know that there is a place to turn to in time of trouble."

The doors of The Salvation Army's havens, hospitals, homes and hostels lead to relief and hope for men, women and children who have fallen on evil days. This work needs your support. Won't you help to keep these doors open? In aiding others you will bring joy to your own heart.

Courses Far Out of Date Says Expert

REGINA (CP) — Home economics courses for high school girls are far out of date, says Edith C. Rowles, professor of home ecoomics at the University of Saskatchewan.

She told the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Home Economics Association the courses fail to prepare young girl for the dual role many will be called upon to fulfill—combined homemaker and wage earner.

"We still teach as though most women are going to be full-time homemakers.

"Most of the subject matter on our 'cooking and sewing curriculum' was introduced to meet the needs of full-time homemakers some 30 or 60 years ago."

There will always be some full-time homemakers but most high school girls would find a course that taught them a dovetail two jobs more useful than one that concentrated on teaching cooking and sewing.

JILL OF ALL TRADES

"The bearing of children is woman's primary function and in our culture this means marriage and establishment of a home where children live with their parents for upwards of 20 years.

"In this marriage partnership and home, the woman is cook, cleaning woman, laundress, household manager, her husband's valet, her children's nursemaid, hostess, chauffeur, perhaps even gardener, and all this in addition to being wife and mother.

"But this is not enough. Women, whether married or single, are being told that society needs their services outside the home. Anyone with specialized training of any kind is urged to take on a salaried job.

"For the younger girls in school, it's our responsibility to turn out young women who can cope with the running of a home and handle a job at the same time.

"We must teach them efficient working habits so they can keep their home clean and tidy. We must teach them short cuts in cookery so they can serve a meal in a hurry."

Instead of pasting labels on homemade jellies, you can scratch the name and date on the top of the porcelain after it's cold, using a pin or knife.

Huge Tapestry Is Being Prepared in Special Studio

MONTREAL (CP)—Micheline Beauchemin, a leading Quebec artist, is thinking big these days.

She's hard at work on a huge tapestry for the wall of one of the side lounges in Montreal's Place des Arts, now nearing completion.

The tapestry, to measure 8½ by 19 feet, is being prepared in a special studio, large enough to accommodate the frame on which the canvas is stretched.

Miss Beauchemin has given herself six months to complete the tapestry but expects to beat the deadline.

"I can only work on it about six hours a day because I feel the physical strain if I work any longer," she says.

The tapestry will take the form of an abstract with colors ranging from the deepest dark shades through pastels to gold.

"In all, it will take some hundred shades," she says.

"About half of them will be in materials especially dyed for me at the Textiles Institute in St. Hyacinthe, Que."

The materials themselves range from heavy to light wool and an unusual wool fibre of delicate flaxen - like threads, sprayed with color and spun into a tough golden orange yarn. The gold that will flock the tapestry is a flexible, elastic aluminum tape covered with plastic and coated with pure gold.

IRREPLACEABLE HOOK

Miss Beauchemin is using a tapestry hook that cost her a dollar and would cost $1,000 to replace.

"It seems that the hooks are not being made anymore and the manufacturer threw away the die," she said. "It would

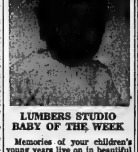
Women's Work In Red Cross Is Praised

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Red Cross official asked Monday that volunteer women be rescued from drabness.

Dr. John T. Phair, acting commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, said at the society's central council annual meeting here that the women's work committee operates under too drab a title and suggested a change.

He said the committee keeps Red Cross headquarters in the smaller community from being merely a post office address.

"In the larger urban centres it is the rallying point for those who provide the materials which keep the Western World in a position to meet part of its responsibilities, both real and implied, to those who have from little to less."



Dr. Phair said the work of the committee is one of the basic activities of the Red Cross.

Mrs. A. J. Trevilcock, national chairman of the committee, said that since its establishment in 1939 the women of the committee produced 39,000,000 articles and prepared 11,000,000 dressings for distributions at home and abroad.

Last year overseas shipments were sent to 18 countries. The 655 cases of articles were valued at $146,457.

FEWER ABORIGINES

There are about 50,000 full-blooded aboriginals in Australia compared to some 300,000 when the white man arrived.

Successful Living

Blessed Are They Who Understand

DEAR DORIS—I am 84, in good health and spirits. Yet some thoughtless young people in our family just about drive me to tears. I appreciated a list of Beatitudes For Friends of the Aged which I found in a publication of the Presbyterian Church. Some of them are:

DORIS CLARK

Blessed are they who understand
My faltering step and palsied hand.

Blessed are they who seem to know
That my eyes are dim and my wits are slow.

Blessed are they who looked away
When the coffee spilled on the cloth today;

Blessed are they who make it known
That I'm loved, respected and not alone.

—CHIN UP.

DEAR CHIN UP—Nicely put. What youth may fail to catch is the fact that the same hopes, fears and ideas exist in the minds of eighty-year-olds as in any other age. In short, old folks are people too; need talking with; helping, loving.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I have to have help. My marriage is on the rocks. I was seventeen when we married and when my husband went away with the navy, I had an affair. thatioto Roynaoe rhtagtiML ETAOIN ETAOIN ETAOINNN.

I asked for a divorce and my husband begged me to give him another chance. He was wonderful to me and the two children.

Now the tables are turned: We became good friends with another couple and now whenever we are with them he gets off necking with her. I am jealous and I show it. It's been years since he said "I love you." Whenever I say anything about his being with her he says he'll beat me if I don't shut up.

Tell me how to act, look, dress, to recapture him. I can't live without him.—SICK AT HEART.

DEAR SICK—A real boomerang. But don't go on the defensive. Flirt with him, dress to please him make his favorite dessert. If he's your favorite husband, say so. Be lighthearted and affectionate. And talk all this over with a social worker who counsels married people with problems. You will find one at the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville, which counsels on family problems as well as when children are involved.

DEAR DORIS—I am fifteen years old. My height is four feet eleven inches and I weigh 118 pounds. What can do to lose some weight and why am I not growing?—DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE—Diet to reduce; eat nourishing food to grow on! Could be you are eating the wrong things; too many carbohydrates and fats and not enough body builders. You may need more proteins.

Get your doctor to examine you to be sure you are in good health and give you instructions about what to eat. There is still time to lengthen out some.

write, and some observers believe the rate is even lower. Reliable statistics do not exist. For example, a medical team assigned to a country area with a population of 90,000 according to official statistics found 230,000 persons living in the zone.

Infant mortality is known to be tragically high but there are no records. One Haitian doctor estimated the mortality rate as high as 50 per cent.

ARE ISOLATED

The overwhelming majority of most of the estimated 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 Haitians are isolated by poverty and ignorance, living in shocking squalor.

Political struggles are waged in the capital. But not far from Port au Prince are peasants who do not even know who is president. They are unaware that the world is round. They live quietly. They almost never see money—they barter.

Duvalier has pledged he will keep his iron grip on the country and eliminate the opposition to him. However, growing internal and external pressures appear more likely to eliminate Duvalier.

The greater problem will remain—to break another iron grip—the historical, agonizing grip of corruption, poverty, disease, and illiteracy.

by the federal government for its people because of the annual spring flood problems at Aklavik, which lies on a vast delta at the mouth of the Mackenzie, about 1,600 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The first group of 40 women and children was to return to Hay River today from Yellowknife. A task force of 180 men Monday began to rebuild a causeway linking the island and the mainland and it was to be finished tocy. The causeway was lost in the flood, which inflicted more than $1,800,000 damage, about two-thirds of the property value of the settlement of 1,900.

Hay River's main street—Mackenzie Driver — was typical of the desolation in the downtown area, declared a contaminated area Saturday. Silt covered the street and it was blocked by broken homes, sidewalks and debris.

Officials said decontamination of the island will take about three weeks. Till then children would be allowed in the main section of twon only to attend school at the St. Paul Separate School, scheduled to re-open next week.

west of Rocky Mountain House, Alta., 26 minutes flying time from Edmonton. The public weather office said rain showers were reported in the area at the time. Tops of the clouds ranged to 25,000 feet, a forecaster said.

The flight to Edmonton normally takes 90 minutes.

The plane was piloted by Captain George Smith of Vancouver. He and other members of the crew were not available for comment.

The company said the seat belt sign was turned on just before the encounter with the violent currents.

FLIES THROUGH AIR

Mr. Davis, 43, laughed as he told of his experience from a hospital bed. "I think I know what John Glenn (U.S. astronaut) felt like."

He said he didn't have time to fasten his seat belt. "There were two things I remember. One was a hat and coffee flying through the air . . ."

He said he also saw another passenger fly through the air and strike the arm of his seat as he came down. The man got up by himself.

As did other passengers, Mr. Davis praised the work of the crew in preventing panic among the passengers.

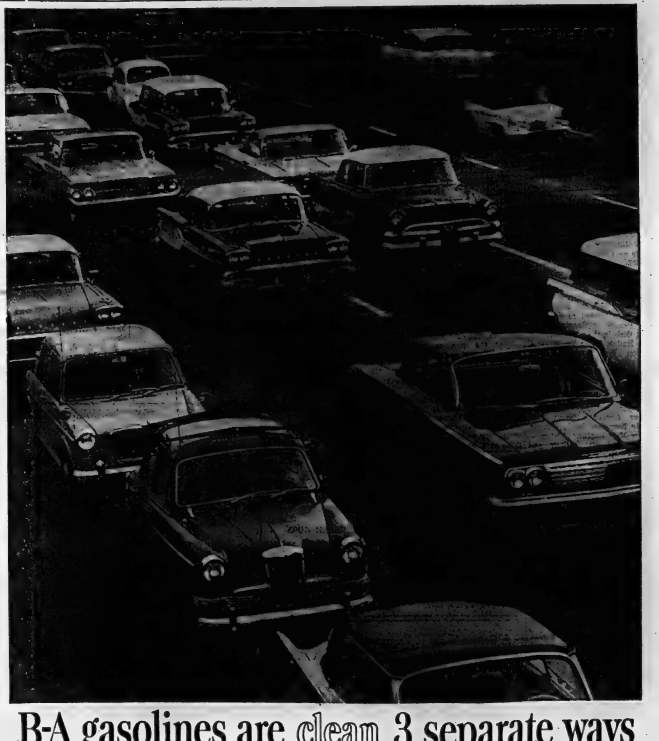
Here's Why Merlite Bulbs Burn and Burn and Burn!

Why does one light bulb burn and burn for years and years . . . when ordinary bulbs last only 5 months? The key to the Merlite Bulb's amazing longer-burning life is quality construction. Not a startling idea. But most anything — your TV, washer, car, even light bulbs — will last longer if manufacturers would utilize the latest research and best materials. But if they did, they'd lose a big chunk of their multi-million dollar replacement business. It was left to the few independent companies to manufacture a longer-life bulb.

What is a Light Bulb?

A light bulb is a gas-filled cavity in which a wire filament glows when electricity is turned on. Five factors influence bulb life. The Merlite Bulb incorporates the latest research and finest quality materials now known to lighting engineers in constructing these crucial elements, to produce a bulb with maximum burning life . . .



1. High Tensile Strength Tungsten Wire with a larger diameter to withstand continuous use. 2. A longer filament with more Tungsten — and the more Tungsten the longer a bulb burns! 3. More filament supports. 4. Secret combination of inert Super High Purity rare Gases to permit bulbs to burn cooler, last longer, maintain same brightness year after year. 5. Stem is made of pure Nickel Lead Wires to withstand temperature changes.

How can Mopa offer such a daring guarantee? Because MERLITE LIGHT BULBS are a fantastically longer-burning life. They burn for years and years, give longer service than ordinary bulbs . . . You practically do away with the time and trouble of replacing burned-out bulbs!

The result of all the years of research, the highest standards in materials and construction, the rigid testing, is the only bulb in the world with such an incredibly longer-burning life we can afford to back it with a daring NO-TIME-LIMIT FREE REPLACEMENT GUARANTEE!

He favored legislation making the tests mandatory because in many cases drivers refused to take the test and the fact that he refused was not admissable as evidence against him.

The value of a physical examination to determine if a person was impaired and the amount of impairment was questioned by Dr. H. Ward Smith of Toronto, director of the Ontario attorney-general's department laboratory.

He said without blood or breath tests, medical examinations were not accurate because of differences of opinions by doctors.

During discussion on controlling the driver, Dr. James W. Reid of Halifax said that periodic re-examination of drivers under the age of 60 was not necessary.

Dr. Reid, a member of the medical committee of the Nova Scotia highway safety board, said the cost of re-examination of drivers would probably outweigh the defects found.

interest rate paid on the weekly sale of treasury bills. The week before pegging, this floating rate was 3.17 per cent.

The fixed rate of six per cent was dropped to 5¼ per cent in September, five per cent in October and four per cent in November. A good rise in foreign exchange reserves preceded each reduction.

The period of the old floating rate began Nov. 1, 1956. It held around the three-per-cent mark until 1959. In January of that year the rate was 3.25 but by August it had streaked to 5.15, a record high. After that it rose and fell in the three-to-five rangs.

Actually, the bank rate has little direct use. It applies as a minimum charge on the infrequent loans made by the Bank of Canada to the chartered banks. But it is an important barometer of money-market conditions.

Plan to Annex 3,000 Acres Of Hallowell Twp. to Town Is Approved by Council

PICTON — Report of Central Prince Edward Planning Board, which would annex 3,000 acres of Hallowell township as part of the Town of Picton, was passed by town council Monday night. The report has been six years in preparation, but is not expected to come into effect for nearly a year, since the proposal must be presented to the Municipal Board for approval.

Council had earlier attended a special meeting of the board to study the report but did not officially release the contents until last night.

Following detailed presentation of facts, the report makes the following recommendations:

1. The annexation of the prescribed lands from the Township of Hallowell by the town of Picton.

"The area of this block is approximately 3,250 acres, made up of 830 acres contained within the present limits of the town and 2,000 acres from the Township of Hallowell". The boundary of the area can be described in a brief way as follows: by the Hallowell-Sophiasburgh boundary on the north; thence westerly along the Yerexville Road to Waring's Corners; thence along the extension of Orchards Road to Lake Street; thence easterly to present town boundary; thence northerly within 200 feet east of No. 33 highway to join the extension of the Hallowell-Sophiasburg boundary from across the bay.

2. The Town of Picton should make every attempt to secure the fact that these lands are developed according to this plan by making it the Official Plan for the area.

The Planning Report indicates a stage by stage development of residential, commercial and industrial land use areas.

3. Make immediate representation to the Ontario Department of Highways of Ontario for assistance in the establishment of the recommended By-Pass highway, so urgently required.

This proposed By-Pass highway would follow a route at least two hundred feet to the north of the present railroad track, and it would be a controlled access highway with access at four points only: Talbot Street, Johnson Street, Spencer Street and one other easterly point.

4. The establishment of a Parking Authority to provide adequate parking facilities to justify this Board's recommendation for the maintenance of the established commercial district.

The present congestion of parking in commercial area is discussed in detail.

3. The establishment of a Housing Authority to control residential growth and to solve the problem of making serviced land available to individuals.

The closely reasoned Planning Report suggests means to control orderly growth of residential areas.

5,850 PERSONS

The new area would have a total population of 5,850 persons, of whom 950 are presently living in the Hallowell area.

Picton could gain 21.4 per cent assesment, since the Warling's Corners section is almost a suburban one.

The by-pass road is designed to take traffic from Scobarie road to the east, by-passing the town's main street.

The board recommends setting aside 50 acres in the Little Swamp area for future garbage disposal.

Forty Members Gunnery School Hold Banquet

PICTON — Some forty members of the Royal Air Force, stationed on "The Hill" with No. 31 Bombing and Gunnery School during the war years, held their annual banquet and reunion at the Sergeants' Mess, Picton Armouries, on Friday evening.

The mess was festooned with model aircraft and the head table was backed by the crest of the school, the Union Jack and a flag of the Royal Air Force which originally flew at the masthead at Camp Picton twenty years ago.

Mr. Harry Hince, replying to the toast to No. 31 B. & G. S., which was given by Bill Winter, remarked that "of all the stations of the Royal Air Force in Canada under the Commonwealth Air Training scheme, this one of Picton is the only one to have a reunion year by year. Many come back to Picton as a result," he said.

"I have visited many stations, but no station has such a group as is here tonight. It is a wonderful sense of comradeship," Mr. Hince concluded.

Grace was said by George Ross. The toast to the RAF was given by Jim White. Fred Howe tendered thanks to the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sergeants' Mess, for an excellent turkey supper. The toast to the Queen was given by Ronald Stone.

Jack Jones, on behalf of the H. & P.E. Regiment, welcomed those present.

It was decided, if the interest remains, to hold another reunion in 1964. Walter Frost and Bill Pullen were re-elected as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.
